JURY RETURNS A VERDICT

Tems and Tunstall Guilty; Hunt and Henderson Are Not.

OCCASIONED SUSPRISE

Confidently Expected That Only One of the Colored Men Would be Acquitted of the Indictment.

Deliberating on the testimony as presented nearly five hours, the jury in the Somerset County Court before which the four Plainfield colored men stood trial for assault on Marshal Walter Smalley, of the borough, brought in a verdict of guilty against James Tems and Whit Tunstall and not guilty with Thomas Henderson and Samuel Hunt. The jury retied at 2:30 yesterday afternoon and it was shortly after 7 o'clock when it returned and the foreman announced the finding.

The verdict occasioned no surprise except in the case of Hunt, as it was expected all along that he would be implicad fully as much as Tems and Tunstall. His freedom from the first charge is attributed to the splendid handling of his case as made by his counsel, William G. DeMeza, who clearly traced his movements on the night of the affair for the benefit of the jury when summing up. He is included in the other two indictments and will have to defend himself in these as well.

Winfield S. Angleman also made an eloquent plea for his client, Thomas Henderson, but the manner in which he conducted the testimony left no doubt but what the jury would acquit him. Through testimony given by Patrolman Peter Hamilton, of the city force, and Henderson's own unshakable story, it was shown conclusivley that he had taken to his heels when the real trouble started and was at Front and Somerset streets when the other men and police were fighting.

In his plea to the jury, Attorney DeMeza showed where it was impossible for Hunt to have been an assailant and in speaking for Tunstall, who is also his client, he asked that prejudiced reports be given no consideration when they retired.

Counseller Swackhamer was the last to plead and in his remarks he seemed especially bitter toward Marshal Smalley, declaring that he had made an unprovoked assault against the colored men, practically asserting that the officer had precipitated the trouble. It is the duty of the whites, he said, to care for the misguided blacks and he asked that the jurymen give them a fair and impartial consideration.

With the counsel concluding, Prosecutor Griggs spoke for the full hour allotted the prosecution and stated the jury should have no hesitancy in finding the defendants guilty. Many of his remarks were addressed toward Counseller Swackhamer in a sarcastic vein.

The charge to the jury was made by Judge Schenck who said that the evidence must be considered with each individual and that if anyone was not there, as asserted by the defense, he should be found not guilty. He dwelt at some length on the facts presented respecting the manner in which Marshal Smalley had first gone out and caught hold of Tems. If it was without provocation, he said, and Tems had not been disorderly, his arrest was illegal and he had a right to resist but the others had no right to interfere. If it was found that they had, they were guilty as charged, and if the jury found that Tems had been disorderly, he was guilty. The charge took but twenty minutes.

With the retirement of the jury, a jury was secured to try the second indictment against the five—Tems, Tunstall, Hunt, Henderson and Lee Wells, "of assault with intent to kill on Marshal Joseph Fiack." The body is composed of the following, all North Plainfielders being excluded from serving: George Nuce, Frank Alietti, J. A. Skillman, August McCullough, John Toms, A. B. Vanderbeek, Mallen C. Stelle, C. W. Wilson, W. W. Durling, J. Mingle, John Stryker and John Ramston.

The case was opened by Assistant Prosecutor Fred J. Pope and he was followed by Prosecutor Griggs, who asked for a nolle pros of the indictment against Lee Wells and it was granted, thus freeing him from all complication in the fight.

The first witness called was Dr. Frederick Hughes, who told simply how he had been called to borough police headquarters after the trouble to treat Marshal Fiack and he described the wound, saying that at the present time it is but three fourths healed. It was caused, he said, by a

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST MEN GAVE ANNUAL SOCIAL

PREPARED AND SERVED SUPPER WITHOUT FEMININE AID.

Starting with an elaborate supper, which was served from 6 until 9 o'clock, and concluding with an interesting entertainment, the annual social given by the men of the Seventh-Day Baptist church last night, was a success from every point of view, and was much enjoyed by a large number of church members and their friends. The supper was provided entirely under the supervision of the men of the church, and the whole programme was arranged and carried out by the male portion of the congregation.

At the conclusion of the supper, the audience gathered in the lecture room, when a novel entertainment took place. Between the musical numbers, which formed an attractive part of the programme, various well known advertisements were represented, to be guessed by the audience. They were given by Arthur Titsworth, F. H. Williams, James Pope and Everett Kimball, the latter appearing as "Sunny Jim."

A quartette, composed of Judge William M. Runyon, Charles Daub, B. F. Tallamy and O. B. Whitford, rendered selections, while Mr. Runyon delighted the audience in his usual humorous manner. He sang several song hits, which won much applause. B. F. Tallamy's bass solos were also enjoyed.

The committee in charge of the social was Arthur Titsworth and J. P. Mosher. These were the waiters: George Clark, chairman; Lawrence Miller, Charles Neagle, Roland Williams, J. Wendell Mosher, Milton St. John, Arthur Titsworth, Robert Mitchell and Boardman Mosher. A candy table was in charge of Charles P. Titsworth.

ENTERTAINMENT AND SALE TO FURTHER MISSION WORK

YOUNG WOMEN OF FIRST BAPTIST CONDUCT SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

Under the auspices and for the benefit of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, an entertainment, followed by a sale of home-made candy and cake, was given in the lecture room of the church, last night. The proceeds from the affair will be used by the society to further the cause of mission work at home and abroad. There was a large attendance and liberal patronage was accorded the sale.

The programme was presented by Fred and William VanEps, banjo and mandolin, and Prof. Sheck, sleight-of-hand artist. Howard case was the accompanist. The VanEps brothers gave several of their best selections, and were obliged to respond to encores. Prof. Sheck, who appeared at the Christmas entertainment in this church, was warmly received and in addition to some of his old tricks, he introduced some new ones which mystified and pleased the audience.

After the entertainment there was the sale of ice cream, cake and candy. The affair was under the direction of Miss Ada Fountain, president of the society, assisted by Miss Florence Serrell. At the ice cream and cake table were Mrs. J. B. Probasco, Miss Florence Serrell, Miss May Shreve, Miss Alice Scribner and Mrs. Kenneth Robbie. Those in charge of the candy table were Mrs. W. B. Vail, Mrs. F. W. Jones, Miss Carrie Coombs, Miss Edith Cairns and Miss Helen Robins. The waitresses were Miss Pauline Denten, Miss Bessie Flanders, Miss Hattie French, Miss Mabel Cook, Miss Helen Robins, Miss Anis Kinsman and Miss Ada Fountain. In connection with the sale there was a social time. The affair was an entire success and a substantial sum will be realized.

Partner of Judge Dillon.

George Strong Clay, of East Seventh street, who for several years has been private secretary to Judge Dillon, the well-known corporation lawyer of New York, has just been admitted to the firm as a partner in recognition of his faithful services and ability as a lawyer.

Changes at Local Exchange.

George A. Turbett, the present chief operator at the local telephone exchange, will soon be transferred to Newark, and it is expected that a member of the Brooklyn staff will be sent here to take his place.

MORE ABOUT HEARING ON COURT HOUSE AND JAIL

VIEWS OF MAYOR SMALLEY AND WM. H. RILEY ON PROPOSED BUILDINGS.

As told in yesterday's Daily Press, a special meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders was held in the Court House at Somerville yesterday for the purpose of considering the recommendation made by the recent Grand Jury in reference to the necessity of erecting new county buildings. The session was expressly for the purpose of giving the taxpayers a chance to express their views.

W. H. Riley, of North Plainfield, who is connected with the State Charities' Aid Association, said he had talked to many people about his home and found all favoring new county buildings.

He thought a jail should be erected for criminals so they could be kept at work, instead of talking and card playing. Men can walk out of this jail at will and convicted prisoners ought to be in jail they cannot get out of.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, said he thought new buildings were a vital necessity and they should be erected without consideration to cost. He hoped new buildings would be erected that would not only be a credit to Somerville but to the county as well.

Former Congressman Alvah A. Clark said there was no way to properly ventilate the old Court House. It is simply unbearable with a big crowd in it. Others who spoke in favor of the buildings being erected were: A. A. Cortelyou, of Neshanic; Ira Voorhees and John Ruk, of Somerville; W. V. D. Jelliffe, of Readington; Fred. McMurtry, of Peapack; C. N. Hoagland, of Griggstown; George Randolph, of Millstone; ex-Senator Calvin Carle, of Neshanic; Wm. Vesselier, of Raritan and T. E. Gibson, of Rocky Hill. No one spoke against the proposition. Definite action will be taken by the board at the next regular meeting.

PLAN NEW ORDINANCE FOR FUTURE BUILDINGS

MEASURE TO BE INTRODUCED IN COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT.

For uniformity regarding new buildings to be erected in the business section of the city, there will be introduced an ordinance at the meeting of the Common Council Monday night to establish a building line in this section, where such a line does not now exist. The fact that there will be a number of new buildings erected in the business section this year has led to this action. A survey is now being made for that purpose.

The Common Council realises that in the case of old buildings it will be impossible to compel a property owner to move his building on the line, but the ordinance will govern new work.

Assemblyman Hoagland, of Somerset County, proposes to introduce a bill in the Assembly to provide for building lines in towns and cities of the State and the local ordinance will not conflict with the State law in this matter.

At present it is not known what action will be taken regarding the Martin and Kurzhal buildings on West Second street, but a line will be established there and W. R. Coddington is altering his building near the corner accordingly.

LARGELY ATTENDED.

Many Relatives and Friends at Funeral of Miss S. R. VanWinkle.

With her late home on Mercer avenue filled almost to overflowing with relatives and friends, funeral services were held yesterday afternoon over the body of Miss S. R. VanWinkle. They were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, who read an appropriate hymn in addition to the scripture. An earnest prayer was offered by Rev. W. E. Honeyman. The floral tributes were numerous.

Interment was made in the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetary, the pall bearers being six nephews: Edward T., John H., William, Charles, Jeremiah and Frank VanWinkle.

George Finger in Business.

George Finger, who has been employed by U. B. Crane, of East Front street, has bought out B. R. Force's shoe business and will hereafter conduct the business at the same store.

STRONG BASEBALL NINE TO REPRESENT O. F. C.

INITIAL PLANS OUTLINED AT CLUB MEETING LAST NIGHT.

With a view to the organization of their baseball team, the members of the Orange Field Club met last night at the Hotel Kensington, and discussed at some length the plans for the spring representation on the diamond.

Howard Woolston was elected manager of the team, and he will be assisted by Daniel Randolph. George Conover will act as captain and George McVoy will be assistant captain. Both are good players and capable managers. Raymond Guinn was elected treasurer for the baseball season.

Much of last year's baseball material is still in evidence, and there are several new candidates. Among the players are George McVoy, George Conover, George Giddis, Morris Brokaw, John McCullough, Peter Emmens, Daniel Randolph, Raymond Guinn and Charles Hellyer.

No definite action was taken on the subject of club rooms last night, though the rooms on the third floor of the Woolston & Buckle building were suggested and favorably considered.

FALL ELECTIONS FOR TOWNS AND TOWNSHIPS

BILL INTRODUCED IN HOUSE ADVANCED TO THIRD READING.

Assemblyman DeCou, chairman of the committee on elections, has reported in the House a bill introduced by Mr. Gibbs, of Camden county, which provides that all officers elected in any town, township, borough or other municipality shall be chosen on the general election day in November.

The amendments proposed are: "Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect the election of any member of any board of education or school trustee, and all members of such boards shall be elected or appointed at the same time and in the same manner as heretofore;" also a new section providing that the bill shall take effect immediately.

TRUANCY CASES.

One Lad Promises to Attend School and Others to be Given Hearings.

David Allen, one of the five boys arrested yesterday afternoon in the borough by Constable William Pangborn, charged with violation of the truancy law, was discharged by Justice Scribner, before whom a hearing was given yesterday afternoon. His mother and sister were present and promised that the boy would hereafter attend school every day, unless ill.

John Conshee, Harry Hansen, Edward Seader and Benjamin Coddington, the other boys arrested, will be given another hearing Tuesday afternoon, February 7, before Justice Scribner.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

William Brokaw Passes Away From Heart Trouble.

William Brokaw, one of the best known citizens of Dunellen, was found dead in bed this morning by members of the family. Death was due to heart trouble. Mr. Brokaw was for many years a butcher and later he learned the carpentry trade. He was born on the Brokaw homestead at Greenbrook and always lived in and near Dunellen. He is survived by a wife, a son, Walter Brokaw, who is employed at the store of S. Schauer & Co., this city, and a daughter, Mrs. VanMiddlesworth, of Dunellen.

Miss Story's Funeral.

The funeral services of Miss Marietta Story were held from the late home, 29 Washington avenue, this morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. William Montgomery Downey, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, officiated. The remains were taken to Red Bank on the 11 o'clock train and a short service will be held there. The interment will also be in that place.

Injuries Proved Fatal.

The funeral was held at Readington yesterday of Mrs. Augustus Shaw, age seventy-one, who died at her home there from injuries she sustained two months by falling from a train at the North Avenue station in this city. Revs. B. V. D. Wyckoff, of Readington and Isaac Sperling, of South Branch, officiated. Interment was at Clinton.

JONAS LIE'S PAINTINGS FAVORABLY CRITICIZED

HIS WORK ON EXHIBITION AT PENNSYLVANIA ACADEMY.

Jonas Lie, the young Plainfield artist whose studio is in the Babcock building, recently exhibited in the Pennsylvania Academy, Philadelphia, several pictures which have won unstinted admiration from the critics, and have brought him into as much prominence as that attained by his securing a silver medal at the St. Louis Exposition. In reviewing the academy exhibit, the New York Evening Post's critic expressed himself as follows:

"But the real sensation of the show, to one visitor at least, is the powerful realism of Jonas Lie, a young New Jersey painter. All of his five pictures display a direct and expressive method, an unusual command of actual appearances, and a sense for effective and unconventional composition. Take 'The Hillside' (571): A snow-covered, wind-swept hill bulges up nearly to the top of the canvas. Athwart it from behind the curve are thrust up the low gables of two barns. The snow is modelled in a perfectly adjusted scale of blue-gray values, dried weeds bristle through, each from its pit scooped by its own eddy, their dried fronds are weighted each with its burden of snow. All this is set forth in the simplest fashion, without prejudice to the large scale of the whole. I do not know what Mr. Lie has done in the past, but these strike me as lasting qualities, and I am confident that much may be expected from him in the future.

"The management of the Pennsylvania Academy may fairly be congratulated upon their exhibition. One can imagine a better, but hardly with the material at hand. American art was never yet made up exclusively of Winslow Homers, Leonard Ochtmans, Horatio Walkers, or even of John Sargents, and youngsters like Jonas Lie and Gutzon Borglum do not grow on every bush."

SALAAM TEMPLE FREE FROM INDEBTEDNESS

POTENTATE AND PARTY TO MAKE PILGRIMAGE TO HOLY LAND.

Salaam Temple, Ancient and Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, met in Newark, last night, those present from Plainfield being H. W. Marshall, Caspar Bolsterle, Henry Woodland. Potentate Wiedemayer was agreeably surprised when it was announced that the entire indebtedness of the Temple, amounting to over $1,300, had been paid and that there is $2,300 in the treasury. The potentate sails on Saturday with a party of Shrines on a trip to the Holy Land, and it was the desire of the members that this indebtedness be paid before he goes away. Thirty-eight candidates were initiated, including H. C. Levy, of the firm of Levy Brothers, of this city.

It was announced that on Friday night, February 24, the Temple will hold a "ladies' night," which will include a vaudeville performance, a supper and dance. The local members will arrange to take their women friends from here by special trolley direct to the Temple on Belmont avenue, Newark.

ARRANGED FOR SHOOT.

Plainfield Gun Club to Have a Special Event on its Grounds Saturday.

The Plainfield Gun Club met last night at Harry Dreier's store on West Front street and arranged for a shoot on the club grounds, Cole's Hill, on Saturday afternoon. The shoot will commence promptly at 1 o'clock. It was decided to have three special events for which prizes will be offered and a team match between the Brookside Gun Club, of Scotch Plains, and the Plainfield Gun Club. The match will be followed with sweepstake shooting.

In the three special events the contestants will be from Plainfield and vicinity and for this reason considerable interest is being shown in the coming shoot. The trolley cars pass within a very short distance of the club grounds, and it is expected that the event will attract many interested in this sport.

COURT WATCHUNG, I. O. F., HAS A "LADIES' NIGHT"

ENTERTAINS GATHERING OF FRIENDS WITH MERITORIOUS PROGRAMME.

Court Watchung, No. 3871, Independent Order Foresters, entertained its women friends last night, with a programme of unusual merit. The affair was termed a "ladies' night entertainment," and in response to the invitations issued there was a large attendance of women and members of the lodge. The programme was opened with an address of welcome by Chief Ranger Charles Hayes, who explained the object of the entertainment—to interest the women friends of the lodge and to secure new members.

The programme was opened with a selection on mandolins by Samuel B. Howe, Jr., Chester Briggs and Theodore Gavett, of the Sagamore Musical Club, followed with vocal solos by Miss Edith Howe. Miss Lillian Bender, a violinist of considerable talent, gave a difficult selection and she was obliged to respond to an encore.

A feature was the impersonations given by Walter David. He was exceptionally clever and his recitations were received with generous applause. He was followed with selections by the mandolin trio, and then Miss Edith Howe sang two very pretty Japanese songs which won much favor. Another violin solo by Miss Bender and additional impersonations by Mr. David concluded the programme. Miss Bender was the accompanist for the soprano, while the latter accompanied Miss Bender.

After the entertainment all were invited to the banquet rooms, where refreshments were served by a committee from the lodge, assisted by some of the women, wives of the members. Everyone had a good time and the affair was considered one of the best ever given by Court Watchung.

TRACED JAPAN'S HISTORY SINCE PERRY'S VISIT

DR. SMITH GAVE INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE AT Y. M. C. A. LAST NIGHT.

Japan's history from the time of Perry's exploration up to the beginning of the Russian War, was related in an interesting manner last night by Dr. George T. Smith, at the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Smith was formerly a missionary in Japan, and is well acquainted with the history, physical condition, and customs of the "Island Empire."

The lecturer began with the history of Japan at the time when foreign nations were debarred from entering its ports, and traced the development of its people since the year in which the United States opened the empire to the outside world. He spoke at some length of the characteristics of the Japanese people, dwelling briefly and in a general way on the Japanese attitude toward the world, their distinct customs, and their enduring the courageous qualities. Dr. Smith expressed the opinion, which is now generally voiced by those acquainted with the Japanese, that they are the most humane people on the globe, and that the possibilities for Christian work in Japan are in no country to be equalled.

Dr. Smith spent part of his lecture in telling of personal experiences while in Japan, and a portion of his talk was illustrated by stereopticon views.

May Decline Nominations.

A report has reached the Attorney General's office at Trenton that Joseph Coult, Jr., and Lewis J. Iliff, the Republican and Democratic nominees respectively for the Assembly in Sussex county, under the Special Election act passed last week, had entered into an agreement to decline the nominations. This would leave the Republicans and Democrats of Sussex without candidates, and would permit the Prohibitionists, as was said by a plain spoken Republican of that county, "to step in and take the cake."

Exams May Effect Athletics.

The semi-annual examinations at the Plainfield High School will be concluded tomorrow, and the regular recitation periods will be resumed on Friday. There is considerable anxiety among the boys of the school as the outcome of these examinations and the effect upon athletics. With the championship game against Leal's in sight, all the best players are needed. A failure in one subject is enough to bar a member of the team from playing.

NO DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

Deplore Useless Election and Refuse to Name Candidate.

MR MARTINE'S ADDRESS

Seven Plainfield Delegates Prevent Resolutions Being Made Unanimous—Convention Last Night.

Declaring in a resolution that they saw no need of going on with a useless election, the Union County Democrats gathered in convention at headquarters in Elizabeth, last night, failed to name a candidate for Assembly to oppose the Republican nominee, Randolph Perkins, in the coming special election. This determination occasioned no little surprise as no intimation had reached this end of the county that any such action was intended. It is asserted that this plan was first broached by the Westfield contingent from where the late C. H. Embree was elected and whose death occasioned the proceedings for the filling of the vacancy. As the Republican convention has been held and the nominee named, the election will go on one sided unless the Legislature again acts tomorrow night, which is hardly likely.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Crowell, of the county committee, and William E. Tuttle, of Westfield, was made chairman, and Fred Zier, of Elizabeth, secretary. In an introductory address, Chairman Tuttle spoke of the cause for the gathering and said that inasmuch as the opinion of the attorney general made the special election mandatory, there had been nothing to do but go on with the proceedings. Committees on credentials, rules and resolutions were then appointed and a recess was taken for ten minutes.

The committee on resolutions was composed of James E. Martine, of this city, Robert McAdams, of Elizabeth, and Stephen J. Cox, of Orange. They held a conference which resulted in Chairman Martine being apprised of the determination not to name a nominee and a resolution was drawn up to that effect. He had gone to the convention with the Plainfield delegates, fully intending to present the name of John P. Owens for consideration, but he offered no objection when he saw it was the sense of the gathering.

When the convention was again called to order, the resolution was read. In a preamble it deplored the death of Assemblyman Embree and the need of a useless election and then asserted that the will of the people last November was for a Republican Assemblyman and that their wish should be respected. It stated that it was the sense of the committee that no nomination be made and it asked the ratification of the convention. Concluding it reaffirmed its adherence to Democratic principles, dwelling on the burdensome tariff and speaking for continued agitation for equal taxation and the support of its exponent, Charles O. Black.

A standing vote was taken on the resolution and nine delegates opposed it, seven from this city and two from Garwood. Mr. Martine at this point addressed the gathering and urged that the sense of the convention be unanimous and the Garwood delegates joined the assenting side but the seven Plainfielders steadfastly refused to favor the resolution and the matter so stood. Mr. Martine continued his address and spoke highly of Mr. Owens, declaring that he would be an excellent choice and do credit to the party, but as he is young his chance a year from now would be just as good if no better and it would be just as well to wait. The Democrats in the Assembly, he said, are hopelessly in the minority and that absolutely nothing would be gained by the special election even if their candidate was elected.

This was the only business transacted at the convention and an adjournment was made soon after Mr. Martine concluded speaking.

Cash for Trading Stamps.

The Trenton Retail Grocers' Association, Monday night, adopted a resolution favoring the passage of Assembly bill No. 3, introduced by Thomas R. Layden, of Paterson, which provides that all trading stamps, etc., must have legibly stamped on the face thereof a redeemable cash value, which sum must be paid for such redemption if demanded. The grocers seek the passage of the bill, as they claim it will benefit them and their customers.

District School Meeting.

The citizens of Piscataway township will meet Thursday, Feb. 9, at New Market, to take action on a proposition to erect a new schoolhouse.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

For the nicest fruit and candy go to Alexander Lusardi, the Front street fruit dealer. He also sells the highest grades of cigars, tobacco and cigarettes.

A. B. Laing, the North avenue electrician, employs none but experienced men and can therefore guarantee satisfaction in all contracts that he undertakes.

Beside dealing in all kinds of smokers' supplies, M. C. Dobbins makes and sells the Nickel Yara cigar. It's equal is not to be found in the city.

Whether you intend to stay but a day or for a week, the Hotel Waldorf can give you accommodations equal to any in the State. All modern improvements.

When you want to give your best girl an engagement or wedding ring make your selection at J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store in Park avenue and it is sure to be all right.

J. C. Hansen's paints are high standard. Only the best paints used. His employes are all expert, and thoroughly understand the business. Wall papering of the highest grade is done by J. C. Hansen.

There is nothing cheap looking about the wall-paper sold by Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, and the firm uses only the best paints. These are points to remember when giving a contract.

L. Moralier & Son, the Park avenue jewelers, make a specialty of expert watch and clock repairing. They have had many years of experience in this respect and have often made a success of jobs that other firms have given up.

H. A. Bonn's millinery establishment on West Front street is one of the best equipped in the city. All is tastefully and carefully selected that is found on the counters at Bonn's. Hats trimmed at Bonn's are the most stylish.

The fact that the deposits of the City National Bank have increased steadily ever since it began business in Plainfield, is evidence of the people's confidence in it's methods. A bank account is a nice thing to have—why not open one without further delay? The City National offers every inducement.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company sell the best goods at reasonable prices. It makes no difference whether you want kitchen utensils or builders' materials you can just what you need here and the firm stands behind every sale with a substantial guarantee. A full line of stoves is always to be found at this store.

The meat, poultry and fish sold by Roth & Co., of East Front street, can always be relied upon as the best and this accounts for the constantly increasing patronage given this hustling firm. You will find the prices lower than elsewhere, yet the quality is never sacrificed. Prompt deliveries are made to all parts of the city and vicinity.

When you want a first class suit of clothes, the kind that always look well and fit perfectly and do not cost too much money, step at M. Weinberger's clothing store on West Front street. He can fit men and boys of all sizes and age and he guarantees his goods to be the best in the market. A custom department is also conducted at this store and suits are made to order at short notice.

IN CONGRESS.

Treatment of Jefferson Davis by Miles Recalled.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The treatment by General Nelson A. Miles of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, during the time he was a prisoner at Fortress Monroe, Virginia, was recalled in the house when Mr. Williams (Miss.), the minority leader, tried to secure the adoption of the senate amendment to the house provision regarding retired officers serving with the state militia.

Messrs. Hull (Ia.) and Hay (Va.), both members of the military affairs committee, indorsed the house provision making it retroactive. The latter declared it was Democratic doctrine to save money and for that reason called upon the Democrats to stand by the committee.

It was at this juncture that Mr. Williams arose and spoke of the action of General Miles in placing shackles on the ankles of Jefferson Davis. He shared, he said, the opinion of southern men as to that, but he did not think it was the time, the place nor the way to get even. Mr. Williams' motion to agree to the senate amendment, which does not make the law concerning retired officers retroactive, was lost—71 to 171. The bill then was sent to conference.

FOUR RECORDS SMASHED.

Paul Sartori, In Vanderbilt Car, Won Fifty Mile Event.

DAYTONA, Fla., Feb. 1.—Four world's records were broken here in the automobile races on the Ormond-Daytona course.

The first was in the fifty mile Daytona handicap, won by Paul Sartori, driving Alfred G. Vanderbilt's ninety horsepower Fiat, who went the distance in 40 minutes 20 seconds. The best time was made by H. W. Fletcher in O. F. Thomas' eighty horsepower car, who covered the distance in 38 minutes 51 seconds. He did not win the race, being scratch man, but he established a world's record. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., held the previous record at 40 minutes 49 4-5 seconds.

The second was in the final for the Miller ten mile trophy, which was won by Arthur MacDonald in a ninety horsepower Napier in 6 minutes 15 seconds. The previous record was 6 minutes 31 4-5 seconds, made last Saturday by E. R. Thomas.

In the twenty mile open race for the E. R. Thomas trophy Arthur MacDonald, in a ninety horsepower Napier, beat W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.'s, record of 17 minutes 2 seconds. He went the distance in 15 minutes 23 seconds.

H. L. Bowden in an attempt to beat the world's record covered a mile in 32 4-5 seconds, cutting down his previous record of 34 1-5 seconds.

The fifty mile Daytona handicap was the chief event. There was much trouble for the contestants, and only four of the ten cars that started crossed the finish line. Guy Vaughan and E. R. Thomas were forced out by clutch difficulties, Arthur MacDonald had a gear wheel drop out, and Walter Christie and William Wallace came to grief in the controls.

Baywood Won In Runaway Race.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1.—Baywood, who outbroke his field and made a runaway race of the first event on the card, and Rapid Water, who far outclassed his company and won pulled up, were the only successful favorites here. Favonius took the second race solely through Dominick's careful handling. Had Viperine, favorite in the third, been as well ridden she might have won. The fifth race fell to a long shot, Charlie Dickson. He was in company with the favorite, Arch Oldham, from the start, caught him tiring at the end and won cleverly.

Emperor of India at Ascot.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 1.—Emperor of India ran in his best form at Ascot park, winning the mile and seventy yards event in 1:44 from Waswift and Arabo. There were but three starters. Emperor of India was the most popular victor of the day. Wee Girl, the two-year-old, had no trouble in beating her field with 115 pounds up in 0:48½ for the half mile.

Sais Won Oakland Handicap.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—The handicap at Oakland resulted in an exciting finish. It was a close race between Sais, Venator and Ishlana up to twenty yards from the finish. Knapp, who rode Sais, lifted his mount in and won by a short head from Venator. In a few more jumps Ishlana's number would have been hung up.

Memphian Came Home In Front.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 1.—With the track at Essex park four or five seconds slow, the bettors made but a poor showing at picking winners here. Memphian, at 7 to 5, was the only true favorite to come home in front, although Rosecourt and Annie Chapman, at 9 to 5 and 2 to 1 respectively, were well played.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell Recovered.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the English actress, who has been a patient at the University hospital since the night of Jan. 2, when she injured her knee cap by slipping on the step of her carriage, left the hospital late yesterday. She is now at the home of Mrs. Spencer Ervin, a close personal friend, where she will remain temporarily. The wound in her knee is said to have completely healed.

Looks Like Bloody Snow.

ROME, Feb. 1.—The severe cold which has prevailed here has been followed by a south wind from the Sahara, carrying red dust from the desert which, mixed with snow falling in various parts of southern Italy, gives the appearance of a fall of bloody snow.

TWELVE WIVES DEAD

Chicago Police Charge Many Murders to Hoch.

"BLUEBEARD" WEDDED OVER TWENTY

Prisoner Captured by New York Police Takes Matters Coolly—Figured In Minneapolis as Dr. Hart and Married Girl There.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Chief of Police O'Neill has declared his belief that Johann Adolph Hoch, alleged to have been married to more than a score of women, has murdered at least twelve of them.

This statement was made by the chief in a letter written by him to Captain James J. Langan of the detective bureau of New York, in which he requested the police department of that city to follow a clew given through an anonymous letter received by Inspector of Police Shippy from a woman living at the Belvedere hotel, New York.

In this letter it is intimated that Hoch married two New York women, whom he has abandoned. An attempt was made to have Hoch indicted by the grand jury on charges of wife abandonment and bigamy. The complainants were Mrs. Amelia Augusta Fischer-Hoch, Mrs. Anna Hendrickson-Hoch and Mrs. Marie Gerk-Hoch. It was found, however, that in bigamy cases the wife cannot testify against the husband and that witnesses to the marriages must be secured before action can be taken. As the marriages took place in various parts of the country, time will be required in which to secure witnesses to give testimony against Hoch sufficient to indict him.

At Minneapolis, Minn., it is said, Hoch attempted to murder Mrs. Mabel Leichsman-Hart in June, 1901. Dr. G. L. Hart, who called Milwaukee, Wis., his home, married Miss Leichsman of the Dewey theater, in that city, during the first week in June, 1903. Three days after, while they occupied quarters in the Allen hotel, he is alleged to have tried to chloroform her as she lay in bed. The attempt was unsuccessful, and Hart disappeared. Indications are now that Hart and Hoch are identical.

The prisoner, John Joseph Adolph Hoch, now held in New York, if reports are true, had eighteen wives, nine of whom died suspiciously. He was arraigned there yesterday and remanded until Feb. 2 as a fugitive from justice. He joked in court and said laughingly, "Wait till I get to Chicago and it will be different."

When asked as to why he thought he had been arrested he replied:

"I suppose it is on account of selling some mortgaged property in Chicago, that is all. I'm not afraid to go back there at any time, and when I do this whole matter will be cleared away."

Hoch was brought down to police headquarters and kept there while the police attempted to get a confession out of him. But Hoch was not nearly as talkative about his past life as he is said to have been to the widow, Mrs. Catharine Kimmerle, whom he desired, according to her story, to add to his number of wives.

"I never had but two wives," he said. "One is living and one was May Fischer, who died recently. But I had nothing to do with her death. I am a much abused man and am standing as scapegoat for another man. I am willing to go back to Chicago and face a trial."

"This circular," said Detective Fogarty, "says you had other wives when you married May Fischer and that you are guilty of bigamy."

"I only had one other wife," said Hoch.

Hoch's characteristic of proposing to every unmarried woman he met resulted in his capture by the New York police.

Coroner Hoffman here has reported that traces of poison have been found in the stomach of Mrs. Marie Walcker-Hoch through the chemical analysis.

Verdict Favored Bootblack.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 1.—A bootblack stand is not a place of public accommodation, according to a decision of the court of appeals in the action of George W. Burks against Paul Bosso, both of Rochester. Bosso refused to shine the shoes of Burks, who is a negro, and Burks brought an action to recover $500 for violation of the law.

British Steamer Wrecked.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 1.—The British steamer Alba, Captain Cox, from Newport News for Amsterdam, is ashore at Zandvoort, near Haarlem, on the North sea, and will be a total loss. Twelve members of her crew have been got ashore, but twenty-five are still on board. Lifeboats are in attendance.

Mrs. Gilbert Left $10,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The will of Mrs. Anne Jane Gilbert, the aged actress who ended her long career by starring in "Granny" up to a few days before her death, which occurred in Chicago on Dec. 2, was filed in the surrogate's court. Mrs. Gilbert left $10,000 personal property.

Tried to Bribe Councilmen.

TAUNTON, Mass., Feb. 1.—William H. Greeley was arrested on a warrant charging him with bribery in connection with the recent municipal election. It is alleged that Greeley offered money to certain councilmen if they would vote for a certain candidate for city treasurer.

CIVIL WAR EXISTS

Polish Capital In a State of Anarchy.

GRAND DUKE VLADIMIR TALKS

"Army Is Ready, as I Am, to Die For the Czar."

ZEMSKYZABOR MAY BE GRANTED

Situation Throughout Poland Increasingly Serious—Warsaw Streets Barricaded—Continued Riots and Street Fighting—American Consul Wires Mobs Pillaging Stores—General Strike On—Three Hundred Dead.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 1.—The latest reports from Warsaw depict the situation throughout Poland as increasingly serious.

A condition of civil war exists in the Polish capital. The rebels have erected barricades. Hundreds of shops have been plundered. The rebels wrecked the telephone exchange, poured tons of petroleum in the streets and have set fire to it, and it is said complete anarchy prevails.

A woman posted on the balcony of her house picked off the Cossacks who were trying to drive the strikers from the streets. A Cossack finally shot the woman, but his own life paid the penalty. The mob fell upon him, dragged him from his horse and beat and kicked him to death. Fighting around the barricades continued during the night.

In one section the rebels are masters of the situation. The police have fled. Huge placards have been posted announcing the establishment of a revolutionary municipal regime.

Minor collisions between the troops and police and the populace continue to swell the number of dead.

Trade and industry are completely at a standstill, and the presence of thousands of idle workmen, who have been out of employment for months and are starving and desperate, adds a factor of the greatest danger, which is not present to the same extent in St. Petersburg, where the government orders for war purposes have kept the factories busy.

At St. Petersburg last night the police surprised a meeting of strikers in a tavern and fired, killing a girl and wounding four persons.

It is said that the responsibility for the insertion of grape in front of the saluting charge, when grapeshots were fired at the czar, has been fixed upon Bogdanoff, a private of the Seventeenth battery of the First horse artillery of the guards, who was serving the gun. Bogdanoff, it is said, is a former student and a member of a revolutionary association.

The American vice consul at Warsaw, Witold Fouchas, telegraphs that many stores, chiefly Russian, have been pillaged by mobs and that the shops and factories without exception are closed. A general strike is in effect. Those who are not willing to walk out are compelled to join the strike by threats. Mr. Fouchas saw no improvement in the situation and reported the receipt of bad news from Lodz and Radom.

It is conservatively estimated that the number of killed or wounded at Warsaw is about 300.

The rioting in Poland will largely affect the economic situation. The factories at Warsaw, Lodz, Petrokoff and other industrial centers in Poland have been compelled to gradually reduce their output and decrease their working forces since the outbreak of the war, which has almost entirely closed the Siberian and Manchurian markets.

The result has been that thousands of workmen have been thrown out of employment for months past, furnishing a horde of hungry, dissatisfied, desperate men, among whom the news from St. Petersburg produced an outburst of a riotous and incendiary spirit. It is feared that a large proportion of these thousands may be utilized by the revolutionary organizations in Poland, which is the hotbed of Socialism.

At St. Petersburg Grand Duke Vladimir, uncle of Emperor Nicholas and commander of the imperial guard granted an interview this morning at the duke's palace in Quay de la Cour adjoining the Winter palace. A correspondent was received in the grand duke's private study, into which he was ushered by the grand duke's aid de-camp, Prince Belaselsky.

"You must remember," said the grand duke in French (for, while he knows English perfectly, he prefers the Gallic tongue to any except his own), "you must remember I am a grand duke and a subject of the emperor. As such I am extremely loyal to him, and I am a Russian from the crown of my head to the tip of my toes," accompanying the words with a sweeping gesture. "What information can I give you?"

"The newspapers abroad," suggested the correspondent, "have made many statements regarding the events of Jan. 22."

"I know. I have read accounts in the foreign press. I have stood aghast at the frightful stories of the butchery of innocent people which they have printed. I know they say well intentioned patriots, with a priest at their head, coming peacefully to place their grievances before his majesty, were ruthlessly shot down in the streets, but we know that behind this peaceful procession was an anarchistic and Socialistic plot of which the overwhelming majority of the workmen were merely innocent tools. We know from examination of the dead and those arrested that some alleged priests were actually revolutionary agitators and students in disguise. We had to save the city from a mob. Unfortunately, to do so innocent and guilty suffered alike. But suppose 140,000 men had reached the gates of the Winter palace. They would have sacked it as the mob sacked Versailles. From the palace they would have gone elsewhere, and the whole city would have been delivered over to anarchy, riot, bloodshed and flames. Our duty was the duty of every government.

"The same situation has confronted cities in other countries. Why, because this occurred in Russia, should the whole world point the finger of scorn at us? In the midst of our difficulties, why should we be turned upon? Why should America especially misinterpret and think ill of us? We have always been friends—friends of a century, friends when America needed friends. I remember when America was our great friend. Why has all this changed? What has Russia done to deserve it? What has Russia done to America? Why should the foreign press, especially that of Great Britain, not hesitate before any calumny? No invention seems too horrible for them to print. They do not explain that on Saturday every dead wall in St. Petersburg was placarded with warnings to the people not to assemble. No, but they tell that thousands of innocent people were killed and other thousands wounded and paint the streets as running red with blood. They even say the dead were pushed under the ice of the Neva at night. It is infamous. They say nothing of isolated officers set upon by mobs in the streets and hammered into insensibility or of policemen killed or wounded. As a matter of fact, complete returns show that exactly 126 are dead. Several hundred were wounded. I can't give the precise figure of the wounded, but you shall have an opportunity to see the full reports."

"They say that Gorky will be hanged," suggested the correspondent.

"Nonsense!" replied the grand duke.

"It is asserted that some of the troops refused to obey commands," was the next suggestion.

"There is no question of the loyalty of the troops," asserted the grand duke. "They did their duty. They are ready, as I am ready, to die in the streets for the emperor.

"People speak of a constitution," said the grand duke. "A constitution would mean the end of Russia, as the state would be gone, anarchy would supervene, and when it ended the empire would be disintegrated. Finland, Poland and perhaps other frontier provinces would have broken away. Russia is not ripe for a constitution. Go out among the peasants, who comprise the vast bulk of the empire's population, and try to explain to them government by suffrage. The peasant knows nothing of government. He does not even know what the word means. He knows his emperor—for him the emperor is everything. Give the peasant a vote and all would be anarchy. Still there is necessity for reforms, and they will be granted by the autocracy."

"Maintaining the principles of autocracy, then, the people will have an opportunity to be heard in the government?" questioned the correspondent.

"Yes," was the reply, "they can, and I am sure they will be given a voice. Of that I am certain," and he repeated the words emphatically, "I am certain," and continued even more deliberately, "They will be given the means of presenting their needs and grievances direct to the sovereign."

With these significant words, foreshadowing perhaps the immediate granting of something in the nature of the zemskyzabor (land parliament), the heir presumptive to the throne of the Romanoffs ended the interview. He then turned to Prince Belaselsky, instructing him to give the correspondent every facility for independent investigation.

A dispatch from Breslau says that a general strike is expected in the industrial towns of Russian Poland. Shippers in Sosnowitz have sent out circulars warning against sending goods to Warsaw or Lodz.

A press dispatch from Lodz, the greatest manufacturing center of west Russia, says the town looks like a besieged fortress. Soldiers in detachments of fifty are patrolling the streets to preserve order. All the stores are closed and their windows boarded up. Hundreds of people are waiting before the bakeries for bread.

At Grodno there have been disturbances, in consequence of which troops were called out. A mob of 2,000 strikers destroyed the postoffice and telegraph lines and looted the wine shops.

IN MEMORY OF M'KINLEY.

Young Men's McKinley Club Banquet at Canton, O.

CANTON, O., Feb. 1.—Commemorating the natal day of the late President McKinley, the Young Men's McKinley club of Canton last night held a notable banquet in the Auditorium, Canton's new assembly hall.

Vice President Elect Fairbanks occupied the central position as chief guest of honor.

The absence of wine at the banquet was a tribute of Cantonians to their late fellow citizen. Always tolerant and considerate of others, President McKinley offered no objection to wine at banquets where he was a guest of honor, but on the occasion of several such affairs arranged here distinctively in his honor he had expressed a wish that wine be eliminated.

The vast amphitheater, with its capacity of 3,000 people, was almost completely filled. In the midst of the serving of the menu there was a sudden hush to the festivities, and almost as one man the vast assemblage rose to its feet and for more than a minute stood in respectful silence. The occasion was the arrival of Mrs. McKinley, wife of the late president. She was accompanied by a large party of friends, including Mrs. Day, Mrs. Fairbanks, Miss Grace McKinley and Miss Black, daughter of General Black. They occupied a box during the speaking. Invocation by Rev. Dr. O. W. Holmes, pastor of the late president's church, was followed by the serving of the dinner. Justice William Day was toastmaster.

Barge Canal Contract Awards.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 1.—The canal board, upon motion of Superintendent Franchot, has adopted a resolution consolidating the two sections of the Black river canal, which heretofore have constituted that canal, so that hereafter the canal will be a single section, the repair, maintenance and operation forces being under a single head. Mr. Franchot will be ready to announce the award of two and possibly three of the barge canal contracts this week.

FIGHTING AT MUKDEN

Japanese Claim to Hold Position at Haikoutai.

RUSSIAN GENERALS BADLY WOUNDED

Armies Have Suffered Tremendous Losses During Recent Fighting. Russians Placed Hors de Combat 42,000, Japs 7,000.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—At Mukden a late dispatch says the Japanese right flank has advanced on the Russian position, driving in the cavalry screen and bombarded the outlying hills.

The Russians moved up re-enforcements, repulsed the enemy and drove them out of a village they had occupied.

The Russians shelled the Japanese center, using field guns and mortars. Simultaneously they shelled a portion of the Japanese left, using twelve heavy field guns.

It is believed that the loss of Heikoutai weakens the Russian position and probably will compel a material change in the Russian front at that vicinity.

Heikoutai is strongly defended by the Japanese, who are now occupying the Russian works.

A late Mukden dispatch says that there is another lull in the fighting, but it is impossible to tell how long it will last.

The Russian losses the last few days were about 10,000. Many of the bodies of the killed have not yet been gathered. Lieutenant General Stackelberg's corps was the heaviest loser. The Japanese losses, according to Chinese reports, also were heavy. The Russians took about 500 prisoners. The Japanese forces on the Russian right were originally about 10,000, who were routed and panic stricken, but afterward they were strongly re-enforced from the Japanese right.

General Mischtschenko's wound is serious, a bullet having fractured his knee joint. General Kondratovitch was shot through the lungs, and the bullet lodged at his spine, from where it has been extracted. His chief of staff, Colonel Andrief, was severely wounded in the head.

A St. Petersburg report says that, although the Russians have abandoned their advance, the latest official dispatches received indicate that the fighting is not over. The Russians claim to hold the captured villages.

The Japanese again resumed the offensive and desperately assaulted the Russians, but were everywhere repulsed.

General Kuropatkin in dispatches reports that the Japanese losses in the recent fighting were very heavy, many being bayoneted and sabered.

A Tokyo report says that the Russian casualties in the engagements from Jan. 25 to Jan. 29 are now estimated at between 36,000 and 42,000 and those of the Japanese at 7,000.

Murderous Assault at Roslyn.

ROSLYN, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Wyatt Titus, aged eighty-three, a merchant, is unconscious at his home here, and it is feared that he will not recover from a murderous assault and robbery of which he was a victim. Six years ago Mr. Titus was knocked down and robbed while on his way home from his store. Now he has been the victim of a similar assault, and the authorities believe at the hands of the same assailant. His skull was fractured with an iron bar and his pockets emptied, but the robber overlooked the purse which contained a large sum of money. Mr. Titus was found unconscious only a short distance from his home and has been insensible ever since.

Beef Trust Must Obey Law.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—It can be said by authority that unless the corporations constituting the so called beef trust heed the injunction made permanent by the decision of the supreme court of the United States the government will institute proceedings against the individual members of the corporation to enforce the decision of the court. The minds of the president and members of his cabinet are made up fully on the question. They have determined that the beef trust shall obey the law and shall do it at once.

Postmen Sold Mining Stocks.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Postmaster General Wynne had under consideration the allegations that a number of carriers of the force of the postoffice at Toledo, O., had been charged with selling mining stocks along their routes during working hours. It is likely that four of the offending carriers will be dismissed and that eighteen others will be suspended for short terms.

Paderewski at Capital.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Mrs. and Miss Roosevelt, Countess Cassini, Miss Julia Marlowe, the actress, and representatives of the British, French and Russian embassies were in the large audience which attended a recital given by Paderewski at the National theater. The pianist was in excellent form and responded to a number of encores.

Lost His Life Saving Train.

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Feb. 1.—William H. Case, a civil war veteran, is dead here from injuries received when he kept a Chesapeake and Ohio train from being wrecked. Case pulled aside a hand car standing in front of an approaching train, but was himself struck by the train and fatally hurt.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 1, 1905.

There being but one nominee, the Attorney General will please cast the ballot for Assemblyman.

Thousands of dollars to be spent in holding the special election in Union county alone and but one candidate nominated. In Sussex County it is reported that both the Democratic and Republican nominees will decline.

The Courier-News yesterday published a story about a public hearing to be given on Thursday on the proposed court house and jail for Somerset county. The meeting was held yesterday morning and an account of it was contained in The Daily Press.

Some surprise has been expressed that no one appears willing to become a candidate for the Citizens' party mayoralty nomination in North Plainfield, and the question is being asked whether any one will be named. From the recent trend of events it seems that the voters opposed to the present administration will surely keep up the fight they commenced a year ago, although Mayor Smalley, against whom they are particularly bitter, has announced that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself. The situation being as it is, suggestion is made that A. V. D. Honeyman is the logical man to accept a nomination from the Citizens' party. He has been and is recognized as the leader of the movement which aims to drive Mayor Smalley and his friends from political control. He is the most avowed enemy of Mr. Smalley and has fought him for years. Mr. Honeyman does not think things are run right in the borough and he looks upon the present mayor as a sort of political despot. Is it not logical then that he would be the most suitable man who could be named by the Citizens' party for the mayoralty?

AMUSEMENTS.

The countless friends and admirers of "Buster Brown," who have made the acquaintance of this precocious youngster principally through the pages of the Sunday colored supplement, will be delighted to learn that he has been realized in the flesh on the stage in Melville B. Raymond's cartoon farce of the same title, at the Majestic Theatre. From all the numerous Outcalt cartoons, clever playwrights have selected the most comical episodes suited for stage productions; costumers have copied the familiar "Buster Brown" suits in all possible variations, both juvenile and feminine; artists have painted picturesque scenes, and popular composers have supplied catchy songs and choruses—including a topical number founded on "Buster's" favorite "Resolved." It remained only to vitalize the character in the person of some player capable of carrying the strenuous role of "Buster" to the life and Manager Raymond found exactly the person in Gabriel, the midget comedian, well-known in vaudeville. Of course, "Buster" would not be himself without his celebrated smiling dog "Tige," and this intelligent canine has found an expert interpreter in the person of George Ali, long popular as the "animal" actor in all Weber & Fields productions.

Paul R. Collier, of East Sixth street, will referee in the Leal's School basketball game at Newark, Friday.

R. N. Marrs, of New York, who has been teaching penmanship at the Plainfield High School, has completed his course of instruction.

John H. Tier, Sr., of Bank place, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is reported as being slightly improved. Mrs. Tier was taken ill yesterday.

—Special attention is called to the Oyster Supper and Entertainment offered by the Ladies' Aid Society, Thursday evening, Feb. 2. From 6 to 8 o'clock a bountiful supper of oysters in various styles, accompanied with other delicacies of the season, will be served in the church basement. Tickets, 50 cents. At 8 o'clock, in Vincent chapel, there will be given an entertainment consisting of an exhibition of Madam Jarley's Wax Works and a musical programme. Admission to the entertainment is ten cents.—adv.

FAUST AS PRODUCED BY LOCAL AMATEURS

GOETHE'S FAMOUS PLAY RENDERED BY WETUMPKAH TRIBEMEN.

Although presented almost entirely by local amateur talent, Goethe's thrilling drama, "Faust," was given a vivid production in the Casino, last night, before a large audience which evidenced its satisfaction by continued applause. The one touch of professionalism in the cast came from Eduard Waldmann, the well known German-English tragedian, and Mrs. Waldmann. Both are finished artists and the talent they had selected could not have been improved upon, each participant bearing out his or her character almost faultlessly.

Mr. Waldmann has been in the legitimate ranks for many years and his portrayal of "Mephisto" was extremely realistic. At times he held his audience with tense interest and in the difficult situations, his capabilities were fully revealed in dramatic action. Mrs. Waldmann's "Martha" was very pleasing, while honors in the amateur artists were carried off by George B. Case, who played "Old Faust." The veteran of many minstrel shows, Mr. Case had an easy presence while delivering his lines that made his entrance to the stage a looked for event. He also displayed more than ordinary ability in timely gestures and facial expression. A. H. Willard as "Young Faust" and Mrs. Willard as "Marguerite," were also very pleasing in their allotted parts.

The remainder of the cast was as follows: "Valentine," Joseph C. Martin; "Brander," F. M. Slater; "Wagner," L. C. Schermerhorn; "Frosch," Walter Emmons; "Old Merchant," Harry Blimm; "Katherine," Miss Lotta Willard.

The costumes and electrical effects were elaborate and were prepared especially for this production. The scenery was complete in the four acts and in many ways the performance would have reflected credit upon professionals. The music was furnished by Harold W. Cook and A. W. Mosher, while Mr. Waldmann exercised personal stage supervision, having acted as instructor in the preparatory work.

The production was given under the auspices of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., and is to be repeated this evening.

—Joseph McIntyre, of New York, who recently appeared with the Richard Arnold Sextette at the Casino, will give a piano recital at the home of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, on East Seventh street, this afternoon.

—Miss Carrie M. Rousseau, of Bound Brook, who has long been a clerk in the postoffice at Somerville, yesterday received an appointment to the general office in Washington, D. C., and left immediately to begin her new duties there.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The special meeting of the school board, which was held at New Market yesterday afternoon in the interest of the school question which has been perplexing the citizens of Piscataway township, terminated in the appointment of Thursday, February 9, as the day for a public meeting to decide upon the amount to be appropriated for a New Market school house. The meeting of the citizens at which this subject will be discussed will take place at 2 o'clock. There was a discussion of the school question yesterday afternoon, and it was the general opinion of those present that the citizens favor the erection of a four room building costing between $10,000 to $12,000. Though others were expected, one petition was received at the meeting yesterday afternoon. It was from Silas Dewey Drake, requesting the erection of a school building between Lincoln and Dewey Park. The matter was laid over until another meeting. Among other items of business transacted by the board was the suspension of Thomas Reardon, the adopted son of "Mayor Bill" Smith, who has been creating a disturbance at the school for over a year. His term of expulsion terminates on June 15.

The condition of the roads still shows its effect upon the attendance at the schools. Those who have returned to their studies after the recent snow storm are decidedly in the minority, and many are confined to their homes, either by illness or by inability to reach the schools. The roads between New Market and New Brunswick are practically impassable, and the drifts are so deep that it is with difficulty that wagons make their way through. The traffic between these places is practically at a standstill.

William H. Cole, the borough weather prophet, has predicted eight more snow storms during the month of February. Mr. Cole says that the recent storm was as he had predicted, and says that all indications point toward a decided prevalence of snow.

The recent meeting of the Mandolin and Banjo Club at the home of Mrs. Charles Day, of New Market, was an enjoyable one. Music and games made the evening pass quickly and refreshments were served before the members disbanded.

Among those who are reported to be on the sick list are Mrs. Robert Pierce, Mrs. Margaret Deslaman and Miss Ruth Shiveley. Grip is the cause for most of the illness, which is travelling about the borough.

Among those who have recently recovered from the grip which has been claiming several victims in the borough are Miss Sarah Brokaw and Miss Edna Cerieli.

A bowling match is being planned between the William Holton Council team and a team from Scotch Plains. The match will probably take place next week.

Fireman Hiedlick, who was injured in the collision which recently occurred near the borough station, has recovered and returned to his work yesterday.

A party of about fifteen boys from the borough enjoyed a pleasant sleigh ride to Bound Brook last night. George Apgar was in charge of the affair.

Mrs. Clark Rogers, who hurt her ankle some time ago while in Plainfield, is now much improved and is able to walk by the aid of crutches.

Miss Helen Underwood, of Jersey City, has returned to her home after a visit with her aunt, Mrs. Calvin Gardiner.

Mrs. Herbert Pierce, who has been visiting her sister in New York, has returned to her home on North avenue.

The meeting of the Township Committee, which was announced for today, will take place next week.

Edward Herlich, who has been visiting friends in Newark, recently returned to his home.

There will be a meeting of the Common Council of the borough on Monday evening.

The Registry Board meets in the town rooms Friday from 1 to 8 p. m., for the purpose of revising and correcting the registry list for the special election to be held February 7.

Charles Frentz, who has been visiting his parents, has left for Kansas City, where he will superintend a large contract for a New York contracting firm.

The roads are beginning to break up and pack now and in a few days sleighing will be excellent, and with good weather should continue until March 1.

John Patterson, who has been seriously ill for two weeks past, is reported as improving now, but his condition is still considered serious.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lyndall have given up their home on Park avenue and will live with Mrs. Lyndall's mother, Mrs. J. H. Parks.

Herman Cook, at one time a resident here, but now of New York, has been visiting relatives and friends in town.

The local bowling team bowl a return game tomorrow night with the Westfield team on Lee's alleys.

Miss Minnie Meyers has recovered from a severe cold which detained her at home for several days.

Harry Lyons, of Philadelphia, has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Isabella Billings, of Park avenue.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

It is reported that the police of Bridgeport have notified authorities here that they have arrested men who stole a pair of horses from J. B. Onderdonk and a buggy from Eugene Vegnte, on the River road in this township, on December 5, and that the owners and C. B. Beice, a member of the Piscataway Vigilance Society, went to Bridgeport to secure the stolen rig. A reward of $275 was offered for the recovery of the property.

Emily Ryno had a narrow escape Friday evening, while driving across the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Two trains had just passed, going eastward, when Mr. Ryno, accompanied by Thomas Terrell, drove on the track they saw a train going westward very near. By starting the horse on a lunge they cleared the engine by a few feet.

Charles Brewer attended the sale of trotting horses, as a driver, at the Madison Square Garden, in New York, yesterday and today.

William H. Manning attended the meeting of the School Board at New Market yesterday afternoon.

RAILROAD FATALITY.

Train Kills Child and Crushes Mother's Head.

The Somerset County authorities are investigating the death of seven-year-old Flossie Randolph, who was instantly killed by an express train at a crossing on the Lackawanna Railroad near Millington, at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The child, accompanied by its mother, was seen by a gang of workmen walking on the tracks near the Millington crossing, in front of an approaching train. Before the workmen could warn them they were struck. The child was killed instantly and the mother was hurled thirty feet and so badly injured that she cannot recover.

There is much indignation at Millington because the express train did not stop after it struck the woman and child. The victims were picked up by several workmen. Mrs. Randolph was taken to the home of Bentley American, at Millington. She was attended by Dr. Bott, who found that her head had been crushed and that she had received internal injuries. The Randolph family is well known in Millington.

Mrs. Kate Graves, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, and her daughter, Mrs. Edith Fenno, of Butte City, Montana, are visiting Mrs. Graves' sister, Mrs. John H. Ross, of Prospect place.

GAMBLERS BEATEN

NEW YORK'S DISTRICT ATTORNEY PERSISTS IN FIGHT.

WHAT HE ACCOMPLISHES

Not Yet Through—May Get After the Speculators — National Academy Exhibition Mediocre—Other New York Gossip.

NEW YORK.—"Jerome has got the gamblers."

This tribute to the powers of the district attorney of New York county is about the most interesting thing in town. You hear it everywhere; and unlike so many things you hear, it is true. Gambling is nearly done for in this county—unless a gamblers' district attorney can be elected, which isn't so ridiculous a suggestion as it sounds. It has been done before now.

The funny part of it is that Mr. Jerome himself comes of an old New York family of men who didn't mind a quiet game now and then; and the present-day Jerome would not care much whether or not gambling went on "on the quiet." It is the police corruption that it shielded which he cannot stand for.

Abram S. Hewitt once said that it takes ten years to do anything in New York; but it is much less time since Reginald C. Vanderbilt, while he was still a student in Yale, began the anti-gambling crusade by losing a large sum. Rome tried to compel Lewisohn, a gambling place. As the law then was, a man could not be compelled to testify in a gambling matter, but Vanderbilt stayed out of the state for two years, including his wedding day, to avoid publicity. Jerome tried to compel Lewisohn, a gambling copper magnate, to testify against Canfield, and failed. Then he went to Albany to get a law passed to compel testimony in such cases.

The virtuous rural assemblymen who are responsible for most of the deviltry in the city, laughed at the idea of passing such a bill. But Mr. Jerome wasn't born yesterday. He built such a fire under the assemblymen that their church-going constituents took to writing letters to them. Then the word to the gamblers' lobby was: "Sorry, old man, but if I vote against this bill it's good-by to Albany for me."

Mr. Jerome's "Invitation."

ARMED with this measure, Mr. Jerome simply "invited" Mr. Canfield to come down and see him. In a few days Canfield was in court pleading guilty. He was fined $1,000—ridiculously inadequate, but he is out of business, and that's something. Why did he plead guilty? Because Jerome has the call. Because Jerome is honest. Because the gambling house proprietor must protect his patrons from the disagreeable task of giving evidence against him as they can be compelled to do.

Jerome asked a police captain to serve a subpoena on "Honest John" Kelly, famous as poolroom man, prize fight referee and faro dealer. The captain couldn't find John. The captain has kept a man for four months in front of John's old house warning people against it, while John was running his new house two doors away, with hundreds of people daily entering. John was a friend of two police inspectors, and had not been arrested in nine years. So Jerome sent his own men up, and again issued a simple "invitation" to Kelly to come and talk to him. Kelly went. While the two talked Jerome's men broke into Honest John's place and captured the tables, chips, etc.

"Lou" Ludlum's turn came next. The gamblers began moving their "stuff" over into New Jersey. "Shang" Draper, an old-time associate of burglars and bad men, shut up his place. "Business was strictly on the blink."

The gamblers voted for Mayor McClellan in 1903 on the understanding that there would be a quietly "wide-open town," especially after election. No one supposes, however, that Mayor McClellan was personally a party to such a bargain. Jerome is a democrat, but not a Tammany man. His term is four years, holding over from the Low administration. The chance that he would get a new law from the legislature and actually work under it was the one thing that Charley Murphy, the "boss" of Tammany Hall, could not control. All these things will figure in the election this fall.

Jerome in Wall Street.

NO ONE would be surprised to see Jerome make a flying leap into Wall street. Apparently he cannot interfere in the scandalous backing given by the National City bank to the stock "washing" frauds of Munroe & Munroe, which concerns the federal government. But when the Shipbuilding trust was founded false prospectuses were issued in New York state, although the company was formed, of course, in New Jersey, to influence investors. Gov. Odell was one of those who bit. He "unloaded" part of his bonds upon Judge Alton B. Parker. Others were taken by Mrs. Wood, widow of Fernando, the old-time Tammany mayor, who invented the maxim that it is "sometimes necessary to pander to the moral sense of the community."

Jerome has been looking into the Shipbuilding matter. The trouble is that there are so many new kinds of mischief let loose in New York in 24 hours that it is hard even for the liveliest district attorney to look after old offenses. Jerome has a great staff of assistants. Many of his assistants are young men of property, who have taken office mainly to be of use to the community. All are bright young fellows. The office is called the largest law office in the world. It is one of the ablest in intellect, one of the cleanest in character. Don't judge it by murder trials. New York is not the only town where it is hard to convict a pretty girl of killing a man whose whole record says "serve him right."

Pictures and Buyers.

THE national academy of paintings and a few sculptures is now on. The productions shown are average. That means that a hundred people and more have dabbed away at little bits of paintings not to big to go into a parlor, in the hope that some one will buy them. Nobody ever does, except occasionally a rich relative. The best artists, with few exceptions, live either by illustrations for magazines or newspapers, or by portrait painting. Even here they meet competition by foreigners who come over for a few months and carry off the best commissions. Madrazo, the famous Spaniard, is coming in a few days for this purpose. Sir Philip Burne Jones has left an amusing account of his experiences here in a book so frank that it is evident he does not mean to return. When he left, a sharp auctioneer held a "studio sale" of Jones' effects. Only one or two articles had Jones ever seen, but it was a great success. Chartran was another great success in society. He painted two or three members of the Roosevelt family.

There are no better portrait painters in the world than Alexander, Eakins, Sargent—Americans. The two former are represented this year in work as fine as is seen anywhere. Alexander's study of a girl's head shows genius, a quality sufficiently rare to attract attention. Eakin's portrait of a slouchy looking rumpled, ungainly professor evidently every inch a man, carried off the year's honors in portraiture, here and in St. Louis. It is a welcome change from the sugary pictures of fine ladies with lack-adaisaical hands and cruel, supercilious faces, that alternate with office pictures of bank presidents in the long lists of portraits.

The Child Labor Troubles.

NEW YORK, with one of the best child labor laws of any state, is backward in its enforcement. That is one result of vast size and of rotten politics.

The law prevents children under 14 years of age from working in factories. It prohibits children under 16 from working more than nine hours a day. Both provisions have been constantly ignored. The governor has been enlisted in the fight through the efforts of the child labor committee to oust State Labor Commissioner McMackin. The state child labor committee is in close affiliation with the national committee that is investigating conditions in cotton mills of the south, in New Jersey glass factories and in jute mills everywhere.

A great mill was working with child labor in this city. The labor inspectors had certified that it was doing as well as it could to enforce the law. Neighbors complained that little tots of ten were made to work long hours. It proved to be true. Children of eight work far into the night in canning factories.

The children who are put to work so early by their parents are almost without exception of foreign birth. In the south similar cases are charged against men and women of pure American stock. Public sentiment here is almost unanimous for the law. The difficulty is with the enforcement. Naturally, the labor unions are strong in its support, as they have been in the support of most reform legislation for many years. The problem will be solved. Meanwhile, New York is abashed.

EVERYDAY NEATNESS.

Twins Who Do Not Seem to Belong to the Same Family.

Alma and Alice are twin sisters. They have a small cottage in the country and live together. They keep a cow and chickens and do nearly all their own work indoor and out. It is not very heavy, not even the care of the pretty little cow. Alma attends to the cow and chickens usually, while in the division of labor the housework largely falls to Alice, because she prefers it.

In the morning both rise at the same time, early, of course. Alice makes the fire and prepares the breakfast. Alma milks the cow and feeds the chickens. At breakfast time they sit opposite each other at the table, partaking of the delicious puffy rice cakes and maple sirup, fresh eggs and fragrant coffee Alice's handy fingers have conjured up. Alice is a boss cook, no mistake.

But, although the twins are about of the same height, breadth and thickness, although both have dark hair, a little sprinkled with gray, and dark eyes, you would never guess they belonged to the same family. Alice looks certainly ten years older than Alma. Although the morning task of Alma has been more difficult than that of Alice and has taken more time, yet Alma sits there neat as a pin, for all the world as though she was dressed for a caller. Her hair is combed and done up in a tidy manner. She has deftly slipped off her overshoes and big overall milking apron and sits dainty and erect in a well made house dress, with pretty cuffs of the same material and having a white ruffle at the neck. In brief, Alma looks like a lady, as she is, every inch of her, though she does work for her living—a living obtained from the proceeds of a cow and a chicken yard.

Now look at Alice.

Alice has sat down to that delicious breakfast with unkempt hair, tousled and tumbling about her neck and ears. It looks a fright. Alice has "no time" to comb it before breakfast, she says, though if the early morning hour is not for the purpose of making oneself look a respectable human being one would like to know what it is for, that's all.

Alice has her sleeves rolled up above her elbows, and she leans her left elbow upon the table and sits sideways. Her gown is only half closed at the neck and is wrinkled and untidy. She wears her kitchen apron at the table, and that apron is even not overclean. Her shoes are untied and slipperslopper. She is as uninviting an object to sit opposite to at mealtime as can be imagined, and she is an eyesore to her clean and comely sister, who has remonstrated with her for thirty years in vain. Alma never looks at her sister at mealtime.

"I can't bother with little fool things," says Alice. "I've no time to waste in that way. And what difference does it make at home anyway?"

Just there is where Alice makes the mistake of her life. How a woman looks in her own home is really one of the most important matters in life. No mother who lets herself run to seed and become a slouch can retain the respect of either husband or children. Many a man has been turned away from his wife simply because she neglected her teeth. I remember the horror with which as a child I regarded a woman relative who used sometimes to appear before us young ones without her artificial teeth. Her mouth made me actually shudder with repulsion. The recollection of that makes me imagine how unpleasant it must be to live in the same house with a woman who "lets her teeth go," as they say. America is full of the best dentists on earth, and there is no excuse for facial disfigurement through lack of their care.

Most of the women and girls in our land at least profess to hold to a religion of some kind; many belong to and dwell in families where thanks are audibly expressed before each meal. It looks somehow like a very poor way of showing thankfulness for food to sit down and partake of it with unkempt hair and untidy clothing, doesn't it? Just when a woman's little children are growing to maturity around her is the very time when she should set them an example of neatness in shoes and stockings, in hair and clothing. Half an hour spent on herself daily will keep her trim and tidy, and it will be the most profitably spent half hour of the working day. Such trimness and tidiness in the woman at home is an absolute necessity to a refined civilization.

MARY M. BROWN.

THE GRAFTERS

By

FRANCIS LYNDE

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

He briefed the story of House Bill Twenty-nine for her, pointing out the probabilities.

"Of course, no one can tell what the precise effect will be," he qualified. "But in my opinion it is very likely to be destructive of dividends. Skipping the dry details, the new law, which is equitable enough on its own face, can be made an engine of extortion in the hands of those who administer it. In fact, I happen to know that it was designed and carried through for that very purpose."

She smiled.

"I have understood you were in the opposition. Are you speaking politically?"

"I am stating the plain fact," said Kent, nettled a little by her coolness. "Decadent Rome never lifted a baser set of demagogues into office than we have here in this state at the present moment."

He spoke warmly, and she liked him best when he put her on the footing of an equal antagonist.

"I can't agree with your inference," she objected. "As a people we are neither obsequious nor stupid."

"Perhaps not. But it is one of the failures of a popular government that an honest majority may be controlled and directed by a small minority of shrewd rascals. That is exactly what has happened in the passage of this bill. I venture to say that not one man in the ten who voted for it had the faintest suspicion that it was a 'graft'."

"If that be true, what chances there are for men with the gift of true leadership and a love of pure justice in their hearts!" she said half-absently; and he started forward and said: "I beg pardon?"

She let the blue-gray eyes meet his and there was a passing shadow of disappointment in them.

"I ought to beg yours. I'm afraid I was thinking aloud. But it is one of my dreams. If I were a man I should go into politics."

"To purify them?"

"To do my part in trying. The great heart of the people is honest and well-meaning: I think we all admit that. And there is intelligence, too. But human nature is the same as it used to be when they set up a man who could and called him a king. Gentle or simple, it must be led."

"There is no lack of leadership, such as it is," he hazarded.

"No; but there seems to be a pitiful lack of the right kind: men who will put self-seeking and unworthy ambition aside and lift the standard of justice and right-doing for its own sake. Are there any such men nowadays?"

"I don't know," he rejoined gravely. "Sometimes I'm tempted to doubt it. It is a frantic scramble for place and power for the most part. The kind of man you have in mind isn't in it, shuns it as he would a plague spot."

She contradicted him firmly.

"No, the kind of a man I have in mind wouldn't shun it; he would take hold with his hands and try to make things better; he would put the selfish temptations under foot and give the people a leader worth following—be the real mind and hand of the well-meaning majority."

Kent shook his head slowly.

"Not unless a motive stronger than the abstraction which we call patriotism."

"I don't understand," she said; meaning, rather, that she refused to understand.

"I mean that such a man, however exalted his views might be, would have to have an object more personal to him than the mere dutiful promptings of patriotism to make him do his best."

"But that would be self-seeking again."

"Not necessarily in the narrow sense. The old knightly chivalry was a beautiful thing in its way, and it gave an uplift to an age which would have been frankly brutal without it: yet it had its wall-spring in what appeals to us now as being a rather fantastic sentiment."

"And we are not sentimentalists!" she suggested.

"No; and it's the worse for us in some respects. You will not find your ideal politician until you find a man with somewhat of the old knightly spirit in him. And I'll go further and say that when you do find him he will be at heart the champion of the woman he loves rather than that of a political constituency."

She became silent at that, and for a time the low sweet harmonies of the nocturne Penelope was playing filled the gap.

He turned upon her suddenly.

"Did you mean to reproach me?" he asked abruptly.

"How absurd!"

"No, it isn't. You are responsible for me, in a certain sense. You sent me out in to the world, and somehow I feel as if I had disappointed you."

"'But what went ye out for to see?'" she quoted softly.

"I know," he nodded, sitting down again. "You thought you were arousing a worthy ambition, but it was only avarice that was quickened. I've been trying to be a money-getter."

"You can be something vastly better."

"No, I'm afraid not; it is too late." Again the piano-mellowed silence supervened, and Kent put his elbows on his knees and his face in his hands, being very miserable. He believed now what he had been slow to credit before: that he had it in him to hew his way to the end of the line if only the motive were strong enough to call out all the reserves of battle-might and courage. That motive she alone, of all the women in the world, might have supplied, he told himself in keen self-pity. With her love to arm him, her clear-eyed faith to inspire him . . . . . He sat up straight and pushed the cup of bitter herbs aside. There would be time enough to drain it farther on.

There came the sound of a door opening and closing, and Ormsby stood looking in upon them.

"We needn't keep these sleepy young persons out of bed any longer," he announced briefly; and the coadjutor said good-night and joined him at once.

"What luck?" was David Kent's anxious query when they were free of the house and had turned their faces townward.

"Just as much as we might have expected. Mrs. Hepzibah refuses point-blank to sell her stock—won't talk about it. 'The idea of parting with it now, when it is actually worth more than when we bought it!'" he quoted, mimicking the thin-lipped, acidulous protest. "Later in an evil minute, I tried to drag you in, and she let you have it square on the point of the jaw—intimated that it was a deal in which some of you inside people needed her block of stock to make you whole. She did, by Jove!"

Kent's laugh was mirthless.

"I was never down in her good books," he said, by way of accounting for the accusation.

If Ormsby thought he knew the reason why, he was magnanimous enough to steer clear of that shoal.

"It's a mess," he growled. "I don't fancy you had any better luck with Elinor."

"She seemed not to care much about it either way. She said her mother would have the casting vote."

"I know. What I don't know is, what remains to be done."

"More waiting," said Kent, definitively. "The fight is fairly on now—as between the Bucks crowd and the corporations, I mean—but there will probably be ups and downs enough to scare Mrs. Brentwood into letting go. We must be ready to strike when the iron is hot; that's all."

The New Yorker tramped a full square in thoughtful silence before he said: "Candidly, Kent, Mrs. Hepzibah's little stake in the Western Pacific isn't altogether a matter of life and death to me, don't you know? If it comes to the worst, I can have my broker play the part of the god in the car. Happily, or unhappily, whichever way you like to put it, I sha'n't miss what he may have to put up to make good on her 3,000 shares."

David Kent stopped short and wheeled suddenly upon his companion.

"Ormsby, that's a thing I've been afraid of, all along; and it's one thing you must never do."

"Why not?" demanded the straightforward Ormsby.

Kent knew he was skating on the thinnest of ice, but his love for Elinor made him fearless of consequences.

"If you don't know without being told, it proves that your money has spoiled you to that extent. It is because you have no right to entrap Miss Brentwood into an obligation that would make her your debtor for the very food she eats and the clothes she wears. You will say she never need know: be very sure she will find out, one way or another; and she would never forgive you."

"Um," said Ormsby, turning visibly grim. "You are frank enough—to draw it mildly. Another man in my place might suggest that it isn't Mr. David Kent's affair."

Kent turned about and caught step again.

"I've said my say—all of it," he rejoined stolidly. "We've been decently modern up to now, and we won't go back to the elemental things so late in the day. All the same, you'll not take it amiss if I say that I know Miss Brentwood better than you do."

Ormsby did not say whether he would or would not, and the talk went aside to less summary ways and means preservative of the Brentwood fortunes. But at the archway of the Camelot club, where Kent paused, Ormsby went back to the debatable ground in an outspoken word.

"I know pretty well now what there is between us, Kent, and we mustn't quarrel if we can help it," he said. "If you complain that I didn't give you a fair show, I'll retort that I didn't dare to. Are you satisfied?"

"No," said David Kent; and with that they separated.

OPALS NO LONGER FEARED

Superstition That the Stone Brings Bad Luck Passing Away—Strenuous Life the Cause.

Superstition fades away in the strenuous life of the twentieth century. And the return to common sense has shown itself in the modern fancy for opals. Sir Walter Scott was chiefly responsible for the idea of bad luck being connected with this stone, as will be remembered by readers of "Anne of Geierstein." And others declare that, as the word opal is from the Greek ops (the eye), the gem shares evil influence with a peacock's feather. However, women have lived down all this and opals are the lucky stone for autumn and have been worn by recent brides. But even now stories are told of the uncanny influence of the opal. Alphonso XII. of Spain presented an opal ring to his young wife, Mercedes, on their wedding day and her death occurred soon afterward. Before the funeral the king gave this ring to his sister, Maria Del Pilar, and she also died a few days afterward. The king then presented the ring to his sister-in-law, Princess Christian, and she died in the course of three months. Alphonso, distressed at these fatalities, resolved to wear the ring himself, but he did not wear it long, as his unhappy life shortly came to an end. The queen regent then attached the fatal ring to a gold chain, which she hung around the neck of the Virgin of Almudena in Madrid.

NUDENESS JARS JAPANESE.

Severe Shock Is Administered to the Islanders by This Form of Art.

At the St. Louis fair a Japanese merchant was praising the exhibit of Japan.

"We shall undoubtedly get a number of awards, prizes, medals and diplomas," he said. "I hope that on none of these will appear drawings containing nude figures. We are a modest people; nude figures shock us. A number of Japanese manufacturing concerns that took part in the Columbian exposition received diplomas, suitable for framing, whereon there were drawings of nude women. These concerns, with some misgiving, hung their diplomas in their factories at home. Hence a great deal of scandal, and the diplomas had to come down. There was one firm, a rice-polishing firm at Takamatsu, that came near incurring serious trouble. Its diploma, very nude indeed, was hung in the hall of the factory and the women hands refused to go to work the morning it appeared. The men, taking the matter up, refused to work either. The factory, had not the Columbian exposition's diploma been removed, would have had to close its doors. In Japanese art the nude never appears. The human figure is always draped. Foreign artists should remember this in work intended for Japan."

PRINTS PHOTOS ON APPLES

Portrait of Edward VII. on French Fruit Arouses Interest—The Method Explained.

A firm of fruit auctioneers at Covent Garden recently received from France a remarkable consignment of apples. On each apple was a portrait of King Edward VII. The fruit created a great sensation in the market, and brought a big price. The apples were of the Peasgood Nonsuch variety. A photographic film was fixed on them just before they colored, and the foliage was fastened away from them to insure full exposure to the sun. The portrait of his majesty was put upon these first fruits, because the French peasants consider the "entente cordiale" greatly due to the king. Doubtless in future years many will emulate the example of the ingenious French cultivator and produce portrait fruits. As advertisements they would be very valuable.

Winter and Summer Stamps.

The post office department is sending out its winter stamps now. Few know that there is a difference between winter stamps and summer stamps. In the cold months the gum on the stamps is a little thinner and softer, while that on those to be used during the summer and in southern states is not so easily affected by heat.

Queer Names in Town.

Fremantle, West Australia, has some queer names. The mayor is a Cadd, the chief printer is Cant, a contractor Thick has just sued a local soup-preserving company, and a man named Offspring Webb was fined recently for keeping an unlicensed dog.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THEIR SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

WEDDING CAKES OF ROYALTY

Some of the Most Remarkable Confections Ever Made Were Among the Jubilee Gifts.

Royal etiquette demands that the chief wedding cakes throughout Europe be made in the royal kitchens. All the rest are received as gifts, except in unusual cases, when orders are sent out so that the royal confectioners may be relieved from undue stress of work, says the New York Herlad. When Queen Victoria was married quantity was in demand rather than elegance of design. Over a hundred cakes were made, and after the wedding was over hundreds of choppers were engaged under the head of the chief clerk of the kitchen in cutting the cakes to pieces and putting them into danty boxes, which were forwarded to the master of the household. This functionary in his turn distributed them, in accordance with a list furnished him by Lord Chamberlain, to her majesty's messengers, who bore them to the various courts of Europe and other high places where a piece of cake was expected on this occasion.

Messrs. Buzzard, the fashionable cake-maker of London, made for the Princess Beatrice a fine specimen of their art, for which the royal lady made her own choice of flowers. Among these were lilies and passion flowers in great confusion. Touches of color were given to these decorations, but every ounce of them was made of pure, edible sugar, and was intended to be eaten. Some confectioners use a composition over muslin for their flowers, but Buzzard prides himself upon using only sugar. As in everything else, there is always a desire for novelty. All the fine cakes made during the last year were decorated with natural flowers. Procelain cups perforated at the top were filled with water, and in this the stem of the flowers were placed

The most remarkable cakes ever made were among the gifts at the jubilee celebration. The finest of these stood 13 feet high, weighed a quarter of a ton and cost $1,500. Another figured at the wedding of the Arctic explorer, Admiral Markham. On the top was a sugar model of H. M. S. Alert, wedged in the center of an iceberg.

A wedding cake once made for the Duke of Albany, stood six feet high and weighed 200 pounds. It was decorated with a chain of reading cupids, in compliment to his royal highness' literary taste. The Marchioness of Lorne's cake, though not so high, weighed 300 pounds and bore on its summit a replica of a famous piece of statuary. The Duke of York's cake was made in the royal kitchens at Windsor. Five weeks were expended over it and the decorations were magnificent. They reproduced episodes in the life of the sailor prince. It was six feet ten inches high and weighed 300 pounds. The Princess Maud's was decorated with wreaths of flowers and tinted to match nature. All except the leaves were edible.

GOOD SALESMEN SCARCE.

Some New York Merchants Think That All Competent Drummers Have Jobs.

Have all the good salesmen jobs? This question is worrying many business men in New York, says the Sun of recent date. Some merchants were discussing the subject the other day. Said one, "I have a good line, the facilities to execute orders and I spend some money for advertising, yet a good salesman is indispensable to my success. Try as I will I cannot get men who put their heart in their work. I myself have not the eloquence nor the persuasive powers necessary to a drummer, but I never go on the road without coming back with more orders than any traveler ever brought to me."

A paper dealer, who does a very large business, serving some customers with as much as a carload of paper a day, had been listening.

"I am afflicted with the same trouble," he said. "My best salesman is myself. I have tried all sorts of men and have lost more money in salaries to incompetent drummers than to bad debts. I have about given up hope."

"It does my heart good to hear that you have the same experience which worries me." A third man began thus and heaved a great sigh. "I have interviewed applicants of all ages and nationalties who answered my many advertisements.

"Scarcely one but asks about the salary before he knows what goods he is required to sell. I have put on men who looked like church deacons and some who resembled racetrack touts, in the hope that one might prove desirable.

"I have paid liberal salaries and commissions and have given the men every opportunity and encouragement, but I'm rapidly coming to your way of thinking, that all the good men have jobs."

Motor Cars for Jewels.

"Many people are selling their jewels just now to buy motor cars," is the statement made by the manager of a well-known jewelry establishment. "Others are buying automobiles instead of diamonds," he went on. "The money spent on the purchase of a Panhard or a Mercedes lessens the amount available for other luxuries. One can buy imitation pearls, you know, but small satisfaction can be obtained from riding an imitation Mors. Fine jewels, by the way, are very scarce at present. It is very difficult to obtain a ruby of the finest water or a flawless emerald. Americans have such a way of acquiring the costliest stones.—London Mail.

SPORTING NEWS

DIAMOND DUST.

The Clinton Avenue baseball team which made such an excellent record last year, is now preparing to place just as strong an aggregation on the diamond this year. Games will be scheduled with the best nines in the state.

Manager Lapsley, of the Plainfield High School baseball team, has begun work on his schedule already, and will undoubtedly have a list of games which will do credit to the school. Several teams, which the school has not played since the year 1898, when a crack nine represented the school, have been written to, and it is expected that favorable replies will be received. Games have been arranged with Pingry School, with which the local school usually concludes the season. For several years, the Elizabeth school has played its "commencement game" with the P. H. S., and the same date will hold good for this season. Another game with Pingry will be played on the local grounds early in the season. Arrangements have been successfully concluded with Manager Woolston for the use of the Crescent Oval for all games and for practice. With this field to play their games on, the school offered to get the best scholastic teams in the State on its schedule, and Lapsley has several drawing cards, which he has not yet announced. Negotiations will probably be made with the largest prep schools in the State, and among the possibilities on Lapsley's schedule are several college freshmen teams.

BASKET BALL.

The following will be the lineup in the Whittier School-Plainfield High School second teams in the game for the championship of the Juvenile league: Whittier — Woodhull and Fountain, guards; Alpaugh, center; Briggs and Loughlin, guards; P. H. S. seconds—Doane and Mackay, forwards; Caldwell, center; Lambert, Leggett and Freeman, guards.

The championship cups in the two basketball leagues, which have been playing under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., have been placed on exhibition at the office of the physical director. The larger one, which is for the interscholastic championship, to be decided between Leal's and the Plainfield High School, stands about ten inches in height. The other cup, which will be competed for by the Whittier and P. H. S. second teams tomorrow afternoon is the gift of Moralier & Son.

BASKET BALL.

A practice game of basketball between the Plainfield High school seconds and the North Plainfield High school team yesterday afternoon resulted in a victory for the borough school by the score of 19 to 5r The line-up was as follows: P. H. S seconds, Caldwell and Doane, forwards; Mackay, center: Freeman and Lambert, guards. N. P. H. S, Munday and Hand, forwards; Steiner, center; Webster and Peacock, guards.

Paul Collier's team was successful in the inter-association league basket ball game against the team captained by Stryker Hoagland at the Y. M. C. A. last night, the score being 16 to 11. Collier's goal shooting won the game for his team. He threw five goals. The line up was as follows: Collier's team—Shepherd and Caleen, forwards; Collier, center; Jacot and Gilmore, guards. Hoagland's team—Mundy and Hawk, forwards; Dike, center; Koons and Hoagland, guards

POLITICAL CHAT.

Mr. Horner has introduced in the State Senate a bill empowering juries rendering a first-degree murder verdict to stipulate that the punishment shall be life imprisonment. Mr. Illery has introduced a bill annexing Stanhope, in Sussex County, to Morris County. This bill is likely to invoke considerable opposition, as Sussex is already one of the smallest counties in the State in point of population. In the House these bills have been introduced: Mr. Elvins—Exempting from taxation mortgages upon properties where the properties themselves are already exempt. Mr. Gibbs—Prohibiting the running of automobile on any public highway at a greater speed than twenty miles an hour and fixing the penalty at $20 fine or ten days in jail or both. Mr. Lehlbach—Fixing the salary of sheriffs in first-class counties at $10,000.

Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, of Hoboken, who was given the solid Democratic vote in the Legislature for United States Senator a week ago, tendered a dinner to the Democratic members of both houses at Trenton Monday night and during the course of the affair, President Cross of the Senate was severely scored in a speech for his treatment of the minority in making up the committees. Senator Price, of Sussex, in the course of his speech, charged that President Cross had acted with the greatest injustice in assigning the Democratic members of the Senate to committees. He claimed that the minority had been given representation only on the most unimportant committees, while leading committees, in which the Democrats were entitled, to at least one member, had all been made up of Republicans. He said that such partisanship had not been shown in years and that it was a shame and a disgrace to the Republican party of the State.

THROWN FROM SLEIGH.

Mrs. Harry L. Hall, of Woodland Avenue, In An Accident.

There was a lively runaway on Park avenue, this morning, when Mrs. Harry L. Hall, of Woodland avenue, and her coachman, who were in a sleigh, narrowly escaped serious injury. Mrs. Hall had just entered the sleigh, and her dog frightened the horse. Mrs. Hall and the coachman were thrown out near Fifth street, but neither one was injured.

At the corner of Sixth street and Park avenue, the rig collided with George Christiansen's garbage wagon, rigged upon runners. There was a general upset and the cans and garbage generally scattered, while the cutter was overturned and wrecked. The horse broke away from the sleigh, but stopped after going a few feet. A cab was summoned and Mrs. Hall was taken home. She suffered more or less from a nervous shock.

Committed for Vagrancy.

Arraigned on a charge of vagrancy, Fred Marquette was sent to jail for thirty days by Judge Runyon, this morning. He has been without a home and friends for a long time and while he is serving the sentence, arrangements will be made to place him somewhere permanently.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Junior Auxiliary will meet at St. Stephen's church Saturday afternoon.

St. Ann's Guild, of St. Stephen's church, will meet at 731 East Second street, this afternoon at 2:30.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue church will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

"God, the Permanent Element of Life" will be the topic of the prayer-meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight.

The annual election of officers of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will be held on Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The regular covenant meeting will be held at the First Baptist church on Friday night and on Sunday morning the communion will be held.

In observance of the Feast of the Purification there will be Holy Communion at St. Stephen's church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The women of the Park Avenue Baptist church held a prayer meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. K. Compton, 31 Duer street.

The thirtieth anniversary of Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough's elevation to the bishropic of New Jersey will be observed at the Episcopal residence in Trenton tomorrow.

The members of the Park Avenue Baptist church and congregation will give a reception to the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, and wife, in the church parlers tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

"Heroes of Foreign Missions: What They Teach Us," will be the topic of the Christian Endeavor meeting at Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night. Miss Elizabeth VanWinkle will be the leader.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will on Friday night conduct the third of the missionary classes in the study of Japan. These classes are becoming exceedingly interesting. They will continue for two months under the leadership of W. D. Murray, Miss Julia Scribner and Henry J. Cochrane. All members of the congregation are invited to take part in these classes.

"The Mission Field," published monthly by the Mission Boards of the Reformed church in America, has this to say about the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, in its February issue: "The Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, Plainfield, has originated a plan to incite a new interest in this department of work, which we pass along, hoping it may prove helpful to other societies. Views of the scenery of the countries comprising the mission fields of the Reformed church, together with pictures of the mission buildings and portraits of our missionary periodicals, are mounted on sheets of heavy gray pasteboard 11¼x14¼ inches. Grouping on one, pictures of natives, homes, etc., with those of the pioneer missionaries in that country, if available; and on other sheets similar views of each station occupied by our Board. On the back of each of these sheets is pasted any printed information concerning the views or of the station or work as seems most desirable. Each set of sheets is then grouped by countries and tied loosely with ribbon, and becomes, when finished, a most interesting object-lesson and compilation of information that will not be readily lost."

razor, knife or a piece of glass. He was followed by Marshal Smalley, who told the story of the fight almost as he had done in his own case, except that he declared emphatically that he had seen Flack stabbed by Tunstall. Special Marshal Klein said that he had seen Flack stabbed and when asked, "what happened then?" he replied that he was stabbed himself. In the previous trial any testimony about stabbing where it was not directly connected with the officer named in the indictment, was not admitted, but this statement of Klein's was allowed.

Continuing his story when court opened this morning, Klein said he first came on the scene when he heard a marshal's whistle for help and ran up Somerset street to Craig place. He was positive that it was Tunstall who had stabbed Flack. The clothes worn by Flack at the time were put in evidence, with the blood clots and cuts showing plainly.

When placed on the stand, Marshal Flack said he had been attracted to the colored men by their disorderly conduct at Somerset street and Lincoln place and that he was about half a block behind them when placed under arrest by Smalley. When Smalley called for assistance he hurried forward and seeing that trouble was ahead, he blew his whistle and Chief Weiss responded. The latter ordered Flack to place handcuffs on Tems and he was leaning over him to do this when he was stabbed in the back. At the time he was wearing a heavy police coat, an overcoat, cardigan jacket, vest shirt and two woolen undershirts, the knife blade penetrating all these before it entered his body, showing that it must have been driven with terrific force. The prosecution laid stress on this fact to bear out the second part of the indictment, "with intent to kill."

As Flack concluded, Alfred Tranchand was placed on the stand to verify the time of the occurrence after which court adjourned until this afternoon. The testimony will not be heard fully until tomorrow and it will probably be late tomorrow afternoon before the case goes to the jury.

MRS. DISBROUGH DEAD.

Passed Away This Noon at the Age of Eighty-Two Years.

Following an illness which began last fall, Mrs. Miles Disbrough, widow of the late Daniel Disbrough, died at her home on Central avenue, this noon. Death was due to a complication of troubles. Mrs. Disbrough was in her eighty-second year and had been a resident of Plainfield for a long time, for many years conducting a large boarding house on East Front street, east of Watchung avenue.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary Sutphen, the mother of the late Dr. Sutphen, who was at one time mayor of the city. Mrs. Sutphen is also very ill in the same house, the sisters being cared for by their niece, Mrs. E. M. Hull.

Mrs. Force's Ninetieth Birthday.

Mrs. Mary L. Force, one of the eldest members of the local Hicksite Society of Friends and the mother of A. L. Force, is quietly celebrating her ninetieth birthday today at her home in Watchung avenue. Despite her advanced years she possesses general good health. Her children, grandchildren, nephews, nieces and immediate neighbors called to offer congratulations and to wish her "many happy returns of the day." She received numerous remembrances in the way of flowers, fruit and other suitable presents.

This is Snow Joke.

A facetious North Plainfield wag has made capital out of a huge snow drift that towers high above the sidewalk in front of W. W. Dunn's store on Lincoln place. Attached to a stick protruding from the top is a large card bearing the following: "This bank is closed; waiting for the sun to make the run." The "notice" has attracted lots of attention while the nearby residents are hoping that the sun will soon follow up.

Euchre Party in Borough.

In honor of Mrs. Staats and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Norman Staats, of Chicago, who are visiting them, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Emmons, of Prospect place, gave a euchre party, last night, for a number of friends. Mrs. Norman Staats won the first prize for the women, and Marcus Hoyt the first prize for the men. Supper was served after the play.

Infant Boy Dead.

Wesley Albert Brokaw, infant son of Wesley R. and Albertine A. Brokaw, died this morning at the home of the parents, 249 East Front street, aged five months, two weeks and four days. Notice of funeral will be given later.

AMPLE CASH RESERVES

Former Mayor A. Gilbert's Address Before Bank Clerks.

IN NEW YORK CITY

Money Withdrawn From Circulation and Held as Reserve Reaches its Highest Efficiency, Says He.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of West Eighth street, president of the Market and Fulton Bank in New York, has received much favorable notice from banking journals on his address on bank reserves delivered in New York last week. The Commercial and Financial World gives this account of the address:

"One of the ablest addresses on the ever important question of bank reserves that has been delivered in this locality for some time was that by Mr. Alexander Gilbert, president of the Market and Fulton National Bank, given before the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Bank Clerks within the past week. Throughout financial circles the address has caused much discussion, and its author has been the recipient of much congratulation for his thoughtful and painstaking effort. The address undoubtedly will be productive of much good.

"Mr. Gilbert is of the firm opinion that the present average percentage of cash reserves in all the banking institutions, including trust companies, of this city, is much below the figure demanded by the necessity of preparing for all possible contingencies. His address was such as to prove to the satisfaction of those who heard it that his opinion in the matter is correct.

"In his opening remarks Mr. Gilbert showed the importance of credit—a thing absolutely necessary if business is to be conducted. In speaking of the country's commerce he said: 'When you consider how important it is that this flow of commodities and credits be not checked you will realize how important it is that the bank officer be able to detect whatever threatens to disturb it. Over-production, over-trading, over-speculation, these are the principal disturbing factors that threaten it. In prosperous times, the average American constantly tends toward speculation.'

"Mr. Gilbert called attention to the fact that a panic is not seen approaching from afar, but rather it comes like a bolt out of a clear sky. No one can discover the exact moment at which credit has become strained to the breaking point, although a tendency may be realized. When these panics drop down upon the country with such little warning only strong bank reserves can stop the ruin from spreading. Mr. Gilbert declared that money withdrawn from circulation and held as reserve reaches its highest efficiency, which is a refutation of the argument advanced by the trust companies against their being compelled by law to maintain a certain reserve. He stated it as his belief that every institution authorized by law to receive deposits and use them for its own profit should be required by law to carry its share of reserve as a protection to the finances of the country against extraordinary strain. He declared also that in his opinion trust companies, to the extent that they do a general banking business, should be compelled to carry a pro rata share of the banking reserve.

"In his opinion panics are bound to appear from time to time, although one might not come for years. And he is afraid that as matters stand now the banking institutions of New York are not prepared to meet one. He thought the vital question to be would the banks, when the time of trouble comes, issue Clearing House certificates in sufficient volume to save both themselves and the institutions not carrying reserves.

"Probably no man in the city is better able to speak on this exceedingly important topic than Mr. Gilbert. He has had years of experience in conducting financial institutions and understands as few men do all the intricate questions involved in modern money problems. He has been connected in an official capacity with the Market and Fulton National Bank for forty years and for the past eight years has been its president. For some time he has been a member of the Clearing House Committee of the New York Clearing House Association. He is to be commended for taking such an active interest in questions that involve the entire financial world."

CHAUNCEY B. KOONS BOWLING CHAMPION

WINS ANNUAL Y. M. C. A. EVENT WITH LOW AVERAGE.

Chauncey B. Koons, captain of the Y. M. C. A. bowling team, and president of the bowling organization, is the winner of the individual championship, which has recently been completed, and will be presented with a handsome medal. The last bowling in the tournament took place last night.

Koons' bowling was characterized by his usual steadiness, though the scores were all lower than in former years. Having concluded the individual tournament arrangements are being made for a team tournament among association members, and for a handicap individual tourney. These events will not take place at present however. Two medals will probably be offered for the handicap match.

The averages in the individual championship tournament were as follows: C. B. Koons, 147; Wiltse, 142; Morris Sutphen, 141; Frank A. Neal, 138; Jeffries, 132; Beisel, 124; French, 123; Dayton, 104. These are the averages of six games. Sutphen's score was not up to his usual standard and to the score by which he won the trophy last year. Neal had a poor start, though he improved toward the end. The highest individual score was 176, made by Jeffries.

WHITTIER SCHOOL WINS JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP

CAPTAIN BRIGGS' WORK INFLUENTIAL IN SECURING MORALLER CUP.

Whittier School is the holder of the Junior scholastic basketball championship, its team winning that title in the final game of the season in the Juvenile basketball league at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, by defeating the second team of the Plainfield High School. The victory was a decisive one and was accomplished by better all round playing, team work, and individual excellence included. By winning this game the Whittier School has secured permanently the possession of the silver cup offered by Moraller & Son.

At the end of the first half the score was 7 to 6. The victory and championship was won largely through the work of the captain, William Briggs, who, in spite of a lame shoulder, made 11 out of the 17 points. Woodhull was also strong, while the entire team played together well.

It was an exciting contest and was watched by an enthusiastic gallery. All knew that the result of the league and the junior cup winner was to be determined by the match, and the cheering on both sides was inspiring. Doane, of the P. H. S. team, played a strong game, as did also Caldwell, but the guarding was too loose, and the High School boys were unable to shoot goals.

This was the lineup: Whittier School—Briggs and Loughlin, forwards; Alpaugh, center; Fountain and Woodhull, guards. P. H. S.—Doane and Caldwell, forwards; Mackay, center; Lambert and Freeman, guards. Goals from the field—Briggs, 3; Woodhull, 2; Doane, 2; Loughlin, Lambert and Caldwell. Goals from fouls—Briggs, 5; Doane. Referee—Paul R. Collier. Umpire—Francis K. Anderson.

Studies of Japan.

At the meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of the church, the devotional exercises were led by Mrs. Reuben Knox, who presided. "The Religions of Japan" were treated by Mrs. Walter M. McGee and a paper on "The Influence of Buddhism on Home Life" was read by Mrs. Flanders. Another paper on current events was given by Mrs. Charles H. Smith.

$500 to Remove the Snow.

The Board of Freeholders has completed the work of clearing the roads in the county districts of the county, exclusive of those portions in Plainfield, Elizabeth, Rahway, Summit and other places where this work is taken care of by the municipalities. The Board estimates that the expense to the county of removing this surplus snow from the roadways will amount to $500.

MR. WIGHTMAN EXPLAINS

Tells Why Teachers Are Ineligible to Tenure System.

CHAMPIONS PLAN

Permanent Tenure, Says He, is a Reward of Exceptional Merit and is Opposed to Union Methods.

With reference to the report of the North Plainfield Board of Education meeting Monday night, at which it was stated by Superintendent Wightman during the discussion of tenure of office for teachers that of "the present corps of thirty-six, but six were eligible for the permanent list were it established," Mr. Wightman spoke as follows to a Daily Press reporter today:

"The conclusion was drawn in Tuesday's Daily Press that the teachers of North Plainfield must be inefficient because only six of the thirty-six teachers were at the present time eligible to be placed upon the proposed permanent list. All but four of these thirty-six teachers are either Normal School or college graduates or both. Two of the four are special teachers and trained for their work and the other two have had long and satisfactory experience. Do these facts speak for incompetency?

"There are thirteen new teachers this year, or teachers who have been in the local schools less than one year. One year ago there were also thirteen new teachers. This at once makes more than two-thirds of the North Plainfield teachers disqualified for the permanent list, as one of the requirements for eligibility to that list demands at least two years of service in North Plainfield. Then please deduct six who are at present eligible and the four who are not Normal School or college graduates, and where is the incompetency?

"It can rest only in inexperience; but the larger part of this two-thirds of the teaching force have had from three to seven years of successful experience in other school systems. The only weakness rests in the fact that such a large percentage of the North Plainfield teachers change their position every year, and it is to overcome this very weakness that permanent tenure for the most competent teachers is urged. The conditions for eligibility have been made very severe.

"Permanent tenure tends to remove teaching from political jobbery. Is this desirable? When there are yearly changes of members of Boards of Educations, and occassionally a man is chosen whose civic conscience is smothered by interests foreign to education excellence and advancement, there is necessarily uncertainity; and occasionally such conditions exist that the most capable teachers (those sought after by all progressive communities) will not remain. In actual experience there is no difficulty in retaining inefficient teachers, but they are without the realm of permanent tenure.

"Permanent tenure is a reward of exceptional merit and as such as diametrically opposed to labor union methods. I do not hesitate to champion permanent tenure, because I believe existing conditions make it desirable. The name is misleading. Permanent tenure applies only to the most competent, and requires approval of Superintendent, Teachers' Committee, and Board before a teacher can be placed on the list and the tenure holds only so long as the teacher's work, conduct and health are satisfactory."

Operation Proves Fatal.

Mrs. James Richardson, of Martinsville, who had numerous relatives in the city and borough and was very well known locally, died Tuesday in the Somerville hospital, following an operation. She leaves one son and is survived by three sisters, Mrs. James Beekman, of Martinsville; Mrs. Thomas Todd, of Dunellen and Mrs. Samuel Richardson, of Linden avenue, the borough; also a brother, Judson Mundy, of Newark. The funeral will be held at her late home in Martinsville tomorrow.

Board of Trade Attractions.

This evening's meeting of the Board of Trade promises to be well attended through the special attractions that have been provided. In addition to the address to be given by F. A. Gave Third Piano Recital.

The pupils of Miss F May Grant gave their third piano recital at her home on East Seventh street, Tuesday evening. They acquitted themselves creditably and were heard by a gathering of friends.

MAN MURDERED

George Williams, of Watchung, Killed by Stranger, While Riding in Sleigh.

HUNT FOR MURDERER

Crime Committed at Coontown—Robbery Said to be the Motive—Dead Man a Grocer.

George Williams, the well-known grocer of Watchung, was found murdered in a sleigh at Coontown, today forenoon, word of the affair reaching his home about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

This morning a stranger appeared at the grocery store and hired Mr. Williams to drive him to Mr. Pollack's home at Mt. Horeb. The trip was made in a sleigh.

When the two men reached Coontown, the stranger made an attack on Mr. Williams and before he could defend himself shot him.

It is believed that he died instantly.

The stranger then made his escape and has not been seen since.

Word of the shooting quickly spread through the township and a posse of citizens are now searching for the stranger.

The stranger was seen about Watchung during the early part of the morning but no one learned his name or his errand. It is believed that he intended to rob Mr. Williams, believing that he had a large sum of money.

After the stranger had killed Williams he tied the horse to a fence and escaped across the field.

The assailant is described as being about five feet nine inches in height, weighing about 175 pounds. He wore a slouch hat and had a light moustache.

It was near the home of John Miller at Coontown that Mr. Williams was found dead in his sleigh by a nearby resident and an alarm was given at once. The greatest excitement prevails.

Mr. Williams was forty-five years old and was a son of Peter Williams. He leaves a wife and one child.

As already stated in The Daily Press the company has purchased a large tract of ground in the East End as a site for its plant.

Mid-Year Promotions.

The mid-winter promotions at the North Plainfield schools took place yesterday and 875 pupils were advanced, a total of ninety per cent. without twenty-five more who are to be examined next week. The attendance at the schools the past week has been excellent despite the snow storm and the usual prevalence of grip. At the present time there are 161 High School pupils enrolled, an increase of twenty-five over last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Seader Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Seader, of Race street, who were married Sunday, entertained the former's hackmen associates at their home last evening. During the festivities the bride and groom were presented with a handsome chair. Mrs. Seader was formerly Miss Jennie Martin, of Harmony street, and the ceremony was performed in New York.

Miss Elizabeth Day, of East Fourth street, is entertaing Miss Charlotte Reed, of New Brunswick.

MICHAEL R. FLYNN DEAD

Well-Known Citizen Succumbs to Typhoid Fever.

AN ACTIVE DEMOCRAT

Member of Shoe Firm of Flynn Brothers—On Registry Board for Many Years.

Michael R. Flynn, one of the best known men in the city and a member of the shoe firm of Flynn Brothers, of West Front strdet, died suddenly at the home of his sister, Mrs. George McCluskey, of Berckman street, last night, from typhoid fever. He was taken ill two weeks ago, with what he thought was the grip. Early in the week his condition was considered quite favorable, but yesterday there was a change for the worse and he had several sinking spells.

Mr. Flynn was born in this city about forty years ago and has always lived here. By his genial manner he always made friends. He was a staunch Democrat and was active politically. He was a member of St. Mary's church and was identified with the T. A. B. Society, having joined when the Catholic Cadets disbanded to form the other organization.

Mr. Flynn was a member of old Warren Engine Company No. 3, when the departments of the city and borough were under one head and he was an assistant chief for some time. He was also a member of the Exempt Firemen's Association.

Mr. Flynn always took a lively interest in city, county, State and National affairs and was well informed in political affairs. For nearly fifteen years he was a faithful and efficient member of the city Board of Registry and Election in the Fourth ward. While he was active in politics he never sought office, although these honors had been offered him.

Several years ago he and his brother, Peter Flynn, Jr., engaged in the retail shoe business on West Front street. He is survived by a father, Peter Flynn, Sr., a brother, Peter Flynn, Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. George McCluskey, of Berckman street, and Mrs. Robert Gardner, of Watchung avenue.

Loyal Legion Banquet.

The quarterly meeting and banquet of the New York Commandery, Military Order Loyal Legion, was held at Delmonico's, New York, last night. Among the members present were Captain S. C. Peck, Dr. F. S. Wells, M. C. Dobbins and Walter C. Dobbins, of this city. After the banquet Gen. Wilson, who was second in command during the Boxer uprising in China, made an address telling of affairs in the Far East. He was followed with short addresses by the first secretary of the Russian Legation at Washington, and Dr. Duffield, of New York.

Concert Again Postponed.

The concert which was to have been given at the home of Mrs. Chapman Fisk last week by Miss Harriette Cady, and which was postponed on account of the storm, cannot be held this week owing to Mrs. Fisk's illness. Announcement of the date will be made soon and tickets purchased will be good at that time.

Miss Burdick Weds Mr. Brunn.

Miss Cora M. Burdick and James Brunn, both of this city, were married last night by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, at his home on Grandview avenue. The couple was accompanied by a small company of friends. The bride is an active member of Warren chapel. The groom is a machinist employed in this city.

Union County Chess Rally.

A rally of the chess players of Union County will be held in the rooms of the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club, Dix building, No. 206 Broad street, Elizabeth, Thursday night, February 9, at 8 o'clock.

To Speak to Women.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the Crescent Avenue church, will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock in the church parlors. Miss Hughes will speak in the interests of the New Jersey Academy at Logan, Utah.

Suffered Paralytic Stroke.

Isaac Gidden, a well known Dunellen resident, was stricken with paralysis yesterday, while visiting his son, Dr. E. A. Gidden, of Grove street. The stroke affects both of his sides but the attending physician does not consider it serious.

—Fancy oranges and fancy grape fruit form part of a big display at Neuman Brothers. The quality is of the best while the prices are always as low as can be had in the city.

"FAUST" WELL REGEIVED AT SECOND PERFORMANCE

LOCAL TALENT WINS APPLAUSE IN MR. WALDMANN'S PRODUCTION.

Eduard Waldmann's production of Goethe's drama, "Faust," scored another success at the second performance given last night at the Casino under the auspices of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M. Equally well acted and staged, though not so largely attended as the first performance, the production was vivid.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldmann received their usual applause, and the supporting company continued efficient. Perhaps the feature of the production was the electrical effects, which were the most elaborate that have ever been produced at the Casino. Since its enlargement, the Casino stage served well for the drama, and the scenes were complete in every respect. The light effects were in no way crude, and added much to the success of the affair.

The acting was even more perfect last night than at the initial performance, which was virtually the dress rehearsal. The amateurs displayed an ease of manner on the stage and an adaption to their parts which made the play a finished one. The music last night, as on the first night, was furnished by Harold Cook and A. W. Mosher.

NOMINEES WOULD STAVE OFF SPECIAL ELECTION

REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC ASSEMBLYMAN CANDIDATES MAY WITHDRAW.

A final effort is to be made to stave off the special Assembly election in Sussex County to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Assemblyman-elect Jackson R. Decker, of Sparta, which is set down for February 7. An agreement has been reached by the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties, whereby both the nominees, Joseph Coult, Jr., and Lewis S. Iliff, have agreed to withdraw if it is possible to do so.

The sentiment about the county is very strongly against the holding of the election, regardless of party affiliation, because of the expense involved, which the county, in view of the present financial straits and exhausted election appropriation, cannot afford.

A prominent politician, represented to be in close touch with the situation, actually expressed his belief yesterday that in all probability the special election would not take place.

BOWEN TO RETURN.

United States Minister Wants Relations With Venezuela Severed.

Despatches received from Caracas at the State Department at Washington yesterday from Minister Bowen, a brother of H. E. Bowen, of this city, indicate that the rupture with Venezuela which President Roosevelt has been trying to stave off until after Congress adjourns is imminent.

Mr. Bowen's patience is at last exhausted, and he has recommended that he be recalled, and that diplomatic relations with Venezuela be severed. He says that the attitude of the Castro Government remains uncompromising to the last degree, and that he can see no encouraging indication of a peaceable settlement of the American claims. He advises that force be applied as the only means of bringing President Castro to terms, and that, as the first step, a formidable naval demonstration be at once made at La Guayra, the port of Caracas.

Another Railroader to Live Here.

Frederick Sherman, superintendent of telegraph on the New Jersey Central, has leased Armstrong Mulford's home on Westervelt avenue, and will move here with his family within a short time. Mr. Sherman is now living in Elizabeth. This change will add to the already large number of railroad officials who are now living in Plainfield.

New Brunswick Club's Dance.

A large number of Plainfielders have received invitations for the dance to be given by the New Brunswick Bicycle Club on Wednesday, February 15. The affair will be the largest which the club has yet conducted, over seven hundred invitations having been issued.

SECOND TRIAL CONCLUDED

Jury Now Deliberating on Evidence in Flack Case.

DEFENSE SCORES

Lawyers Making Hard Fight and Understood Charles A. Reed is to Aid Prosecution in Third Case.

From the time that the first witness was placed on the stand yesterday afternoon until the case went to the jury this afternoon, the defending counsel for the four negroes charged with assault with intent to kill upon Marshal Joseph Flack have been making one of the strongest fights of the term in the Somerset County court. This is particularly evident with Attorney William G. DeMeza, who is appearing for Hunt and Tunstall and who secured the former's acquittal on the first indictment, that of assault on Marshal Smalley. Yesterday DeMeza gained two important points, first by getting Marshal Joseph Flack in cross examination to admit that so far as he knew Samuel Hunt had taken no part in the fight and second, in refusing to allow Tunstall to go on the stand, it being understood that he was the chief aggressor in the battle with the policemen. Tunstall was anxious to go on and the prosecution believed it would have an opportunity to attack his story. It was generlay conceded about the Court House today that the legal battle maintained by DeMeza, for Hunt and Tunstall; Winfield S. Angleman for Henderson and S. S. Swackhamer for Tems has been conducted in a surprisingly aggressive way and that the prosecution has gone to extremes that were not at first anticipated.

Hunt was the only witness placed on the stand yesterday afternoon and he repeated his story of the occurrence almost the same as he had done under the Smalley indictment. He asserted that when Smalley first caught hold of Tems, he was standing to one side with a box of oysters in one hand, a cane in the other and a lunch box swung over his shoulder. He was still standing in this position, he said, when Marshal Smalley placed him under arrest. He denied participating in the fight or having anything to do with it, although he had been with the crowd all along.

The point of the day for Hunt was secured when Marshal Flack was put under rapid-fire cross examination by Attorney DeMeza and stated that Hunt did not have anything to do with the fight. In testimony given previously Chief Weiss, who came upon the battle after it was in progress, declared that Hunt had taken part in it.

The defense scored another point when a question was put on cross examination to Harry Hennett by Mr. Swackhamer. The witness had detailed the occurrence minutely from the beginning to the end. While he was being cross examined by Mr. Swackhamer he was asked the question, "Did you see the very beginning of the affray?"

Ans.—"Yes."

Q—"Did you see Officer Smalley step out and seize James Tems?"

Ans.—"Yes."

Q—"Is it not a fact that the instant he seized him he beat him over the head with his club?"

Ans.—"Yes, sir."

The prosecution was thrown into confusion and asked the privilege of questioning the witness as to whether he had not made a different statement to the assistant prosecutor. Mr. Swackhamer objected and said the State was not entitled to impeach its own witnesses. The objection was sustained. A motion was made by Swackamer requesting the court to discharge James Tems on the ground that he had not been shown to have made any assault upon Officer Flack as the witness of the State had herein admitted that he did not make such an attempt. Mr Angleman made a similar motion for Henderson and the argument on these motions was heard this morning but they were not granted.

In the summing up this morning, each of the three defending lawyers were allowed twenty minutes and the prosecution an hour. The court adjourned until 1:15 this afternoon. Judge Schenck's charge was given and the jury retired shortly before 3 o'clock.

The third indictment is one of assault with intent to kill on Marshal J. William Klein. Former Senator Charles A. Reed was at the morning session and it was declared that he is to aid the prosecution in the concluding case. A large number of photographs of Somerset street, where the fight took place, will probably be used this afternoon.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

J. J. Leahy, the Richmond street plumber, has the reputation for doing the best work. Give him a trial when in need of anything in his line.

For anything in the men's furnishing goods line go to O. M. Dunham's store in Park avenue. He keeps a full line of men's goods at popular prices.

Mehrten's candy is the finest, whether loose or in boxes. Always fresh, the supply of choice chocolates and bon bons cannot be excelled at any store.

In order to close out its present stock, the Belleview Nursery is selling all its trees, plants and shrubbery at unusually low prices. Better place your order at once.

John Herrmann, the Somerset street stair builder, would be pleased to call and furnish estimates to anyone desiring work of this nature. He can be reached by 'phone or postal.

Specials in the best brands of cigars are always to be had at J. P. Kirch's North avenue smokers' emporium. He buys them in large lots and is thus enabled to give his patrons the benefit of a low price.

Putnam & DeGraw, the West Front street dry goods merchants, have received an attractive line of white goods at popular prices. The firm has a complete stock of dry goods and asks for a share of your patronage.

Timbo's restaurant on North avenue is an ideal place to secure a light lunch or a full meal. The menus are varied every day and popular prices are a feature. When hungry drop in and you will be more than pleased.

Provisions, groceries, meats of all kinds, are sold at Callahan & Son's at the most reasonable prices. The stock is fresh and plentiful, but only the best grades of goods are carried. Orders promptly and properly attended to.

D. G. Atwood, the popular dentist, will save you an immense amount of trouble and expense. Go to him when your teeth first start to bother you, and after a free consultation he will make the necessary operations for the lowest prices.

When you have the grip or any other ailment go to L. W. Randolph's West Front street pharmacy, for drugs and medicines. His celebrated grip tablets effect a cure quickly and the medicines and prescription work are the very best.

When considering the subject of new clothes don't forget the Boston Cloak and Fur Company. Now that the winter is half over, you can get the best bargains in furs at the Boston store. All the latest in furs of all kinds are reasonably sold.

Don't go to New York to get your furniture when you can supply your entire house with the most stylish furniture from Powlison & Jones'. The local firm has all the grades which you will find at one of the biggest New York stores, and can fit you out with sets for any room in your house.

The Mack, Scudder Grocery Co.'s store on Park avenue and Fourth street, is headquarters for the very best canned and bottled goods, fancy fruits and vegetables, teas and coffees and staple articles. The firm's delivery service is unexcelled and they ask simply a trial order to show what they can do.

LITERARY.

The announcements for the March Red Book promise a most attractive issue of that attractive magazine. Among the authors whose names will appear are William Hamilton Osborne, Elizabeth Starr Chetfield, E. F. Stearns, Wilbur D. Nesbit, Una Hudson, Neil Munro, Constance Morris, Roy E. Norton, Harriet A. Nash, Julia Truitt Bishop and several others equally well known.

Blue Island, Ill., Jan. 14, 1901.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I have used your Cream Balm in my family for nine years and it has become my family doctor for colds in the head. I use it freely on my children. It is a Godsend to children.

Yours respectfully, J. Kimball.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I suffered greatly with catarrh and tried different remedies without effect. After using one bottle of your Cream Balm I found relief and I cannot praise too highly such a remedy.

Miss Cora Willard, Albany, N. Y.

Michael A. Hinton, of Cottage place, who has been confined to his home for two weeks on account of grip, is able to be out again.

—In house, office, store or factory one careless or negligent employe will cost you as much as your taxes. A little firmness and a little want advertising will remedy the matter.

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark.
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL, PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

SIX SELLING RACES.

Three New Orleans Winners Were Favorites.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2.—The card at New Orleans was made up of six selling races, three favorites winning, Judge Parker and La Grecque being outsiders. Summaries:

First Race.—Wreath of Ivy, first; Esperance, second; Flora Levy, third.

Second Race.—Judge Parker, first; Gray Dpl, second; Filatory, third.

Third Race.—Lieutenant Rice, first; Mr. Jack, second; Lineal, third.

Fourth Race.—Lord French, first; Dusky, second; Roger Smith, third.

Fifth Race.—Harry New, first; Lady Mistake, second; Gracious, third.

Sixth Race.—La Grecque, first; Breaker, second; Belle Bernard, third.

Accident at Ascot.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 2.—An accident which fortunately did not result in serious injury to either jockeys or horses occurred in the first race here. Rounding the first turn there was a great deal of crowding, and in the mixup Turtle fell and Straggler, who was following, stumbled over him. Jockeys Booker and Kunz were stunned by their falls, but soon recovered. Dalvay was a prohibitive favorite for the chief race of the day and had no trouble in winning from Tim Payne and Oro Viva in the order named.

Sais Won in Gallant Style.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—There were seven starters in the handicap at Oakland. The betting was decidedly brisk between Sais, Soufriere, Military Man and Bombardier. Sais came back in gallant style and won easily. Bombardier had Minder in the saddle, and, although he rode the horse cleverly, he was unequal to the task and had to be content with third money. Military Man was again found in second position. Soufriere made a poor showing.

Want a Cup From England.

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—It was officially announced last night that the matter of challenging for the Davis cup would be taken up at the annual meeting of the United States National Lawn Tennis association in New York on Friday. The cup was won and taken to England in 1903 by the Doherty brothers.

Hooker Inquiry Next Week.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Legislative investigation into the conduct of Supreme court Justice Warren B. Hooker of Fredonia in connection with appointments and rental transactions concerning the postoffices at Fredonia and Dunkirk will begin next week. The assembly by a practically unanimous vote directed its judiciary committee, of which Assemblyman Robert J. Fish of Madison county is chairman, "to inquire and fully investigate in regard to the truth of the accusations against" Justice Hooker, including the general question of the "fitness of said Warren B. Hooker to hold the high office of justice of the supreme court."

Alleged Mafia Italian Sentenced.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 2.—Santo Carasiro, the first of the fourteen alleged Mafia of Carbondale indicted for various crimes which terrorized the Italian colony of that city for six months past, was convicted of highway robbery and carrying concealed weapons. Presiding Judge Edwards sentenced him to five years and nine months' imprisonment, the extreme penalty.

Alderman Havenor Guilty.

MILWAUKEE, Mich., Feb. 2.—Former Alderman Charles S. Havenor was last night adjudged guilty of bribery by a jury in the circuit court. Mr. Havenor was charged with accepting a bribe in connection with a special privilege ordinance. Havenor is president of the Milwaukee Baseball club of the American association. Other counts are pending against him.

Members Had a Set-to.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 2.—Representatives Thomas B. Collier and Albert Benham, both of Shelby county's legislative delegation, had a personal encounter in the corridor of the capitol here. The clash was the result of a misunderstanding over a Memphis bill. After a few blows friends interfered. Mr. Benham later apologized to the house.

Appointments Confirmed by Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The senate was in executive session and confirmed the following postmasters: Massachusetts—Lawrence W. Dower, East Hampton. New York—Henry Gordon, Fisher's Island; James H. Smith, Franklinville; Charles H. McComber, Watervliet (late West Troy). Pennsylvania—Zacharias A. Bowman, Annville.

Want a Nickel a Day Increase.

CHESTER, W. Va., Feb. 2.—A strike of 200 foreign laborers for an increase in wages of 5 cents a day has rendered the Chester plant of the American Tin Plate company idle. The management says the difficulty will soon be adjusted.

Destroyer at Santo Domingo.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The torpedo boat destroyer Stewart has arrived at Santo Domingo city. She has been assigned to duty as a small boat during the conclusion of the negotiations there relative to the protocol.

Leading Missourian Lawyer Dead.

CARROLLTON, Mo., Feb. 2.—John B. Hale, former congressman from Missouri and for many years a leading member of the bar in this state, has died suddenly here, aged seventy-four years.

General Hays' Wife Dead in Italy.

NAPLES, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Hays, wife of General Hays, died suddenly yesterday of heart failure at Caserta, near Naples.

TRAIN HIT SLEIGH.

Nine Ladies' Aid Society Members Dead.

SAD DISASTER AT HORNELLSVILLE.

Universalist Church Pleasure Party Near Arkport, N. Y., In Collision With Pittsburg Train—All Matrons Killed or Wounded.

HORNELLSVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 2.—A passenger train on the Pittsburg, Shawmut and Northern railroad last night crashed into a sleigh containing a party of thirteen women, killing nine of them and seriously injuring the remaining four. Some of the latter are in a serious condition. The accident occurred near Arkport. The sleigh was one of three carrying a party from the Universalist church of this city.

The dead are Mrs. Mary Gillette, Mrs. Charles Thomas, Mrs. Eugene Shaw, Mrs. Joseph Hallett, Mrs. C. C. Graves, Mrs. Bert Moore, Mrs. Ruth Patchen, Mrs. Coates and Mrs. F. Green.

The injured are Mrs. F. Boughton, Mrs. F. R. Rowley, Mrs. Bond and Mrs. Wallace Clark.

The members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Universalist church went to the Baldwin farmhouse, near Arkport, to spend the afternoon. It was nearly dark when they started on the return trip to the city. The occupants of the leading sleigh saw the train approaching as they neared the Shawmut crossing. The driver urged his horses ahead, and the sleigh passed over the tracks in safety. The women in the first sleigh then attempted to warn those in the one following of the danger, and they did succeed in directing their attention to the rapidly approaching train, but too late to save them from disaster.

The driver pulled up his horses, but he could not check the heavy bobsled quickly enough, and when it came to a standstill the box of the sleigh was directly across the railroad track. The pilot of the engine struck the sleigh with great force, reducing it to splinters and hurling the women in all directions. Every woman on the sleigh was killed or injured.

The other members of the party hurried back to the assistance of their unfortunate companions, and the train was stopped and backed up to the crossing. The sight was appalling. It seemed impossible that any occupant of the sleigh could have escaped death. Bodies lay alongside the track for a distance of 100 yards, and great crimson stains upon the white surface of the snow told too plainly that some of the women had received mortal injuries.

Elisha Quick, driver of the second sleigh, was badly hurt, but was able to make the following statement:

"I was driving along at a sharp canter when I suddenly saw the flash of the headlight and heard the ladies in the front sleigh call out not to attempt to cross. The women in my sleigh saw the train at the same time and, realizing their peril, began to scream and shriek for help. Their cries and the glare of the light so frightened the horses that I was unable to stop them, and they sprang upon the track. They succeeded in clearing it, but just as the sleigh was halfway across the engine struck us with a terrible crash, and I remember nothing more until I found myself being picked up out of the snow. I simply could not control my horses."

The place where the accident occurred is at the crossing of what is known as the Arkport road.

Another Mrs. Hoch Turns Up.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 2.—It is confidently believed by his employers that a man who worked in this city last year under the name of John Schultz is none other than Johann Hoch. Schultz was employed last May in a tin factory here, where all the employees have recognized the photograph of Hoch as that of Schultz. While employed here Schultz married his landlady, Mrs. Emma J. Klencke, aged fifty, got possession of her savings of about $100 and left here last July with the avowed purpose of securing an inheritance of $20,000 in Germany. Since then he has never been heard from.

Cab Drivers on Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2. — The members of the Cab and Carriage Drivers' local union No. 628 went on strike last night for a higher and uniform rate of wages. The men have been receiving from $9 to $10 a week, and they now ask for a uniform wage of $12. Officers of the union claim that 500 members are on strike.

May Be Murder Charge.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Two negroes, Chester Peters and Harry Lyons, have been arrested here and are said to have confessed that they attacked and robbed Willet Titus, a wealthy merchant of Roslyn, on Monday night. Last night Mr. Titus, who is eighty-three years old, was reported to be dying.

Lockhart Left Many Millions.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 2.—The will of Charles Lockhart, whose estate is estimated at between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000, has been probated here. After providing for members of his family and friends Mr. Lockhart bequeaths $250,000 for public benefits.

MET LITTLE FATHER

Emperor Talks to Russian Workmen Face to Face.

RIOTING TO BE MET WITH BAYONETS

Czar Will Investigate All Wrongs, and Everything Possible Will Be Done to Improve People's Condition.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 2.—Personal assurances of his intention to ameliorate the conditions and remove the causes, insofar as they are economic, which led to the recent strike, were delivered by Emperor Nicholas to a delegation of workingmen representing all the leading factories of St. Petersburg, including representatives of thirty-two of the largest industrial establishments and the Baltic and Franco-Russian shipyards, the Putiloff Iron works and the Russo-American Rubber works, who at his invitation journeyed to Tsarskoe Selo and were received in audience in the hall of the Alexander palace, where he has his winter residence.

This interview face to face with their "little father," in whom their faith has not been shaken by the events of the bloody Sunday of Jan. 22, has had a far greater and more reassuring effect than any number of proclamations by ministers and governor generals, and the workmen of St. Petersburg are now generally inclined to accept the promises of Governor General Trepoff and Finance Minister Kokovsoff at their face value.

The emperor entered the hall, accompanied by Grand Duke George Mikhailovitch, General Hesse, the minister of the imperial court and the commandant of the palace.

The workmen bowed deeply to his majesty, who said:

"Good day, my children."

The workmen replied:

"We wish your majesty good health."

The emperor then said:

"I have summoned you in order that you may hear my words from myself and communicate them to your companions. The recent lamentable events with such sad but inevitable results have occurred because you allowed yourselves to be led astray by traitors and enemies to our country.

"When they induced you to address a petition to me on your needs they desired to see you revolt against me and my government. They forced you to leave your honest work at a period when all Russian workmen should be laboring unceasingly in order that we might vanquish our obstinate enemy. Strikes and disgraceful demonstrations led the crowds to disorders which obliged and always will oblige the authorities to call out troops. As a result innocent people were victims.

"I know that the lot of the workman is not easy. Many things require improvement, but have patience.

"You will understand that it is necessary to be just toward your employers and to consider the condition of our industries. But to come to me as a rebellious mob in order to declare your wants is a crime.

"In my solicitude for the working classes I will take measures which will assure that everything possible will be done to improve their lot and secure an investigation of their demands through legal channels. I am convinced of the honesty of the workmen and their devotion to myself, and I pardon their transgression.

"Return to your work with your comrades and carry out the tasks allotted to you.

"May God assist you."

Emperor Nicholas adopted the traditional fatherly tone in his talk with the workmen. He chided them for allowing themselves to be misled into engaging in a movement imperiling the internal order of Russia and aiding the foreign foe and for attempting to demand by force what he otherwise would be willing to do voluntarily. The workmen received the royal assurances of reform with cheers and after a lunch at the imperial table returned to St. Petersburg in the best of humor to report to their fellows, as enjoined, the words of his majesty. No attempt was made by them to present their desires, which already are sufficiently evident.

A dispatch from Odessa says that Chief of Police Galovine was shot near the police station in the center of the city and was wounded in the right shoulder. The wound is not dangerous.

Chief Galovine was in a carriage when an unknown man, dressed as a workman, attempted to assassinate him. The would be murderer fled, but was captured. The bullet has not yet been extracted from Galovine's shoulder.

Like a wave caused by the falling of a stone the strike movement, however, is spreading over the great sea of Russian industrial life, and, while St. Petersburg and Moscow, where the troubles began, are now placid, the workmen of Poland and other provinces are not yet calm, and the ripple has reached to far off Irkutsk and other Siberian towns.

The current gossip to the effect that M. Bouligan, former governor of Moscow, will succeed Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky in the ministry of the interior is another straw tending to confirm the surmise that Grand Duke Sergius is the dominant influence in the grand ducal faction.

It was rumored at Warsaw last night that thousands of workmen in the extensive coal districts of Dombrova, near the frontier, will strike today. This would be extremely serious, as the mines would immediately be flooded if the pumping ceased.

Autocracy or Freedom?

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—In view of the opening of the assembly of the provincial nobility here today two drafts of resolutions are in circulation, one insisting on the absolute maintenance of the autocracy and the other asking political freedom for Russia, urging the government to make necessary changes in the laws to enable a representative assembly to be convoked and appealing to the throne to issue a manifesto assuring the country of its intention to take steps to this end, without which it will be impossible to restore tranquillity to the country.

Feared to Offend Russia.

ROME, Feb. 2.—An attempt was made by Deputy Pozatto, Republican, to induce the government to express an opinion on the motion to refer to the emperor of Russia the petition for the release of Maxim Gorky, but Foreign Minister Tittoni answered that, although a worthy sentiment had induced many deputies to sign the motion, he could not support it, as the proposal was contrary to international rules.

MRS. ROGERS' FATE.

Governor Bell Will Decide Question of Reprieve Today.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Feb. 2.—Whether Mary Mabel Rogers, now occupying the death cell at the Windsor state prison, will die on the gallows tomorrow afternoon, as ordered by the court in which she was found guilty of murdering her husband, Marcus Rogers, or be granted a reprieve while the supreme court is petitioned for a new trial, will be announced at Waterbury between 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon by Governor Bell.

Briefly, Governor Bell was asked to delay the execution until newly discovered evidence could be produced.

It was stated that important new evidence would be presented before the supreme court with a petition for a new trial. The petitioners alleged that Leon Perham, now serving a life sentence for complicity in the crime, had recently confessed that he had lied on the stand, swearing away Mrs. Rogers' life to save his own neck from the gallows; that Mrs. Rogers was an accessory rather than the principal, according to Perham's alleged confession, in which he was quoted as admitting that he and not Mrs. Rogers administered the chloroform; that there was hereditary insanity in the Rogers family, and that the physical condition of the condemned at the time the crime was committed was such as to make her mentally incapacitated.

Attorney General Fitts said that the state did not desire vengeance, but it did want "justice sure and swift." The evidence brought out at the trial was, he said, too conclusive to justify Governor Bell in granting a reprieve.

Higgins Commuted Death Sentence.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Upon the recommendation of Judges Vann and Bartlett of the court of appeals Governor Higgins has commuted to life imprisonment the sentence imposed on George A. Smith of Churchville, Monroe county, convicted of the murder of his wife in 1897. Smith is seventy-eight years old. He was convicted on circumstantial evidence. His wife was found murdered and he tied to a bed in their home. He claimed that the murder had been committed by burglars. Smith was to have been electrocuted during the week of Feb. 20.

Death of "Pittsburg Phil."

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 2.—George E. Smith, better known to the racing world and throughout the country as "Pittsburg Phil," the turf plunger, died here yesterday of consumption, aged forty-three years. "Pittsburg Phil" came to Asheville some four months ago in an almost hopeless condition. For a time he rallied, but the end was sure. His death, though expected, came suddenly. The remains have left here for Pittsburg.

Darlington Elected Bishop.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 2.—Rev. James Henry Darlington, D. D., rector of Christ church, Brooklyn, was elected bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Harrisburg on the thirteenth ballot in St. Stephen's church, this city. His election followed a speech by C. La Rue Munson of Williamsport, representing the laity, who served notice that rather than consent to a compromise the laity would move for an adjournment.

Member For Michigan Very Ill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Representative Samuel W. Smith of Michigan is ill with pneumonia at his apartments in this city. Last night he was slightly better, but his condition is considered very grave. Mrs. Smith and a son are with Mr. Smith. Three other sons, one of whom is at West Point and the other two in Michigan, have been telegraphed to come to Washington.

A Little Dispute In Georgia.

ABBEVILLE, Ga., Feb. 2.—One person was killed and five wounded as the result of a dispute with pistols over a land line near Rhine, seven miles west of this place. W. P. Livingston, bailiff, is dead. M. A. Burnham, W. B. Bryant, W. T. Bryant, Tom Coffee and Mrs. Georgia Ray were wounded.

Drove Away American Workers.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 2.—Two hundred Italians employed on the construction of Carnegie lake struck and drove away twenty Americans who wished to remain at work. The Italians have been paid $1.25 a day, but now demand $1.75. They threaten violence if an attempt is made to fill their places.

VIEWED HIS SON'S BODY.

Startling Change In Old New Yorker, Bowed Down With Grief.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Richard Croker, who has arrived here from Europe, went to Father Ducey's church on Twenty-ninth street and viewed the body of his son Frank, who was killed by the wrecking of his automobile on Ormond Beach, Fla., last week.

Mr. Croker remained in the rectory for more than two hours. It was reported that Mrs. Croker arrived at the church shortly after Mr. Croker.

Everybody knows how much the old leader thought of his two sons, Frank and Richard, and of his solicitude that they should be successful. It was expected, therefore, that he would show the marks of excessive grief when he arrived, but not even his best friends were ready for the startling change in the man who went away from here alert and vigorous; the man who, more than once, standing up before a hostile convention of his leaders, by the mere force of his courage and indomitable will reduced them to obedience.

Croker's hair has changed to pure white. He is bowed and feeble. Americans who on board the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse passed him occasionally, smoking a cigar on the deck, did not recognize him. He is the wreck of the old Dick Croker.

CAPTAIN CLADO TESTIFIES.

North Sea Commission at Paris Hears Russian Story.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—At the international commission here counsel for Great Britain severely cross examined the Russian officers who maintained their testimony about the torpedo boats.

Captain Clado explained why the Russians saw the torpedo boats and the fishermen on the trawlers did not see them, saying that the decks of the trawlers were seven feet out of the water and those of the warships forty-two. The captain caused amusement when a British agent asked him if ordinary boats were not sometimes mistaken for torpedo boats. Captain Clado replied:

"An English admiral once said, 'When you see torpedo boats advancing, fire first and inquire about the nationality afterward.'"

Captain Clado later testified that he did not see the torpedo boats sink. However, he thought the torpedo boat on the starboard side sank. The other, the captain added, was less damaged. He was ignorant as to the ultimate fate of the torpedo boats.

Captain Clado said the version of the North sea incident afforded by a Russian navy chaplain to the Novoe Vremya was erroneous.

SANDEPAS ABLAZE.

KUROPATKIN HOLDS JAPS IN CHECK

After Five Days' Battle on the Hun Czar's Army Maintains Position Near Mukden, Making Many Assaults With Big Guns.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Advices from Russian headquarters, Huan mountain, say that the five days' battle on the Hun river has yielded no palpable result, both sides practically maintaining their former positions, though it is true that at heavy cost the Russians succeeded in driving the Japanese out of their advanced positions and repelling their flanking column. The Russian cavalry proved extremely efficient. There is again a lull in the campaign, and it is possible that military operations will be suspended until the end of February.

A Tokyo dispatch says that Field Marshal Oyama reports that the Russians have bombarded his center and right wing and sent small bodies of infantry to attack the Japanese outposts, where they were repulsed. At the same time heavy Russian guns fiercely shelled Piyental and Chenchiehpao.

The Russians bombarded Chenchiehpao, Lapati and Litajentan, and two companies of infantry attacked Chenchiehpao, advancing from the south end near Peitaitzu. The Japanese repulsed them.

Field Marshal Oyama in reporting the wounding of Lieutenant General Mischtschenko, which he had learned from Russian prisoners, characterizes General Mischtschenko's attack upon the Japanese flank as a brave attempt.

Admiral Togo returns to his flagship on Feb. 6. The immediate naval plans are not disclosed.

General Kuropatkin has reported that Sandepas has been set on fire by the Russian artillery.

The Russians continue the bombardment of Sandepas, and apparently a strong force of Russians is between Sandepas and Shaksepu to check the Japanese, who seem to be trying to use their former turning movement across the Hun river.

The forward movement upon the part of the Russians seems to indicate a desire to strike soon in a desperate attempt to avenge the fall of Port Arthur. Probably the revolutionary outbreak in Russia has determined General Kuropatkin to make a desperate effort to gain a victory before the outbreak in Russia becomes known to the army.

A report from General Oku's headquarters says that Japanese field surgeons and field hospitals have accomplished a triumph, according to the chief surgeon of General Oku's army.

There have been in the entire army since the landing on May 6 only forty deaths from disease.

The figures show that up to Dec. 1 there were treated 24,642 cases of disease. Of these 40 resulted fatally, 18,578 patients recovered, 5,600 were sent to Japan, and the remainder were undergoing treatment when the figures were compiled.

It is believed that these figures are unequaled in the history of warfare.

May Stop American Boats.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 2.—There is curiosity in shipping circles at Antwerp over the arrival in a steamer from New York of ten torpedo boats which were shipped in sections by an American firm for transshipment to Sevastopol. The Japanese consul has asked his government for instructions.

Convicts Broke Jail on Locomotive.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 2.—Two convicts made a daring escape from the penitentiary here. They overpowered the engineer and fireman of a locomotive in the penitentiary yards and steamed from the grounds under fire of the guards. They ran the engine about five miles, when they abandoned it and took to the woods. One of the prisoners was serving a life sentence for murdering his father.

Cruiser Boston Free of Yellow Fever.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The following cablegram has been received at the navy department from Commander Niles of the Boston at Panama: "Marblehead to Chane bay for record target practice. Boston is announced free from infection. Danger now passed. All four cases convalescent. Lehay and Sackett go to hospital shortly. Will have record target practice, then proceed north."

Robbed Princeton Students.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 2.—A well dressed man entered University hall while the students were at dinner and, going from room to room, helped himself to jewelry and other valuables worth nearly $1,000. The chief losers were H. L. Dillon, guard on the football team, and H. R. McAlpin. Detectives are on the case, but no clew yet has been found.

Corona Sentence Commuted.

HAVANA, Feb. 2.—The cabinet has commuted the sentence of Congressman Corona, who a year ago quarreled with and shot and killed Ricardo Miranda, editor of the Insula of Santiago, for which offense Corona was sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment.

Mitchell and Brownell Indicted.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 2.—The federal grand jury has indicted United States Senator John H. Mitchell for bribery on six counts in connection with the land frauds investigation. State Senator George C. Brownell was indicted at the same time on four charges of subornation of perjury.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 2, 1905.

The man who doesn't believe in advertising is wise when he leaves it alone, for advertising without belief is loss.

If Senator Penrose's bill to conserve the purity of the English language is passed, its author will do well to furnish his lieutenants with bound copies.

Bill to stop graft in business has been introduced in the New York Legislature. Cut the graft out and business in the metropolis will receive a severe blow.

No sooner was the proposition made to erect a statute to Shakespeare in London than Alfred Austin came out with a poem on the subject. What more effectual way could have been devised to kill the scheme?

Councilman Wilson, chairman of the street committee, enjoyed a sleighride through the business section of North avenue yesterday afternoon, but judging from the present condition of the thoroughfare he apparently did not notice the great piles of snow banked along the curbs. Let the residential section go, Mr. Chairman, until the business section is cleared up.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS AT DUNELLEN UNSAFE

BETTER SAFEGUARDS NEEDED ON CHESTNUT STREET, DUNELLEN.

Recent accidents on the railroad tracks at Dunellen, it is considered, have shown the need of better safeguards for the public at that place and have been instrumental in giving rise to some agitation for elevated tracks. Concerning the matter, Howard Bird sends the following communication:

"Editor, The Daily Press:

"In your issue of January 25th last, I noticed an article entitled 'Dunellen Residents Want Track Elevated.' This would no doubt be a great benefit to our residents, but I desire to call your attention to a matter which is, to my mind, of more immediate importance than the permanent elevation of the railroad tracks: I refer to the need of gates or other proper protection at the Chestnut street crossing.

"This matter has been agitated before, and over a year ago the Board of Trade passed resolutions requesting the Borough Commissioners to take some action in the matter. The Borough Commissioners did appoint a committee to wait on the company and requested it to put gates at the crossing, but up to the present time, I am informed, the committee has failed to make a report.

"In December last a petition was circulated among some of our citizens who use the crossing most frequently and it was signed by ninety-six (96) people and presented to the Division Superintendent of the railroad about the first of January, 1905. No answer has been received to this petition.

"Public sentiment is very strongly in favor of demanding protection at this crossing, but we have never properly organized to press the matter. We respectfully ask the support of your paper in this matter and trust that something my be done shortly to induce or compel the railroad company to give us protection at the above mentioned crossing.

"Respectfully yours,
"Howard Bird.

HIS CLOTHES SET AFIRE.

Harold Willard Has Narrow Escape From Severe Burning at "Faust" Production.

His clothes catching fire from the chemicals used in one of the scenes in "Faust," Harold Willard, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Willard, of West Front street, had a narrow escape from serious injury at the Casino Tuesday night. The boy was greatly interested in the mechanical end of the production and was closely watching the stage work in the wings when he walked too near some of the blazing material.

His clothing flared up quickly and he was in serious danger when some of the stage hands smothered the flames. He escaped with several slight burns.

POLITICAL CHAT.

Mr. Wakelee introduced in the State Senate Tuesday a joint resolution reciting that there was reputed to be some conflict of laws governing the use of voting machines, and calling upon the Attorney-General, Secretary of State and the chairman of the State Voting Machine Commission to investigate the subject. This resolution the House unanimously defeated without discussion.

The two houses of the Legislature met in joint session Tuesday and carried out the Republican caucus programme of last week by re-electing State Treasurer Frank O. Briggs, State Comptroller J. Willard Morgan and State Director of Railroads Charles Bradley each for another term in their respective offices. The Democrats voted for Benjamin F. Lee, of Mercer, for State Treasurer; ex-Mayor Joseph E. Nowrey, of Camden, for State Comptroller, and Theodore B. Dawes, of Warren County, for State Director of Railroads.

The Newark Evening News said editorially yesterday:

"The Union County Democrats, by their action last night, in convention assembled, indicated that they were in the same state of mind as the late lamented Congressman Tim Campbell, of New York, when he gave utterance to his famous saying, 'What's the constitution between friends!' The Union County men even went a step further and practically declared that the Constitution ought not to be allowed to interfere when political enemies do not care to fight. They censured the Republican members of the Legislature because the latter failed to find some method to avoid special elections to fill the vacancies in the assembly caused by death, and the administration was attacked for the reason that it had imposed an expense on the people that might have been avoided.

"Under the existing circumstances, this was a remarkable position to assume. The Republicans, as well as the Democrats, in the Legislature, were desirous, and even anxious, that no special elections should be held, and they took steps to find out whether it would be possible to avoid calling upon the voters of Union and Sussex counties to participate in a second election. It was discovered that the constitution provided that 'each house (of the Legislature) shall direct writs of election for supplying vacancies occasioned by death, resignation, or otherwise.' Such a direction appeared to be mandatory, the attorney-general held that it was impossible to escape such a conclusion. Had the Republican majority failed to order special elections, the Democrats would have been justified in characterizing the inaction as law-breaking, and there is little doubt but that they would have taken advantage of the opening. It would have been, too, a dangerous precedent to establish—the tacit ignoring of the fundamental law of the State—and might have come back to plague the party responsible for it. Economy should never be made an excuse for violating the law."

PINEHURST, N. C.

Low-Rate Personally-Conducted Tours via Pennsylvania Railroad.

For the benefit of those desiring to visit Pinehurst, N. C., during the height of the social and golf season, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has inaugurated a series of personally-conducted tours to this attractive mid-South resort.

Two tours will be run this season, leaving New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington February 10 and March 31, by special train. The rates for the tours, including railway transportation in both directions, Pullman berth, and meals in dining car on going trip only, and three days' board at the Hotel Carolina, will be: New York, $32; Philadelphia, $30; Baltimore and Washington, $29. Proportionate rates from other points.

For tickets, itineraries, and other information, apply to ticket agents, or to Geo W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street station, Philadelphia. 2 2 2 th

Close of January Furniture Sale

With this week ends the most successful Furniture Sale we've ever held. A large and up-to-date Furniture stock, offered at a slight advance over the cost to manufacture, was the magnet that drew the business. If you have any Spring Furniture needs, you certainly will take full advantage of the remaining days of the sale. If you don't want the goods delivered until later on, all that's necessary is to pay a small deposit, and we will hold them and deliver whenever you say.

Every piece reduced is marked with a red tag.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The good and welfare committee of Lakeside Council, D. of L., of New Market, met at the home of Mrs. Foster Sofield, Tuesday evening, and planned for a valentine social to be given by the council on Thursday night, February 9. The event will be held at Friendship Hall and will be one of the most elaborate affairs which the local council has given for a long time. A programme has been arranged including games and music, while appropriate valentine features will mark a part of the evening's enjoyment. The social committee of the council is in charge of the affair, and the plans were considered, in addition to other business, at the meeting Tuesday night.

Isaac Giddis, of Front street, while visiting his son, Dr. Elmer Giddis, of Grove street, Plainfield, was stricken with paralysis yesterday morning. The stroke, though not considered fatal, partially effects both sides. Mr. Giddis is under the best medical care, and everything is being done to bring about his recovery. He is about sixty-two years of age, and the stroke is the first which he has had. He was in perfectly good health before the stroke occurred. Mr. Giddis will be taken care of at his son's home, where the other members of his family have been called.

The semi-annual examinations at the local schools have all been completed and the regular routine work has been resumed. There are several pupils at the school who will have to take different examinations owing to the fact that they were absent either on account of illness or the condition of the roads. The recent weather has had a demoralizing effect upon the enrollment at the schools, though the attendance has been all that could be expected considering the bad roads.

Funeral services over the body of William S. Brokaw, who died suddenly yesterday morning, will be held from his late home Saturday afternoon at 1:30. Delegations will be in attendance from Pioneer Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Bound Brook; Court Dunellen, I. O. F., and Carpenters Local Union, No. 155. The interment will be at Bound Brook.

On account of the recent demands and notices issued by the tax collector, the number of delinquents whose names were recorded yesterday at the office of the county clerk was small, and many of those who had bills from the borough have paid up.

Rev. Frank Fletcher, who has been confined to his home since last Sunday by illness, is improved, and hopes to be able to occupy his pulpit by next Sunday. He has been suffering from a light attack of the grip.

The regular monthly meeting of the Farther Light Society, of the Baptist church, will be held on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mahlon Dayton. A tea will follow the transaction of the usual business.

The regular meeting of the local council of Daughters of Liberty will be held at the lodge rooms tonight. Routine business will be transacted.

The Ladies' Missionary Society, of the Baptist church, will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. B. Nelson.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Westfield bowlers are to roll the local team on Lee's alleys tonight. This will be the second match of a series between the two clubs, the locals winning the first match two weeks ago by a close margin.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., meet tonight in the Library rooms. On Monday night a delegation from Twilight paid a fraternal visit to one of the Elizabeth councils.

A meeting of the Township Committee was held last night in the town rooms. Work on the annual township report was the business transacted.

A number of young people from town attended the weekly reception of 'Gene O'Reilly's dancing class, held last night in the I. C. T. rooms, Plainfield.

The Registry Board meet tomorrow from 1 to 9 p. m. to revise and correct the registry list for the special election to be held on Tuesday, Feb. 7.

Those who have failed to pay last year's taxes are now classed with the delinquents and will have the added costs to pay when they do settle.

Mrs. Augusta Middledith, of Truell Court, has been visiting her uncle, Charles N. Flanders, of East Front street.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company held its monthly meeting last night in the company rooms.

Thomas Farrell, of Garwood, has been visiting Jacob Shackleton, of Park avenue.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The business social of the C. E. Society, held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gage, was well attended. Several new associate members were received.

Elias Bailey was the purchaser of the Miliott farm at the public sale Tuesday. Mr. Bailey wishes to take possession of the place the first of March.

The funeral of an aged inmate of the township home took place this afternoon at the home. The service was in charge of Rev. J. A. Cubberley.

Miss Lily Norman has returned home after several days' visit with friends at South River.

Miss Rebecca Terrell has returned home after an extended visit with friends in Newark.

The Woman's Mission Circle met at the home of Mrs. R. E. Manning this afternoon.

Mrs. A. M. Foote, of Plainfield avenue, called on friends here yesterday.

Children's Opera at the Casino.

One of the greatest attractions which Manager Mase Edwards has secured for the Casino this season is the New York Juvenile Opera Company, under direction of Robert Grau, the well known operatic and vaudeville manager, composed of fifty youthful and remarkable children, will present Gilbert & Sullivan's beautiful fairy opera, "Iolanthe" or "The Peer and The Peri," on Monday, Feb. 13, Lincoln's Birthday. The organization is complete literally, dramatically and numerically and it is said that they present the delicious musical satire better than any adult organization in the country. All the principal roles are presented by talented prodigies and all the characters, male and female, are impersonated by girls from fifteen years of age. The company carries its own orchestra and has a chorus of forty girls while the costumes and scenry are said to be of the most beautiful description. Further particulars later.

No Baseball Meeting.

The schedule meeting at Westfield of baseball managers interested in the formation of a county league was not held last night. Charles H. Denman and Mr. Littlefield, representing the Westfield club and James Manning, of New Brunswick, were the only ones who appeared. Accordingly no business was transacted and the meeting was put over by Mr. Denman until Tuesday evening, February 21, at the Hotel Kensington in this city. Charles B Woolston, of this city, and Leon Potter, of Rahway, were expected to be present last night but the did not put in an appearance.

Criterions' Dance Tonight.

The Criterion Club will give first of present winter's series of receptions and dances in the Casino, the evening. A large number of invitations have been issued and the attendance is expected to correspond. Several parties of young people from Somerville, New Brunswick and Elizabeth will be in attendance.

Feb. 5: "The Enlarging Kingdom"—Ezek. xlvii, 1-12.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

Ezekiel was a Jew who had been carried captive into Babylonia before the city of Jerusalem and the temple were destroyed. He may have known Jeremiah before the captivity and certainly seems to have kept in communication with him, the two prophets exchanging their writings and agreeing in the main points of their teaching and opposing many of the religious teachers of their times among the Jews.

Jeremiah in Jerusalem and Ezekiel in Babylonia both denounced the wickedness of the Jewish people and declared that Jerusalem should be taken by the king of Babylon and the city and temple destroyed.

Both of them predicted after this had taken place and the land lay in desolation that the city and temple should be builded again and a more glorious kingdom should arise, in which righteousness should be as conspicuous as iniquity had been in the previous one.

Fourteen years after the fall of the city and in the twenty-fifth year of his captivity he has a special vision. He appears to be transported to the site of the holy city and sees in vision the new temple rising from the ruins of the older one.

Our lesson is taken from this part of his prophecy. He has seen the various parts of the edifice measured by the divine messenger who reveals to him God's intentions, and now he has come outside the whole series of buildings and sees a little stream of water trickling from under the temple walls on the eastern side and running down the valley and through the Kedron gorge until it reaches the Dead sea.

Several notable things appear in his description of this stream. Its source is in the holy mountain and under the very temple itself. It is an insignificant stream at first and increases as it flows, being in this very unlike real rivers unless they receive tributary streams. This has no other brooks pouring into it, yet it grows steadily greater the farther it flows.

It has wonderful powers of purification. The Dead sea has ever been so salt that nothing can live in its waters, and almost nothing can grow on its banks. But when this river mingles its waters with those of the Salt sea healing and sweetness are communicated, and the waters, lifeless always before, now teem with a multitude of fish of many kinds. It becomes through its whole extent a place of industry and traffic because it has such an abundance in it of food fish.

More than all this, trees of the very finest, trees of all varieties fit for food, grow where hitherto nothing has been able to grow. The fruit never fails, and the leaves have medicinal virtue.

This message was needed to encourage the Jews of that time. Their nation had been wiped out. Was it because their God was weaker than other gods and so unworthy of further worship? Not this, say Jeremiah and Ezekiel, but your sins have caused your God to punish you. If you will now obey Him, He will build a more glorious kingdom, and you shall build Him a better temple.

The new nation shall increase as the waters from the temple increased and shall bring fertility and all blessings man can wish. This meant more than the return of the Jews from the captivity in Babylon. It finds its real fulfillment in the coming of Jesus Christ and in the foundation of His church as the evangelizing agency of these latter ages.

Note how exactly and gloriously this has been and is still being verified. How the spirit of Jesus is winning its way among men! How wonderfully the teachings He gave are molding the lives of men and shaping the course of national affairs! What benefits in place of miseries, what wealth and comfort, what security for life and possessions, what relief for sickness and want, what a great transformation the coming of the gospel works in the affairs of men! Truly these are the waters of the river of Life.

And we have not yet reached the fullness of the river. All the benefits we now have are but the beginning of the fulfillment of the promises. Through the ages God has been keeping covenant with His people. His kingdom is enlarging, and we still pray in all earnestness, "Thy kingdom come and Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth."

Touching Only.

Some time ago in one of our magazines there was an article entitled "I Have Touched the Gold!" the exclamation of a deep sea diver who had just come up from exploring a wreck lying in the depths. The writer of the paragraph alluded to the circumstance that often thus in religious life persons "touch the gold" without seizing, possessing and using it. How true this is! We frequent the sanctuary, hear and handle the word of life, get a vision of the cross, put the sacramental bread to our lips—we "touch the gold" and still leave it unrealized from year to year. For want of a little more resolute faith we miss "the unsearchable riches" of personal fellowship with Christ.—Rev. A. A. Ramsey.

Your Guide.

Look within! You know that in your highest moments an ideal of purity, honesty, sincerity, loveliness, shines within you. Let that be your constant guide and companion as you work day by day, molding your life into its likeness.—Abby McDuffy.

The Wine of Love.

Once o'er this painful earth a Man did move,
The Man of griefs, because the Man of love.
The wine of love can be obtained of none
Save Him who trod the wine press all alone.

—Ar Abishan Trench.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 5.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—What I owe to Christian Endeavor.—Ezek. xlvii, 1-12; Ps. xxxvi, 8. (Christian Endeavor day.)

On last Thursday Christian Endeavor was twenty-seven years old. A quarter of a century and two years ago Dr. Francis E. Clark and a few of his young people were gathered together in Williston church, Portland, and in the providence of God organized a young people's movement that has been the religious wonder of the world for over a generation. And on this twenty-seventh anniversary we are asked to consider our indebtedness to Christian Endeavor. That we owe a debt to this great movement, if we are a part of it, cannot be doubted. Indeed, this is so whether we are a part of it or not. The world is indebted to Christian Endeavor. Outside the Christian church itself few movements in the world's history have had such a widespread influence as Christian Endeavor, and it has always stood for the betterment of the world in the conservatism from evil and consecration to good of millions of its young people. The world's moral, spiritual, intellectual, social and political life has been touched and uplifted by this marvelous movement of God. The church is indebted to Christian Endeavor. Christian Endeavor has been in the church, of the church and for the church, and almost every aspiration of the church at large and every department of local church work has been blessed and advanced through Christian Endeavor. And who can doubt the personal blessings that have come to those who have been a part of this great work? Millions could rise in their places in the Christian church today and say, "We are indebted to Christian Endeavor."

Our indebtedness to Christianity may best be realized by a recollection of what Christian Endeavor has stood for and what it has done. It may well be likened to the stream in Ezekiel's vision. In this vision the prophet saw a stream of water flowing out from under the temple of God. It ran in all directions—north, south, east, west. It ever increased in depth and volume—ankle deep, knee deep, to the loins and at last a great and impassable river, bearing blessings to every form of life the world over. This has been the history of Christian Endeavor. A stream of beneficent influence in the beginning, it has ever increased in depth and volume until it has spread to the nations of the world and has been for the preservation and the healing of the nations. What blessings have flowed from this ever advancing and increasing stream—definite pledged service, deeper devotional life, increased loyalty to Christ and His church, personal participation in public services, new missionary zeal and inspiration, helpful interdenominational affiliation and co-operation, denominational enthusiasm, new ideas and methods of religious work and with countless other blessings, a new meaning to consecration, which has revolutionized the lives of thousands of those who, while Christians before, knew not the joys of consecrated personal service to their Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ! And the stream is ever widening and deepening, and may it continue to do so until the whole world is won for Christ!

But debts should be paid. Do I owe Christian Endeavor a debt? Then I should pay it. And how? What better way than by a still deeper and truer consecration of ourselves to the Master and His service in Christian Endeavor? As we have received let us give out. Thus the desert paid the stream, and the trees the desert, and the people the trees. Everywhere life produced new life, and blessings became the channels of increased blessings. "Freely ye have received; freely give." Thus best can you pay what you owe to Christian Endeavor.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. lxxxiv, 1-12; lxxxix, 1-4; xcii, 1, 2; Eccl. xii, 1; Zech. iv, 1-7; Matt. vii, 7, 8; xxviii, 19, 20; Luke xxiv, 45-48; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. vi, 1-10.

Making a Vacation Count.

Mr. Herbert E. Kendall is the consecrated secretary of the New Hampshire Christian Endeavor union. Granted a month's leave of absence from his work as a reward for faithful service, he chose to use it for the advancement of Christian Endeavor, spending the time in visiting smaller societies in the Granite State. He traveled 1,400 miles and made forty-four addresses, besides holding a number of conferences. Not a few young people will date from these meetings their start in the Christian life.

HERBERT E. KENDALL.

A Finnish Convention.

The Finnish Christian Endeavor union is now six months old. It has just held its first convention with notable success. There are now fifteen societies in the union, with a membership of 500. Thirteen of these societies sent delegates to the convention.

The fall campaign began immediately after the convention. The Endeavorers have taken up work in Tolo, one of the suburbs of Helsingfors. A lady living there has given 500 marks ($100) to the Finnish and Swedish societies for this work and promises to build a house. At present a schoolhouse is being used. They are organizing a Sunday school and hope to have an Endeavor society.

SOME DOMESTIC CONCERNS

Items of Information Intended for the Lightening of Household Duties.

New bread may be cut as easily as stale if the knife be heated in hot water.

Milk kept in a shallow basin will remain sweet for a longer time than if kept in a deep jug.

If a tablespoonful of paraffin be added to the pail of hot water used for washing tiles, it will both cleanse and brighten them.

Before weighing molasses dredge the scale well with flour, for this will prevent the treacle from sticking, and it may be poured off without waste.

To wash a corset remove the steels, then lay the corset on a table or board and scrub with a stiff brush, using a lather made of white soap. Rinse beneath a tap with cold water, pull straight, and allow to dry.

Alum water will restore most faded colors. Brush the faded article thoroughly free from dust, cover it with a layer of castile soap, rinse in clear water; then in alum water, and the color will usually be much brighter than before.

Even when there is cream in the coffee, the stain of it may be removed from silk and other delicate fabrics by brushing the spot with pure glycerin. The glycerin must then be rinsed out in lukewarm water and the spot pressed in the wrong side with a warm iron.

Any cold whitefish may be made into an acceptable entree by being treated a la Newburg. A little white wine, in which cloves and allspice have been steeped, may be added just before the sauce is poured over the fish. It should then simmer till warmed without being boiled.

Poisonous compounds cannot be used to destroy flies without danger, but the following mixture is both efficacious and safe: Thoroughly mix together one teaspoonful of black pepper, two teaspoonfuls of moist sugar and two tablespoonfuls of cream. Place a little of this in a saucer where flies abound. It is a good plan also to wash the inside window panes with a weak solution of carbolic acid, for this will prevent flies settling on them.

To clean black walnut furniture, first rub it all over with a piece of old flannel dipped in paraffin. Then, with another piece of flannel or a soft rag, rub it dry, and apply a polish made of equal parts of turentine, linseed oil and vinegar. These ingredients must be thoroughly shaken together before the compound is used. Rub the mixture well into the article to be cleaned, then leave it for a short time, and finally polish it with a dry cloth.

NECKLACES OF THE SEASON

Form of Jewelry That Is Decidedly to the Fore Among the Fashionables.

The oriental stones are worn a great deal. There are topazes from Korea, emeralds from the Caucasus, lapus lazuli from Japan and the many odd yellow stones which come from the east. Great strings of pierced yellow stones are mounted upon chains of gold and wound around the neck of the summer girl.

It is decidedly a necklace season and pearl collars are worn, in the day time, with neckless gowns and diamond studded gold bands with the Dutch necks of the afternoon toilettes, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

But the woman who wants a collar, and who cannot obtain either a diamond one or a collar of pearls, can take heart, for there is an exceedingly pretty makeshift for her. She can wear a band of velvet around her throat and, upon this band of velvet, she can wear strings of yellow stones—beads, really they might be called—except that they are of irregular size and shape, and so look very much richer than strings of beads commonly look.

The making of these necklaces is a fine art. It requires strings and strings of fine elastic, of just the length to encircle the throat. And, after these are strung with their burden of odd stones, the whole must be mounted upon a clasp which is set at the back of the neck.

These semi-precious necklaces sell for big prices in the stores, but the woman of taste can gather her store and stock of beads and make them for herself. The key to the whole is the preservation of color. There should be more yellow than anything else and the faint yellow tinge should prevail throughout the whole.

Pickled Plums.

For eight pounds of fruit take four pounds of granulated sugar, one quart of vinegar, one ounce of cinnamon and one of cloves; scald the vinegar, sugar and spices together; skim and pour boiling hot over the fruit and let it stand three days; pour off the syrup scald and skim and pour over again, and continue this process every three days until they have been scalded three times. The plums should be pricked with a needle before dropping into the syrup to prevent the bursting of the skin.—Washington Star.

Pineapple Lemonade.

Pare, eye and grate a large ripe pineapple. Add the strained juice of four lemons and a syrup made by boiling together for five minutes four cupfuls of sugar and two of water. When cold add one quart of water. Strain and ice.—Washington Star.

Shortcake Hint.

Raspberry shortcake is as good as the time-honored strawberry shortcake, the fruit blending perfectly with cream. Raspberry-and-currant shortcake is also very nice.—N. Y. Post.

THE SENTIMENTAL GIRL.

She Is a Bore Both to Men and Women.

The sentimental girl! Who does not know her?

She makes trouble both for men and women and all because she cannot keep her fluttering little heart under control.

A friend of mine took to live with her a very charming young girl, and every one was surprised at the end of two months when the partnership was dissolved with every sign of relief on the married woman's side.

"I simply couldn't stand it," she explained to her intimates. "That girl nearly drove me wild. Sentimental? Why, good gracious, she was forever imagining all sorts of silly things, not to speak of falling in love every other day. It got so that in self defense I positively had to keep my attractive men friends away from the house, for whenever one came she would do nothing but talk about him for three days afterward and nearly drive me out of my senses by her repeated questions as to whether I thought he liked her and was he in love with any other girl! There was one awful week I shall never remember without a shudder when she learned that Billy Blinks was engaged. She passed her nights in sobs and her days in going around with a face that would have made a dying man's look cheerful by comparison. Oh, no, thank you, I have had enough of that budding, blushing type of maidenhood. Give me a girl who is blase enough to conceal her likes and dislikes."

Now listen to the man's side of the story. "Oh, the dickens! Here is another note from that girl, saying she is going away forever on Wednesday, and won't I call for one last farewell between 5 and 6! I'd rather be whipped than go, but I can't very well refuse. A fellow must be decent. I know perfectly well what it will be like—a funeral filled with mute reproaches and unshed tears. Upon my word, I haven't given her the slightest encouragement. What is a man to do when a girl does nothing but invite him and plant herself in his path? I went as little as I possibly could, considering she is a friend of my family, and now she finds that I have broken her trusting heart and blasted her young life."

A PRETTY ROOM.

Handsome Effect May Be Produced by Papering or Painting.

Nothing makes a room more inviting than appropriate wall decoration, and no method of achieving this effect is productive of a better result than when paneling is applied. The panels are divided either by paper or molding, gilt or otherwise. A plain background of some restful color covers the panel to begin, and upon this background decorative designs are placed. Sometimes the design is floral; sometimes it is in the form of a landscape; again it is conventionalized. Really artistic wall panels can be made from conditions of wall paper patterns. Beautiful panel patterns are also obtained by painting the walls.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE HAYMAKERS.

By the terms of its dating clause the new trust and corporation law became effective at once, "the public welfare requiring it"; and though there was an immediate sympathetic decline in the securities involved, there was no panic, financial or industrial, to mark the change from the old to the new.

Contrary to the expectations of the alarmists and the lawyers, and somewhat to the disappointment of the latter, the vested interests showed no disposition to test the constitutionality of the act in the courts. So far indeed, from making difficulties, the various alien corporations affected by the new law wheeled promptly into line in compliance with its provisions, vieing with one another in proving, or seeming to prove, the time-worn aphorism that capital can never afford to be otherwise than strictly law-abiding.

In the reorganization of the Western Pacific, David Kent developed at once and heartily into that rare and much-sought-for quantity, a man for an emergency. Loring, also, was a busy man in this transition period, yet he found time to keep an appreciative eye on Kent, and, true to his implied promise, pushed him vigorously for the first place in the legal department of the localized company. Since the resident manager stood high in the Boston counsels of the company, the pushing was not without results; and while David Kent was still up to his eyes in the work of flogging the affairs of the newly named Trans-Western into conformity with the law, his appointment came from the advisory board.

So it befell that while the newly appointed general counsel of the reorganized Western Pacific was bolting his meals and clipping the nights at both ends in a strenuous endeavor to clear the decks for a possible battle-royal at the capital, events of a minatory nature were shaping themselves elsewhere.

To bring these events down to their focusing point in the period of transition, it is needful to go back a little: to a term of the circuit court held in the third year of Gaston the prosperous.

Who Mrs. Melissa Varnum was; how she came to be traveling from Midland City to the end of the track on a scalper's ticket; and in what manner she was given her choice of paying fare to the conductor or leaving the train at Gaston—these are details with which we need not concern ourselves. Suffice it to say that Kent, then local attorney for the company, mastered them; and when Mrs. Varnum, through Hawk, her counsel, sued for $5,000 damages, he was able to get a continuance, knowing from long experience that the jury would certainly find for the plaintiff if the case were then allowed to go to trial.

And at the succeeding term of court, which was the one that adjourned on the day of Kent's transfer to the capital, two of the company's best witnesses had disappeared; and the one bit of company business Kent had been successful in doing that day was to postpone for a second time the coming trial of the Varnum case.

It was while Kent's head was deepest in the flood of reorganization that a letter came from one Blashfield Hunnicott, his successor in the local attorneyship at Gaston, asking for instructions in the Varnum matter. Judge MacFarlane's court would convene in a week. Was he, Hunnicott, to let the case come to trial? Or should he—the witnesses still being unproducible—move for a further continuance?

Kent took his head out of the crosseas long enough to answer. By all means Hunnicott was to obtain another continuance, if possible. And if, before the case were called, there should be any new developments, he was to wire at once to the general office, and further instructions would issue.

It was about this time, or, to be strictly accurate, on the day preceding the convening of Judge MacFarlane's court in Gaston, that Governor Bucks took a short vacation—his first since the adjournment of the assembly.

Late that same night, Stephen Hawk was keeping a rather discomforting vigil with a visitor in the best suite of rooms the Mid-Continent Hotel in Gaston afforded. The guest of honor was a brother lawyer—though he might have refused to acknowledge the relationship with the ex-district attorney—a keen-eyed, business-like gentleman, whose name as an organizer of vast capitalistic ventures had traveled far, and whose present attitude was one of undisguised and angry contempt for Gaston and all things Gastonian.

"How much longer have we to wait?" he demanded impatiently, when the hands of his watch pointed to the quarter-hour after ten. "You've made me travel two thousand miles to see this thing through: why didn't you make sure of having your man here?"

Hawk wriggled uneasily in his chair. He was used to being bullied, not only by the good and great, but by the little and evil as well. Yet there was a rasp to the great man's impatience that irritated him.

"I've been trying to tell you all evening that I'm only the hired man in this business, Mr. Falkland. I can't compel the attendance of the other parties."

"Well, it's damned badly managed, as far as we've gone," was the ungracious comment. "You say the judge refuses to confer with me?"

"Ab-so-lutely."

"And the train—the last train the other man can come on; is that in yet?"

Hawk consulted his watch.

"A good half-hour ago."

"You had your clerk at the station to meet it?"

"I did."

"And he hasn't reported?"

"Not yet."

Falkland took a cigar from his case, bit the end of it like a man with a grudge to satisfy, and began again.

"There is a very unbusinesslike mystery about all this, Mr. Hawk, and I may as well tell you shortly that my time is too valuable to make me tolerant of half-confidences. Get to the bottom of it. Has your man weakened?"

"No; he is not of the weakening kind. And, besides, the scheme is his own from start to finish, as you know."

"Well, what is the matter, then?"

Hawk rose.

"If you will be patient a little while longer, I'll go to the wire and try to find out. I am as much in the dark as you are."

This last was not strictly true. Hawk had a telegram in his pocket which was causing him more uneasiness than all the rasping criticisms of the New York attorney, and he was re-reading it by the light of the corridor bracket when a young man sprang from the ascending elevator and hurried to the door of the parlor suite. Hawk collared his Mercury before he could rap on the door.

"Well?" he queried sharply.

"It's just as you suspected—what Mr. Hendricks' telegram hinted at. I met him at the station and couldn't do a thing with him."

"Where has he gone?"

"To the same old place."

"You followed him?"

"Sure. That is what kept me so long."

Hawk hung upon his decision for the barest fraction of a second. Then he gave his orders concisely.

"Hunt up Doctor Macquoid and get him out to the club-house as quick as you can. Tell him to bring his hypodermic. I'll be there with all the help he'll need." And when the young man was gone Hawk smote the air with a clenched fist and called down the Black Curse of Shielygh, or its modern equivalent, on all the fates subversive of well-laid plans.

A quarter of an hour later, on the upper floor of the club-house at the Gentlemen's Driving park, four men burst in upon a fifth, a huge figure, crouching in a corner like a wild beast at bay. A bottle and a tumbler stood on the table under the hanging lamp; and with the crash of breaking glass which followed the mad-bull rush of the giant, the reek of French brandy filled the room.

"Hold him still, if you can, and pull up that sleeve." It was Macquoid who spoke, and the three apparitors, breathing hard, sat upon the prostrate man and bared his arm for the physician. When the apomorphia began to do its work there was a struggle of another sort, out of which emerged a pallid and somewhat stricken reincarnation of the governor.

"Falkland is waiting at the hotel, and he and MacFarlane can't get together," said Hawk, tersely, when the patient was fit to listen. "Otherwise we shouldn't have disturbed you. It's all day with the scheme if you can't show up."

The governor groaned and passed his hand over his eyes.

"Get me into my clothes—Johnson has the grip—and give me all the time you can," was the sullen rejoinder; and in due course the Honorable Jasper G. Bucks, clothed upon and in his right mind, was enabled to keep his appointment with the New York attorney at the Mid-Continent hotel.

But first came the whipping-in of MacFarlane Bucks went alone to the judge's room on the floor above the parlor suite. It was now near midnight, but MacFarlane had not gone to bed. He was a spare man, with thin hair graying rapidly at the temples and a care-worn face; the face of a man whose tasks or responsibilities, or both, have overmatched him. He was walking the floor with his head down and his hands—thin, nerveless hands they were—tightly locked behind him, when the governor entered.

For a large man the Honorable Jasper was usually able to handle his weight admirably; but now he clung to the door-knob until he could launch himself at a chair and be sure of hitting it.

"What's this Hawk's telling me about you, MacFarlane?" he demanded, frowning portentously.

"I don't know what he has told you. But it is too flagrant, Bucks; I can't do it, and that's all there is about it." The protest was feebly fierce, and there was the snarl of a baited animal in the tone.

"It's too late to make difficulties now," was the harsh reply. "You've got to do it."

"I tell you I cannot, and I will not!"

"A late attack of conscience, eh?" sneered the governor, who was sobering rapidly now. "Let me ask a question or two. How much was that security debt your son-in-law let you in for?"

"It was $10,000. It is an honest debt, and I shall pay it."

"But not out of the salary of a circuit judge," Bucks interposed. "Nor yet out of the fees you make your clerks divide with you. And that isn't all. Have you forgotten the gerrymander business? How would you like to see the true inwardness of that in the newspapers?"

The judge shrank as if the huge gesturing hand had struck him.

"You wouldn't dare," he began. "You were in that, too, deeper than—"

Again the governor interrupted him.

"Cut it out," he commanded. "I can reward, and I can punish. You are not going to do anything technically illegal; but, by the gods, you are going to walk the line laid down for you. If you don't, I shall give the documents in the gerrymander affair to the papers the day after you fail. Now we'll go and see Falkland."

MacFarlane made one last protest.

"For God's sake, Bucks! spare me that. It is nothing less than the foul-est collusion between the judge, the counsel for the plaintiff—and the devil!"

"FOR GOD'S SAKE, BUCKS! SPARE ME THAT."

"Cut that out, too, and come along," said the governor, brutally; and by the steadying help of the chair, the door-post and the wall of the corridor, he led the way to the parlor suite on the floor below.

The conference in Falkland's rooms was chiefly a monologue with the sharp-spoken New York lawyer in the speaking part. When it was concluded the judge took his leave abruptly, pleading the lateness of the hour and his duties for the morrow. When he was gone the New Yorker began again.

"You won't want to be known in this, I take it," he said, nodding at the governor. "Mr. Hawk here will answer well enough for the legal part, but how about the business end of it? Have you got a man you can trust?"

The governor's yellow eyebrows met in a meaning scowl.

"I've got a man I can hang, which is more to the purpose. It's Maj. Jim Guilford. He lives here; want to meet him?"

"God forbid!" said Falkland, fervently. He rose and whipped himself into his overcoat, turning to Hawk: "Have your young man get me a carriage, and see to it that my special is ready to pull east when I give the word, will you?"

Hawk went obediently, and the New Yorker had his final word with the governor alone.

"I think we understand each other perfectly," he said. "You are to have the patronage: we are to pay for all actual betterments for which vouchers can be shown at the close of the deal. All we ask is that the stock be depressed to the point agreed upon within the half-year."

"It's going to be done," said the governor, trying as he could to keep the eye-image of his fellow-conspirator from multiplying itself by two.

"All right. Now as to the court affair. If it is managed exactly as I have outlined, there will be no trouble—and no recourse for the other fellows. When I say that, I'm leaving out your supreme court. Under certain conditions, if the defendant's hardship could be definitely shown, a writ of certiorari and supersedeas might issue. How about that?"

The governor closed one eye slowly, the better to check the troublesome multiplying process.

"The supreme court won't move in the matter. The ostensible reason will be that the court is now two years behind its docket."

"And the real reason?"

"Of the three justices, one of them was elected on our ticket; another is a personal friend of Judge MacFarlane. The goods will be delivered."

JAPS SERVE COUNTRY WELL

No Danger Appalls the True Subject of the Mikado, Hence Their Success in War.

The Japanese soldier knows that he shall be honored if he serves his country well. "Man lives but his lifetime; his name it is that lives to posterity," says Nobushige Amenomori, in Atlantic. This has been told him from his childhood. He believes the ancient heroes of his race are watching him and guiding him. The banner of his regiment has characters written by his emperor, and was given to his regiment by the emperor himself, the chief by birth of his race. Such being the banner, and, consequently, the inborn memories of the race twining round it, the soldier sees with the eye of his faith his ancestors marching before the standard of the rising sun. He knows he has the deep fellow feeling of his living countrymen, and that if he dies he shall be honored, for endless generations, with offerings and festivals by his countrymen yet to come. Nothing is so real to him as what he feels; and he feels that with him are united the past, the present and the future generations of his countrymen. Thus fully conscious of the intense sympathy of his compatriots, both dead and living, and swelled with lofty anticipation of his glorious destiny, no danger can appall, and no toil can tire the real Japanese soldier.

TYPES OF MACHINE GUNS.

Hotchkiss Uses Larger Ammunition Than the Gatling Device—Nordenfeldt Very Simple.

The first machine gun of any note was the Gatling. The original Gatling had ten barrels placed in a circle, with a breech mechanism so arranged that by turning a crank these barrels were successively fired, the cartridges being placed in a small hopper situated on the top of the gun. The Hotchkiss was a similar gun, having a similar arrangement of barrels, but a totally different form of mechanism. The Hotchkiss system, however, was used for a larger type of ammunition than the Gatling. The French mitrailleuse had 30 barrels. They were all loaded at the same time and all fired simultaneously. The recoil was so great that it had to be mounted in the same manner as a field piece, on a heavy carriage, requiring six horses. The apparatus was clumsy, difficult to operate and had a comparatively slow rate of fire. The Nordenfeldt gun consists of a series of barrels arranged side by side, like organ pipes. The Nordenfeldt gun generally has five barrels, and the mechanism is worked by a lever, the cartridges falling down from a hopper on the top of the arm into position, where the mechanism thrusts them into the barrel, fires them and extracts the empty case. This gun is of great simplicity, and for a time went into extensive use.

HAVANA NEWPORT'S ANNEX

Capital of Cuba, with Its Rare Beauties, Promises to Become a Resort of Fashion.

Havana promises in a few years to become one of the spokes of fashionable resort of which Newport is the hub—not because it possesses any attractions of itself, but entirely because of the rare beauty of many of its women, according to the New York Press. The girls of the Martinez family are perfect types of the splendid creatures depicted in Moorish art—the soft, languorous eye, the faint red glow beneath the olive skin, the swelling bust, the perfect curve in the shoulder outline and true cupid-bow mouth, which all Spanish poets declare a heritage of the daughters of Castile alone. It is certain there is abundance of this form of feminine loveliness now in Havana, or on its way there. The most striking and statuesque beauty perhaps is the wife of Regino Truffin, Russian charge d'affaires. Silvia Alfonso, the wife of Emilio Terry, is one of the most beautiful brunettes in Cuba. The Spaniards raved over her. Many of the nice old men in the Millionaires' club are going down to Havana this winter, and it is probable they will pave the way for turning the Cuban capital into an annex of Newport.

TROLLEY FOR SHOW PEOPLE

Electric Lines Compete for Business with the Steam Railroads in New England States.

One of the latest developments of the rural trolley system is the making of bids for the transportation of theatrical companies. Through New York state and in New England the trolley companies have been extremely active in this new field of late, particularly between cities and towns where the distances are not so great that the members of a company would be unduly fatigued by the length of the ride. The agent of a company supporting a "star" that was playing in Albany, N. Y., recently was approached by the manager of a trolley company with a proposal that his line would carry the entire company to Schenectady, their next "stand," at the rate of two persons for five cents. In addition to this low rate the trolley line offered the "star" the use of the directors' parlor car and also two "flat" cars to carry the scenery. As the run took only three hours, the deal was arranged on the spot. The regular railway fare for each person for the same distance was 28 cents, with no parlor car thrown in.

SEED DISTRIBUTION

AMUSING INCIDENTS RELATED BY CONGRESSMEN.

Government Sends Out Each Year About 45,000,000 Packages of Garden and Flower Seeds.

One of the seemingly popular features of governmental action which smacks of paternalism, but not strongly enough to create serious alarm, is the free distribution of seeds through congressmen by the department of agriculture.

At its recent session congress indulged in its expected annual debate over the appropriation. It was denounced by some as a "steal" and an outrage. The cost was shown to be $300,000 per annum.

During the present year the distribution is in the neighborhood of 45,000,000 packets, few or none of which differ in respect from the seeds which may be purchased at any retail store.

In spite of protests and arguments the appropriation was made for 1905, and the distribution will continue. It is not for us to determine whether or not the people desire this distribution to be kept up. That matter rests entirely in their own hands. They can stop it whenever they desire to do so. This is a government of public opinion, and so long as that opinion does not vehemently object the custom will probably continue. Meantime, some ludicrous incidents illustrate how anomalous and exceptional the function is. Congressional records are burdened with peculiar episodes thrown out in discussion, and the mails of congressmen are loaded with strange applications from constituents who misunderstand the purpose and scope of this gratuity.

A Virginia farmer who omitted to give his name nad consequently wrote in vain, recently applied to the house document room at Washington for some "seedepopcorn." The letter, after appealing for popcorn, adds:

"Please send some flat Dutch cabbage, and the hollow crowned parsnips, and the long red beets, and the latest cucumber, and the long redish, and some good acron squash."

THE RECIPIENT WAS IN GREAT DISTRESS OF MIND.

When a district consists of nothing but houses in a large city where there are not even back yards for a bunch of radishes to grow the seeds are often exchanged with other congressmen for public documents. One representative from New York city, however, conducted that he would send a few packages to his constituents as an experiment. Some of the seeds went to people living in a model tenement. A few days later he received a protest from the owner of the tenement. "Please do not send any more seeds," he wrote; "the people in my building have converted all the bath tubs into gardens. The scheme is all right as far as irrigation is concerned, but it is hard on the tubs."

An Iowa congressman sent a package to a rural constituent in a franked envelope bearing the usual "Three hundred dollars penalty for private use." The recipient was in great distress of mind, and wrote: "I cannot put the seeds to public use, and I cannot afford to pay $300 for using them myself."

A member of the Georgia delegation in congress received the following remarkable communication:

"Dear Mr. Kongressman: Sum time ago I writ yu asking is there anything the government cud do to make a fitin' wife behave herself. I ain't herd from yu, and things is no better. Wil yu please let me no if yu kin git me one of them poison snakes from Afrika for the cultural department. I hav allers voted for yu, and this is a mitey little to ask, specially wen a man's wife is allers neckin' him."

The agitation for abolishing the seed distribution causes annual discomfort to at least one citizen who operates each year in a different congressional district in the south with distinguished success. His name is unknown, but he makes a practice of traveling over the country, and whenever meal time comes he calls at the home of some farmer, to whom he represents himself as being a special friend of some influential official at Washington. For a small consideration in the form of a single meal the visitor will cause to be sent to the farmer a large variety of garden and flower seeds. To the average farmer this proposition seems reasonable enough, and the negotiations are usually closed on the spot. The tourist writes to the congressional representative of the district for the seeds. Of course, the farmer might have secured the seeds without this intervention, but this some farmers do not know. Each member of congress has the distribution of approximately 12,000 packets of seeds, and is enabled in this manner to personally remember 12,000 of his voting constituents.

DIAMOND DUST.

Manager Charles Woolston, of the Plainfield Baseball Association, has received a communication from the Coal Dale Athletic Association, of Coal Dale, Pa., asking for a game in this city. This team has contests scheduled with Trenton, Lancaster, Tamaqua and other similar first-class teams. Mr. Woolston has also received inquires about games from a number of other teams.

There will be no Hudson River League team in Elizabeth this season or any other year, while Newark holds an Eastern League franchise, says Manager Walter W. Burnham, of the local Eastern League Club. The principal reason, declared Mr. Burnham, is that the placing of a league team in the Union county city would be an encroachment on the Newark club's territory. As both the Eastern and the Hudson River leagues come under the jurisdiction of the National Association, that body would be compelled to interfere with such a move at the first complaint of the Newark club. On the strength of that it is safe to say that Elizabeth will not be represented in a league.

BASKET BALL.

The Carteret Academy basketball team, which was to have played a game with Leal's school yesterday afternoon failed to put in an appearance. No word was sent, and the Leal's school players were all prepared. The scrubs was called out at the last minute and a practice game played, in which the first team had a walk-over.

AMUSEMENTS.

London must be suffering from a painful death of theatrical entertainment just now, if one may judge from the list of important English actors at present in America. Edward Terry has closed Terry's Theatre temporarily, and is appearing at the Princess, New York, in "The House of Burnside," "Sweet Lavender," and "Love in Idleness." Sir Charles Wyndham, Mary Moore, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott all are in this country, and E. S. Willard is on his way here. Beerbohm Tree, Lewis Waller, Arthur Bouchier, George Alexander and Sir Henry Irving have signified their intention of coming. Of the stars who remain in the "right little, tight little isle," a round dozen are touring the provinces. None of the English actors in New York are to return before April, and Mr. Terry remains until June. This comedian, by the way, has scored a genuine success on Broadway, and will stay at the Princess until Spring.

The Winter in Washington.

Washington is a typical winter resort and its bustle is purely social and political. There are gathered in the Capital representatives of every nation and country, and their comings and goings are of no little interest. Then the doings of the Senate and House are features which every tourist delights in following, and these features together with the visits to the numerous public buildings keep one busy all the while one is in Washington. The Royal Blue Line of which the New Jersey Central is the initial road is going to operate an excursion to Washington on Feb. 11, 1905, and cost of tickets for the three days' excursion including all expenses is $12. Train leaves New York at 12 noon, and arrives Washington at 5:30 p. m. If you want to know about the trip drop a postal to C. M. Burt, General Passenger Agent, New York city, for tour book. CLEARING AWAY THE SNOW

Drifts Along West Front St. Now Being Removed.

WORK COSTS CITY $600

Mayor Buckle Displeased Because Street Committee Has Neglected to Clean Up North Avenue.

At the end of this week, Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett hopes to complete his work of clearing away the surplus snow which has been filling the streets and gutters in drifts. Yesterday and today the city gang devoted its efforts to removing the drifts along the line of the trolley on West Front street, the expense being borne by the trolley company. This is due to the fact that the company's sweepers were responsible for the quantity of snow piled on either side of the tracks. Mr. Gavett, accompanied by Councilman Wilson, chairman of the street committee, yesterday afternoon and last night made a tour of some of the principal streets to ascertain their condition. It was decided to go ahead and clean up the snow along the trolley tracks.

There is some legal question involved in carrying on this work which requires an expenditure of city funds, and President Daniel, of the Common Council, prefers to wait until a meeting of that body is held before continuing the work, thus giving the members a chance to make an appropriation for it.

Mayor Buckle expressed his opinion rather freely this morning regarding the condition of North avenue, especially in front of the city offices, believing that the snow drifts, which in many cases blocks the way to the various stores, should have been removed several days ago. He inquired of Mr. Gavett whether the street committee had concurred in the matter of leaving North avenue as it is now, and it is apparent that Mr. Wilson has been acting for the committee in directing this work.

Up to last Monday the street gang consisted of twenty-three men employed in cleaning sidewalks, fourteen men on the street work and fourteen single and double carts. The extra help has since been laid off, so that now the gang is reduced to its regular number. Providing that the city completes the work now left to be done, the expense will not go over $600, while the expense to the Public Service Corporation will approximately reach $400 in this city, making a total of $1,000 in all. Mr. Gavett is much pleased with the work of his men in cleaning up the city. Little could be done Wednesday and Thursday of last week, owing to the high winds, but after Thursday the work progressed rapidly.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Preparatory services will be held at Warren chapel Friday night and the celebration of the Lord's Supper will be held on Sunday morning.

J. M. Stifler, of Roselle, will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Y. M. C. A. Male Quartette and Martin A. Korff, violin soloist, will furnish the special music. Mr. Stifler will be remembered as one of the supplies at the First Baptist church of this city. He is an attractive and inspiring speaker.

SNAP SHOTS.

The New Jersey Central experienced more than usual trouble during the recent storm at Flagtown, where the snow drifted to an almost unprecedented height. It was here that Engineer Lovell, one of the youngest engine drivers on the road, showed the stuff of which he is made. Taking charge of one of the company's big snow plows, he worked almost constantly for twenty-four hours without food or drink trying to open up the road. Another crew was finally obliged to go to his rescue. He refused to quit even then and remained at work as long as any of the other employes.

ON TRACK OF THE MURDERER

No Motive Yet Found for George Williams Being Slain, Neither Robbery Nor Revenge Considered As the Purpose of the Crime Which Arouses the Community.

POLICE NOW SEEK TO ARREST GEORGE H. WOOD

General Alarm Sent Out for a Cousin of William Pollack, Whose Description Tallies With the Murderer's—Suspected Man's Movements—Clever Work of Chief Kiley, Who Hunts Murderer.

Cleverly working up a clue that had been furnished him by a local hackman, Chief Kiely this afternoon reached the conclusion that the murderer of George Williams is George H. Wood, of the firm of Wood & Stevenson, iron workers and riggers, New York, and that his residence is at 376 West 131st street. He had been staying at Blimm's hotel on Somerset street for the past week and going to the hostelry at 2 o'clock this afternoon Chief Kiely appropriated his valise and all other belongings.

Wood's valise contain half a box of .32 calibre cartridges and other articles which convinced him that Wood is the man. A general alarm is now being sent out for Wood and the New York police have been instructed to go to his home.

Again later today it was learned that Wood is a cousin of the Mr. Pollack, whose place the murderer said he was trying to reach.

Apparently without motive or previous intent, the cold-blooded murder of George Williams, the Watchung grocer, on the Coontown road yesterday morning, is the most mysterious case of its kind the Somerset County authorities have ever had to contend with. Seated in his sleigh, driving a stranger to the Pollack place near Millington, a revolver of heavy calibre was pressed against his back on the left side and a bullet was sent through a vital spot in the region of the heart, killing him instantly. Robbery was evidently not the motive, as his overcoat had not been unbuttoned and money and checks were still in the inside pockets; there is almost positive certainty that there had been no quarrel and up until the time that Williams was engaged by his slayer to carry him on the trip, it is an assured fact that they had never met before.

While the echoes from the pistol crack were still resounding through the deep woods wherein the crime was committed, the murderer leaped from the sleigh backwards and walking this way for perhaps fifty feet, strode up the road to the Pollack place a mile off, entered the barn on the premises, came out again in the rear and made his way to the Millington station of the D. L. and W. Railroad, where all trace of him was lost. Who is he? Where did he come from? Why did he kill Williams? How did he know of the Pollack place and the way to the Millington station unless he was acquainted in that section? And why should he have wanted to get to Pollack's? are questions that no one can answer at this time. Watchung residents and those at Warrenville, where Williams' parents and relatives have always resided, declare he never had an enemy in the world and in the pretty Plainfield suburb, where he conducted the general grocery store for two years, he was popular with everyone. The young widow, lying prostrated at her home, can throw no light on the mystery and County Detective George Totten and his assistants are hopelessly in the dark.

The murderer first made his appearance at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Hugo Maul's Washingtonville hotel, at the head of Somerset street. He was served with a drink of whiskey by the bartender, Edward Martins, who noted that he was about forty years old, of light complexion and with sandy moustache, five feet ten inches in height and to all appearances a business man. His clothing consisted of an ordinary light suit and he wore a dark overcoat and a brown fedora hat. After being waited upon, he casually mentioned the fact that he had come up on a Somerset street trolley car from Plainfield and he asked if there was anyone about

SCHOOLS TO COMPETE IN INDOOR ATHLETIC MEET

ANNUAL EVENT UNDER Y. M. C. A.'S AUSPICES ON MARCH 4.

Under the auspices of the physical department of the Y. M. C. A., an indoor inter-scholastic athletic meet will be held at the gymnasium on March 4, open to the Plainfield and North Plainfield high schools, Leal's School and the Westfield High School. The scholastic athletic championship of the city and borough, and of Westfield will be determined at this meet, which is an annual affair.

Last year Leal's School won the event which was held at the Driving Park, and though this is the first indoor meet ever held between the schools, many of the events will be the same as in former years. A committee meeting of representatives from the various schools in the vicinity met last night at the Y. M. C. A. parlors, and elected Fred A. Henckel president and Lindsay Best, athletic director of the Plainfield High School, secretary for the meet. These officials with the assistance of the committee from all the schools decided upon the following events for the meet: Quarter mile run, standing broad jump, standing high jump, three broad jumps, high dive, shot put, three legged race and relay potato race. With the exception of the last two events, the regulations governing the meet allow three men of each school to enter each event, not necessarily the same three taking part in all. The points for the meet will be five for first, three for second, and one for third place. An individual prize will be offered in addition to a cup for the winning team.

Another meeting of the officers and committee will be held on February 10, at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock, when more definite plans will be made out, and judges and officials selected. The meet will be governed by the A. A. N. rules, in addition to such regulations as the committee may decide upon.

PARKS HOLD FOURTH PLACE.

William Barlow is Still High Man in Central Journal Bowling League.

The Park Club bowlers are now fourth in the Central Journal Bowling League, with an average of 831.12, and a high score of 926. It has won 13 and lost 8 games. The Westfield Club is in the lead in the league, though Roselle, with whom Westfield was tied, has won more games. The percentage and averages in the league up to the present time are as follows:

Clubs.	W.	L.	Ave	H. S.
Westfield Club	13	3	840.12	946
Roselle Casino	14	7	822.3	898
Jersey City	12	9	818.1	984
Park Club	8	10	821.12	926
Elizabeth Club	9	10	851.5	1007
Cranford Casino	9	13	800.11	902
Newark Bay	5	16	798	869

William Barlow, of the local club, holds the highest score mark, is 247 rolled against Newark, being far above other individual scores. He stands fourth in the order of highest averages, Keys, of Elizabeth, being first.

Sunday-School Concert.

The Congregational Sunday-school is planning to hold a Sunday-school concert Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. BOARD OF TRADE BANQUET

F. A. Dunham, Road Builder, Speaker of the Evening.

MARTINE'S ARGUMENT

Farmer Orator Urges Municipal Lighting Plant—Vocal Solos by Judge Runyon and Wm. Jeffery.

Attended by one of the largest gatherings it has had in many months, the local Board of Trade conducted a meeting, last night, that was alike instructive and entertaining. Disposing of routine business in the early part of the affair, a paper on permanent paving was read by F. A. Dunham, the well known civil engineer, who has built many miles of roads in all parts of the country, especially in New York State and the South. He treated the subject exhaustively and without making suggestions to the Board as to the best, related facts and figures compiled by him in his many years experience.

Mr. Dunham's paper was followed by a general discussion and he answered numerous questions put to him by members of the board. Permanent pavement and the best and most substantial way of construction has been taken up at nearly all of the board's recent meetings but no decision was ever arrived at in order to make a recommendation to the Common Council.

Following Mr. Dunham, James E. Martine told of the municipal lighting plant at Nashville, Tenn., which he has visited, and presented several of his well known arguments as to why it is better for a city to provide its own light than to buy it of a corporation. Another discussion was the result, in which R. P. Bates, superintendent of the Public Service Corporation's local plant, took an active part. Further remarks during the evening on the permanent pavement question were made by David Bowden, assistant city street commissioner, who supervised many contracts which Mr. Dunham undertook.

Interspersing the discussions, instrumental and vocal selections were given by City Judge William N. Runyon and William Jeffery, while cigars and light refreshments were served.

The committee which had charge of the arrangements consisted of Morris C. VanArsdale, Isaac Schwed and Charles W. Runyon. It is the intention of the board to have a similar affair each month and the next will be in charge of William A. Woodruff, William Jeffery and J. V. E. Vanderhoef.

MRS. DRAYTON'S TEA FOR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

MISS MYRA KELLY TELLS OF HER WORK IN NEW YORK.

Under the direction of Mrs. J. Gilmore Drayton and for the benefit of the Grace Church Colored Industrial School, of which she is the head, a delightful tea and sale was held at Mrs. Drayton's home on East Ninth street, yesterday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. Miss Myra Kelly, author of "The Little Citizen," told of her work in the Eastern side of New York.

Mrs. J. Gilmore Drayton, Miss Sarah Drayton and Miss Agnes Smith received the guests in the parlor. Those who presided in the dining room were Mrs Benjamin Drake, Mrs. Stuart H Patterson and Mrs. E. F. Feickert and those assisting were Miss Grace Wilcox, Miss Glen, Miss Margaret Holly, Miss Charlotte Finch and Miss Margaret Drayton. In addition there was a candy table in charge of Miss May Holly and Miss Marie Finch. Miss Imogene Bass was in charge of a fancy table, the articles being made by the colored children in the Industrial School.

There was a silver offering received at the door by Harold Robert and the proceeds will go toward the work of the Industrial School.

College Dean at P. H. S.

Dean Ferry, of Williams College, a collegemate of Principal I. W. Travell, made an address at the Plainfield High School this morning. Dr. Ferry's remarks were of a congratulatory nature upon the work of the High School pupils. Dr. Ferry made special reference to the boys of the school, that he hoped in the future to see many more of the High School graduates at Williams.

Forty Days for Drunkenness.

Bridget Coleman, arrested for helpless intoxication on West Second street last night, was sent to jail for forty days by Judge Runyon this morning.

Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS ELECT

J. W. Gavett is Chosen President of Association.

MR. CAHOONE DECLINES

E. L. Bonny Selected as Vice President and A. B. Beers as Treasurer—The List of Directors.

Joseph W Gavett was elected president of the Y. M. C. A. at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors, last night, succeeding Stephen A. Cahoone, who declined another term. Mr. Cahoone has been president for seven years, and has won the gratitude of his co-workers in making the Y. M. C. A. what it is today.

Working in conjunction with Mr. Gavett, the following men will serve in the offices of the association: Vice presiden, E. L. Bonny; recording secretary, A. B. Beers; treasurer, Curtis M. Thorpe; general secretary, J. H. Manning; boys' secretary, Kenneth Robbie; physical director, Fred A. Henckel.

These are the directors: Stephen Cahoone, J. H. Cass, George S. Clay, Harry Gee, A. C. LaBoyteaux, H. M. Maxson, William D. Murray, H. O. Newman, R. H. Radford, G. M. Rittenhouse, O. S. Rogers, Nelson Runyon, F. R. Stevens.

A committee composed of William D. Murray, Joseph W. Gavett and John Valiant was appointed to adopt a resolution of appreciation for the services of Mr. Cahoone, as president of the association. The regular routine business of the board was transacted and the meeting adjourned.

MISS THAYER WEDS.

She Becomes the Wife of Chauncey K. Pennington, of Westfield.

Miss Mildred William Thayer, daughter of the late Charles T. Thayer, and Chauncey K. Pennington, of Westfield, were married Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride on Webster place. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. Only the near relatives and friends of the couple were present.

The bride, unattended, was gowned in a traveling dress of blue broadcloth. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Pliny T. Sexton, of Palmyra, N. Y. The wedding march was played by Miss Daisy Kline, of this city. The bride is well-known here and a favorite in the younger society. Mr. Pennington is a contracting electrician and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Pennington, of Westfield. The couple has gone south on a wedding trip and it is possible that they may locate in Florida, where the groom contemplates starting in business.

WELL ATTENDED DANCE.

Criterion Club Holds Successful Affair at Casino.

Surpassing even the successful of former years, the first dance of the season given by the Criterion Club at Casino last night brought together a large and congenial crowd, which made the hours seem like minutes until 2 o'clock this morning. In addition to a large number of Plainfielders, parties of out of town friends were in attendance. The committee of general arrangements was composed of Harry DeMeza, John Hall, George Graves, George Pope, and Harry Blimm. Assisting this committee were Clarence Brokaw, Edward Bellis, George Cose, Bert Clark, William Swalm, Louis Gardner, Edward Bennett, Walter Emmons and Thomas DeMeza.

Temporary Trolley Station.

The Public Service Corporation today vacated its trolley station on Watchung avenue and moved into Hatfield & Garthwait's new store adjoining. The building will be demolished by the new owners Charles H. Hand and J. Homan and in its place will be erected five one story buildings for store purposes One of these stores, adjoining Hatfield & Garthwait's new building, will be occupied by the trolley company as a waiting room and for an office. On either end will be two three story buildings.

"COAL BARRENS" FEAST

Third Annual Dinner of the Twelve Held at Pedeflous.

MEMORY OF COAL STRIKE

Women as Guests—Eleven Members of Organization Which Started in 1902.

The annual dinner to the women friends of the Coal Barren XII was given at Pedeflous' Hotel, last night, and this being the first time that the fair sex have been extended the courtesy, the affair was all the more enjoyable. The feast was followed with a flow of good fellowship that kept the party in continuous merriment until 2 o'clock this morning. Besides the wives of the married members there were present Miss Cady, of Brooklyn; Miss Gilligan, of Jersey City; Miss Mooney, of New York, and Miss McInness, of this city.

Mr. Pedeflous prepared one of his best menus, and nothing but praise was accorded it and the excellent service. The menu:

Celery Olives Radishes
OYSTERS
Blue Points, half shell
SOUP
Cream Celery RELISH
Canopie Duc de Clarence
ENTREE
Broiled Mushrooms on Toast
ROAST
Chicken
Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
Coal Barren Punch
SALAD
Lettuce
DESSERT
Ice Cream Coffee Crackers
Cheese

The Coal Barren XII is a unique organization. It is composed of eleven members and the manner of its formation is peculiar. In 1902 when the coal strike was most acute, J Russel Knowlton inadvertantly mentioned one morning on the 8:02 train that he did not care how long the strike lasted for he had twelve tons of coal in his cellar." That night ten men who now constitute the coal barrens swooped down on Mr. Knowlton, every man carrying an empty coal scuttle and then and there demanded enough of that costly fuel to cook a breakfast with.

The evening was pleasantly passed and thus was the beginning of the Coal Barren XII. Once each month during the winter months since that period in 1902, one of the members must entertain the Barrens There are only eleven of them and the twelfth one is the hostess of the house where ever they happen to meet. They have been dined in luxurious places during their existence.

Last night lots were drawn for the next meeting, and it fell on one of the bachelor members, who immediately declared that the whole party present must meet in New York early next month.

This is the roster of the organization: John J. Kenney, W. J. O'Keefe, Charles J. Ward, John O'Keefe, Matthew J. Cashin, David J. Carney, Andrew E. Kenney, Joseph F. O'Keefe, J. Russell Knowlton, M. J. Whalen, J. M. Hillmann and The Hostess. They were all present last night together with the women whose names were previously mentioned. The trip to and from Pedeflous' Hotel was made in a large box sleigh.

Surprised Mr. Teeter

Thirty friends of Albert Teeter, of Grove street, tendered him a surprise party, Wednesday night. The affair was arranged by Miss Jennie DeCamp, of Linden avenue, and Albert Schmeyer, of Prospect place.

INTENDED TO KILL POLICEMAN

Four Negroes Are Convicted of Murderously Assaulting Marshal Joseph Flack, of North Plainfield, on Christmas Eve.

THE VERDICT IS SOMEWHAT OF A SURPRISE

Tems, Tunstall, Hunt and Henderson Will Go to State's Prison—Fought Borough Officers—Supposition That Henderson Would Escape Punishment on This Charge.

While the trial of the four negroes charged with assault with intent to kill upon Marshal J. William Klein was in progress yesterday afternoon, the jury returned a verdict of guilty in all four cases on the Flack indictment. Counsel for the defendants asked for the mercy of the court in the cases of Tems, Hunt and Henderson. The four men will probably be sentenced next week.

This verdict was another unexpected one that has been rendered since hearing in the indictments began. It was generally supposed that Henderson would be acquitted by the jury but now as it is he will in all probability go to State's prison with the others. The maximum sentence on this conviction is not more than twelve years imprisonment or a fine of $2,000 or both.

After the new jury was empanelled yesterday, Charles A. Reed, who is now assisting the prosecution, placed Marshal Klein on the stand. The officer, at the request of the counsel, disrobed sufficiently to show the wounds he received Christmas Eve, and Mr. Reed attempted to offer in evidence a photograph of Somerset street, showing the county line, but the court sustained the objection of the defendant's counsel to its admission unless the photograph was proved by the maker of it. The prosecution also placed on the stand Marshals Walter Smalley, Joseph Flack and Dr. Albert Pittis, John P. Powers and Edward Smalley, Jr., after which it rested its case. The evidence brought out by these witnesses was more or less similar to that given in the preceding trial.

Lawyer W. G. DeMeza, counsel for the defendants, then opened his part of the case by placing Thomas Henderson, one of the four accused negroes on the stand and his examination concluded the afternoon session of the trial.

No session of court was held this morning on account of the non-arrival of Judge Schenck. The drifts were so bad on the South Branch road, that the Judge could not get in to Somerville from Neshanic. Court resumed its session at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

SPECIAL SERVICES FOR CANDLEMAS DAY

LARGE GATHERINGS IN ST. MARY'S AND ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCHES.

Special services were held in St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches yesterday in celebration of the feast of the purification or Candlemas day. At both churches the services were very largely attended by communicants. The feature of the services was the blessing of the candles by the rectors, Rev. Father Egan and Rev. Father Miller.

This service is one of the most important of the year in the church and it is observed very religiously by Catholics. Today the Catholic church celebrates the feast of St. Blastus and there were special services at 5:30 and 8 o'clock this morning and similar services will be held tonight after the devotions in honor of the sacred heart of Jesus.

Special services similar to those held at the Catholic church were held at the local Episcopal churches, yesterday, they being in charge of the rectors

GREET THEIR PASTOR.

Reception Given Rev. and Mrs. A. Finn by Congregation at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

The parlors of the Park Avenue Baptist church presented an unusually attractive appearance last night at the occasion of the annual reception given by the congregation to the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Finn. Over two hundred people were present. The affair was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid and Young People's Societies.

Assisting Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Finn in receiving were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. T H. Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gildes and Mr. and Mrs D. M. Runyon. During the evening the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, under the direction of Martin A. Korff, rendered a programme of popular music. At the conclusion of the reception, refreshments were served, which were provided by a committee composed of Mrs. A. D. Thompson, Mrs. Wheaton Lowry, Mrs Charles VanWinckle. Mrs. Frank T. Ostrom was in charge of the affair in general, and chairman of the committee.

Special Announcement.

The Philadelphia Record will publish a supplement with its Sunday edition of February 5 which will be the most novel, interesting and instructive ever given away by a Philadelphia newspaper. This novelty, so baffling to science, consists of an apparently blurred picture and the plastograph or "magic spectacles." Upon properly adjusting the wonderful spectacles in accordance with the directions and looking at the picture at the proper focus, a result, entertaining and interesting, will be at once produced. Save the pictures, as The Record will continue this supplement indefinitely, giving its readers an opportunity of collecting a novel and entertaining series. In view of the probable demand for next Sunday's Record, place your order at once with your newsdealer for a copy. The Philadelphia Sunday Record, 917 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE FORUM.

Lack of Fire Escapes.

Editor, The Daily Press:

A matter that cannot fail to be of serious moment to both residents and all stoppers in Plainfield, as in any other town, is that of adequate fire escapes for all the taller buildings in the city. There can be many pros and cons offered on such a subject anywhere; but to use every precaution that money and intellect can provide, to prevent human suffering, is only common humanity. The entire city should be of one mind on a subject of a universal nature. A glance up or down street will mark a notable absence of fire escapes on many if not most of the better structures. As a people we seek to do every good and kindness possible, to humanity daily, so far as we can know how to accomplish. And duties come first, pleasure afterward. After a terrible disaster, is a poor time to apply remedies. No human power can bring back a life that has gone out, nor offer effective consolation where obvious neglect or fault—individual or public—has resulted in fatality. All building above two stories high, should be, without question, provided with substantial permanent outside stairways that can be plainly seen and easily reached by any occupant whether resident or transient. It would seem that a board of public safety should have charge of this work, just as the official boards control pure milk and pure food regulations, safe highways, municipal sanitation and other matters of general welfare, in practically all cities. It should be obligatory that all tall structures, whether business or residential, should have permanent fire escapes built onto them as they are put up. And for those not already so provided, little time and opportunity need be lost in adding such safeguards to all buildings having three or more stories, if cheerful industry prevail. The great frequency of unaccountable fires in this city during the past months gives ample data for individual thought, and further official, public action. All know that fire is no respecter of persons nor places; and it can never be known at what time some insurmountable obstacle or weather conditions could render the most proficient and hardworking fire department in existence almost utterly helpless to cope with the difficulties—that too many of our citizens almost do not know of nor realize—in regard to combating flames. Even the weather conditions of the past week, if extended, would seriously impair the progress of the best fire company in existence. And if, perhaps in the night, during or immediately after such a deep snowfall, and with a high wind raging to fan and spread flame, a fire should start at some little distance from the engine house, and be already somewhat under headway before discovery, it might easily cut off escape for any persons, many or few, who might be in the building at the time, and make it impossible to give them aid in time to save life. Even one who has neither home nor property interests in the community cannot but appreciate this feature, and hope that others of our beautiful city will also think of it to purpose.

Humanity.

—The extra team of horses which has been kept at fire headquarters in North Plainfield since the streets became blocked with snow, was dispensed with yesterday.

—In response to the letters sent out by President James O. Connolly, of the Elizabeth Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument committee, there was a large attendance in the City Hall in Elizabeth Tuesday night. L. A. Gudelrod, sculptor, of New York, offering to show an original design for a monument. This was referred to the Monument Association. Secretary of the collecting committee, James MacMaster, reported that $130 had been collected in one week.

Jacob Greier, of Madison avenue, is detained at home by illness.

Edgar Linnett, of Newark, is visiting friends in this city for a few days.

Miss Mary Collier, of East Sixth street, has been visiting friends in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mighton, of South avenue, have returned from a visit of two weeks with Brooklyn relatives.

Owing to ill-health, A. A. Gaddis will remove from Westfield and go South. He has resided in Westfield for many years and was one of the original promoters of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway, the name under which the road from Elizabeth to Plainfield was built.

EXECUTION STAYED.

Governor Bell Grants Mrs. Rogers a Respite.

DETAILS OF A TREACHEROUS CRIME

Clemency For Windsor Prisoner Until June 2—Had Given Up Hope and Received Last Rites of the Church.

WINDSOR, Vt., Feb. 3.—A few hours after receiving the last rites of the Catholic church and hearing her father confessor read the prayers for the dying Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers, who was sentenced to die upon the gallows this afternoon, listened with amazement to the announcement of High Sheriff Henry H. Peck that Governor Charles J. Bell had granted her a reprieve of four months.

The news from Montpelier that the governor had consented to defer the execution of Mrs. Rogers, carried to the prison by a press representative, came as a surprise not only to the condemned woman, but also to the sheriff, his deputies and the prison officials, as it had been generally accepted that the governor would refuse to interfere. The woman in her cell at the state prison here had abandoned all hope of escaping death, and her spiritual adviser had been summoned to administer the last consolations of her faith.

Sheriff Peck, who had never seen Mrs. Rogers before, walking up to the door, said:

"Mrs. Rogers, I am the sheriff. I have brought you good news."

"I am glad to meet you, Mr. Sheriff," said Mrs. Rogers as she extended her hand through the grating. "I have often heard of you, but I have never met you before. What is the good news?"

"Governor Bell has granted you a reprieve until June 2," replied the sheriff.

Mrs. Rogers remained like a statue as though unable to comprehend the meaning of the words. Without a sign of emotion she gazed at the sheriff a moment and then said:

"I had given up all hope, but I am glad that the governor has granted me more time. He is a good man."

Preparations for the execution had been perfected. The gallows had been erected in the west wing of the prison, a heavy black curtain hanging from the guard room windows shutting the grewsome machinery of death from public view. When the news of Governor Bell's action was carried to the prison the officials hesitated to believe the announcement until Governor Bell called up E. W. Oakes, the prison superintendent by long distance telephone and formally notified him that Mrs. Rogers had been granted a reprieve in order that her claim to not having had a fair trial might be passed upon by the supreme court.

Sheriff Peck was on the verge of a collapse. The idea of executing the woman was repugnant to him, and he had brought every effort to bear to secure a reprieve. The deputy sheriffs shared the nervousness of Sheriff Peck, but all of them indicated plainly both in speech and action that they had no hope of being able to escape their duty.

When Father Delaney visited the prison he found Mrs. Rogers calmly waiting death. In the presence of the death watch the priest administered the last rites of the church and spoke words of comfort to the woman. Mrs. Rogers told the priest that she was resigned to her fate, had forgiven her enemies and felt no resentment toward any person connected either with the prosecution or her case or the execution of the law.

The crime for which Mrs. Rogers was sentenced to death was the murder of her husband, Marcus Rogers, at night, in Bennington. Mrs. Rogers is only twenty-one years old. She was but six been years old when she was married.

They had been living apart. It was in response to an invitation from her that he went to her boarding place on the day set for his death. A life insurance of $500 was believed to have been the object of the killing.

The wife had secured the life insurance policy, and he had promised to meet her on the bank of the Walloomsac river, in a field outside the village, at 10 o'clock in the evening. The woman had pretended that the meeting was to be for the purpose of effecting a permanent reconciliation.

The next morning a workman who was passing through a grove found a man's hat hanging on a branch of a tree, and on the hat was pinned a note which said that the writer was going away and hoped that "Mamie" would be happy. The name "Marcus" was signed. That afternoon Mrs. Rogers notified the authorities that her husband had left her the day before, saying that he was going to kill himself, and she suggested that a search for him be made. As a result of the search the body of Rogers was found in the Walloomsac river. An autopsy disclosed the fact that the man was dead before his body entered the water.

Mrs. Rogers, Leon Perham and a woman friend of Mrs. Rogers, Estella Bates, were taken into custody, and for a time they persisted that they knew nothing about the affair. Later young Perham confessed that he and Miss Bates went by prearrangement to the place where Rogers was to meet his wife. Mrs. Rogers followed them, and when her husband appeared she greeted him affectionately. After a pretended reconciliation had been effected Mrs. Rogers drew from her breast a piece of rope and told her husband that she had learned a new game and that she would show it to him. Tying his hands behind his back, she had him lie down with his head in her lap. While caressing him she slyly took a bottle of chloroform out of her pocket and, saturating her handkerchief, applied the anaesthetic to his nose and mouth.

As Rogers struggled to get away Perham seated himself upon the struggling man's feet. Death ensued within a few moments. The rope was taken off, and Perham and Mrs. Rogers threw the lifeless body into the river.

Both Governor Bell and Sheriff Peck, who was to have had charge of the execution, have been deluged for weeks with letters and petitions protesting against the hanging. One of the deputy sheriffs connected with the state prison is said to have received a letter containing poison and a promise of $400 if he would see that Mrs. Rogers received the poison before the day set for the execution.

DARLING'S RESIGNATION.

On Completion of Term Will Become Collector at Burlington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Mr. Charles H. Darling, assistant secretary of the navy, has resigned his position. Mr. Darling's letter to the president follows:

"I deem it best that I should retire from the office of assistant secretary of the navy at the expiration of four years' service, or as near that time as best suits your convenience. While the position has been one of sacrifice, its duties have been pleasant and interesting.

"It has been a special privilege to have held this office under your administration, conspicuous for the great development of the navy. Your personal leadership has been an inspiration and an incentive to one's best efforts.

"I shall also live happier because of the friendship of Secretaries Long, Moody and Morton, under whom I have served.

"I greatly appreciate the personal kindness and consideration which you have shown me and shall retire from the office with deep regrets."

The president replied as follows:

"You have been a particularly painstaking, hard working and efficient public servant in your position as assistant secretary of the navy. I am sorry that you are to retire from this position, and I am unwilling to have you sever your connection with the public service. I know that it has been a sacrifice for you to come to Washington, and it is my purpose, when your resignation takes effect, to appoint you collector of the port of Burlington, of the district of Vermont."

Mr. Darling was appointed assistant secretary of the navy Dec. 17, 1901, leaving a lucrative law practice in Vermont to accept the position. He has been acting secretary in as many crises as any one of the three secretaries under whom he has served. For the ability shown by him during the international difficulties arising out of the arrival at Shanghai last summer of the Russian ships Mr. Darling received hearty congratulations.

Ten Years' Chase For Souser.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 3.—W. H. Souser, who was arrested a few days ago in Pittsburg after a ten year chase on a charge of impersonating an officer of the secret police service, was taken before Judge Lochren in Minneapolis, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the state prison.

Will Uphold President's Policy.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 3.—The amount of emphasis to be used in indorsing President Roosevelt's railway policy was the subject of a lively debate in the state senate. The resolution of indorsement passed by the house was drastic in condemnation of the railways and warmly commended President Roosevelt.

Man Hurt by Monkey Assailant.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Elmer Stillwell is in a serious condition as the result of an attack on him by a pet monkey belonging to the Cornell museum. The animal tore a long gash in Stillwell's scalp and bit him severely on one leg. The monkey was captured by bystanders and drowned in a water tank.

Quick Punishment For Holdups.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—Charles Ryan and Harry Coleman, who last week held up several persons and also held up a street car and shot and injured the motorman, were sentenced to fifteen years each in prison. The men were placed on trial, and their conviction and sentence quickly followed.

Will Clean Panama and Colon.

PANAMA, Feb. 3.—The sanitary authorities of the Panama canal zone government have undertaken the sanitation of the cities of Panama and Colon. Houses are being thoroughly fumigated, and work on the sewer system and water supply plant is advancing rapidly.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb 2, 1905.

Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania, a dignified and learned man who has made himself ridiculous by his insane attacks on the press, has been "called" at last by the Philadelphia Record which offered to allow him to run the paper for twenty-four hours in order to demonstrate to the newspaper fraternity the class of news that should be used. The man who urges the suppression of newspapers declined the offer. It is safe to say that the Governor would be as much of a success as an editor of a daily journal as was the minister who made a fizzle of running a Topeka paper some years ago.

LOTS OF AMUSEMENT AT VINCENT CHAPEL

MADAME JARLEY'S WAX WORKS WAS THE ATTRACTION.

"Madam Jarley" and her wax works received a flattering reception at Vincent chapel, last night, their appearance being under the direction of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the First M. E. church. Miss Etta Raybert made a most excellent Madame Jarley, and all of the many characters presented were very amusing. Assisting Madame Jarley were Charles L. Lewis and Elmer D. Cutting, also Miss Whitney, who helped to arrange the affair. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Cutting set the figures in motion and otherwise assisted in keeping the large attendance in good humor.

First were given the Mother Goose characters as follows: "Mother Goose," Miss Martha Coddington; "Bo Peep," Miss Mary Robley; "Babes in the Wood," George Rittenhouse and Albert Coddington; "Little Miss Muffett," Miss Edna Kennedy; "Simple Simon," Elden Miller.

A Shakespeare group was the presented as follows: "Lady Macbeth," Mrs. Sburman; "Queen Elizabeth," Miss Alberta Waterbury. Among the curiosities were "Chinese Giant," Phillip Smith; "Mrs. Winslow," Miss Edna French; 'Giggler," Miss Huber; "Bearded Woman," Wesley Messersmith; "Mrs. Allen's Hair Restorer," Miss Williams; "Woman who refused a new hat," Miss VanPlank. In the miscellaneous group were these: "Maniac," Miss Marguerite Ostrom; "vocalist," Mrs. Stephen H. Tugwell; "Jack Sprat and his wife," Enoch Hardingham and Miss Helen Whitney; "Cassie Chadwick," Miss Frances Rittenhouse; "expressman," Arthur Humble.

Madame Jarley was in charge and she read the story telling of the various characters.

Prior to the entertainment, the members of the Ladies' Aid Society gave an oyster supper and this was well patronized by members of the church and congregation. Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, as president of the society, was in charge, and those presiding at the tables were Mrs. George M. Rittenhouse, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs W. C. Snodgrass, Mrs. G. H. Whitney, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, Mrs. Erastus Clark, Mrs. J. C. Peck and Mrs. J. Hervey Doane. Assisting them were a large number of young women of the church, many of whom took part in the entertainment which followed.

During the evening there was on sale home-made candies and this table was in charge of Miss Grace Webster, Miss Rita Nash, Miss Perle Ruckman, Miss Grace Martin and Miss Fanny Chandler.

Charles L. Lewis, assisted by Miss Whitney, was largely instrumental in arranging the entertainment and a substantial sum will be realized as profit to make some of the necessary improvements in the basement and chapel of the church.

MURDER REMAINS A MYSTERY

the hostelry who would drive him to "Pollack's." Martins informed him that he knew of no one there but if he went up the road to William Demler's he might be accommodated.

The stranger departed and then appeared at Williams' store directly in Watchung, which was kept by the Demlers for many years. The request for a rig was repeated after inquiry had been made for Demler, thus establishing the point that Williams was not being sought. Demler was not in and Williams volunteered to make the trip and went across the street to get a cutter, turning the care of the store over to his wife. He was just hitching up when Demler appeared and asked where he was going.

"This man wants me to drive him to Pollack's," said Williams, "and I am coming right back."

That was the last he was seen alive in Watchung and nothing further was heard from him until shortly after 1 o'clock when a man named Jennings came into the village and asked Demler how he could inform the county physician that he was needed at John Miller's place on the Coontown road as a man had been murdered. Naturally asking about it, Demler at once concluded the dead man was Williams and he hurried friends off to make certain. It was he who broke the news to the wife and though it was done as gently as possible she collapsed immediately.

Williams and the stranger drove along the valley road through Warrenville up to Coontown and they were seen to pass John Miller's place on the Coontown road at 11:30 by his hired boy, George Cruse, who was playing in the road with a dog. The two were sitting talking in the cutter and Cruse noted nothing peculiar about them as the horse jogged along.

Two hundred feet from the Miller residence a stretch of woods begins and the road bends just after entering them. Hardly had the sleigh disappeared around it when Cruse heard the report of a pistol and then what he descried as a "moan," but which was evidently Williams' death cry as the murder occurred 500 feet from where he stood and a moan could not be distinct at that distance.

The boy did not attach much importance to it and thought nothing further of it until Eugene Pope, a former resident of this city, came hurrying down and reported that he had come upon a horse and sleigh standing in the road, with a dead man sitting bolt upright in the seat. He had tied the horse to a tree, he said, and asked that the men about Miller's place go back with him and investigate. The body was then still warm but none of the party knew that murder had been committed until the pistol shot was spoken of by Cruse and looking over the clothing, a hole was discovered in the back of the overcoat with burned powder marks about it.

The truth flashed upon the men and roused to the highest pitch, they secured rigs and notified every resident in the vicinity. A few feet back from where the horse stood, the murderer's tracks were found in the snow. He had jumped out of the sleigh backwards and walking this way in a circle had crossed over the road, then to it again after getting about the rig. He was traced straight up to the Pollack barn, which he had entered, and which was surrounded by farmers armed with shotguns. Some of them entered but there was no one there and then in the rear, the same tracks were discovered again, this time leading to the road that goes to Millington. The pursuers separated and those who went to Millington learned that a man answering the murderer's description had been there and made some inquiries about trains but had gone out without purchasing a ticket. Whether he had struck off in the country again, or had waited about and boarded a New York train which came along at 3:30, from the opposite side of the station, are mooted questions. At any rate, he was seen at the "Stone house corner," just this side of Millington by Adolphus Giddes, who offered the stranger a ride. This he declined and he was trudging along when Giddes passed by.

The greater part of the posse continued scouring the woods and fields until last night and had they come upon the murderer it is doubtful if he would have been taken alive, as grim determination was marked in the face of each. Those who returned to the scene of the crime waited about the sleigh, which remained with its ghastly occupant just as Pope had placed it, until the arrival of Coroner Thoms at 4 o'clock. County Detective Totten, accompanied by Plainfield newspapermen, came up at 5 o'clock and then for the first time, the body was carefully examined and the pockets searched.

In the trousers' pockets were bills and silver amounting to $5; in a coat pocket, a wallet containing several checks on Plainfield banks and numerous papers, but nothing had been touched. The powder marks on the coat showed that the revolver had been pressed against it and was evidently done quietly while Williams was driving, totally unconscious of his impending fate. With the arrival of County Physician Taylor, of Millstone, shortly after 6 o'clock, the body was removed to Miller's home and from there to Watchung.

When Detective Totten was pressed for his opinion in regard to a motive, after the clothing had been searched, he ejaculated:

"Motive? That's the question. This is the most puzzling case I have ever encountered. I don't believe it is robbery and at the present time I can venture no explanation."

One point that will be investigated thoroughly is the murderer's evident desire to reach Pollack's and whether he knew the family. The Pollack place is occupied by Mrs. Pollack and she could not be seen in order to learn if she knows anyone answering the stranger's description or how he came to know the name. Mrs. Pollack has a son, who is a New York business man, and if the stranger came from New York, it is just possible that he may have secured it in this way. There are several other clues that are to be followed up and may reveal something. At the present time, the police throughout the State and New York city are on the alert, the very mystery of the case seeming to arouse every officer to more than ordinary action.

Williams, the murdered man, was thirty-two years old and was the son of Peter Williams, of Warrenville. He had worked at various times in this city and Dunellen and two years ago came from Brooklyn, where he had been conducting a bakery, to Watchung, purchasing the grocery business from the Demler family. He leaves one child and is survived by five sisters, Mrs. Paul Reusch, of Dunellen; Mrs. Elmer Jennings, of Newark; Mrs. Schneiter, of New York; Miss Lena Williams, of Warrenville; Mrs. Skellenger, of Elmwood place, this city; also a brother, Peter Williams, Jr., of Warrenville. There are also numerous cousins in this city. He was a member of the Gallia Council of Juniors and the president of the Watchung Social Club. The latter organization was to have given a dance in Texier's mill last night and he was chairman of the committee of arrangements. Young people from distant points who had not heard of the tragedy, were gathering at the place as his body was brought home, but the event was not held.

Funeral services over the body will be held from his late home at Watchung Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock and from the Coontown church at 3 o'clock. The interment will be at Coontown.

Coroner Thoms and county officials were at Watchung today and the former is taking steps to empanel a jury that will pass upon the cause of death as soon as possible. The search for the murderer near the scene of the crime still continues and County Detective Totten remains in charge.

Rumors that the murderer had been caught at Millington early today were proven untrue by The Daily Press this noon, in telephone communication with Postmaster Baker. He declared that a close watch has been kept about the place since yesterday afternoon and that nothing has developed. He added that he had been at the Millington station when the New York train came in yesterday and that he saw no stranger get on, although he heard it stated that one had boarded it at Lyons station, just below.

The detectives on the case received an important clue when it was declared by a Watchung resident this morning that the murderer had said in Maul's that "Mr. Pollack had sent him out from New York to see about working his farm on shares." Mr. Pollack is well known personally to Mr. White, of Watchung, and the latter went to New York this morning to learn what truth there is in this statement.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Yesterday morning, a small fox terrier, owned by T. M. Day, ran deliberately in front of an express train and was torn to pieces. Two hours later, two children on their way to school ran across the tracks, and terrified the lookers-on by the narrow escape which they had from being struck by a fast train. The nearness of an accident, which would have brought great sorrow to the borough, is another reminder of the fact that grade crossings are a danger, and the citizens of the borough will hardly rest until some action is taken, either toward overhead crossings or toward improved gates.

Though G. E. Shermann, who has been representing the Dunellen Heights Land Company, the concern which has been planning to build up the section of land around the factories, has left town, and taken another position, the work will continue under different management. The same plans for the erection of small dwellings will be carried out as soon as the spring opens.

George Williams, the grocer, who met a tragic death by murder yesterday afternoon, was in this borough Wednesday afternoon, visiting his sister, Mrs. Paul Reusch. He was well known here, and often visited in the borough. His death was a great shock to his many Dunellen friends.

The marriage of Miss Mary Kelley, of the borough, to Archibald Hallard, of Clinton avenue, which took place on January 7, has recently been made known. It was performed by Justice Mueller, of Newark. Mr. and Mrs. Hallard are residing in Plainfield.

The regular meeting of the Council will be held next Monday evening, when the business for the current year will be concluded. Bills against the borough should be presented to the clerk before that date, in order to be considered at the meeting.

In all probability the chapel of the Presbyterian church will be heated next Sunday by the new furnace which is being put in. The men have been at work on the heater all the week, and say it will be ready for lighting tomorrow.

The boys of the borough, headed by Paul Brakeley, went on a sleigh ride last night, about twenty composing the group. Bound Brook was the terminal of the trip, and the return was made at a late hour.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dunham, of Front street, who has been visiting her relatives in Pennsylvania, has recently returned to her home after a month's visit.

Matthew D. Wherley left yesterday for an extendded business trip through the West. While away Mr. Wherley will spend some time at Chicago, Ill.

Regular business will be transacted by the Board of Education at its monthly meeting which will be held on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Josephine Dunham, who is spending a few weeks with friends at Lakewood, is expected to return the last of next month.

A large number of local young people attended the dance given by the Criterion Club at the Casino, in Plainfield, last night.

Miss Amy Sampson, who is attending the Trenton Normal School, will spend a few days with her parents.

Mrs. George W. Day, of this borough, has been entertaining out-of-town relatives for a week.

Miss Emma Stevens, of Newark, has been the guests of relatives in the borough.

Mrs. L. B. Nelson has been entertaining Mrs. Everitt Ward, of Chicago.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

If your name is not on the registry list you will be unable to vote at the special election to be held on Tuesday. The Registry Board is meeting in the town rooms this afternoon to revise and correct the registry list. From present indications, but few votes will be cast, as the voters are taking but little interest in the one-sided affair.

The five-men team from the Brookside Gun Club, shoot the postponed match with the team from the Plainfield club at the latter's shoot, to be held tomorrow afternoon. No weekly shoot of the local club will be held.

"Shall we Recognize Our Friends in Heaven" will be the topic for the weekly prayer and praise meeting at the Baptist church tonight. Rev. T. Moore-Smith will lead the meeting.

Gray Bros., of East Front street, have several entries made in the cochin bantam class in the Newark poultry show, being held this week.

The cake, candy and fancy goods sale for the benefit of the library will be held Monday afternoon and night, Feb. 13.

Several of the young people from here attended the Criterion Club's reception, held last night in the Casino.

Several straw rides are being planned by the young people in town before the present sleighing ends.

The weekly Bible study meeting will be held in the class rooms of the Methodist church tonight.

Mrs. Frasee Ryno is improving from her recent serious illness.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Considerable expense has been incurred by the township on account of opening the roads which were filled with snow. The high wind yesterday has made some roads again impassable.

The funeral of Nathaniel Sanders, who died early this week at the township poor farm, was held yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. A. Cubberley officiated.

At the business meeting of the Baptist Christian Endeavor Society, Wednesday evening, five new associate members were elected.

Miss Rebecca Terrell has returned home after spending several months among friends in Newark.

TRINITY SOCIAL.

Ladies' Christian Work Society's Pleasing Entertainment.

A fitting substitute for the annual turkey supper, the sociable, under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society, of Trinity Reformed church, last night, was in every respect the success which always marks the social functions. Though it was considered wise to give up the annual turkey supper, which is usually held at about this time, the social time which the event has always afforded was greatly missed, and as a substitute nothing more pleasing to the church members could have been given. Mrs. A. Frazer, of Elizabeth, an entertainer who is well known to local audiences, delighted the listeners last night with interesting readings and novel recitations. Other features of the programme were solos and duets by Miss Florence Bennett and E. D. Young, of the church choir. They were accompanied by Miss May Randolph, and rendered several appreciated selections.

At the latter part of the evening, refreshments were served by the young men of E. F. Sheppard's Sunday-school class. To Mrs. Cornelius Schenck and her committee is due the success of the sociable. Assisting her were Mrs. H. B. Paul, chairman; Mrs. Mary Disborough, Mrs. S. C. Baker and Mrs. E. T. VanWinkle. The refreshment committee was Mrs. B. D. Newell, Mrs. A. M. Willem, Mrs. G. Q. Doliver, Mrs. Seaman Williams and Mrs. R. V. Kinney. The lecture room was tastefully decorated in pink by a committee composed of the following: Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, Mrs. George W. Cole, Mrs H. VanName and Mrs. J Beekman. The chandeliers were hung with pink paper and artificial roses. The other members of the society constituted the receiving and reception committee.

Extra Special Piano Sale

THE TWELVE-ACRE STORE.

Hahne & Co.

Broad, New and Halsey Sts., Newark, N. J.

Extra Special Piano Sale

NEW & USED PIANOS

THE GREATEST SPECIAL SALE EVER HELD IN NEW JERSEY.

On Monday, Feb. 6, and continuing to the end of the week, we will hold this great sale.

FIFTY-SEVEN Instruments Reduced in Price.

They include pianos that we have taken in exchange from people who bought new ones. To this has been added instruments a little shopworn in our own stock of new pianos, together with some that have been out on rental. All the used pianos have been put in excellent condition by our own experts. The collection is one of the best that we have presented. Owing to the contracted space in our store we are compelled to mark these instruments at prices far lower than would otherwise be necessary. The demand for floor space is so urgent that we cannot hold for an extended period instruments that may be needed for other sales; hence we have made prices for them that will probably exhaust the larger part of the collection in a few days.

Not only do we offer these instruments in exceptionally fine quality and at a low price, but we will arrange to sell them on such very low terms that it will be a simple matter for any home to secure a piano or organ that perhaps it has been looking forward to for months and maybe years.

Come early Monday, February 6th, and see the pianos and organs and learn how easy it is to buy one of them.

NOTE—This sale commends itself strongly to Churches, Schools, Lodges, Public Halls, Societies, Teachers, Pupils and other organizations and persons desiring a worthy piano, which we will sell very much below its regular price.

NORTH SEA INQUIRY.

British Agent Asks Why Fishermen Were Left to Drown.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—At the cross examination of the Russian officers at the session of the international commission inquiring into the North sea incident considerable feeling was shown and several sharp exchanges of remarks.

Captain Clado criticised the hostile attitude of the British press. He said Vice Admiral Rojestvensky had written a private letter severely condemning the British press, using one phrase which Captain Clado said he considered necessary to withhold.

Baron Taube, the Russian judicial adviser, remarked that it was doubtless some strong, seafaring expression, and Captain Clado replied, "I will not say the phrase was strong, but it was bitter."

Captain Clado referred to an alleged misstatement that Russian torpedo boats remained upon the scene without rendering aid to the travelers. He declared that no such torpedo boats remained.

Hugh O'Beirne, agent of Great Britain, said he had heretofore refrained from asking a delicate question—namely, why none of the Russian ships remained to give assistance after knowing that peaceful fishing boats had been struck.

Captain Clado answered that Admiral Rojestvensky had fully explained that he did not consider the injuries to the fishing boats were serious, whereas the squadron, having just escaped from an attack by torpedo boats, it was desirable to withdraw the squadron as soon as possible from the vicinity of such attacks.

Admiral Beaumont (Great Britain) closely questioned the witness on who gave the order to fire. Captain Clado saying it was Admiral Rojestvensky.

JAKE SANDERS.

Feature Event at New Orleans Won by 10 to 1 Shot.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3.—All of the forces of the American Jockey club, at least those that carry most weight, are pitted against each other here now.

The feature race, a handicap at a mile, brought out the best field that has started in a race here for a week, including Old Stone, Dan McKenna, Garnish and Toboggan. The latter, who ran quite a fair race on his initial appearance here, was well played.

Another good race was the fifth. Most of the horses returned winners were backed by the public. Summaries:

First Race.—Triumvir first; Lida Lieb, second; Glendon, third.

Second Race.—Redman, first; Baywood, second; Dapple Gold, third.

Third Race.—Matador, first; Astarita, second; Inquisitive Girl, third.

Fourth Race.—Kickshaw, first; Old Stone, second; Toboggan, third.

Fifth Race.—Jake Sanders, first; Ram's Horn, second; Inspector Halpin, third.

Sixth Race.—Fox Hunting, first; Bell Indian, second; Mainspring, third.

Brokaw Motor Boat Won.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3.—A. D. Proctor Smith, driving the challenger 150 horsepower auto boat of W. Gould Brokaw, covered a kilometer over the Lake Worth measured course with official timing in 1 minute 21 seconds and a mile in 2 minutes 12 2-5 seconds. Both trials are new records.

Marshall Defeated at Chess.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—In the fifth game of the international chess match between Frank J. Marshall of Brooklyn and D. Janowski of this city, played here last night, the local player defeated Marshall. The score now stands two wins each and one game drawn.

Two Children Burned to Death.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Two children were burned to death and William McCarrier, their father, sustained burns which will prove fatal in a fire which destroyed his home here last night. McCarrier and his wife were working about the farm, leaving the house in charge of the children. The latter in playing somehow started a fire, and when McCarrier returned the house was almost consumed. The older children escaped, but the two infants could not escape. In attempting to save them the father rushed through the flames, inhaling the fire, and physicians say he cannot recover.

"Military Necessity Knows No Law."

DENVER, Feb. 3.—"Military necessity recognizes no laws, either civil or social," says Adjutant General Sherman M. Bell of Colorado in his biennial report. Referring to the use of troops in mining camps during the two years of Governor Peabody's administration, the adjutant general says: "As military commander the authority and dignity of the state of Colorado were at all times upheld and asserted in seeking to ameliorate a condition of dynamite, murder and assassination under the guise of labor that was intolerable."

Iceboat to Rescue Oystermen.

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Feb. 3.—The iceboat Annapolis left here last night for Deals island, Chesapeake bay, to rescue eleven oystermen whose boats are icebound in Tangier sound. The men's vessels have been frozen in the ice since Jan. 16, and, their supply of provisions having become exhausted, they are now in a starving condition.

CHAPTER IX.

THE SHOCKING OF HUNNICOTT.

It was two weeks after the date of the governor's fishing trip, and by consequence Judge MacFarlane's court had been the even fortnight in session in Gaston, when Kent's attention was recalled to the forgotten Varnum case by another letter from the local attorney, Hunnicott.

"Varnum vs. Western Pacific comes up Friday of this week, and they are going to press for trial this time, and no mistake," wrote the local representative. "Hawk has been chasing around getting affidavits; for what purpose I don't know, though Lesher tells me that one of them was sworn by Houligan, the sub-contractor who tried to fight the engineer's estimates on the Jump creek work.

"Also, there is a story going the rounds that the suit is to be made a blind for bigger game, though I guess this is all gossip, based on the fact that Mr. Semple Falkland's private car stopped over here two weeks ago, from three o'clock in the afternoon till midnight of the same day. Jason, of the Clarion, interviewed the New Yorker, and Falkland told him he had stopped over to look up the securities on a mortgage held by one of his New York clients."

When Kent had dictated a letter in answer to Hunnicott's, he dismissed the Varnum matter from his mind, having other and more important things to think of. So, on the Friday, when the case was reached on Judge MacFarlane's docket—but really, it is worth our while to be present in the Gaston court-room to see and hear what befalls.

When the Varnum case was called, Hunnicott promptly moved for a third continuance, in accordance with his instructions. The judge heard his argument, the old and well-worn one of the absence of important witnesses, with perfect patience; and after listening to Hawk's protest, which was hardly more than mechanical, he granted the continuance.

Then came the after-piece. Court adjourned, and immediately Hawk asked leave to present, "at chambers," an amended petition. Hunnicott was waylaid by a court officer as he was leaving the room; and a moment later, totally unprepared, he was in the judge's office, listening in some dazed fashion while Hawk went glibly through the formalities of presenting his petition.

Not until the papers were served upon him as the company's attorney, and the judge was naming three o'clock of the following afternoon as the time which he would appoint for the preliminary hearing, did the local attorney come alive.

"But, your honor!—a delay of only 24 hours in which to prepare a rejoinder to this petition—to allegations of such astounding gravity?" he began, shocked into action by the very ungraspable magnitude of the thing.

"What more could you ask, Mr. Hunnicott?" said the judge, mildly. "You have already had a full measure of delay on the original petition. Yet I am willing to extend the time if you can come to an agreement with Mr. Hawk here."

Hunnicott knew the hopelessness of that and did not make the attempt. Instead, he essayed a new line of objection.

"The time would be long enough if Gaston were the headquarters of the company, your honor. But in such a grave and important charge as this amended petition brings, our general counsel should appear in person and—"

"You are the company's attorney, Mr. Hunnicott," said the judge, dryly; "and you have hitherto been deemed competent to conduct the case in behalf of the defendant. I am unwilling to work a hardship to any one, but I cannot entertain your protest. The preliminary hearing will be at three o'clock to-morrow."

Hunnicott knew when he was definitely at the string's end; and when he was out of the judge's room and the courthouse, he made a dash for his office, dry-lipped and panting. Ten minutes sufficed for the writing of a telegram to Kent, and he was halfway down to the station with it when it occurred to him that it would never do to trust the incendiary thing to the wires in plain English. There was a little-used cipher code in his desk provided for just such emergencies, and back he went to labor, sweating over the task of securing secrecy at the expense of the precious minutes of time. Wherefore, it was about four o'clock when he handed the telegram to the station operator, and adjured him by all that was good and great not to delay its sending.

It was just here he made his first and only slip, since he did not stay to see the thing done. It chanced that the regular day operator was off on leave of absence, and his substitute, a young man from the train dispatcher's office, was a person who considered the company wires an exclusive appanage of the train service department. At the moment of Hunnicott's assault he was taking an order for No. 17, and observing that the lawyer's cipher "rush" covered four closely-written pages, he hung it upon the sending hook with a malediction on the legal department for burdening the wires with its mail correspondence, and so forgot it.

It was nine o'clock when the night operator came on duty; and being a careful man, he not only looked first to his sending hook, but was thoughtful enough to run over the accumulation of messages waiting to be transmitted, to the end that he might give precedence to the most important. And when he came to Hunnicott's cipher with the thrice-underlined "RUSH" written across its face, and had marked the hour of its handing in, he had the good sense to hang up the entire wire business of the railroad until the thing was safely out of his office.

It was half-past nine when the all-important cipher got itself written out in the headquarters office at the capital; and for two anxious hours the receiving operator tried by all means in his power to find the general counsel—tried and failed. For, to make the chain of mischance complete in all its links, Kent and Loring were spending the evening at Miss Portia Van Brock's, having been bidden to meet a man they were both willing to cultivate—Oliver Marston, the lieutenant governor. And for this cause it wanted but five minutes of midnight when Kent burst into Loring's bedroom on the third floor of the Clarendon, catastrophic news in hand.

"For heaven's sake, read that!" he gasped; and Loring sat on the edge of the bed to do it.

"So! they've sprung their mine at last," he said, quietly, when he had mastered the purport of Hunnicott's war news.

Kent had caught his second wind in the moment of respite, and was settling into the collar in a way to strain the working harness to the breaking point.

"It's a put-up job from away back," he gritted. "If I'd had the sense of a pack-mule I should have been on the lookout for just such a trap as this. Look at the date of that message!"

The general manager did look, and shook his head. "'Received, 3:45 p. m.; forwarded, 9:17 p. m.' That will cost somebody his job. What do we do?"

"We get busy at the drop of the hat. Luckily, we have the news, though I'll bet high it wasn't Hawk's fault that this message came through with no more than eight hours' delay. Get into your clothes, man! The minutes are precious, now!"

Loring began to dress while Kent walked the floor in a hot fit of impatience.

"The mastodonic cheek of the thing!" he kept repeating, until Loring pulled him down with another quiet remark.

"Tell me what we have to do, David. I am a little lame in law matters."

"Do? We have to appear in Judge MacFarlane's court to-morrow afternoon prepared to show that this thing is only a hold-up with a blank cartridge. Hawk meant to take a snap judgment. He counted on throwing the whole thing up against Hunnicott, knowing perfectly well that a little local attorney at a way-station couldn't begin to secure the necessary affidavits."

Loring paused with one end of his collar flying loose.

"Let me understand," he said. "Do we have to disprove these charges by affidavits?"

"Certainly; that is the proper rejoinder—the only one, in fact," said Kent; then, as a great doubt laid hold of him and shook him: "You don't mean to say there is any doubt about our ability to do it?"

"Oh, no; I suppose not, if it comes to a show-down. But I was thinking of your man Hunnicott. Doesn't it occur to you that he is in just about as good a fix to secure those affidavits in Gaston as we are here, David?"

"Good Lord! Do you mean that we have to send to Boston for our ammunition?"

"Haven't we? Don't you see how nicely the thing is timed? Ten days later our transwestern reorganization would be complete, and we could swear our own officers on the spot. These people know what they are about."

Kent was walking the floor again, but now the strength of the man was coming uppermost.

"Never mind; we'll wire Boston, and then we'll do what we can here. Could you get me to Gaston on a special engine in three hours?"

"Yes."

"Then we have till 11 o'clock to-morrow to prepare. I'll be ready by that time."

"David, you are a brick when it comes to the infighting," said the general manager; and then he finished buttoning his collar.

SENATE FOR RUSSIA

Czar Sanctions Proposals of His Ministers.

LAWS TO CHECK EVIL OFFICIALS.

Warsaw Still In State of Siege. Maxim Gorky Reported Free—Rumors of Magna Charta Signed by the Emperor.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 3.—The committee of ministers, sitting at St. Petersburg, has formulated and the emperor has sanctioned a number of proposals looking toward the establishment of the senate upon a basis of closer connection with the throne, doing away with the administrative orders, suspending certain laws and in other ways checking the evils that have arisen through the arbitrary acts of ministers or officials. The report that Maxim Gorky has been released is difficult of verification. If the rumor is true the author has probably been requested to leave St. Petersburg immediately.

The pupils of many public and private schools at Warsaw have decided to demand the introduction of the Polish language or otherwise they will not return to school. This is significant as indicating the introduction of the Nationalist movement into the economic agitation.

Serious disturbances are reported at Cracow. Last night thousands of workmen gathered at the monument of the poet Wiczlewicz, where Deputy Daszinski, the leader of the Galician Socialists, made a speech denouncing the emperor of Russia, whose portrait was torn amid shouts of vengeance. The police dispersed the demonstration. Fifteen persons were seriously wounded, and many were arrested.

The city of Warsaw is still in a state of siege, the factory districts strongly guarded by troops, and Socialist disturbances are feared, the police having made preparations to put down rioting. From the police station in one district in Warsaw alone the bodies of fifty men and women have been taken to cemeteries, and many more bodies are unidentified.

All the bodies of those killed in the riots have been removed from their homes to police stations. The relatives are not permitted to bury them. During the riots the workmen's residence district was unprotected by police, and hoodlums seized the opportunity to plunder many dwellings. A large body of workmen went to a suburb where criminals abound and instituted a rigorous search of their houses. Wherever they were able to identify stolen property the workmen promptly killed the persons found in its possession. About a hundred other criminals were injured in fighting with the workmen. The latter were not only actuated by revenge for their losses, but were enraged because the hoodlum element brought discredit on the strike movement.

In Batum, Caucasia, the strike which started there is becoming general. Mobs are crowding the streets, the quays and docks are deserted and the military are patrolling the town.

Maxim Gorky, the author, who was arrested shortly after the St. Petersburg riots, has been released from custody.

Although the appointment of M. Bouligan as minister of the interior to succeed Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky has been signed, it is believed that his appointment will be only temporary and that Mr. Witte, on whom the hopes of Russia are largely centered, will soon be made minister of the interior to carry out sweeping reforms, including, it is believed, a constitution and a representative government.

That the czar has already signed a document so sweeping in its scope as to be termed the Magna Charta of Russia is a rumor current at the capital, but which is unconfirmed. It is persistently stated, however, that Emperor Nicholas has made important concessions. Another report is that prisoners in the fortress are to be released and the press permitted freedom of utterance.

It is also rumored that General Trepoff will soon be removed from command in St. Petersburg and sent to the front and that M. Witte, if he is appointed minister of the interior, as expected, will inaugurate a new era in Russia.

A telegram from Czentochow, Russian Poland, says all the factories there are closed, and serious disturbances are reported to have occurred. The Socialists are very strong there. The Warsaw-Vienna railroad shops are closed. At Pruszkow 1,200 men struck. All the factories are closed at Radisz. The strike at Lodz continues.

Victims' Bones Found.

NORTH BROOKFIELD, Mass., Feb. 3.—Seven pieces of bone found in the ruins of the North Brookfield almshouse have been shown to Dr. E. W. Norwood of Spencer, medical examiner, who pronounces them human bones. The almshouse burned early Wednesday morning, and Frank Beaudette, an inmate, eighty-seven years old, has not been seen since.

State to Regulate Kinesepathy.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Senator Fitzgerald introduced a bill providing for the appointment of a board of three examiners to regulate the practice of "kinesepathy" (medical massage), providing a penalty of $50 to $100 for practicing without a license.

Rockefeller to Give $35,000.

WOOD IN CUSTODY, IDENTIFIED

Jacob Blimm, Jr., Recognizes Pollack's Grandson Who is Suspected of Committing the Crime, as the Man Who Left His Hotel on Morning of the Murder.

MOTIVE BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN ROBBERY

Extradition Papers Are Now Being Secured — When Locked up in Police Headquarters Physician's Examination Shows Prisoner May be Suffering from Aphasia.

Telling a disjointed story and with his mustache removed, George H. Wood, who is wanted in connection with the murder of George Williams, on the Cootown road, Thursday, was locked up in New York Police Headquarters last night. Wood seemed to be mentally disordered, and Dr. George M. Ball, after an examination, said he was not under the influence of drugs, but was apparently suffering from aphasia.

Chief Kiely and Jacob Blimm, Jr., went to New York on the 2:14 train this morning and the latter positively identified Wood as the man who registered at his father's hotel as "George H. Wood" and who disappeared from the place on the morning of the murder.

Accompanied by his wife and a brother-in-law, Frederick Bischoff, of No. 447 West Twenty-seventh street, Wood walked into the West Twentieth street police station at half-past 9 o'clock last night. A sergeant called up the Central Office Detective Bureau and asked if Wood was wanted. The Detective Bureau called up Chief of Police Kiely, in this city, who read off a description of the alleged murderer of Williams. It tallied with the description of Wood except as to age. Wood says he is twenty-four years old, but the men who saw the supposed murderer of Williams thought the man was thirty-five years old. The murderer was described as having a mustache. Wood was clean shaven, but he said he removed his mustache on Monday.

Wood, his wife and brother-in-law were put in a patrol wagon and taken to Police Headquarters. Wood said that last Monday he met a man named "Mac," an ironworker, who asked him to go to Scarsdale, Pa., where $1,000 could be obtained for business purposes. Wood said he started for Scarsdale, but does not remember reaching that place, but felt positive he was in Trenton.

It was thought Wood was under the influence of drugs, on account of his disconnected way of talking, and he was taken before Dr. Ball. The latter said Wood had not been drugged, but that he seemed to have some mental disorder not unlike aphasia.

When the police asked Wood what became of his valise and the slouch hat he wore when at Watchung, he said he had lost them. There is no doubt but what the valise found in Blimm's hotel belonged to Wood, yet he insists that he has not the faintest recollection of being in Plainfield. The case against him will have to be proven by the Somerset County authorities and the chances are that the suspect will be brought to Somerville as soon as the legal formalities have been gone through with.

The case now rests with County Detective Totten, of Somerville, and he is taking steps to have the prisoner extradited, without requesting him to waive the legal formalities.

In Watchung and Warrenville, yesterday afternoon, it was claimed by the residents that they knew Wood was the man that drove Williams, early Thursday night, but there is little doubt but what the first he was connected with the case was when Eugene Wood, a local hackman, informed Chief Kiely about driving a man to Warrenville Tuesday. Wood said he had read of the murderer's description in the papers and that it tallied in every respect with a fare that he had picked up at Blimm's Farmers hotel on Somerset street and taken over the mountains. Proceeding to the hotel, the chief was informed by Proprietor Blimm that the hackman's passenger was George H. Wood, of New York; also that he had not returned but that his valise was upstairs. The chief appropriated this and searched it at headquarters early yesterday afternoon. Almost the first thing that caught his gaze was a box

SMALL TROLLEY CARS FOR TEMPORARY USE

MAKESHIFT OF P. S. C. DUE TO THE BIG STORM.

Ever since the recent snow storm the Public Service Corporation has been operating the Netherwood trolley cars on the West Front street line to Dunellen. This was necessitated because the motors on the large line cars were damaged considerably by the heavy snow drifts through which it was attempted to run them, and some of them were sent to Newark for service there.

The large cars have since returned and are now being overhauled and repaired before the Dunellen-Newark service is resumed. There has been considerable kicking on the part of patrons of the road in being obliged to use the smaller cars, but a change is looked for on Monday.

The recent storm was one of the most expensive in the history of the company and the removal of snow alone from the tracks cost several hundred dollars in this city, to say nothing of the expense in doing this work over all the lines. The main line service was tied up quite generally for two or three days and the loss in receipts from patronage due to the inability to operate the cars was quite a sum in itself. It was practically a week before the service was restored to its normal condition.

Fifteen Years Married.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leitheusser, of East Second street, observed the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage on Thursday night and in honor of the event about fifty friends and neighbors were entertained. The celebrants received a number of gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Leithausser were married in this city Feb. 2, 1890. Mrs. Leithausser was formerly Miss Christina Denoklau and she is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Denoklau, of Fairview avenue.

Chinaman to Speak.

Mr. Hwang, a Chinaman, an intimate friend of China's leading statesman, the late Li Hung Chang, will speak both morning and evening at the Methodist church, Scotch Plains, tomorrow. Mr. Hwang is a graduate of Pekin University, also of an American University. He still retains his queue, sandals and clothing of his native land. He speaks English fluently.

Co. K's Washington Trip.

Major James E. Bell, of the District of Columbia National Guard, has requested General George H. Harries to make provision for the accommodation of Company K, Second Regiment, of this city, commanded by Captain William B. Martin, and Company L, Second Regiment, of Princeton, for the inauguration. Both organizations will take part in the inaugural parade.

Prize for Essay on Patriotism.

Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at its meeting held at the home of Mrs. David P. HITS BOARD OF HEALTH

Borough Council Plans to Compel Body to Present Report.

ASKS FOR STATEMENT

Mayor Smalley Makes the Surprising Disclosure That Health Board's Finances Are Not Made Public.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley caused quite a surprise at the February meeting of the Borough Council, last night, when he announced that he had been informed that the Board of Health had $1,000 to its credit in the bank and that when Borough Treasurer George F. Brown called upon Rev. Dr. W. E. Honeyman, the former secretary of the Board, for a statement of its finances, Dr. Honeyman replied that he could not tell how much money was on hand, whether it was $200 or $1,000.

Mr. Smalley added that if the Board of Health has $1,000 to its credit he saw no reason why next year's annual appropriaion should not be cut out and thus save the taxpayers some money.

Councilman Arnold was prompted by the Mayor's remarks to ask why the Board of Health never made a report to the Borough Council. He believed that this should be done inasmuch as the Board is a corporate body. Treasurer Brown was present and he confirmed Mr. Smalley's statement as to his visit to Dr Honeyman, and it then developed that the Mayor had requested Mr. Brown to make the inquiry.

Councilman VanWinkle with a view of discrediting the intimation that Dr. Honeyman would wilfully refuse the desired information, questioned the Mayor and suggested that Dr. Honeyman was not prepared offhand to give figures.

Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed stated that under the law the Board of Health could ask for such sum as in its judgment is needed, but it is not compulsory for the Common Council to make the appropriation. He said he thought the Board of Health ought to be glad to have a statement of its finances published and suggested that a request be made to the Board to give this statement for publication in the annual report issued by the borough.

This suggestion was put in the form of a resolution offered by Councilman Arnold that the Board of Health be requested to make a financial statement to the Council and that the same be published with the other reports. This resolution was adopted.

R. F. D. ROUTE, NO. 3, MAY BE MUCH EXTENDED

PETITION BEING CIRCULATED BY FARMERS FOR POSTOFFICE SERVICE.

Residents in the northern end of Somerset county who are not now provided for by the rural free delivery mail service have drafted a petition and sent it to Washington asking that they be included on route No. 3, the last one established and operated from the Plainfield postoffice. Postmaster E. H. Bird, who is also interested in the matter, believes that the postal authorities may be willing to include the additional territory, provided it does not make the route too long.

The new territory being petitioned for covers about three miles and takes in several small towns adjacent to Warrenville, Gallia and Mt. Bethel. The residents in that section have seen the benefits of the service recently adopted and they are now anxious to get their mail regularly every day without being obliged to come to Plainfield for it.

Route No. 3 now covers close to twenty miles and the carrier is now able to make one trip a day and reach the local postoffice about 12 o'clock noon. If the new petition is granted the carrier on that route will cover the entire section in that part of Somerset county outside of Martinsville, where there is a postoffice.

Newspaper's New Building.

The Evening Times Publishing Company of Elizabeth, has broken ground on East Jersey street, above West Scott place, Elizabeth, for the erection of a new building for its plant, now located in the Plass building, at Elizabeth avenue and West Scott place. The new home for the paper when completed will be 90x40 feet, two stories high, with a fine cellar, and will be built of fireproof pressed brick. It is expected that it will be ready to take possession of by May. Architect Hoover will supervise its construction.

ROUTINE WORK OF COUNCIL

Policemen Injured by Negroes Are Allowed Full Pay.

ONE APPOINTMENT

F. J. Emmons Named As a Marshal —Hospital Paid for Caring for Officers—Cost of Cleaning Snow.

Marshals J. William Klein and Joseph Flack, who through an assault committed on them Christmas Eve by four negroes, Mayor Smalley announced at the meeting of the Borough Council, last night, have been provided for by the borough. Marshal Klein is allowed $60 for the month and a half he has been off duty. He is now ready to go to work again, having recovered from his injuries. Mr. Smalley also stated that the borough would pay the hospital $10 for ambulance service on Christmas Eve and $10 for the care of Klein at the institution. Out of the sum allowed Klein he is to pay his doctor's bill.

In the case of Marshal Flack, he is allowed regular pay while off duty. His physician, the Mayor stated, said that it would be another month before he could return to work.

Councilman VanArsdale offered a resolution, which was adopted, which provided for the payment of the bill presented by Muhlenberg Hospital for the service of the ambulance and the care of Marshal Klein.

Councilman Arnold, chairman of the street committee, reported the expenditure of $196 68 during the month for the removal of snow. In reply to a question by the Mayor relative to the trolley company's share of this expense, he said that the had sent the company a bill for its share of the work on Somerset street.

Mayor Smalley appointed Fred J. Emmons a regular marshal and the appointment was confirmed by the Council.

Councilman Lee reported on the request of residents for an electric light at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Greenbrook road and on his motion the light was granted.

As chairman of the committee on marshals, Councilman VanArsdale stated that during the past month there was one arrest and $3 collected in fines. Mr. Arnold offered a resolution providing for the payment of one Somerset street improvement bond of $500. This was adopted.

The question was raised by Mr. Lee as to whether it would not be well to pay off some other borough notes, after the bills are paid, inasmuch as there is now a balance of $1,000 on hand. Mr. Arnold offered a resolution to that effect, but it was not seconded and nothing was done about it. However, this money can be used for that purpose without the adoption of a resolution.

In conclusion Mr. Arnold moved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet on Friday night, February 24, at which time the annual reports will be presented and the annual budget for the coming year fixed. Mr. Lee wanted to know if there would be any farewell speeches, and the Mayor replied that there would be a meeting of the Council in March, prior to the spring election, March 14, and that unless all signs fail there would be something doing at the first meeting in March.

Mr. VanArsdale made a suggestion that it would be wise to place red glass about the electric lights wherever fire alarm boxes are located, similar to Plainfield's system, and the other members believed that such an improvement would be an excellent one. It will be discussed at the next meeting.

Miss Isabella Billings Dead.

Miss Isabella Billings, an aged resident of Scotch Plains, died last night at her home. She had been feeble for some time. She was a sister of John Pattin, one of the keepers at the State Hospital at Morris Plains. The funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon from All Saints' church, Scotch Plains, at 2 o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Shaw at Shiloh.

Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, preached for Rev. E. B. Saunders, of Shiloh, this morning and his pulpit was occupied by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Lecture on German Varsity Life.

"German University Life," will be the subject of a lecture to be given by Prof. Williston Walker, of Yale University, before the Monday Afternoon Club at the Casino Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

—You may inaugurate a campaign of want advertising on a capital consisting of "loose change."

ALL WIRES UNDERGROUND

Seek to Make P. S. C. Bury Its Light Wires in Borough.

DISCUSSION IN COUNCIL

Charles A. Reed Requested by Mayor to Present Line of Action Against Company to Bring About Remedy.

In the line of other improvements of which he has been an advocate of, Mayor Smalley, at the regular Borough Council meeting, last night, recommended that immediate action be taken towards the removal of the unsightly electric light poles in the principal thoroughfares in the borough. He thought that the Public Service Corporation should be asked to place its electric light wires underground.

Mr. Smalley referred to the heavy voltage carried on the wires and the danger to life possible in high winds and storms. He also stated that there are many times during the year when lights are out in various parts of the borough and that the residents are not getting what they pay for.

He argued that if the Public Service Corporaion would not make the improvement the borough could give a contract to another company that would and he thought the time had arrived for prompt action. Councilman Humble contended that if the Public Service Corporation was compelled to put the wires underground a higher rate would be charged for light.

Counsel Reed said that he believed the corporation would be glad to get its wires underground, and that while the first cost is heavy, the expense of maintenance is far less than under the present sysem. He cited an illustration in the work of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company which is now busily engaged in burying its wires, making it less likely for competition.

In concluding this discussion, the Mayor requested Mr. Reed to prepare some line of action to be presented at the next meeting of the Borough Council, which will be on Feb. 24.

TOO LATE TO STAVE OFF UNION'S ELECTION

REPUBLICAN LEADERS DECIDE TO COMPLY WITH LAW'S REQUIREMENTS.

A conference was held at Elizabeth Thursday afternoon between Surrogate Parrot, Senator Cross and other Republican leaders with reference to the special election to be held next Tuesday. It was decided that it was too late to call off the election and that it would be better to comply with the requirements of the law and go ahead with the arrangements for the election.

Surrogate Parrot said today that while the Republican party regretted the necessity for holding the election, the conclusion reached by the leaders in Union County was to go ahead and carry out the mandate of the attorney-general.

A special meeting of the county executive committee was held Thursday night, at which it was decided to use every effort to get out a fair representative vote of the Republican party in Union next Tuesday.

HUNT CLUB'S PLANS.

Schedule of February Events Announced by Master—Two Holiday Chases.

M. O'M. Knott, master of hounds of the Watchung Hunt Club, has announced the schedule of dates for the next month's chases. Two special holiday chases are included, and the month promises to be a red letter one for the riders after the hounds. Recently the heavy snow and bad weather has interfered with the hunts, but it is hoped that the programme of coming events will be carried out.

The plans of the committee include the following dates for chases: Saturday, February 4, start from the kennels; Saturday, February 11, start from the kennels, at 3:30 o'clock; Monday, February 13, start from Netherwood Hotel, at 1:30 o'clock; Saturday, February 18, start from Plainfield avenue and Eighth street at 3:30 o'clock; Wednesday, February 22, start from Crescent avenue and Seventh street, at 10:30; Saturday, February 25, start from the residence of Colonel J. I. Holly, at 3:30 o'clock.

ALL CANDIDATES RESIGN IN SUSSEX

REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES FILE DECLINATIONS.

The resignations of Joseph Coult, Jr., and former Assemblyman Lewis S. Iliff, the Republican and Democratic nominees for the office of Assemblyman, to fill the existing vacancy in Sussex County's representation, were filed in the county clerk's office at Newton on Thursday. This action was taken as the result of a conference of representatives of both parties held in the office of former Senator Lewis J. Martin.

The strong opposition to a special election which has developed among the taxpayers in the county, because of the expense involved, led the party leaders to take some measures to stave it off if possible. In the meeting it was represented that February 1 was the last day upon which certificates of nomination could be filed in the county clerk's office, and if none were forthcoming there could of necessity by no election on February 7, the date set, on account of a lack of nominees. With this in view, the resignation of Messrs. Coult and Iliff, previously agreed upon, were drawn up and handed to County Clerk Ora C. Simpson, and were filed at the opening of the clerk's office Thursday. No nominations by any political party have been filed.

ATTRACTIONS MANY AT ST. STEPHEN'S BAZAAR

FIRST NIGHT'S ENTERTAINMENT AND SALE IN BABCOCK BUILDING.

Under the direction of the men of St. Stephen's church, a two-days' bazaar was opened last night in the vacant store in the Babcock building and was well patronized. Those taking part in the affair included Mrs. Hugh Knox, Mrs. Lozier, Miss Emily Lacey, Miss Christiansen, Miss Edith Lacey, Miss Harriet Knox, Miss Blanche Gabagen, Miss Salmon, Miss Erickson, Mrs. Frank Manchester, Mrs. Devine, John King, Bergen Naylor, Miss Lillian Ball, Miss Mary Bramble, Miss Edna Willis, Miss Catherine Knox, Mrs. Beard and Mrs. Beal. Rev. Arthur S. Peck, the rector, was in charge.

Miss Theresa Kahrman, Fred Bennett, H. Warren Rankin, Charles Suhr, Kenneth Stuart and Morris Sorenson also took part in the entertainment.

DR. PHOEBUS DEAD.

Well-Known Horse Fancier and Dog Trainer Passes Away After Long Illness.

Dr. F. C. Phoebus, of Berckman street, known as a horse fancier and dog trainer, died at his home Thursday night for diabetes. His health began to fail two years ago as a result of an accident.

He was a native of New Market, Md., where his mother, two sisters and a brother live. Dr. Phoebus came to this city two years ago from Bernardsville, where he had been master of hounds at the Somerset Club.

A wife and three children survive him. The funeral will take place Monday afternoon and the interment will be at New Market, Md.

Choir on a Sleighride.

The choir of Trinity Reformed church enjoyed a sleighride to the home of Miss Mooney, of Westfield, last night, and there held the weekly rehearsal. After an hour spent in singing refreshments were served and the party returned home. The trip was made in a box sleigh, Frank Mebus being in charge of the team.

Registry Board Meeting.

The Union County Board of Election and Registry will meet in Elizabeth today to fill vacancies, prior to the special election to be held on Tuesday, February 7. One vacancy exists here in the first district of the Fourth Ward, by reason of the recent death of Michael R. Flynn.

Camp Wolfe Founder Dead.

George E. Wolfe, president of the Fresh Air Mission that has for several years conducted the Fresh Air Camp for city children at Westfield, who died at his home, in New York, Sunday, was buried Thursday. His death will be a severe loss to the Fresh Air Camp enterprise.

—Miss Edith Hanaford, of East Sixth street, entertained about twenty-five of her friends last night, in honor of Miss Miller, of New York.

NEGROES AWAIT THE THIRD VERDICT

Court's Charge Deferred Until Monday on Indictment of Intent to Kill Marshal Klein.

HARD FOUGHT BATTLE

COUNSELLOR ANGLEMAN'S INTIMATION AS TO MR. REED'S PRESENCE IN CASE.

Tunstall Will Probably Get the Longest Sentence With Tems Next—State's Prison for Some.

With the exception of Judge Schenck's charge to the jury, all proceedings in the third trial of the four Plainfield negroes implicated in the Christmas eve fight on Somerset street, reached a conclusion in the Somerset county court yesterday afternoon. The specific indictment was assault with intent to kill Marshal J. Wm. Klein and the defendant's counsel fought hard to clear their clients, as they had done with varying success in the previous cases. Court adjourned until Monday morning and the jurors will deliberate as soon as they have been addressed by the judge.

Yesterday's session began at 1 o'clock and was devoted to the defense. Three of the colored men, Henderson, Hunt and Tems, were placed on the stand, but their testimony was practically a repetition of what they have given when they were being tried on the Smalley and Flack indictments. The cross examination was conducted in a perfunctory sort of way by the prosecution and it revealed nothing of importance.

In the summing up, the lawyers for the defense again made strong pleas and there were frequent allusions to the existing saloon questions in the city and borough, Counsellor Angleman inferring that the introduction of former Senator Reed in the prosecution was an effort to prosecute saloon keepers. Attorney DeMeza asked that fair consideration be given Hunt and Tems and that outside reports of the fight be ignored in reaching a verdict. Counsellor Swackhamer laid stress on the fact that the trouble had occurred on the eve of a holiday and that the men were merely on pleasure bent when the actions of Marshal Smalley brought on the fight. He claimed that the officer had pounced upon them and that they had been clubbed without provocation.

Mr. Reed summed up for the prosecution and in his remarks he directed more than the usual attention to the defending lawyers, belittling Counsellor Swackhamer's plea that the men were out on a simple lark and that they intended harm to no one. They entered the borough, Mr. Reed said, to get more drink and that they were using the public highway as a place to carouse despite the warnings given them by the police to return to Plainfield quietly. He declared that Plainfielders make it a practice of crossing into the borough after the city saloons close and that North Plainfield receives the disturbances that should be kept away and he urged the jury to make an example of the men who had gone so much further than others.

In the event of the jury returning with a verdict of guilty against the four as charged, it will mean a long sentence. As they now stand convicted, Hunt, Henderson, Tems and Tunstall must be sentenced for assault with intent to kill on Joseph Flack, but a recommendation for mercy was made by the jury for the first three named; Tems and Tunstall must be sentenced for assault on Marshal Smalley. Hunt and Henderson were acquitted of this charge. Tunstall will probably get the longest term of all, with Tems following. It is generally conceded that Hunt and Henderson will escape with terms in the county jail.

Mid-Winter Concert.

J. Edmund Skiff will give a [illegible] concert with his pupils at the Park Club, Thursday evening, March 2. The cantata, "The Lady of Shallot," by Bendel for women's voices and an excerpt from Gaul's "Joan of Arc" will be sung. Plainfield's favorite 'cellist, W. Pauling DeNike, of Brooklyn, will be the instrumentalist.

Galvin's Comedy.

Headed by Johnny B. Galvin, a musical comedy company gave an entertainment in Saengerbund hall last night, the piece being entitled "The Bell Boy." It would be difficult to praise the performance for it was about on the order of productions given by the Galvins at Washington Hall.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

When your feet are sore try Thorp's foot relief and you will be surprised how quickly your troubles will disappear.

When I. N. Wyckoff, of West Front street, contracts to do any painting or paper-hanging you can feel confident that the work will be done right and at low prices.

D Demolli handles the best bakeries, confectioneries and water ices. Years of experience has made him a capable caterer. He is one of the necessary features at any reception or dance.

M. C. VanArsdale will take care that you don't catch cold from lack of sufficient protection for the feet. His specially heavy shoes and fine quality rubbers are just the thing for the present weather.

John Johnston is able to provide you with the best grades of coal, within short notice. If your bins are empty, you should get in your order as soon as possible. Johnston handles only the best quality coal.

William Hand & Sons, of East Second street, are always ready to contract for moving of any kind, from anything in the furniture line to the heaviest machinery. Experienced and careful men are employed.

When passing Hodge's store, remember that a little money may save a greater expense, and a little precaution will prevent a severe cold. Hodge has the remedy which will cure your cold in a night. All his drugs are of the highest grade.

When Fred Endress sells you meat, you may be sure it is the best. All the highest grades and best quality of meats are for sale at Endress'. Orders will be promptly and correctly attended to. The delivery system is another feature which makes Endress' market one of the most patronized.

Don't forget that A. M. Griffen's store on East Front street, is headquarters for all kinds of hardware, kitchen and household utensils. Mr. Griffen has a fine stock of the best cutlery, which is sold at reasonable prices. If you need any plumbing, tinning or a heating plant installed leave your order here.

This week will end the great January furniture sale at Woodhull & Martin's store and if you need anything in this line now is the time to secure it. In the stock that is left you will find couches, dressers, chiffoniers, sideboards, bed outfits and a fine stock of mattresses, also parlor rockers, tables and dining room furnishings. These are not the only attractions at the store, for the firm is now offering a choice line of spring dress goods, well worth your attention.

INGLESIDE HOME BURNED.

Mrs. Kyttile Dead—Old Women Injured at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Feb. 4.—Fire, probably of incendiary origin, last night destroyed a part of the Ingleside Home For Women. In a panic among the fifty inmates of the place one woman was killed and four were seriously hurt.

Mrs. Mary Kyttile, fifty years old, is dead from suffocation.

The injured are: Mrs. Betsy Caldwell, eighty-four years old, overcome by smoke, condition serious; Mrs. Margaret Greishaber, fifty years old, fell from ladder, internally injured; Miss Nora Englehart, sixty years old, jumped from third story window, leg broken and internally injured; Mrs. Marion Orton, sick in bed, suffering from smoke and shock, may die.

The fire was discovered while the women were preparing for supper. Most of them were on the second and third floors of the building. They became panic stricken as the flames and smoke rapidly filled the building. Mrs. Kyttile succeeded in getting out of the building once, but returned for some unknown reason and perished. Mrs. Greishaber also returned to the building upon learning that a friend could not be found among those outside. The firemen refused to allow her to enter the door, and she started to climb a fire escape. Mrs. Greishaber got as far as the windows on the second floor when she lost her hold and fell to the ground. The woman she went to look for had escaped. Mrs. Orton was a bedridden invalid. She was rescued by a fireman. Mrs. Englehart went to her room on the third floor and, becoming terrified by the volume of smoke pouring up the stairway, ran to the window and jumped. The financial loss is about $5,000.

AT NEW ORLEANS.

In Feature Event Song and Wine Came Home In Front.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—The first gun of the turf war has been fired here. The charge in the gun was mostly verbal, and George C. Bennett of Memphis was the target. Curly Brown, the starter at the new track, was the man behind the gun.

The talent got all the money, three favorites and three second choices winning. Summaries:

First Race.—Contentious, first; Mary McCafferty, second; Baggerly, third.

Second Race.—Tootsey Mack, first; Dalesman, second; Evelyn Kinsey, third.

Third Race.—Death, first; Mezzo, second; Wreath of Ivy, third.

Fourth Race.—Song and Wine, first; Fern's Rod, second; Ranger, third.

Fifth Race.—Anodyne, first; Reuben, second; Young Lighter, third.

Sixth Race.—Exclamation, first; Gravina, second; Homestead, third.

Loretta M. Was Pulled.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 4.—Two favorites, one second choice, two third choices and one outsider were the winners at Ascot. Gentle Farry beat a large field of poor ones in the last race. The surprise of the day was the defeat of Loretta M. by Schoolmate and Kahallan and the subsequent suspension of Jockey Kent by the judges. Loretta M. was a redhot favorite and was leading into the stretch when Kent pulled and hauled her all over the track, allowing Schoolmate and Kahallan to beat her out. Kent was indefinitely suspended.

Chicago Billiard Tournament.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Gardner of New York and Threshie of Boston were opposed to each other in the first game in the billiard tournament here. The New Yorker played an exceptionally strong game, winning by the score of 300 to 190. Stark of Brooklyn lost again to Schmitt of Racine in the second game. This makes three games that he has lost so far, with nothing in the winning column.

Win For Yale at Basket Ball.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—Yale defeated the University of Pennsylvania at basket ball last night by the score of 26 to 21. The game was played in Pennsylvania's new gymnasium on Franklin field.

Ask Reprieve For Mrs. Edwards.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 4.—The reprieve by Governor Bell of Vermont of Mrs. Mary Rogers, who was to be hanged there, has brought to Governor Pennypacker telegrams from all over the country asking him to reprieve Mrs. Kate Edwards, who is under sentence of death in Reading on Feb. 16. These telegrams are of a most pleading character and say that now that Mrs. Rogers has been reprieved the governor should do the same for Mrs. Edwards. So far as the governor is concerned the entire matter rests with the board of pardons.

Woman Killed In Train Wreck.

FINDLAY, O., Feb. 4.—The northbound Detroit limited passenger train No. 4 on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad was wrecked one mile north of Belmore last night. The accident was caused by a split rail. The chair and cafe cars toppled over, and Mrs. Florence Frazier, aged fifty, of Sidney, O., was killed, her skull being crushed. The conductor was the only one of the train crew seriously injured. About twelve passengers were injured.

Mrs. Duke Free Until Monday.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Brodie L. Duke was arraigned here in the Tombs police court charged with being a fugitive from justice in connection with the Texas indictment against her and was paroled in the custody of her counsel until Monday. Assistant District Attorney Sandford said that if he did not hear from the Texas authorities by that time he would be willing to advocate the woman's discharge from custody.

Extra Special Piano Sale

NEW & USED PIANOS

THE GREATEST SPECIAL SALE EVER HELD IN NEW JERSEY.

On Monday, Feb. 6, and continuing to the end of the week, we will hold this great sale.

FIFTY-SEVEN Instruments Reduced in Price.

They include pianos that we have taken in exchange from people who bought new ones. To this has been added instruments a little shopworn in our own stock of new pianos, together with some that have been out on rental. All the used pianos have been put in excellent condition by our own experts. The collection is one of the best that we have presented. Owing to the contracted space in our store we are compelled to mark these instruments at prices far lower than would otherwise be necessary. The demand for floor space is so urgent that we cannot hold for an extended period instruments that may be needed for other sales; hence we have made prices for them that will probably exhaust the larger part of the collection in a few days.

Not only do we offer these instruments in exceptionally fine quality and at a low price, but we will arrange to sell them on such very low terms that it will be a simple matter for any home to secure a piano or organ that perhaps it has been looking forward to for months and maybe years.

Come early Monday, February 6th, and see the pianos and organs and learn how easy it is to buy one of them.

NOTE—This sale commends itself strongly to Churches, Schools, Lodges, Public Halls, Societies, Teachers, Pupils and other organizations and persons desiring a worthy piano, which we will sell very much below its regular price.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Report Good Results For Past Week.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade progresses steadily, all speculative excesses having been avoided thus far, and the numerous negotiations now pending indicate that the maximum of activity is yet to come. Some irregularity in reports for the first month were undoubtedly due to exceptionally severe weather. The weakness of cotton also had a tendency to check operations at the south.

Taken as a whole, however, results for January were very much better than in the same month last year, particularly as to failures, which were $8,000,000 smaller in amount of defaulted indebtedness. Distribution of merchandise is once more on a liberal scale, traffic blockades having disappeared, and in many cases large clearance sales have disposed of burdensome stocks. Collections are still somewhat irregular, but, on the whole, there is little cause for complaint. Few labor disputes are interrupting work, although several new controversies are threatened. Manufacturing plants are making the best returns. Iron furnaces and steel mills operate close to their full capacity, and the quarterly report of the leading concern showed an enormous tonnage of business on the books at the end of the year despite the fact that the closing months of 1904 made very good exhibits. Woolen mills maintain records of activity, but there is still much to be desired at cotton plants, and shoe factories have only a moderate amount of business in sight.

Railway earnings for January were 1.1 per cent larger than a year ago, and foreign commerce at this port for the last week showed an increase of $979,089 in exports and a gain of $528,067 in imports. Money remains easy despite heavy exports of gold, and prices of securities have risen to the highest average since October, 1902. Bank exchanges at New York for the week were 44.1 per cent larger than last year, and at other leading cities the gain was 4.4 per cent.

Commercial failures for the week in the United States were 259 against 305 last week, 335 the preceding week and 246 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 30 against 43 last week, 24 the preceding week and 29 last year. Liabilities of commercial failures in the United States reported for January are $10,417,205 against $18,483,573 for the corresponding period last year.

Anticigarette Bill Passed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 4.—The senate has passed an anticigarette bill. The measure makes it unlawful to own, sell or give away cigarettes, cigarette wrappers or cigarette tobacco. For the first offense a fine of from $25 to $50 may be imposed, and for the second and each subsequent offense the fine may be doubled, and to this may be added six months' imprisonment in the county jail.

JAPS HOLD HUN LINE

Russians Charged With Mutilating Wounded Prisoners.

HOT ARTILLERY BATTLE CONTINUES

Oyama Reports That Russians, Defeated at Helwoutai, Retreated North of the River and Are Held In Check There.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Dispatches from Japanese Manchurian headquarters say that the Russians have resumed their activity in front of the Japanese left and that there has been constant skirmishing along the fronts of both the opposing forces, exchanges of heavy artillery fire taking place. The Japanese again charge the Russians with the mutilation of their wounded. Portions of the report follow:

"In the direction of the center the enemy's artillery, situated about a mile and a quarter north of the village of Shakhe and on Wenpao mountain, bombarded the southern heights of Shakhe village.

"Constant collisions between scouts took place to the north of Shenglingtsu and Yaotun.

"On the Japanese left the enemy's artillery fiercely bombarded Chenghiehpao. Our artillery responded.

"According to a reliable report, the enemy has built a railroad from Suchiatun, which is five miles north of Lamuting, to Suhupao and has opened traffic thereon.

"At dawn the enemy's field and heavy guns concentrated a fire against Yatzupao, two miles northeast of Chenghiehpao. Subsequently a Russian division entered the village of Changtun and dispatched a brigade to attack us. We repulsed the brigade.

"According to a reliable report, our picket, consisting of an officer and twenty-eight men, was surrounded near Huanglaschatzu and resisted to the last. Many of the wounded who surrendered were mutilated by the enemy."

Advices from Tokyo say that Field Marshal Oyama reports that the Japanese left holds a line along the Hun river, with its extreme left established on the right bank. The main body of the Russians after being defeated at Helwoutai retired across the Hun river and occupied Niuyupao, Shufangtai and a portion of Changtan.

Details of fighting which Field Marshal Oyama officially designates as the battle of Heikoutai show that the operations were more extensive, the forces engaged larger and the fighting more desperate than the first reports indicated. The Russian casualties were over 13,000. The armies fought in a driving snowstorm. It was bitterly cold and very difficult to see.

COPPER THIEF SHOT DEAD.

Brooklyn Navy Yard Sentry on Post Shot Fleeing Robber.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Private Lawrence C. Milton of the United States Marine corps, on sentry duty in the Brooklyn navy yard, early in the morning shot and almost instantly killed one of three men whom he detected in the act of stealing a fifteen foot copper pipe from a pile of construction material to be used in the shops in the yard.

The men were lugging the pipe toward the Flushing avenue wall and when Private Milton called to them to halt they ran. Two of them escaped, but the third was struck by a bullet from Milton's rifle.

Captain F. A. W. Paterson, commanding Milton's company, refused to allow the police to arrest the private, insisting that he had done his whole duty and committed no wrong.

Heiress Back With Dowie.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Miss Ruth Hofer, the Swiss heiress who came to Zion City last summer and who returned to Switzerland two months ago, is back in the Dowieite headquarters. Her return, however, was in marked contrast to the elaborate recention given her when she first came. When Miss Hofer, who is generally believed to be the affianced wife of Gladstone Dowie, left Zion City for Switzerland it was reported that she had had a tilt with John Alexander Dowie and that she had withdrawn her financial support. Zion officials now assert that "Deaconess" Hofer went to Zurich on a special mission.

Railway Postal Clerk Arrested.

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—Postoffice inspectors last night arrested Edward B. Crandall of Athol, Mass., a railway postal clerk running between this city and Troy, N. Y., upon the charge of larceny from the mails of a letter containing $4. Crandall has been in the railway mail service for twelve years. The arrest followed an investigation of many complaints that letters had been lost in the mails during the past few months. A decoy letter was used to bring about the arrest.

When Esch-Townsend Bill Comes Up.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The caucus of the Republican members of the house of representatives has decided to report a rule bringing to a vote without amendment the Esch-Townsend railroad rate bill when it is taken up in the house. The caucus did not bind any member to vote for the bill when it comes up for passage.

AN ICE EMBARGO.

Long Island Sound Navigation Impeded—Frost Felt In South.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Following the cold snap an ice embargo has been laid on New York harbor and Long Island sound that rendered navigation impossible except by powerful steam craft, and even these in many instances had the utmost difficulty in forcing their way through the dense masses of ice which at times filled the North and East rivers from shore to shore, grinding against the pierheads and ferry slips and floating up and down with the tide.

These arctic conditions were in a great measure due to the release of vast ice fields up the Hudson, which came sweeping down on the current, but the intense cold of the night also made ice thickly along the shores of the harbor. Long Island sound, especially toward the eastern end, was reported to be filled with ice, rendering navigation more dangerous and difficult than at any time this winter.

The steamer Old Dominion of the Joy line, bound from Boston, with freight, was reported last night to be fast in the ice off Whitestone, N. Y., after five tugs had in vain attempted to extricate her.

The fleet of steamers bound for ports on the sound which left here last night had orders to keep close together and force their way through the sound ice in a wedge formation.

A fall of sleet ranging from one to three inches is reported from points in Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and parts of Texas, while falls of snow extend beyond the boundaries named. Freezing weather prevails over a wide area of the states mentioned.

In Arkansas the fruit crop has been severely damaged, while in Mississippi and some parts of Louisiana truck gardens and cotton suffered. Many head of cattle will be lost in some sections of Texas. The Mississippi river at Memphis is full of ice, and navigation is suspended.

WORLD'S RECORD.

John Hoch, Held at New York, is Champion Bigamist.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—John Hoch, known as "Bluebeard" Hoch, who is charged with being the world's champion bigamist, has been identified at police headquarters here by Mrs. Mary Hendricks of Chicago as the man who under the name of Jacob Schmidt married her on Jan. 2, 1904, and deserted her three weeks afterward. When Hoch left her Mrs. Hendricks swears that he took away with him $500 of her savings.

Hoch recognized the woman who alleges that he deceived her. He said, "Mary, I am sorry," and before he could say any more he was hustled off to a cell.

According to the police, Mrs. Hendricks is one of thirty-one women whom Hoch has duped in the past ten or twelve years. And if all that the police say be true they have Hoch in a tight box, as the following dispatch from Chicago would indicate:

"Police Inspector Shippy has advanced the theory that possibly the one unidentified body among the victims of the Iroquois theater fire was that of one of the wives of John Hoch. The inspector's suspicion is due to circumstances connected with an attempt that was made by telephone to obtain the woman's jewelry from an undertaker.

"'When Hoch arrives here,' said Inspector Shippy, 'I intend to question him about this matter and also concerning a young woman whose body was washed ashore at South Haven, Mich., last summer.'"

Frank Croker Buried.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The funeral of Frank Croker, son of Richard Croker, who was killed in an automobile accident at Ormond, Fla., ten days ago, took place here from the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola. Father Neil N. McKinnon was the celebrant at the mass, assisted by Rev. Thomas Ducey of St. Leo's and Rev. William O'Brien Padua, the latter preaching the sermon. A benediction was pronounced by Archbishop Farley. Richard Croker sat in one of the front pews of the church with his wife and two sons, Richard, Jr., and Herbert. The services were brief and very simple.

A Boon to Theater Goers.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—A drastic bill against theater ticket scalpers and reservation of theater tickets has been introduced in the assembly by Mr. Wagner. It applies to all sorts of places, including parks regularly open for public amusement. Under penalty of a fine of not less than $250 or more than $500 or imprisonment for not less than six months or more than one year it forbids the sale, purchase or acceptance of theater tickets at a price higher than that advertised and requires that tickets shall be sold at uniform rates by all agents.

Has Shot Fifteen Men.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 4.—Andrew Kurrowski, for whose arrest a reward of $500 was offered some time ago in Chicago, is in custody here and has made a confession that he was a companion in crime of Marks and Van Dine, the Chicago "car barn bandits," who were hanged last year. "I came to St. Louis," he said, "to plunder and rob. I would have started out one night, but I was too sleepy. I have shot fifteen men, some fatally.

Editor Received Fatal Burns.

PIQUA, O., Feb. 4.—Isaac S. Morris, editor of the Piqua Call, is dead here from burns from an open grate fire. His robe caught fire and his entire body was severely burned. Mr. Morris was one of the oldest newspaper men in the state.

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

GORKY A PRISONER

Governor General Trepoff's Official Statement.

FORTY THOUSAND AT SOSNOVICE OUT

Officials Roughly Treated by Mob of Strikers—Streshemeschiz Station Wrecked—Bloody Encounter at Lods.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 4.—It is the intention of the government to bring Maxim Gorky and seven other authors and publicists to trial on political charges. Governor General Trepoff, in an official statement, says:

"The whole case is now in the hands of the ministry of justice, which is conducting the investigation, at the conclusion of which the procurator general will decide whether the prisoners shall be tried by a civil or a military court. The story spread broadcast that I have ordered Gorky to be court martialed and shot is a baseless fabrication, invented by persons who are grossly ignorant of Russia, or else they would know that it is impossible for a representative of the Russian administration to order any prisoner to be executed or even to decide the form of trial. Yet I am in receipt of letters daily from abroad imploring me to spare Gorky's life. I repeat that I am in no wise concerned in this matter. I even do not know whether the procurator general may decide to provisionally release Gorky, as he did in the case of Hessen, Miakotin and Kareieff. I cannot, of course, reveal the exact terms of the accusation against the prisoner, but you may emphatically contradict the version of the discovery of documents implicating eight men who were to have comprised a provisional government."

Turning to the question of the present aspect of affairs the governor general said:

"We have every reason to feel satisfied. Masters and men are now on excellent term and work is proceeding everywhere quietly. The reception of the workmen's deputation by the emperor has created the best impression. As to insinuations that the workmen who were received at Tsarskoe Selo were not representative you may say their selection was not influenced in any way by the government. The selection of the men had to be made within a day. I summoned the principal manufacturers and asked them to choose their most trustworthy and influential men, and this was done."

At Sosnovice about 40,000 men are now out on strike. At a meeting of strikers there the men forcibly dragged officials belonging to the management of various concerns to the place of meeting. All the speakers insisted on the preservation of public order. The men's demands include a minimum wage of 75 cents a day, eight hours to constitute a day's work; various reforms in factory management and old age pensions.

The strikers went to the railway station of Streshemeschiz, seized and bound the officials, wrecked the station buildings and stopped trains in both direction.

At Lodz there has been a bloody encounter, the military firing on strikers and causing great havoc. In the fight several strikers were killed and fifty-eight wounded, of whom thirty-eight were severely injured.

Morgan's Carriage Held Up.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—It is said that J. Pierpont Morgan and Mrs. Morgan were chased by a squad of police through the Bowery into Park row and finally brought to a halt opposite the city hall. It was a wild ride the wizard of the steel trust and his wife had, and the bluecoats who were after them were compelled to commandeer two express wagons in order to get their quarry. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were not arrested, but their coachman, James Byrnes, was. Marie Secco of 56 Mulberry street made complaint that she was knocked down by the Morgan carriage and that the coachman drove off without seeming to care.

Mrs. Chadwick Would Not Sign.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick has refused to sign a petition to Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania to commute the sentence of Kate Edwards, convicted of the murder of her husband and sentenced to be hanged, to life imprisonment. One of the women who are circulating such petitions called at the jail and induced Chief Deputy Horn to allow her to see Mrs. Chadwick. Mrs. Chadwick received the woman in her corridor and when told the object of her visit declined her name to the petition.

Confessed to Firing Warehouses.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Feb. 4.—Raymond Bowman, arrested here for arson, before a magistrate has admitted setting fire to several hay and grain warehouses. As the second story of one place set fire was used as a dwelling his offense is a capital crime and not bailable, and the sixteen-year-old prisoner must await trial in jail. Eight hay and grain storerooms were set on fire within a week. The losses aggregated $25,000.

Big Fire In East St. Louis.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Feb. 4.—Fire broke out in the business portion of this city and destroyed a number of office and store buildings. Several persons were injured. The property loss is $265,000.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 4, 1905.

Rev. Floyd Tompkins, one of millions making a bid for fame, in a address deplores the rottenness of his own city and after giving vent to the alarming conditions, attacks the newspapers for being pessimistic and sensational. The divine's address was enough of a sensation itself to fill a column.

Recent events in New York show conclusively that the Metropolitan papers compose the real detective force of the city. When a crime is committed, the police department and detective bureau get busy and after spending a week on a particular case sometimes do have the courage to make an arrest, but more frequently the criminal has fled the jurisdiction. All the time the newspapers are publishing the facts concerning the crime and unearthing the evidence necessary for a conviction. The daily journals seem to learn more about the crime in a day than the paid police officers do in a month. The reporters work up the case in every instance and the sleuths sleep

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN WILL RAISE 6,000

TO MAKE ADDITION TO SCHOOL IN LOGAN, UTAH.

The story of what is known as the New Jersey Academy, at Logan, Utah, was the substance of Miss Hughes' address at the monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society, of the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday afternoon. The meeting was largely attended, and the lecture was preceded by a short devotional and business meeting.

Miss Hughes, formerly a teacher in Utah, and one well acquainted with the conditions in that part of the country, has spoken in this city before on subjects more broadly connected with the Mormon question. Her remarks yesterday, however, were directed particularly to the institute at Logan, which the Presbyterian women of New Jersey were influential in founding and supporting. It is now necessary that an addition be put on the building. The expense of building this addition will be provided by the Presbyterian women of New Jersey. For the purpose of contributing to the sum, $6,000, which is needed, a special collection will be received at the annual meeting of the local society on March 8

Miss Hughes spent some time in telling of the religion, its rapid growth, and the increasing hold which the Mormons are acquiring. She told stores of the Mormons, and quoted incidents showing the need of more accommodations in the line of dormitories.

The New Jersey Academy at Logan was founded twenty-seven years ago. The increase in number of pupils made it necessary to add a story to the building, and the Presbyterians in this State were equal to the occasion. It is thought that without question the money needed to make an addition to the building to suit the immediate needs will be collected among the missionary societies in New Jersey.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Woodhull & Martin have received another case of 40 in. white lawns at 10c. per yard. 2 2 tf

—The Loyal Temperance Legion will meet in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Tuesday afternoon.

—As soon as the weather moderates the work of digging a cellar for L. L. Manning's new building on West Front street will be started.

—The names of Ernest R. Ackerman and John Valiant were omitted by mistake in the list of Y. M. C. A. Board of Directors, published in yesterday's issue of the Daily Press.

—Louis Mayhood, of West Front street, who recently fell off a trolley car and received injuries which necessitated his going to the hospital, has been discharged and sent home. His injuries did not prove to be as serious as anticipated.

—Probably not more than a hundred readers of this paper will read your furnished rooms to let ad., but of this number about ninety-nine will be folks who are looking for furnished rooms. And that's the real secret of "results" from want advertising.

—Mr. Day, an aged man living in East Fourth street, near the gas house, slipped and fell on the ice in front of Charles Arnold's meat market yesterday afternoon, sustaining a cut on the head. He became unconscious and the ambulance was summoned. Before it arrived, the man had been removed to a nearby store and Dr. Murray had given treatment. Mr. Day soon regained consciousness and later in the afternoon was removed to his home.

MISSION BAND ELECTS.

Trinity Reformed Church Society's Annual Meeting.

Miss Lillian A. Force was re-elected president of the Young Women's Mission Board, of Trinity Reformed church, at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon. The other officers are: Vice president, Miss Mabel Wilson; recording secretary, Mrs. H. F. Crawford; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Olmsted; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Pearson.

The regular routine business was transacted and the reports were received for the year. The treasurer's report was an exceedingly gratifying one, showing a balance on hand of $86 69 Among other business considerations, the arrangements were made for a supper to be held on February 23 and 24, in the church parlors More definite plans will be formulated at a future meeting.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Sobenck, pastor, was present at the meeting and made an address of congratulation and commendation upon the work of the Band.

Mrs Sarah Smalley, of this city, has been visiting Mrs. M. A. Manker, of Bernardsville.

Mr. and Mrs Joseph Fass and son, of Vienna, Austria, are visiting their son, Jacob Fass, of West Front street, for the first time in sixteen years.

is a fairly large amount of money. How to get it is a question, and how to take care of it after you do get it is another. The way to get it is to save, and deposit a certain sum each month. By allowing the interest to compound semi-annually, the principle is surprisingly increased. We take care of the large and small deposits and pay 3½ per cent. interest.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The entire borough of Dunellen is united in sympathy for three families in which trouble has recently come. In the grief of Mrs. Paul Reusch, whose brother met with a tragic death on Thursday, in the death of William Brokaw, and in the death of Isaac Giddis, who died at his son's home in Plainfield, the borough is enveloped in sorrow. George Williams was well known in the borough, where he was a frequent visitor, and the awfulness of his death has struck the relatives and friends of the dead man a terrible blow. Mr. Williams was better known here, perhaps, than in any town save his own, and the shock at the news of his death is generally felt. In the death of William Brokaw the borough loses an old and respected resident, one who was esteemed by all. Perhaps the greatest blow of the three, however, considering the intimate and long standing relationship which he had with the borough, was the news of the death of Isaac Giddis. Mr. Giddis came to Dunellen thirty years ago from Mt. Horeb and during his long residence here has made none but friends, who will mourn the loss of one of the borough's oldest citizens. He leaves a wife and two sons, Robert Giddis, an employe of the Central Railroad, and Dr. Elmer A. Giddis, a Plainfield dentist. The funeral services will be held from his late home on North avenue, at 1 o'clock Sunday, followed by a service in the Methodist church at 1:30. He will be buried at Bound Brook. This afternoon at 1:30, Mr. Brokaw's funeral will be held from his late residence.

No further action has been taken in the rumored attack of Thomas Bodine against the borough boys who were alleged to have disturbed the service at the Presbyterian church several weeks ago. It is reported that Mr. Bodine is hunting for the name of the fourth boy in the racket, but as yet nothing has been done toward punishing the youths. The boys claim that the noise which they caused was of no consequence, and that the affair is of slight importance.

Another sleigh ride. The nights, though cold, have been excellent for sleighing parties, both by twos and by larger crowds. A party of New Market young people enjoyed a ride to Bound Brook last night. About twenty went on the trip, which was all that a congenial crowd could make it.

The ice cutters report a decided shortage in the crop so far harvested and have little hopes for anything better this year. The snow has put a stop to all work on the pond for the present, and there will have to be a first class thaw before more ice finds its way into the houses.

On Thursday evening of next week, the Ladies' Aid Society's chicken dinner takes place, and it is an event which is looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure.

Findlay Lewis has taken possession of the house on North avenue which was formerly occupied by his father.

Mrs. Lydia Vail will occupy the formerly vacant flat over Dr. P. W. Brakeley's store.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The public would appreciate it if the Township Committee would place an officer on duty again on Sundays. The corner of Park avenue and the trolley on Sunday afternoons is a favorite gathering place for the drunks waiting for cars. The language and sight witnessed are hardly what the law abiding element desire and certainly not what women and children should be compelled to witness every week.

The local five-men team of the Brookside Gun Club are shooting a match this afternoon against the team of the Plainfield club at the club's shoot being held near Cole's Hill. George Johnson, Edward V. Goodman, James Johnston, Edward L. Hand and Philip Jahn are the local shooters chosen to represent the Brooksides.

Hetfield & Weldon are making a number of improvements about their stone crusher in the valley. New bins are being built, a new crusher is to be installed and other needed improvements made before the work is resumed.

Borough Collector Charles Sheelen, as usual, has a very small delinquent tax list. Collector Sheelen has a convincing way which seems to make the borough taxpayers come up before the added expense is attached to their taxes.

The lovers of bowling in town will accompany the local team to Dunellen Monday night, to help the home team take the deciding game of the series with the Dunellen team. The match will be rolled on Taylor's alleys.

Unless the weather moderates shortly the 'Plains monument of snow will remain chilling reminders of the blizzard during the summer months, some of the drifts in the outlying districts being eight to ten feet high.

Yesterday was said to be the coldest day in town this winter, if not in years, some reporting the thermometer during the early morning hours as being four and five below zero.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be: Sunday-school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7:15 p. m.; evening preaching, 7:45.

The Suburban Club dance to be held Tuesday night in the club hall, promises to be one of the most successful affairs the club has yet given.

The monthly communion will be held at the close of the morning sermon at the Baptist church tomorrow.

NEWARK HIGH WON.

Leals Team Was Completely Outclassed in Basket Ball Game.

In a game which was one sided, and interesting in spite of the score, the Newark High School proved themselves in an entirely different class from Leal's School at basketball, and defeated them 85 to 15. The game was clean and well played, and it was accuracy in passing that won for Newark. The Leal's boys say that they never played against a faster team, and that the N. H. S. players are far superior to most high school aggregations.

Chapman and Howard both played well, the former throwing three goals and the latter four. This was the line up of the local team: Chapman and Howard, forwards; Jewett, center; Lyman, Manning and Perkins, guards. Goals from field, Chapman, 3; Howard, 4; from fouls, Chapman. Referee, P. R. Collier, of Plainfield High School; umpire, Botts, of Newark.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Schaffer, of Raritan, has been visiting relatives here for a few days.

Philip Eberly, of Dunr street, is detained at home with a severe attack of the grip.

Mrs. Emma Matthews, of this city, has returned from a visit with relatives at Whitehouse.

George Williams, of West End avenue, has recovered from a recent illness and returned to school.

Benj. Hand, formerly of this city, but now of Westfield, has been visiting friends here for a short time.

Mrs. H Bentley Hinchcliffe, of London, England, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Currie, of Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving W. Bininger have returned from their wedding trip and are now living at the groom's home on Westervelt avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Roland Reiter have returned from their honeymoon and for the present are stopping at the former home of the bride on West Seventh street.

Salary to Charity.

Former Mayor O. L. Jenkins, in accordance with his custom, has presented the Children's Home with $100, half of his last year's salary as Mayor, and acknowledgment of the contribution is made by those in charge of the Home. This amount will form the nucleus of the "furnishing fund" for the new Children's Home building.

MICHAEL FLYNN BURIED.

Requiem Mass at St. Mary's Church This Morning.

The funeral services of Michael R. Flynn were held this morning from the late home, on West Third street at 8:30 and from St. Mary church at 9 o'clock, where a requiem mass was said. Father Delehanty, assistant pastor, officiated. There was a very large attendance of friends and neighbors and a large delegation from the T. A. B. Association, of which Mr. Flynn was a life-long member. There were a number of handsome floral offerings.

The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery and the pall-bearers, some of the oldest members of the T. A. B. Association, were Jeremiah Callahan, Edward Lynch, John Walsh, John Hickey, Michael Callahan, John J. Carney.

Mrs. McInness Dead.

Mrs. Jennie McInnes, wife of James McInness, of West Third street, died yesterday afternoon. Pleuro-pneumonia, which brought on a hemorrhage, was the cause of death. She was thirty-six years old and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Gray, formerly of this city but now of Elizabeth. She leaves four children and was a member of Hope chapel. The funeral will be held from her late home, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

In the City Court.

On complaint of James Daw, two boys, Daniel Nugent and James Corrigan, were arraigned in the city court this morning, charged with damaging a new house on Stebbins place. At the request of their counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., the matter was laid over a week. Other cases in court today were: Hackman Max Newman, for attempted overcharge of a passenger, fined $3; Harrison Randolph, drunkenness, fined $3.

COSSACKS OF RUSSIA

A MILITARY ORDER THAT IS WIDELY SCATTERED.

They Long Maintained Independence of the Iron Rule, But Now Are a Changed People — Not Such Soldiers as Formerly.

Cossacks? The word is a synonym for cold-blooded cruelty, brute strength, unsavory police duty. Are they so black as painted?

Cossacks may be shortly defined as a military people inhabiting the steppes of Russia along the lower Don and about the Dneiper, and in lesser numbers in eastern Russia, Caucasia, Siberia and elsewhere. Which locating would lead one to infer that Russia was pretty generally inhabited by Cossacks. Their origin is an uncertain matter, "but their nucleus is supposed to have consisted of refugees from the ancient limits of Russia, forced by hostile invasion to the adoption of a military organization or order, which grew into a more or less free tribal existence." Their position in Russia has been a peculiar one, at least until recently they have been looked upon rather as "allies than as subjects of the czar."

To the refugees that may have formed the nucleus of the Cossack order were added, in the course of time, all sorts and conditions of men; those fleeing from religious persecution, fugitives from cruel masters, criminals, outlaws, deserters, and also men fond of adventure for adventure's own sake. Though calling themselves Russians, they held their independence of Russian rule. Living in southern Russia, close to quarrelsome border people, they developed more and more of a martial spirit.

This people did not submit tamely to the rule of absoluteism, their numerous revolts obtained for them certain privileges, which of late years, however, have been much curtailed. Russia has found them of great service in protecting her frontier line, and in time of active warfare they have proved very valuable in skirmishing operations.

In guarding the frontier, the Cossacks in their fighting with Turcomans, Circassians and other hostile frontier folk, had opportunity to call into play feats of horsemanship, half the fighting consisting in the work of capturing the enemy's steeds. Cowboy bar excellence has been the Cossack; he could ride and throw a lasso with any of that ilk. F. D. Millet, who campaigned with the Cossack, declared he was very like our own western frontiersman; independent in spirit, self-reliant, and full of resource, with little of the servility of the ordinary Slav; and declared further he was not quite the fire-eater reputed.

But the Cossack is no lamb; he is a fighter by birth and by trade. If ordered to make war on peasants, he makes war to a finish, with a thoroughness that has won for him his hateful reputation. His ancestors lived for ages by raiding on weaker ones, and he does likewise; he steals without a scruple; he drinks vodka to excess, and yet the Cossack is religious to a degree; ever observes grace before eating, sings hymns and prays devoutly. One of the Cossack's superstitions generally believed in is to the effect that one must enter Heaven with a clean body, and on the eve of battle the Cossack makes a careful toilet. Very superstitious is this man vowed to bloodthirstiness, afraid of his own shadow, always on the lookout for signs and wonders. He wears an amulet blessed by the village priest, and if he lose this his courage forsakes him; with its charm he can ride boldly into the face of danger—unless the danger happen to wear the form of a Japanese soldier.

Poultney Bigelow, writing in 1894, says that under the scepter of the czar the Cossacks are losing their best attributes, through administrative stupidity, cupidity and the various other idities associated with Russian officialism; and to-day Mr. Bigelow must be rather proud of his prophesy of ten years back, wherein he remarked: "The next great war will probably find the Cossack as incapable of meeting the demands upon him as the Turco and Spahi, who figured so dramatically in the war of France against Germany. But though not equal to European warfare, with his knout he still is formidable enough at home; lashing Russians daring to hold orthodox religious meetings, rounding up strikers, humbling the Pole.

HENRY HOWARD.

That Would Help.

The infant began crying as soon as the visitor arrived, and continued to wail for some time. At last its mamma said:

"Please don't mind the baby."

"If you would mind it," suggested the guest, "maybe I wouldn't mind it."
—Judge.

CHECK CIGARS IN GOTHAM

Strange Custom of Depositing Lighted Weed Before Entering New York Stores.

Everyone knows that you can check a trunk, even if it be to San Francisco. You also receive a check to your handsom cab when you drive up to a restaurant, or for your $20,000 motor car at the country club. Even the good housewife, when she goes to the up-to-date department store, says the New York Press, may check her baby while she makes her round of the counters. It is known to very few, however, that in a certain wholesale dry goods house in this city you can and must check your lighted cigar before entering the building. This dry goods house is the largest in this country if not in the world. It covers an entire city block, a few minutes' walk from Broadway, and everyone, no matter whether he be a big buyer with a carload order, or a diminutive messenger boy with a telegram must leave at the door his cigar, cigarette or pipe. It is the most stringent rule of this great firm that no one, from the $50,000 a year salaried president down to the three dollar a week office boy, may smoke when inside the building. At the entrance stands a neatly uniformed man, who is big enough to make one think twice about argument. As you enter he politely touches you on the arm and says: "Pardon me, are you smoking?" and should that be the case, he will say, "I must ask you to leave your cigar here." He will then hand you a check and with gloved fingers carefully deposit the perfecto or pipe on a small brass rack provided for the purpose, and which bears the same number as the check you have received. When you leave the building you present your check and receive your cigar or pipe and a match to light it with and go on your way.

TOOK BACK MINOR CHARGES

Methodist Insisted on "Presbyterian," But Retracted "Robber" and "Liar" Statement.

In a certain town of western Massachusetts, relates Harper's Weekly, two of the most prominent citizens are a Methodist brother and a Presbyterian brother. These are neighbors and, for the most part, dwell on good terms, except when they try to effect an exchange of horses or to talk religion. On one occasion the two had traded horses and although the outcome rankled in the breast of the Methodist they had met and started a discussion on the subject of predestination. As usual, an altercation ensued, when the Methodist lost control of himself. With mixed emotions concerning horse trades and John Calvin in his mind, he suddenly exclaimed:

"You are a robber, a liar and a Presbyterian!"

This proved too much for the Presbyterian, and a fight began, in which the Presbyterian got the best of it. As he sat upon his prostrate opponent, bumping his head against the ground, he said:

"Take it back, take it back, or I'll bump your foolish head off!"

"I'll take it back," gasped the vanquished Methodist, "on the first two counts. You're not a robber nor a liar, but you're a blamed old Presbyterian, if I die for it!"

SHE REBUKED A CONDUCTOR

He Ordered an Aged, Infirm Woman to "Step Lively," But Soon Retracted Words.

It was on a League Island car going south, says the Philadelphia Press, the time was high noon, and as usual there was a variegated assortment of persons inside, while out on the front and rear platforms passengers stood huddled together like sheep. The conductor, a tall youth, who had evidently not been ringing up fares for many months, was in bad humor because people did not step lively enough when leaving or entering the car at the various stops. At one of the street crossing the car stopped and an aged woman, careworn and feeble-looking, got up and slowly, with the aid of the backs of the chairs, started toward the rear to get off. "Come, come, there, lady, step lively; we can't wait here all day," impetuously shouted the conductor. The old lady glanced up at the tall youth in a kindly manner as she passed him and in a low but pathetic voice replied: "I am moving as fast as I can, my boy, and would step livelier, but I have been sick all summer, and this is the first time I have been out since last May. Didn't you ever have a mother, lad?" It is needless to say the conductor was humility itself for the rest of the trip.

Meat of Porcupine.

It is not generally known that the common porcupine is an inhabitant of both southern Italy and Spain, and that its flesh is a regular item of consumption. As the animal is a very clean feeder, the meat is of fine quality and has a taste something between that of chicken and of pork. It is believed to have been naturalized in Italy by the Romans, just as they probably brought the rabbit to England. In South Africa porcupines are regularly hunted at night with dogs.

To Keep a Horse Down.

When a witness in an English court the other day remarked that it was necessary to sit on a horse's head when he was down to keep him quiet, the judge replied: "Nothing of the kind. People don't seem to understand that the only thing necessary to keep a horse from kicking when he is down is to get hold of his ear and keep his nose up in the air. I have seen a lady keep a horse quiet in that way without soiling her gloves."

PHYSICAL CULTURE HINTS.

Simple Exercises For Making the Body Graceful and Supple.

It is a fine compliment to American women that an English teacher of body culture has come to this country to study into the reasons why our women are superior physically to British women. American women are in general undoubtedly taller and at the same time better developed in the bust and hips than Englishwomen, though not larger around the waist. English people say our women are more graceful than their British sisters; also that they carry themselves better. Foreigners believe the difference in this respect is due to the American system of physical culture.

It is true that we have excellent physical culture systems for the feminine sex in America, so excellent that the only pity is more women do not learn and practice these. Good looking as we are, there are still "oceans" to be desired along the line of physical training. We need not throw bouquets at ourselves because we are so beautiful and superior physically. The compliment to our good looks, on the contrary, should make us humbly resolved to perfect ourselves in this respect.

VALUABLE WALKING EXERCISE.

To be well, graceful and handsome a woman must breathe well, walk well, hold herself absolutely erect and keep her muscles limber as a child's. All this is within reach of the average woman in town or country, no matter how hard worked she is.

How to Breathe.

A very little time given daily to the pursuit of physical perfection will achieve great results. To begin with breathing, correct breathing always commences with having the clothing so loose that a woman can fill her lungs with air to their utmost capacity without having her sides feel cramped by her garments. That test being applied, let her then breathe slowly and deeply from the waist upward and toward the armpits. She should commence to fill the lungs with air at the waist line and inhale till she can feel herself breathe in her back as well as in front. The lungs extend well around to the back. The air should be exhaled slowly and rhythmically. This slow, deep breathing is an excellent exercise for rendering the mind serene and tranquil, as well as for purifying the blood and insuring a good complexion. Practice it till it becomes habitual.

Next let us consider an exercise to make a girl or woman walk well. Look a moment at the lady in the picture. Observe how she holds her umbrella—across her back and under her arms. Try this for yourself. A cane or any old stick will do. Hold it as the woman in the illustration holds her umbrella. Note now how it lifts the chest and the sagged muscles about the waist, how it causes the head to be held erect, the spine straight as an arrow. As an exercise in walking this is invaluable.

The Bending Forward Exercise.

For preventing the muscles of the back and abdomen from becoming stiff and unwieldy, for limbering them out after they have become stiff, also for reducing the fat stomach, no exercise is better than the simple, old fashioned one of bending forward from the hips and touching the floor with the finger tips. The right way is as follows:

Stand perfectly erect, knees and heels together. Now raise the arms above the head, stretching them up as far as possible, and clasp the fingers together. You will notice that this lifts the whole front of your body and gives a splendid sensation of lightness and freedom. Now, without bending the knees a particle, let your arms slowly down out in front of you, unclasp the fingers and with the tips of them touch the floor. Remember the knees must not be bent in the least. If you practice this exercise a few times twice a day you will find your stomach becoming smaller and your body more limber. By and by you will be able to stoop forward in this way and lay the whole palm of your hand flat upon the floor.

Still another exercise, also one of the best, one which, as is generally the case, old women need more than young ones, is to crawl about the floor on all fours like an infant. It may seem laughable; if so, so much the better.

CHAPTER X.

WITHOUT BENEFIT OF CLERGY.

At 10:48 on the Saturday morning Kent was standing with the general manager on the Union station track platform beside the engine which was to make the flying run to Gaston.

Nine hours of sharp work lay between the hurried conference in Loring's bedroom and the drive to the station at a quarter before 11. Boston had been wired; divers and sundry friends of the railway company had been interviewed; some few affidavits had been secured; and now they were waiting to give Boston its last chance, with a clerk hanging over the operator in the station telegraph office to catch the first word of encouragement.

"If the advisory board doesn't send us something pretty solid, I'm going into this thing lame," said Kent, dubiously. "Of course, what Boston can send us will be only corroborative; unfortunately we can't wire affidavits. But it will help. What we have secured here lacks directness."

"Necessarily," said Loring. "But I'm banking on the board. If we don't get the ammunition before you have to start, I can wire it to you at Gaston. That gives us three hours to go and come on."

"Yes; and if it comes to the worst—if the decision be unfavorable—it can only embarrass us temporarily. This is merely the preliminary hearing, and nothing permanent can be established until we have had a hearing on the merits, and we can go armed to that, at all events."

The general manager was looking at his watch, and he shut the case with a snap.

"Don't you let it come to that, as long as you have a leg to stand on, David," he said impassively. "An interregnum of ten days might make it exceedingly difficult for us to prove anything." Then, as the telegraph office watcher came to the door and shook his head as a sign that Boston was still silent: "Your time is up. Off with you, and don't let Oleson scare you when he gets 219 in motion. He is a good runner, and you have a clear track."

Kent's after-memory of that distance-devouring rush was a blurred picture of a plunging, rocking, clamoring engine gounding over mile after mile of the brown plain; of the endless dizzying procession of oncoming telegraph poles hurtling like great side-flung projectiles past the cab windows; of now and then a lonely prairie station with waving semaphore arms, sighted, passed and left behind in a whirling sand-cloud in one and the same heart-beat. And for the central figure in the picture, the one constant quantity when all else was mutable and shifting and indistinct, the big, calm-eyed Norwegian on the opposite box, hurling his huge machine doggedly through space.

But at Juniberg, 27 miles out of Gaston, there was a delay. Train No. 17, the eastbound time freight, had left Juniberg at one o'clock, having ample time to make Lesterville, the next station east, before the light engine could possibly overtake it. But Lesterville had not yet reported its arrival; for which cause the agent at Juniberg was constrained to put out his stop signal, and Kent's special came to a stand at the platform.

Under the circumstances, there appeared to be nothing for it but to wait until the delayed No. 17 was heard from; and Kent's first care was to report to Loring, and to ask if there were anything from Boston.

The reply was encouraging. A complete denial of everything, signed by the proper officials, had been received and repeated to Kent at Gaston—was there now awaiting him. Kent saw in anticipation the nicely calculated scheme of the junto crumbling into small dust in the precise moment of fruition, and had a sharp attack of ante-triumph which he had to walk off in turns up and down the long platform. But as the waiting grew longer and the dragging minutes totaled the quarter hour and then the half, he began to perspire again.

Half-past two came and went, and still there was no hopeful word from Lesterville. Kent had speech with Oleson, watch in hand. Would the engineer take the risk of a rear-end collision on a general manager's order? Oleson would obey orders if the heavens fell; and Kent flew to the wire again. Hunnicott, at Gaston, was besought to gain time in the hearing by any and all means; and Loring was asked to authorize the risk of a rear-end smash-up. He did it promptly. The light engine was to go on until it should "pick up" the delayed train between stations.

The Juniberg man gave Oleson his release and the order to proceed with due care while the sounder was still clicking a further communication from headquarters. Loring was providing for the last contingency by sending Kent the authority to requisition No. 17's engine for the completion of the run in case the track should be blocked, with the freight engine free beyond the obstruction.

Having his shackles striken off, the Norwegian proceeded "with due care," which is to say that he sent the eight-wheeler darting down the line toward Lesterville at the rate of a mile a minute. The mystery of the delay was solved at a point half-way between the two stations. A broken flange had derailed three cars of the freight and the block was impassable.

Armed with the general manager's mandatory wire, Kent ran forward to the engine of the freight train and was shortly on his way again. But in the 20-mile run to Gaston more time was lost by the lumbering freight locomotive, and it was 20 minutes past three o'clock when the county seat came in sight and Kent began to oscillate between two sharp-pointed horns of a cruel dilemma.

By dropping off at the street crossing nearest the courthouse, he might still be in time to get a hearing with such documentary backing as he had been able to secure at the capital. By going on to the station he could pick up the Boston wire which, while it was not strictly evidence, might create a strong presumption in his favor; but in this case he would probably be too late to use it. So he counted the rail-lengths, watch in hand, with a curse to the count for his witlessness in failing to have Loring repeat the Boston message to him during the long wait at Juniberg; and when the time for the decision arrived he signaled the engineer to slow down, jumped from the step at the nearest crossing and hastened up the street toward the courthouse.

In the mean time, to go back a little, during this day of hurrying to and fro Blashfield Hunnicott had been having the exciting experiences of a decade crowded into a corresponding number of hours. Early in the morning he had begun besieging the headquarters wire office for news and instructions, and, owing to Kent's good intentions to be on the ground in person, had got little enough of either.

At length to his unspeakable relief, he had news of the coming special; and with the conviction that help was at hand he waited at the station with what coolness there was in him to meet his chief. But as the time for the hearing drew near he grew nervous again; and all the keen pains of utter helplessness returned with renewed acuteness when the operator, who had overheard the Juniberg-Lesterville wire talk, told him that the special was hung up at the former station.

"O my good Lord!" he groaned. "I'm in for it with empty hands!" None the less, he ran to the baggage-room end of the building and, capturing an express wagon, had himself trundled out to the courthouse.

The judge was at his desk when Hunnicott entered, and Hawk was on hand, calmly reading the morning paper. The hands of the clock on the wall opposite the judge's desk pointed to five minutes of the hour, and for five minutes Hunnicott sat listening, hoping against hope that he should hear the rush and roar of the incoming special.

Promptly on the stroke of three the judge tapped upon his desk with his pencil.

"Now, gentlemen, proceed with your case; and I must ask you to be as brief as possible. I have an appointment at four which cannot be postponed," he said, quietly; and Hawk threw down his paper and began at once.

Hunnicott heard his opponent's argument mechanically, having his ear attuned for whistle signals and wheel drummings. Hawk spoke rapidly and straight to his point, as befitted a man speaking to the facts and with no jury present to be swayed by oratorical effort. When he came to the summarizing of the allegations in the amended petition, he did it wholly without heat, piling up the accusations one upon another with the careful method of a bricklayer building a wall. The wall-building simile thrust itself upon Hunnicott with irresistible force as he listened. If the special engine should not dash up in time to batter down the wall—

BOYS OATH-BOUND TO SLAY POLICE

PLEDGED "LIMBS, VITALS AND SOULS" NOT TO BETRAY.

IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

The Robbing of a Belated Cab Driver Leads to the Arrest of Four of the Gang of Young Toughs.

Washington, D. C.—Four boys were arrested by the police of the First precint the other night on charges of highway robbery. Their names are William Tobin, "Joe" Carega, George Hardy and Bernard Weismiller. None of the quartette is over 22 years of age.

These boys, it was discovered by the police, are members of a regularly organized band, bound together by an oath which carries with it a penalty of death in terrible form to any traitor. The complaint which resulted in their downfall was made by William Everett, of No. 2025 G. street, N. W. a driver of the Herdic Cab company, who was knocked down in the Mall on the night of December 23 and robbed of a watch and pocketbook.

A copy of the oath, written in a cramped hand in red script, which is thought to be blood, was found on one of the prisoners. The oath pledges every subscriber thereto to eternal fealty to the interests of the band, which are specified to be the obtaining of plunder and of the extermination, by fair means or foul, of policemen, detectives and their ilk.

To this end the members pledge their "limbs, vitals and souls." The penalty attached to a violation of this solemn obligation is that the offender "shall have his skull broken, his brains removed" and other equally pleasant things.

From the four members of the band it was learned that a regular initiation is required of all recruits, who are forced to subscribe to the oath in the presence of all other members.

From statements made by the prisoners, the police knew of 30 members of this organized band, and they have hopes that other arrests will follow.

In their confession the boys said that they had thrown the watch and the rifled pocketbook in the sewer trap at Sixth and G streets, N. W., and the chain in the trap at Sixth and F.

The gang was only recently organized and in drawing up their oath the leaders were undoubtedly influenced by recent testimony concerning Mormon oaths which has come out in the senate hearings in regard to the expulsion of Senator Smoot.

Mother Sued by Her Baby.

Bloomington, Ill.—Alleging neglect at her birth, Lenore Skinner aged three years, a ward of Bethany Home, at Rock Island, has begun suit for $10,000 damages against her mother, Mrs. Myra A. Smith. The plaintiff is probably the youngest in the court records of the country, while the case is thought to be without a parallel. When the child was but a few hours old she was put in a basket and sent to the Bethany Home. The eyes of the babe were affected by exposure and she may be partially blind through life. The mother is said to have ample means, owning considerable property near Watertown. The suit filed by the child is through her next friend, Dr. Eli Bradford, who is connected with the Bethany Home. He will try to obtain a judgment which will enable the child to be brought up in comfort.

Sells Wife to His Brother.

Pender, Neb.—William Dean, of York, eloped with the wife of his brother, Levy Dean. The couple were wed and came here to live. The husband of the woman pursued them and swore out a warrant for their arrest. The woman declared that she loved the man with whom she had eloped better than she did her husband, and the man with whom she eloped offered his brother $150 if he would consent to give up his wife. The husband thought the matter over and finally announced that he would accept. He returned home with the money, and his wife will continue to live with her brother-in-law.

SOCIETY EVENTS FEW BEFORE LENT BEGINS

UNUSUALLY ACTIVE SOCIAL SEASON HAS SUDDENLY WANED.

The Lenten season this year will begin on Wednesday, March 8, and quite contrary to the rule local society is not especially active just now. Of course, there will be social events on the holiday yet to come before this season of fasting and prayer begins, although as yet but few have been arranged for, with the exception of the Martha Washington dance to be given at the Casino on February 22, and possibly a social event at the Park Club. No doubt many events will be arranged for Lincoln's Birthday as well as on Washington's Birthday, as is the annual custom, but from now until Ash Wednesday it is expected that there will be a falling off in society attractions.

Without exception the social season this winter has been one of the most active in years, there being an unusual number of debutantes, dinners following, as well as many receptions, private and public, to engage the attention of society. The debut of Miss Virginia Hegeman early in the winter was the first of the social events and then followed other similar ones, after which the friends of the debutantes gave a number of dinners in their honor.

Both the Casino and the Park Club have been the scene of brilliant social affairs and it seems as though society has entertained to a larger extent than ever before. Following the Lenten season will come the outdoor sports, such as golf, tennis and baseball. One pleasing diversion during the winter in fair weather have been the events arranged by the Watchung Hunt Club. These hunts are held nearly every Saturday and it is seldom that there is not a large number of riders out to enjoy the healthful recreation.

Easter Sunday falls on April 25.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Manager Maze Edwards takes great pleasure in announcing the novelty attraction of the grand comic opera, "Iolanthe," to be given at the Casino, Monday afternoon and evening, Feb. 13, Lincoln's Birthday, by fifty talented children, under the management of Robt. Grau, the New York operatic and vaudeville director. Never before has such a unique attraction appeared in Plainfield and no one should fail to see the grand production. It will not only appeal to the adults but will be very pleasing to the children. The entire performance will be one of greatest interest. Prices per advertisement. Seats will be on sale a week in advance at Armstrong's pharmacy.

partly filled with .32 calibre cartridges and a bundle of letters heads with the heading: "Wood & Stevenson, iron setters and erectors; residence 576 West 131st street."

Convinced that Wood was the man wanted, the chief immediately sent out a general alarm for his arrest and though the New York police said they would look out for developments on their end, they treated his request as though they were putting themselves out to do him a personal favor. Even last night when word was brought to them by an enterprising newspaper reporter that Wood could be found in the Twenty-seventh street house, they asserted they had no authority to arrest him and that it was none of their business. When he walked in the station of his own accord it was not until they had called up Chief Kiely that they decided to hold him.

After sending out the alarm, Chief Kiely proceeded to Watchung and informed all the searchers to look for Wood and by every possible means spread his description. It was an easy task for the latter as Wood is known throughout the entire section, being a grandson of Mrs. Pollack, whose place he was trying to reach, and having been born and raised at Warrenville. It was believed near Millington that the murderer had never gotten far away from the scene of the crime and the posses remained out until word that Wood was in custody reached them this morning. A strange thing in connection with Wood's being known in that section is the fact that he was not recognized by Williams when he was asked to act as driver. Williams belonged in Warrenville originally and the one knew a great deal about the other.

Coroner Toms empanelled a jury yesterday and in its presence made an examination of the body at Williams' home, assisted by Dr. William Long, of Somerville. It was found that the bullet had entered the back on the left side, sped through the lung and then directly through the heart, showing that death must have been almost instantaneous. The bullet was taken out and found to be of .32 calibre, the same as those found in Wood's valise. The jury took no further action and adjourned indefinitely. It is composed of Israel V. Adams, Peter H. Friday, John R. Mundy, Frank Winn, Frank Jennings and William Miller, nearly all of whom are Warrenville residents.

Chief Kiely declared today that his theory of the murder is robbery.

"Wood needed money and he started for Pollack's to get it some way. He believed Williams was a prosperous grocer; that he must have money on his person and shot him. He evidently was frightened off before searching the pockets. When he left Watchung he wore a fedora hat; when captured he had a cap which he told me today he bought in Plainfield. He must have carried it with him and if so, why? unless he was up to devilry."

Wood was born and raised at Warrenville. His father, George H. Wood, now dead, was respected highly by his neighbors, who had no such liking for his son. Fifteen years ago Wood left Warrenville and went to New York. He came back to Plainfield from time to time, and spent two years working on his grandmother's farm.

That was three years ago. Seven years ago he married Viola Whitten, the daughter of George Whitten, who used to be the village schoolmaster. Whitten hasn't seen much of his son-in-law since and hasn't got along with him very well, according to the story he told yesterday.

Williams' funeral will be held from the Wilson Memorial chapel at Watchung tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock and at 2:30 from the church at Coontown.

Dead to the World.

A Jersey City-Trenton trolley car came to a stop in front of police headquarters last night and an excited conductor asked that a policeman help him carry out a woman who had dropped dead in her seat. Patrolman O'Keeffe helped take the inanimate form into the station and Dr. M. L. Clawson was summoned. An anxious cop inquired if she was dead. "Yes," replied the physician, "dead drunk." The trolley crew and the doctor hurried off and the "dead one" was hustled into a cell. She was Agnes O'Brien, twenty-eight years old and she had no home. Judge Runyon this morning placed her in the care of the police to make some disposition of her case.

There seems to be a common belief that the railroads pay the State taxes. Although the State absorbs the greater part of the total tax paid it by the railroads, its receipts from the railroads for State uses amounted to only $923,826.99, while the receipts from miscellaneous corporations were $3,301,459 81. The collateral inheritance tax amounted to half as much last year as the railroad payments, and last year as the railroad payments, and the total receipts of the State reached $4,336,918.82.—Newark Call.

MRS. GROGGIN RECOVERS AT LAST ON MORTGAGE

J. F. DALY'S GOODS AND CHATTELS COVERED BY THE INSTRUMENT.

The decree in the case of Mary E. Groggin against James F. Daly and J. Fred MacDonald, assignee, has just been filed, in which Vice Chancellor Stevens decrees that the complainant is entitled to the relief sought in her bill and that there is due her by virtue of her mortgages the sum of $3,116 with interest from February 11, 1904.

The decree orders that J. Fred MacDonald, the assignee, in the first place pay to the complainant from the moneys in his hands as such, the amount received by him for the goods, chattels and accounts mentioned in the mortgage which bears date of April 28, 1903, and which were in the store on December 16, 1903, and any accounts in favor of Hirst & Henderson which remained uncollected when the assignee took possession and which he has since collected. The decree also directs the payment of the costs in the suit and that after deducting the expenses the assignee shall allow the complainant to come in and share with the creditors of Daly whose claims had accrued prior to October 9, 1903. This will give to Mrs. Groggin most of the money due her on her mortgage, while some of the creditors of James F. Daly will probably receive twenty per cent. on the amount of their claims and others will receive less.

Several years ago Mr. MacDonald sold his grocery in East Front street to a man of the name of Mattiage, who in turn sold to H. P. Hirst & Co., Mrs. Groggin, the complainant, putting up the money. This firm then sold to Hirst & Henderson, Mrs. Groggin taking a mortgage to secure her for the money due her, the mortgage covering the goods, chattels, book accounts of the concern. Later Hirst & Henderson sold their interest in the business to James F. Daly, subject to the chattel mortgage which was assumed by Mr. Daly. He continued the business until a year ago and then made an assignment to Mr. MacDonald.

Mrs. Groggin then filed a bill to foreclose her mortgages and the defendants, Mr. Daly and Mr. MacDonald, through their counsel, W. S. Angleman, filed an answer, claiming that the chattel mortgages were void, and that there was about $800 due the complainant, instead of $3,300 claimed.

Mrs. Groggin, through her solicitors, Codington & Swackhamer, obtained an order from the Court of Chancery, permitting the assignee to sell the goods in the grocery and directing him to hold the money therefrom until further order of the court. The defendants attacked the validity of the mortgage and insisted that it was not a lien on any of the goods and chattels.

JOURNALISTIC OPINION.

Engineers and the Roads.

The New Jersey State Association of County Engineers at a recent meeting adopted a resolution calling upon the Legislature to appropriate $350,000 for the purpose of good road building this year. The figure is large but not out of proportion to the benefit derived from good roads. The farmers have come to realize the advantages to them of improved highways and while some persons may believe that there is a selfish motive back of the resolution adopted by the engineers, the fact remains that more miles of stone road were petitioned for last year than could be built out of the appropriation made by the Legislature last winter. There is some complaint against the law which provides that when a county constructs a road within the limits of a city, the custody of that highway reverts to the city, and usually being in the suburbs, is often neglected. The preservation of the stone road depends upon it being promptly repaired when it is worn and broken. In cases of this kind, "a stitch in time saves nine," and if the law were so amended as to make it compulsory on the municipal authorities to repair a road within a given time after it has been injured, there would be little cause for complaint.—Trenton State-Gazette.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL.

Patrick Farrell Succumbs to Heart Failure in Garwood.

Patrick Farrell, aged about sixty-seven years, was found dead in the bath-room of the Garwood Hotel, Thursday night. Dr. F. W. Westcott, the county physician, says death was due to heart trouble.

Farrell, who has lived at the hotel some time doing odd jobs, is believed to have a daughter at Lyons Farms and before anything is done with the remains an attempt will be made to find her. The remains are now in charge of Undertaker George Cole, of West Second street.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Bible class taught by H. S. Miller will meet at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The regular communion service will be held at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning. Similar services will be held at Warren chapel.

Plainfield Rescue Mission has recently taken up its new quarters at the German Reformed church, and will hold its first meetings on Sunday at 4 o'clock.

Rev. J. M. Stiffler, of Roselle, will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Y. M. C. A. male quartette and Martin A. Korff, violinist, will furnish special music.

Under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church a euchre party will be held in Stafford Hall on Wednesday night, March 1. The net proceeds will be given to the poor of the parish. Joseph W. Graham is chairman of the committee in charge.

A pleasant reception was the one given Wednesday night by the teachers of two of the Y. M. C. A. boys' department Bible classes to their pupils. Walter Caldwell and Harold Robins, the teachers, were the hosts, and about fifteen boys were entertainmen at the boys' parlors. Mr. Caldwell amused and mystified the youngsters for half an hour with sleight of hand tricks, and Mr. Robins won much applause by his humorous readings. Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was present, and made a few remarks. Games were played and light refreshments served.

SNAP SHOTS.

Ira G. Hurlburt, of West Front street, has in his possession a Pennsylvania Railroad ticket good between Rahway and New Brunswick, which he purchased twenty years ago, and which he never used. Despite the fact that he has carried it in his pocketbook so many years, it is still well preserved and shows little signs of being so old.

"Old North," or Nassau Hall, Princeton's oldest and most historic building, is now being outwardly changed to make it resemble more nearly its appearance in 1783, when the Continental Congress sat there for several months. Nassau Hall was erected in 1756 and named after William of Orange, Prince of Nassau. At that time it was the largest academy building in the country. It has been burned twice.

LITERARY.

Frederick Palmer, writing in Collier's for February 4, refers to William H. Taft by saying he combines with a rare sense of justice and executive simplicity an urbanity that seems to impress upon transplanted Spanish civilizations the wisdom of things which they would resent if proposed by others. He can grant a concession in a way that immediately gets a concession in response. We may yet provide the Secretary of War with a transport and expect him to make an annual tour of our new possessions as a Secretary of Peace. In Panama he heard everybody's story: ministers', generals', officials', merchants'. Then he and President Amador "got together." The Dingley tariff was taken off the zone, and amicable agreement was arrived at.

There will be initiation of several candidates at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. M., on Thursday night.

Villagers Overcome and Pastor Sings "Abide With Me" Alone at Sad Service.

REFERENCE TO CRIME

In Sermon and Prayers Ministers Dwell on the Atrocious Crime—Obsequies at Watchung and Coontown.

"Since the hour that Cain slew his brother Abel, the history of the race has been marked with crime and it is the sin that creeps into the heart that might be the temple of the Most High God, if the soul so willed, that is responsible for this tragedy."

So spoke Rev. George Bowers, yesterday afternoon, in both the Mary M. Wilson Memorial chapel at Watchung and the Coontown church when he conducted funeral services over the body of George Williams, struck down in the prime of life by an assassin's hand, without chance to defend himself and with no warning of one of the most cowardly acts that has ever wrought up a peaceful New Jersey hamlet. In both instances the structures were inadequate to hold the throngs which gathered, the mourners coming from New York and Brooklyn, Plainfield and Dunellen, and all over Warren township. In the eyes of all, moist tears glistened and as the bereaved widow swayed into a seat a few feet from the casket, women sobbed and the lines about the men's mouths grew tighter.

In the Wilson Memorial chapel, where the first service was held, Rev. Mr. Bowers asked that it be opened with the singing of "Abide With Me," the murdered young man's favorite hymn, by the entire congregation. The sweet notes of the little organ sounded the prelude but it began the verse without any voice accompanying but that of the clergyman. Overcome by the sadness of it all, the mourners remained with bowed heads while the quavering voice of the divine went through the familiar lines:

"Abide with me, fast falls the eventide,
The darkness deepens, Lord with me abide;
When other helpers fail, and comforts flee,
Help of the helpless, O abide with me."

A heartfelt prayer was offered by Rev. George Watts, in which he asked Divine protection for the widow, the fatherless child and the relatives and friends who were suddenly bereft of one, who had gone away from them, happy and full of life, to be returned cold in death.

At this service and the one following at Coontown, Rev. Mr. Bowers based his remarks upon the text as found in Second Samuel, iii:34—"Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters: as a man falleth before wicked men, so fellest thou," and said in part:

"God is not responsible for this thing. He made us in His image and gave us the freedom of choice between good and evil. There are many who take the latter and their hearts become so steeped in crime that their consciences become hardened and their life on earth is what they make it. Ever since Abel was stricken through Cain's envy and jealousy, the secret of crime has been the same. It is spelled in three letters—s-i-n. The soul that chooses sin falls easily before the tempter and it is the sin that creeps into the heart that might be the temple of the Most High God that is reponsible for this terrible deed. Nay, verily, God is not responsible.

"Never in all my years of life have I been so concerned over a tragedy, or have I felt so much sorrow as I do at this time. From the very hour that I was apprised of the crime, it has been in my thoughts constantly and I know that the perpetrator will be punished—that he will suffer the wrath of God. A dark cloud hangs over this community and I am sure that all who knew this brother cannot help but be moved as I have been. He fell a victim to the evil in another's heart and we are all oppressed.

"Often have I stood beside the bier of a friend or neighbor, and sorrowed for the voice that was no more in this world, but never has it appealed to me as now. Think of the sorrow of the widow, of the aged father, who has often stood by the side of a grave and seen a loved one go into the narrow bed of clay; of the brother and sisters who knew him and loved him best, who saw him last in the bloom of health and with no warning of the shadow that was so soon to fall or the blow that was to be struck."

The choir sang "Jesus Savior Pilot Me" as he concluded and the mourners were permitted to view the features as they reposed in the casket.

As the cortege moved away from Watchung, first to Coontown and then to the little burial ground, where nine members of the Williams family have been laid away in the past three years, there seemed to be a hush all through the valley back of Plainfield, which was made still more mournful by the solemn, measured tones of the bell which had so often called George Williams to worship. The attendance included every member of the Watchung Social Club of which he was one of the organizers and which contributed a beautiful floral tribute, only one of the profusion which came from societies and friends. The club escorted the body to the grave, where a simple prayer concluded the services.

Those who bore the casket were six brothers-in-law: Paul Reusch, of Dunellen; John Gunther and Carl Engler, of Watchung; John Stellenger, of Plainfield, and Henry and John Schmidler, of Brooklyn

INDICT WILCOX

Westfield Man Who Shot Young Darling Must Answer Manslaughter Charge.

HIS BAIL IS $5,000

Thomas Wearren Held for Obtaining Goods From Boice, Runyon & Co., Under False Pretense.

The prisoners against whom indictments were found by the Union County Grand Jury were arraigned before Judge Vail at Elizabeth, this morning, to plead to indictments found against them.

Among those were Harold M. Wilcox, of Westfield, indicted for manslaughter in the shooting of young John Darling on Hallowe'en. Darling and a number of other children were playing about the Wilcox home at the time of the tragedy.

Mr. Wilcox plead not guilty and was released on $5,000 bail to appear for trial on Tuesday, February 21.

Thomas Wearren, of this city, charged with fraud in obtaining goods from Boice, Runyon & Co., on false pretences, was also arraigned and plead not guilty. His trial was fixed for February 21.

There were thirty-nine indictments in all.

OVERHEATED STOVE CAUSES $1,200 FIRE

BOROUGH DEPARTMENT HAS LIVELY BLAZE TO FIGHT ON MANNINIG AVE.

Probably originating from an overheated stove, flames broke out in the No. 81 side of a double house at 79 and 81 Manning avenue, shortly after 9 o'clock last night, and caused damage to the extent of $1,200. The fire had spread from the first to the top floor when the department arrived in response to an alarm from box 139 and three lines of hose had to be laid in. The blaze was mostly confined to the starting place and on the other side the damage was nearly all caused by water.

No. 79 is occupied by J. P. Hapenny and No. 81 by a widow who was preparing to move out. Neither was home at the time and the latter's furniture was completely destroyed. The house is owned by Mrs. Ruckman, of Somerset place, and is covered by insurance.

When the alarm was sent in, the bell failed to work and only the men who were at headquarters', numbering eight, were made aware of the fire. This handicapped Chief Woolston, but despite the drawback the men had the blaze out inside of an hour. While on the third floor, two of the department, Peter Dooley and Clarence Mundy, fell through to the second floor, but escaped with bad bruises.

ELECTION DAY TOMORROW

Only One Nominee and No Interest is Being Taken.

THE POLLING PLACES

Vacancy in the Legislature Caused by Mr. Embree's Death to be Filled by Randolph Perkins.

The special election to fill the vacancy in the Assembly caused by the death of George Embree, of Westfield, will be held tomorrow, in Union county. There is only one candidate, Mayor Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, who is the Republican nominee. The vote will be very light.

The polls will remain open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock tomorrow night. The polling places in this city are as follows:

First ward—First district, 123 North avenue; Second district, 152 East Second street.

Second ward—First district, 319 Watchung avenue; Second district, 699 South avenue.

Third ward—First district, Casino; Second district, Clifton's barn, Spooner avenue, and West Seventh street.

Fourth ward—First district, 204 West Second street; Second district, Spooner avenue and South Second street; Third district, 836 South Second street.

The Democrats declined to make a nomination for the office.

TROLLEY COMPANY'S TRICK STOPPED BY THE MAYOR

Learning that the trolley company was charging a five cent fare from the Watchung avenue stand to Thern's grocery store on Somerset street, without notifying the passengers, Mayor Smalley, of the borough, got after the company officials this morning. They claimed that owing to the tracks being covered with water beyond the grocery, the cars could not be operated further.

The company's employes promised to notify passengers thereafter until the line was entirely opened.

Not until a late hour this morning were any of the trolley lines running on regular schedule on account of last night's storm.

NEGROES GUILTY.

The jury which is to decide whether or not James Tems, Whit Tunstall, Samuel Hunt and Thomas Henderson are guilty of murderous assault upon Marshal J. William Klein, was charged by Judge Schenck at Somerville this morning. It required about an hour and was similar to the two given in the previous cases—laying stress on the fact that the men were entitled to fair and unprejudiced consideration.

The jury returned at 2 o'clock this afternoon with a verdict of guilty against all four of the men, the indictment charging them with murderous assault.

FIGHTS ALIMONY DECREE

A. R. Keller Moves to Vacate Court's Order.

DECISION IS RESERVED

First Wife Got a Divorce From Plainfielder and Has Alimony Increased to $125 a Month.

Augustus R. Keller, of 937 West Seventh street, this city, has appealed to Judge Leventritt, of the Supreme Court, in New York, to vacate an order, obtained by his former wife, Annie L. Keller, increasing the amount of alimony that he is required to pay her from $85 to $125 a month. Mr. Keller asserts that he did not have an opportunity to be heard on the request for the increase in the alimony. Decision has been reserved.

Mr. Keller's second wife was named as co-respondent in the divorce proceedings and at the time was employed in his publishing offices.

The divorce was granted in April, 1902, by Judge Fitzgerald, of the New York Supreme Court, who sealed all the papers and threw a veil of secrecy over the proceedings. Keller was ordered to pay alimony of $85 a month and to give a $5,000 bond as guarantee. It appears that he failed to pay, and Justice O'Gorman issued an order adjudging him in contempt. Justice Scott denied a motion to vacate this order and Keller took an appeal. In the meantime he took up his residence in this city, thus freeing himself from the jurisdiction of the New York courts, making it impossible for the sheriff to obey the orders given him to put Keller in Ludlow street jail, New York.

The first Mrs. Keller alleges that her former husband has been guilty of additional contempt of court "in having married contrary to the terms of the decree.

The trouble now in progress originally came about through Mrs. Keller securing an increase in her alimony, last May, from $85 to $125, Keller being required to furnish a $5 000 bond. Keller is said to have asserted that he would not pay it and that no court could make him.

Rev. T. E. Davis Accepts.

Rev. T. E. Davis, of West Fifth street, who recently received a call to become pastor of the Presbyterian Memorial church, Washington, D. C., has forwarded his acceptance and will take charge of the church this week His family will remove there about April 1. Last week Mr. Davis resigned as treasurer of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union. At his request, the Presbytery of New Brunswick has dismissed Mr. Davis and he will unite with the one in Washington.

IRA F. R. VERMEULE IS LAID AT REST

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD AT HOME LARGELY ATTENDED.

The funeral services of the late Ira Fitz Randolph Vermeule were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home, 24 Sandford avenue, and were largely attended.

Mr. Vermeule came of sturdy old Holland stock. He was born in this city, January 8, 1835 and in 1847 he entered upon a merchantile crareer with his brother as a dry goods merchant in New Brunswick. Afterward he was in the clothing business in St. Louis and in 1869 he returned East and engaged with his brother in the manufacture of India rubber goods, which is now known as the Goodyear India Rubber Glove Manufacturing Company, of which his brother, John D. Vermeule, is now president, and in which he occupied an important position up to the time of his death.

Mr. Vermeule was past master of Anglo-Saxon Lodge, No. 137, F. and A. M., of Brooklyn.

Church Fair a Success.

The fair continued in the Babcock building Saturday afternoon and night under the auspices of St. Stephen's, was a successful as the first day. There was liberal patronage and a large attendance of members and friends of the parish. There was a musical programme in the evening by an orchestra composed of Charles Suhr, Kenneth Stuart and Morris Sorenser, and in addition there were the same features as were introduced Friday night. The proceeds from the fair will be used for the parish work and a substantial sum will be realized.

WOOD, THE SUSPECT, IS REMANDED

Alleged Slayer of Williams Makes No Plea at Hearin in the Tombs and is Held to Await Extradition.

George H. Wood, the man supposed to have fired the shot that killed George Williams in his sleigh on the Coontown road, Thursday morning, was arraigned in the Tombs police court, New York, this morning. He offered no plea and was simply remanded for extradition to New Jersey. Somerset county officials were present and steps are being taken to have him brought to Somerville as soon as the necessary papers are signed.

The chain of evidence about Wood is rapidly being made complete although it is entirely circumstantial. Saturday morning, he was positively identified by Jacob Blimm, Jr., as the George H. Wood who had been a guest at the Farmer Hotel; Saturday afternoon, identification equally positive, was made by William Demler and Charles Frone, the latter Williams' clerk, that he is the man who drove away from Watchung in the sleigh with the grocer afterward murdered. County Detective Totten and his assistants are working up other points to establish him as the man who fired the fatal shot and Chief Kiely has his movements in Plainfield closely traced.

The robbery and insane theories are still advanced by those who have been considering the case, with the presumption that Woods is guilty, but there are arguments to offer against each. If he was insane it is hardly likely that his cunning would go so far as to cause him to carry a cap in his pocket and don it after the murder, discarding his fedora somewhere between the Pollock house and the Millington station; or to walk backwards in the snow after jumping out of the sleigh; or again, to shave off his moustache following the crime. If the robbery motive is accepted, it must have been done on the spur of the moment and not premeditated, for if it was planned, he would not have left the suit case and business cards behind him in the Farmers Hotel. Also, if robbery was intended the murderer was frightened off before accomplishing his purpose as the clothing of the victim had not been touched in any way when a Daily Press reporter arrived on the scene. Neither did Williams have any money on his person beyond $6 in change and the story that he had displayed a roll of bills amounting to $300 before he started on the fatal sleigh ride, are false. It was denied yesterday by Charles Frone, Williams' clerk, and Mrs. Williams. He did have a check cashed at Hugo Maul's just before starting off, but it was only for $10 and was given to Frone to use as change on his route.

Dr. Frank A. McGuire, physician to the Tombs, made an examination of Wood. "The only external indication of anything irregular," said Dr. McGuire, "was a great tenderness above and just back of the right ear covering an area about the space of a silver dollar. There were no signs of violence about the spot, no abrasions of any kind, yet Wood winced whenever the spot was touched."

Woods was quiet and composed all day yesterday, had a good appetite and did not seem to be particularly depressed.

LICENSES TONIGHT.

Common Council to Act on the Liquor License Applications Filed.

Applications for liquor licenses will be presented at the February meeting of the Common Council tonight, and many are anxious to learn whether the increased fee of $1,000 will have any effect in the number of applicants and whether there will be any new ones.

It is reported that John Goff will renew his application for a license. Another matter of interest will be the announcement of Charles Schantz's new location, he being obliged to move from his present place on Park avenue.

Protest Against Saloon Location

Charles Schantz, a Park avenue saloonkeeper, is endeavoring to negotiate a lease for Silbert's building on Park avenue, formerly owned by John H. Tier. The property-owners and storekeepers in the vicinity will present a strong remonstrance to the Common Council tonight against the granting of a liquor license for the place.

The A. Berry's Entertain.

The A. Berry Association gave a dramatic entertainment in Reform Hall, Friday night, for the Benefit of the Union Veterans' Union. The principal part was taken by A. Berry Marsh, who also rendered several solos. The entertainment is to be repeated shortly for the benefit of Mispah Lodge of Odd Ladies.

Woolston & Buckie are prepared to do all the work on your house, interior and exterior. They have been in the business too long to make errors. None but first class work is credited to Woolston & Buckie.

H. J. Wierenga, the popular express and truckman, is continually doing jobs of heavy trucking which others are unable to handle. His years of experience has made it possible for him to do good work under any circumstances.

Choice baker's pies are no longer an unknown quantity. Warnock has them. Also ice creams and water ices of the finest quality. His charlottes are famous. Very rich and creamy. The pies and cakes at Warnock are as good as home made.

J. W. Gavett is Plainfield's headquarters for china ware of all kinds. Household china ware, magnificent cut glass and ornaments are alike found on the shelves at Gavett's store. Chandeliers of all kinds at all costs are carried in stock.

Everything has been marked down in price at Harry Werner's first class clothing and gentlemen's furnishing headquarters. All the best cuts and shades are now selling at the lowest prices. Furnishings are equally reasonable. Shirts and neckwear, all the latest, are handled in great variety at Werner's.

Since coming to this city, Levy Brothers, of West Front street, have won the confidence of the people by fair treatment and the selling of honest goods. You will find this store up-to date in every respect and all the goods are of the best quality. A full line of dress goods will also be found at this store, as well as millinery.

The women have learned that there is no need of shopping in New York when the Paris Cloak and Fur Store, of West Front street, offers such bargains in women's suits, cloaks, separate skirts and waists. You will find these goods equal to any in New York and the prices will suit you. Mr. Fass also carries a full line of furs, best quality.

AMUSEMENTS.

A more than ordinarily strong bill is announced for Proctor's Newark Theatre this week, where the headline position is occupied by the noted actor, Robert Hilliard, who, assisted by a company of clever performers, will present Richard Harding Davis' dramatic sketch, "The Littlest Girl." The Oberstein Tyrolean Troupe, a company of twelve capable musical artists, who have just arrived from Switzerland, should create a sensation. Blind Tom, the phenomenal negro pianist, will make his first appearance in Newark in some years, and will doubtless be found as acceptable as ever. The Brothers Bright, hand-to-hand balancers; Matthews and Ashley, Hebrew comedians; Leo Carillo, a Chinese mimic; Carter and Blueford, singers and dancers; Will Dockrey, a black-face comedian, well known in Newark, and the motion pictures will round out a programme rich and varied.

Among the many and varied theatrical entertainments now going on in the New York theatres, that which seems to have caught the popular fancy more emphatically than any other is the new play, "The Woman in the Case," in which Blanche Walsh has scored a personal triumph at the Herald Square Theatre. "An ovation of such spontaneity and force," says the New York Sun, "has not been heard this season—perhaps in many a season." The reception of the play by both public and press has been one of unanimous enthusiasm. It is conceded by everyone to be the biggest success Clyde Fitch has written since "The Climbers," and it is the general impression that in "The Woman in the Case" Mr. Fitch has really written his greatest play. It has the happy distinction of pleasing all parts of the house, the applause from the gallery on the first night being just as vociferous as that from the lower floor. It is splendidly staged by Managers Wagenhals and Kemper and is presented by a brilliant cast of players which includes Robert Drouet, Dorothy Dorr, George Fawcett, Samuel Edwards and Eleanor Carey.

"FARM, HOME AND FACTORY" DAY

Proclamation Address to the American People by National Grange.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—A proclamation "addressed to the American people" has been issued from the various state capitals under the auspices of the national grange, Patrons of Husbandry, the various national, labor and agricultural organizations declaring that Washington's birthday be observed as "Farm, Home and Factory day."

It advises that upon that day the people concentrate their thoughts upon the conditions for the betterment of the home, farm and factory. The proclamation recites a number of reforms as the object of the movement, among them being government authority over railroads "sufficient to abolish unjust rates and discrimination," a parcels post permitting packages up to eleven pounds weight and a post check currency system.

The proclamation urges every one to communicate with his congressman in Washington in behalf of these measures. It is signed by Governor Brooks of Wyoming, Governor Herrick of Ohio, Governor Elrod of South Dakota, who excludes parcels post from his approval; Aaron Jones, master of the national grange, and various officers of labor organizations.

IN TEN YEARS.

Panama Canal to Be Ready For Traffic In 1915.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The exact amount of work done by the Americans since they took up the task of digging the Panama canal has, after consultation with Chief Engineer Wallace and a close personal inspection of the route of the proposed canal, been submitted to the state department in a report which shows the actual construction on the canal accomplished since July 1 last, when Mr. Wallace took charge of the engineering department. The most important statement in the report is this:

"If the next six months show a progress corresponding to that of the last six, it is the conviction of the best engineers on the isthmus that a sea level canal can be constructed in ten years and be ready for large vessels by Jan. 1, 1915."

Holdup Man a Philosopher.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—There is no longer any doubt that Christopher Smith, alias "Sand Rock," is the "holdup man" wanted for most of the daring robberies which created terror in the Fifth avenue residential district here. He was identified positively by seven of his victims, and he is said to have made a confession to the police. Smith, who is only nineteen years old, seems to have been inspired not by dime novels, like the usual youth, but by ill digested Socialistic and anarchistic literature. His efforts to bring about a more equal distribution of wealth brought him in contact with the law.

Big Fire at Birmingham, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 6.—Fire which started Sunday morning in the wholesale commission house of Franklin, Stiles & Franklin destroyed property valued at $240,000. Assistance which had been asked from the neighboring cities of Montgomery, Atlanta, Chattanooga and Gadsden was canceled about 5 o'clock, the necessity of which was obviated by the veering of the wind and a soaking rain. Two firemen were severely injured by falling walls, and one of the smaller steamers exploded, but no casualties were connected with the latter accident.

Woman Murdered at Allegheny, Pa.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 6.—The dead body of Mrs. John A. Kirkpatrick was found in the back yard of an unoccupied house at 9 Jackson street, Allegheny, only a short distance from her home. She had been murdered, and the morgue physician last night stated that the woman had been criminally assaulted. Suspicion rests on a man as yet unknown to the police, but who evidently was an acquaintance of the woman.

Farthest South In a Motor Car.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—A cablegram received from Charles J. Glidden of this city, who is touring the world in a motor car, says that he has reached Bluff, New Zealand, said to be the most southerly point in the world possible to reach in such a vehicle. The cablegram announces Mr. Glidden's safe arrival there after touring 1,145 miles of New Zealand, making 21,438 miles he has covered in his world tour.

Florida Bible Conference.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Feb. 6.—The Florida winter Bible conference, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Clarence B. Strouse of Virginia, has opened its second annual session here. The churches and ministers of the city united in a union service, the Rev. George R. Stewart, an evangelist of Cleveland, Tenn., delivering the opening sermon. About 2,000 persons were present.

Judge Hooker Recovering.

FREDONIA, N. Y., Feb. 6.—The condition of Justice Warren B. Hooker, who was injured in the wreck on the New York Central, near Utica, on Friday night, is improved. His injuries are stated to be less serious than at first supposed, and it is believed that he will be able to get about again in a week or so.

Nine Injured In Collision.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Nine persons were injured, some seriously, in a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight train on the Delaware and Hudson railroad here. The crew of the freight train had left a switch open.

JAPAN'S WAR LOSSES

Matsumura, Hero of Meter Hill, Dead From Wounds.

GENERAL DEMBOWSKI WOUNDED.

Tachimi Fought Fierce Battle at Heikoutai and Would Not Retreat. Lost Over 5,000 Men, Including Many Officers.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A special dispatch from Tokyo says that Lieutenant General Tachimi, in command of the Eighth Japanese division, bore the brunt of the fighting in the battle of Heikoutai. He was constantly opposed by superior forces, but continued fighting till the last, with a total loss of 162 officers and 5,300 men killed or wounded.

General Matsumura has died at the front from congestion of the brain. He commanded the operations at Two Hundred and Three Meter hill and was decorated and promoted for heroism.

Advices from St. Petersburg this morning say that, according to General Kuropatkin's latest reports, which indicate the wounding of a third Russian general, Dembowski, the operations at Sandepas and the fighting at Shakhe have been momentarily suspended. The Russians successfully repulsed the latest attack of the Japanese eastward with heavy loss. The cold is still intense, there being 24 degrees of frost. There are indications that the Japanese are preparing to break the inactivity on their own account as soon as the weather moderates.

The war office is closed, and no further facts regarding the reports that General Kuropatkin is about to give up his command can be obtained.

During the night the Japanese attacked the village of Schantan and adjoining Russian positions, but by daylight they had been defeated along the entire front. The Russians even advanced slightly. The Russian losses were about 300, and those of the Japanese were heavy.

Japanese prisoners believe that an important movement is pending.

The Japanese advanced guard on the left flank toward Saosyr and Chansan has been repulsed, with slight losses, the Japanese leaving fifty dead on the field.

On Saturday 600 cavalry comprising one force and two companies of infantry and one battery another simultaneously attacked Chitaitse, on the right bank of the Hun river. The Japanese garrison at Chitaitse was defending the place when the report of the attack was forwarded.

Sir Mortimer Would Not Talk.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador, was at the White House last night and was in conference with President Roosevelt for almost an hour. With him also was Mr. Spring-Rice, formerly attached to the British embassy at Washington, but now first secretary of the British embassy at St. Petersburg. Mr. Spring-Rice is a personal friend of the president. The presence of Ambassador Durand at the White House on a Sunday night—quite an unusual thing for him—in company with Mr. Spring-Rice, who is fresh from St. Petersburg, gave rise to the surmise that the cessation of the war between Russia and Japan might be under consideration. The ambassador declared when leaving that there was nothing of interest talked about and that he had nothing to say.

Prisoners Brought to Mukden.

MUKDEN, Feb. 6.—Though there is a momentary pause in the operations, Russian activity on the Shakhe river has not ended. Two hundred Japanese prisoners were brought in here. They were badly dressed and suffering from cold. The Japanese report that 500 Russians were taken prisoners during the Sandepas operations is untrue, and the Japanese losses greatly exceed the Tokyo estimates of the Russian losses, because in their advance over the frozen ground it was impossible for the Japanese to intrench.

Smith and Marsh Are Better.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The condition of Representative Samuel W. Smith of Michigan, who is ill with pneumonia, is considerably improved, and his family believe that he is now out of danger. Representative Marsh of Illinois, who also has been suffering with pneumonia, is mending slowly. It is thought he has now passed the dangerous point in his illness.

Judge Sharp and Sister Hurt.

BATH, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Justice Severance Sharp of New York and his sister, Mrs. Ira Davenport, were hurt here last night in a runaway accident. One of Justice Sharp's arms was broken. The team attached to their sleigh became frightened and they were tossed against a tree. Michael Barrett, the driver, was seriously injured internally. Mrs. Davenport was bruised.

Newport Harbor Ice Locked.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 6.—Newport harbor is fast in the grip of an ice embargo, and shipping is practically at a standstill. The thermometer registers 3 degrees above zero, and the weather has moderated but little. Last night the harbor was completely closed, and both the eastern and western passages of Narragansett bay were blocked by ice.

Traveler Died on Train.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Feb. 6.—E. S. Kimball of Brookline, Mass., died on a train between Buffalo and Batavia yesterday from heart disease. Mr. Kimball, who was about sixty years old, is a traveling salesman. The body was taken from the train at Batavia.

REFORM FOR RUSSIA

Emperor Selects M. Saburoff For Senate Conference.

STRIKES IN POLAND STILL SPREAD

Country Yet In Ferment—Martial Law at Kalisz, Radom and Siedlec. Lamsdorff Disavows Moscow's Anti-British Placards.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 6.—An imperial ukase has been issued appointing M. Saburoff, a member of the council of the empire, president of the special conference to debate the committee of ministers' proposals for reform of the senate and for the framing of laws for the local administrative courts. The emperor expresses a desire for the speedy conclusion of the labors of the conference.

Workmen to the number of 4,000 in the car shops here have drawn up a manifesto disclaiming the delegates who were put forward as representing them in the deputation which visited Emperor Nicholas at Tsarskoe Selo. They assert that these men were selected by the employers and were not representatives of the workmen. The employees of one or two other factories may follow suit, but the workmen in general are inclined to stand by the deputation.

There were a few slight collisions between Lessner's workmen and the police guarding the factory today. Poland, however, continues to be the storm center of the disturbances. Though the strike has ceased in some establishments it has assumed a more important phase by its extension to the great coal mines and sugar factories, and three more governments have been placed under martial law. Police and Cossacks have had to break up a number of demonstrations and quell disorders, but as yet there has been no repetition of rioting on the scale of the first collisions.

Strikes in Tiflis and other parts of the Caucasus are frequent, and the present one does not attract much attention except as bearing on the general situation in Russia.

Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, in an official note to Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador, has formally disavowed the action of Deputy Chief of Police Roudneff of Moscow in posting a placard asserting that the strikers were assisted with money from Japanese and British sources with the purpose of crippling the arsenals and other government works.

Lessner's torpedo factory here, employing 600 expert fitters and brassworkers, has been closed because Governor General Trepoff ordered the dismissal of the whole staff of the concern for tearing down posters of the emperor's recent speech to the workmen's delegation and because the manager was unable to replace these men. The works are strongly guarded by police.

The state of siege is still maintained here, and the streets are being patrolled by military. All travelers are carefully scrutinized. Thirty strike leaders, mostly foreigners, have been arrested.

The strike movement in Poland has spread to the governments of Warsaw, Petrikau, Kalisz, Radom, Lublin and Suvalki. Martial law has been declared in Kalisz, Radom and Siedlec.

Strikers to the number of 15,000 yesterday marched from Dombrovo to Sosnovice and attempted to reach the Warsaw station, but Cossacks drove them back without using their weapons.

Sixty Men Drew the Hearse.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 6.—The unusual spectacle of men drawing a hearse containing a corpse was witnessed here. This was made necessary by a sleet storm which has prevailed for twenty-four hours, making it almost impossible for horses to keep their footing. Sixty negroes, members of fraternal orders to which George McFee, the dead man, had belonged, procured ropes, which they fastened to the tongue of the hearse, thus carrying the body to the cemetery, a distance of over two miles.

Blow With Hockey Stick Fatal.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Feb. 6.—Everett D. Sturgeon, sixteen years old, was placed under arrest here charged with manslaughter in causing the death of a playmate, Charles Bullard, aged eighteen. The boys were playing hockey at the Allston golf links several days ago when they became engaged in a quarrel, and Sturgeon, it is alleged, struck Bullard a blow on the left side with a hockey stick.

Skating In Norfolk Streets.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 6.—Norfolk is a city of ice. The cold that has continued for several days has frozen every body of water in this section except in the main harbor, and thousands of people have enjoyed good skating here for the first time in years. A drizzling rain last night froze as it fell, and hundreds of people are skating in the west end streets.

General C. L. Smith Dead.

FAIRMONT, W. VA., Feb. 6.—Brigadier General Clarence L. Smith, commander of the West Virginia national guard, is dead here of a nervous disorder. The general never recovered from a disease he contracted in the Spanish-American war, in which he was in command of the First West Virginia regulars.

Senate Must Ratify.

TOGO TO BE WATCHED

American Asiatic Fleet Will Preserve Neutrality.

STIRLING HAS TWENTY-ONE SHIPS

Destruction of Rojestvensky's Squadron Main Object of Japanese Naval Strategy—Will Want Port of Call In Oceanic Waters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—It is said that Rear Admiral Stirling, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, has dispatched a portion of his command to the southern Philippines for the purpose of preserving American neutrality.

Rear Admiral Stirling is doing this in obedience to the reiteration of instructions already twice sent to the Asiatic squadron to apply President Roosevelt's proclamation of neutrality to the waters of the Philippines just as they would be applied to the coasts of the United States. These were caused by the reported presence of

REAR ADMIRAL STIRLING.

Japanese scouts and cruisers in the waters between Sulu and Borneo. The department, in its cable to Admiral Stirling, spoke of the reports of "fleet activity" in those waters.

While the Japanese naval plans now, as throughout the war, are kept secret no one in the navy department here doubts that Japan has made the most elaborate arrangements for detecting and giving battle to the Russian Baltic fleet in Oceanica waters.

It is believed that Japan at every passage which would let the Russians through on the way to the far east, from the straits of Malacca to the west end of the German possessions in New Guinea, has its scouts and cruisers watching day and night.

The naval experts here, who are awaiting news of Rear Admiral Stirling's movements with great interest, are convinced that Japan does not for a moment assume that the Russian fleet is turning back. Rear Admiral Stirling has in all twenty-one warships in readiness for the enforcement of neutrality.

The destruction of the Russian Port Arthur fleet made the next step in the naval campaign for the Japanese the destruction of the Baltic fleet. Admiral Togo has evidently planned to meet this fleet somewhere in Oceanica. This means that the bulk of Japan's fleet is now operating to the southward of the Philippines, between 1,500 and 2,000 miles from Japan. To neutral governments like the United States, whose possessions are in these waters, it means that an unflagging watch must be kept to prevent violation of the neutrality of our colonial ports by Japan or by Russia.

Morgan and Cassatt In Railroad Deal

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—It is learned definitely in Wall street that J. P. Morgan and A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, have during the last six weeks acquired sufficient stock of the Erie railroad to assure the control of that property remaining in the hands of the Vanderbilt-Pennsylvania community of interests and preventing the possibility of its falling into the hands of any other competitive interest. In the deal they have had the co-operation of the interests allied with the First National bank.

President Guest of Game Hunters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—President Roosevelt was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Boone and Crockett club, a national organization of big game hunters. An interesting feature of the occasion was an illustrated lecture by Dr. William Lord Smith of Worcester, Mass., on the hunting of big game in Korea, Manchuria, Java, China and Persia.

Machine Explosion Causes Fire.

SALEM, Mass., Feb. 6.—A moving picture machine exploded on the stage during a performance at the Mechanic Hall theater, starting a fire that drove an audience of 1,300 people in a panic from the place and destroyed the building, entailing a loss of $50,000. None of the audience was seriously injured. James A. Torrey, a fireman, had a leg broken.

Egg Famine Faces Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Chicago faces one of the worst egg famines in its history, according to South Water street commission men, and the price may go to 50 cents a dozen or higher in a few days. The cold wave is the cause of the shortage, and it has been of such long continuance that the storage supply is almost exhausted.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb 6, 1905

By the way, a special election will be held tomorrow. Business will go on as usual and if the weather is good some citizens may go to the trouble of voting.

The record of the Legislature for four weeks is less than ten hours' work. Not the hardest part of their task was receiving their salaries in advance. What better argument is there for biennial sessions of the lawmakers?

Yes, "Anxious Reader," those handsome piles of snow through the business section of North avenue, are still where you saw them. All we can say in answer to your second question is that you should not bother Councilman Wilson, chairman of the street committee. He means well.

The advertising man of today must, if he would succeed, take his nose out of collar boxes and belts of cloth, stick his head up through the scuttle of the store, and take a good, long look around. If his vision across the housetops encounters the head of his competitor down the street, also sticking through the scuttle, he will realize that he has a fight on his hands.—Store Life.

The requirements for a position on the New York police force seems to be to look wise and not to worry. Criminals are in the habit of surrendering themselves and no extra effort on the part of the sleuths is necessary. The suspect in the Williams murder case, knowing the ironclad rule of the department not to trouble itself, had the courtesy to surrender himself at headquarters. When once under arrest the suspect is honor bound to unburden himself of his crimes as did the nineteen-year old youth who made a clean breast yesterday of the hold ups he had committed during the last six weeks

STREET CHAIRMAN'S METHODS UNPOPULAR

PLAN OF SNOW REMOVAL CAUSES OF OBJECTION.

There does not appear to be perfect harmony between the head of the Councilmanic street committee and the other members as regards recent action in the removal of snow from the business section of the city. As stated last week, Mayor Buckle was much displeased with the failure of the committee to have the snow drifts removed from North avenue and he so expressed himself to Street Commissioner Gavett.

It has been learned that Councilman Theodore Wilson, chairman of the street committee, had apparently acted for the committee without consulting the other members. There has been no meeting of the committee for two weeks and one member in speaking of the matter on Saturday, said that he does not intend to allow the chairman to assume the whole responsibility. He declared that it has always been the custom for the head of the committee to call the other members together and obtain the sanction of all in any street work about to be undertaken, thus calling for concerted action, if plans were approved for the work.

After the recent storm, the entire business section was not cleaned up first, but that in some cases the residential districts were considered, except in the case of West Front street, along the line of the trolley, where the Public Service Corporation stood half the expense. Heretofore, the rule has been to start in the business section and work out to the residential sections. Commissioner Gavett worked more or less under the direction of the chairman of the street committee who introduced his methods and plans for the work. This, however, does not seem to have pleased other members of the committee and Mayor Buckle.

Agriculturists Meet.

The Union County Board of Agriculture met Friday afternoon in Emerson P. Peebe's office, in Elizabeth. Five new members were enrolled and one additional candidate was proposed. President Beebe presided. Former President Headley and Secretary Woodruff presented their reports as delegates to the recent State Agricultural Society. Various topics were discussed and much valuable information was imparted in regard to the spraying of fruit trees to get rid of the San Jose scale.

Friends' Meeting Addressed.

J. J. Cornell, a minister of the Baltimore Friends' meeting, who has spoken in this city many times, was the preacher at the Friends' Meeting House yesterday morning, his subject being "Your Heavenly Father." In the evening Mr. Cornell spoke before a large congregation at the Roselle M. E. church, being the guest of Frank Carpenter, of that place.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

Largely attended by friends, relatives and lodge members, the funeral of William Brokaw, who was found dead in bed last Wednesday, was an impressive one. The services were held from his late residence, Saturday afternoon, Rev. T. E. Davis, of Plainfield, officiating, assisted by Rev. W. W. Casselberry, of the Presbyterian church. After the service at the house, the body was removed to the cemetery, accompanied by members of Pioneer Council, No. 58, Jr. O. U. A. M.; Court Dunellen, No. 1128, I. O. F., and Carpenters' Local Union, No. 155, of Plainfield, under whose direction the service at the grave took place. The body was borne by former lodge brothers, two from each of the lodges. The usual fraternal order of service was used at the grave.

The plans for the valentine social, which Lakeside Council, D. of L., will give on Thursday night, are progressing rapidly, and the affair promises to be a social as well as a financial success. A meeting in the interest of the affair was recently held at the home of Mrs. Foster Sofield, and the arrangements were discussed in detail. Various games appropriate to the occasion, will be played, while an entertaining programme is being planned.

The Methodist church pulpit was filled yesterday morning and evening by the regular pastor, Rev. S. K. Doolittle. Nothing further has been heard with regard to the conference's action toward the call of Rev. Mr. Schultz. It is known that the congregation of his present church has filed a petition requesting that he remain, though no further information has been learned.

The plans for the remodelling of the First Baptist church, of New Market, have been put in the hands of a carpenter, and the work will probably begin as soon as possible. The interior only will be effected. The galleries will be taken down and the size of the lower floor will be increased. Painting the interior will be another of the proposed improvements.

Among those who recently recently been confined to their homes by the grip are Mrs. Margaret Dealaman, Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, Mrs. T. O. Rogers, O. H. Day, H. S. Garretson, Rev. Frank Fletcher and J. W. Moynihan.

The funeral of Isaac Giddis, of Front street, who died recently at the home of his son, Dr. E. A. Giddis, of Plainfield, was held from his late residence yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and from the Methodist church at 1:30.

Josiah Maitland, of New Market, who has been confined to his home for some time, is now much improved and is reported to be steadily gaining.

The regular monthly meeting of the Council will be held tonight at the Council chambers. The usual routine business will be transacted

Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the Baptist church, has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness as to be able to fill the pulpit yesterday.

Mrs. Sofield, who has been confined to her home by an attack of the grip, is now much recovered.

Edward Linnett, of Newark, has been the guests of friends in the borough for a few days.

Howard Craig, of Front street, has been visiting out-of-town friends.

Miss Underwood, of New York, has been the guest of local friends.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

George H. Wood, the suspected murderer of George Williams on the Coontown road, last Thursday, was a former resident of Scotch Plains. With his father-in-law, Edward Whitten, he conducted a wheelwright and blacksmith business in the Murphy shop on Park avenue at the trolley crossing, four years ago, having purchased it from Henry Hand & Son. Wood and his family resided in the Murphy house. The firm of Whitten & Wood did not prosper and they were obliged to discontinue through the foreclosing of a chattel mortgage by the Hands, while Wood was ejected from his home for non-payment of rent. He made but few friends in the village and by many he was considered very erratic.

Mr. Hwang, an educated Chinaman, who is taking a course at Drew Seminary, being a fellow student of Rev. Warren P. Coons, gave an interesting address upon China at the Methodist church yesterday morning. Mr. Hwang is a graduate of Pekin University and was an intimate friend of the late Li Hung Chang, China's greatest Statesman. During the address the speaker lent added interest to his remarks by wearing the native costume of his country, including the Chinese queue. Mr. Hwang made an impassionate appeal for the spread of the gospel in this, one of the greatest fields for mission work, and his address was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience.

Through the kindness of Deacon David Hand, the borough attendants at the Baptist church enjoyed an old-fashioned straw ride to service Sunday morning. Owing to the heavy roads since the blizzard, it has been impossible to run the heavy church stage for the church service, but Deacon Hand was as usual equal to the occasion and the old stage was not missed on Sunday.

The match shoot between the five men team of the Brookside Club and the team from the Plainfield Gun Club, which was to have been held Saturday afternoon at the Plainfield club's shoot, did not take place, some of the members of the Plainfield team being unable to be present. Nearly all the local shooters were out and took part in the sweepstake shooting.

The attendance at the church services Sunday was much larger than that of a week ago, when the residents were still blizzard bound on many roads and sidewalks. At the close of the morning sermon at the Baptist church the monthly observance of the Lord's Supper was held.

Everything in the way of a sleigh was pressed into service yesterday to enjoy the sleighing, and the fact of it being Sunday could not deter some of the owners of fast steppers from engaging in some exciting brushes out on Mountain and South avenues.

Funeral services of the late Mrs. Isabella Billings, who died at her home Friday night, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from all Saints' Episcopal church.

Polls for the special election will be open tomorrow the same hours as for general elections. But little interest is shown by the voters and but few ballots will be cast.

Miss Minnie Guest had charge of the weekly meeting of the Epworth League, held last night at the Methodist church.

William H. Lee has recovered from a severe cold which has detained him at home for several days.

The B. Y. P. U. held a well attended meeting last night in the church parlors.

Ferdinand Meyers, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Piscataway township will be held at the Rogers' building, New Market, on Thursday afternoon, to consider petitions for building new school houses, and the amount to be asked for to build the New Market building.

John Dingler, after serving several years as fireman on the Lehigh Valley Railroad on a local freight, has been transferred to the position of engineer at Jersey City.

The Christian Endeavor meeting was conducted last night by Mrs. J. A. Cubberley. The attendance was good and the service was of considerable interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tappen and daughter, of Plainfield, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Tappen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Faulks.

Mrs. Bethune Dunham has so much improved from her recent attack of pneumonia as to be able to sit up in her room, occasionally.

Mrs. Anna Ward is spending a few days at the home of Mrs. W. B. Manning.

Raymond W. Payne entertained his cousin, Monroe Pyatt, yesterday.

TWO FIRES IN SAME HOUSE

Second Blaze Entirely Destroys Chas. Harris' Home.

THE LOSS IS $2,200

Occupant Supposed to Have Perished in Flames Until He is Located a Mile Away.

Five hours after Chief Deane and No. 3 hose company had left the home of Charles Harris on McDowell street, Saturday night, where they had extinguished a slight fire on the first floor, caused by the nearness of a stove to a wall, flames again broke out and the entire structure was destroyed. No one was in the house when the second blaze began but for nearly an hour it was believed that Harris had been burned to death and it was only when he was located a mile away that Chief Deane and the supposed victim's friends breathed easy.

The first fire was discovered by the family at 10 o'clock and a telephone alarm was sent in to headquarters. Chief Deane and No. 3 company responded. They found the blaze to be smoldering in a partition which had become overheated from a stove, and took every precaution to extinguish it thoroughly. They ripped out the wall all about the spot and thoroughly drenched with water and chemicals the woodwork in the vicinity. The Chief is positive that not a spark remained when he went away but as a safeguard he advised Harris to keep a close watch through the night for any further outbreak.

Harris and his family were about to retire when the former became uneasy and he decided to take his wife and children to the home of a relative on West Fourth street, near Rock avenue. It was 1 o'clock yesterday morning when he returned to McDowell street and the house was all right then, but at that time he, too, decided not to remain and he went back to where he had placed the family. Patrolman Saffron passed the house twice before 3 o'clock and it was all right but at 3:30 a neighbor was awakened by a crackling and looking out of a window, saw that the structure was wrapped in flames.

A telephone alarm was sent from John Haskard's home across the street and Chief Doane and No. 3 company again went to the scene. No. 3's combination wagon became stuck in a snowdrift within one block of the blazing house and it was not until No. 2 hose wagon came up in response to an alarm sent in from box 49 by Patrolman Saffron, that any water was thrown on the flames. Thirteen hundred feet of hose had to be laid in and the pressure was strengthened by the steamer, but to no purpose. The fire had such headway that only the brick chimney was left standing.

The building was owned by former Senator Walsh, of German Valley, and was valued at $1,200, fully insured. Harris carried $1,000 insurance on his furniture, which was also a total loss.

Neighbors who knew that Harris had taken his family away but had decided to come back, told Chief Doane that he must certainly have been burned to death, as he could not be found. This was the supposition, until Chief Howard Woolston, of the North Plainfield department, and John Krisney volunteered to go to the West Fourth street house and see if he was there. Harris answered their ring on the door-bell to receive the news that his home had been destroyed.

—The Rasores Club will meet tomorrow with Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, 440 West Eighth street.

Death of Miss Margaret VanDoren.

Miss Magaret VanDoren, of Jersey City, died at her late home Saturday in the twentieth year of her age. She was the daughter of Abraham and Ellen VanDoren, and a sister of A. E. VanDoren, of East Sixth street. The funeral will be held from the home of her brother, 612 East Second street, the time not having yet been fixed.

Funeral of I. T. Giddis.

The funeral of Isaac T. Giddis, who died at his son's home in Plainfield on Thursday, was held from his late residence and from the Dunellen M. E. church at Dunellen, yesterday afternoon. Both services were in charge of Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of the Dunellen M. E. church. The burial took place at Bound Brook.

NEW YORK LETTER

SOME EXTRAORDINARY THINGS THAT HAPPEN IN GOTHAM.

THE PATRICK MURDER CASE

It Has Many Peculiar Features—Many Poisoning Cases That Attract Attention—Society's Annual Flight to the South.

NEW YORK.—The most extraordinary things that happen in all the world find their match in New York. Take, for instance, the Patrick murder case, which will soon claim the attention of the court of appeals.

William M. Rice, a Texas millionaire, came to New York to avoid the Texan law that permits a wife by will to dispose of half her husband's property. His will, made in 1896, left the greater part of his fortune to found the Rice institute in Houston, Tex. There were a few small bequests to relatives.

Rice lived in New York a lonely life, dependent upon the service of his valet, Jones. On the day he died two checks signed by him were presented by Albert T. Patrick for payment at a bank. A slight irregularity in one of them caused the teller to call Rice up by telephone. Jones answered the call and, after some hesitation, told the bank officers that Rice had just died. There were found in the old man's effects a new will dated 1900. It gave only $250,000 of his five millions to the Rice institute, increased the bequests to relatives and made Patrick, a former Texas lawyer, residuary legatee. Patrick also held an assignment of Rice's estate, and checks for $250,000.

The amazing part of this story came out on the trial which followed. If Valet Jones told the truth on the stand as a witness for the state, Patrick could have had but slight acquaintance with Rice. The 1900 will was a forgery; that much has been established in surrogate's court, and the original will of 1896 stands. So the old man's money is likely to do some good by making a sort of Cooper Union in Texas.

The Amazing Poison Plot.

FIENDS from hades itself could not have framed a more amazing murder plot than that in which Patrick was the leading spirit and Jones, according to his own story, the accomplice. Day by day the old man, absolutely dependent upon the valet, the smooth-shaven, soft-voiced, immobile young fellow whom the doctors knew, was slowly poisoned by the constant administration of a virulent mercurial poison. He wore out his days in agony; he lived a long while, he was stronger than the conspirators had counted upon. At times, according to the valet's story, they even discussed the use of violence to hurry matters. The checks were forgeries, to provide means of defense, preparation, if necessary, flight.

When the old man died, immediate preparations were made by Patrick, as next in interest, to have the body cremated. The body was embalmed, in itself a circumstance that makes poison detection difficult. However, because of the little misadventure of the checks, suspicion grew, the funeral was stopped, the body examined in autopsy. Traces of mercury were found. Both Patrick and Jones were arrested and the latter turned state's evidence.

Patrick had made his plans with considerable skill. He had become a regular attendant of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, known as J. D. Rockefeller's; he spoke often in the Young Men's Christian association. He had little law business, but made some efforts to get into politics, and ran for assembly on the state democratic ticket. All this gave him a certain prominence. When the time came there were plenty of people who could have testified to his regular habits, apparent piety and quiet daily life. Not the smallest proof of his cunning was the fact that the will which he forged gave the Texas relatives a larger share of the estate than they received under the genuine will. Patrick calculated that this would range the heirs on his side in any probate trouble. He erred, as such cold-blooded murderers are apt to do, in assuming that others were as vile as himself. The Texas relatives stood for the genuine will and were of great use in furnishing testimony as to the past of both men. It is rather a disgraceful commentary upon the law's delays in New York that Patrick should have lived two years and eight months in Sing Sing under sentence of death.

New York's Poisoning Cases.

IT is said that poisoning is, of all forms of murder, the hardest to detect and convict upon. Yet the city of New York has had pretty fair luck in executing poisoners. Carlyle Harris was a medical student and very skillfully made his arrangements for poisoning his girl wife, Helen Potts. But he had the folly to boast to a fellow-student of his skill in such matters. He bought from a druggist certain harmless powders in capsules. Into one of these he put deadly poison; two he retained. The other four, including the poisonous one, he gave his wife. His idea in retaining two was that an analysis of them after the murder would show them harmless and clear him of guilt. His precaution worked the other way. It was a suspicious proceeding, to begin with; then, too, the well-known manner in which druggists put up drugs makes it practically impossible that one powder should differ in constituents from another put up at the same time. Harris was hanged, as the law then was.

Dr. Buchanan was an even more skillful poisoner, but he went the same road. Molineux, the handsome young chemist, whose trial cost New York in one way and another nearly half a million dollars, was convicted but received a new trial by order of the court of appeals and was upon this occasion acquitted. The judge and the district attorney were in the second trial convinced of the futility of dragging out proceedings, as much of the testimony used in the previous case was unavailable, and the rulings of Recorder Goff at the first trial had suffered severely in the appeal.

The Year in Florida.

THE exodus to Florida is the spring sensation in society, as it has been for some years. At the end of the Lenten season a hundred private cars, mostly rented ones, are grouped about the stations in Florida, waiting to be hauled north. And many a fine quarrel is begun by rivalry as to which cars are hauled first, and which ones get the best position in the train, and which refuse to let the servants from other cars pass through to reach some other portion of the train.

The death of Frank Croker has made little difference in the Florida season, though it did sadden the gayety in Ormond for a time. Croker was a son of his father in character, though refined by an education that the elder never enjoyed. He had the true Croker will of iron, the imperiousness that brooked no opposition. He was hardly a favorite in society, but men at least admired his magnificent nerve. His fortune apparently was ample; work was with him merely occasional. He had an interest in a steel firm that does considerable business with the city of New York through the continuing Croker influence; but he paid as little attention to it as the elder Croker paid to the real estate auction business of Peter Meyer, which was the ostensible source of his vast wealth.

The beach at Ormond must be one of the finest race course in the world. It is composed entirely of crumbling coquina stone, a product of insects of the coral tribe. Like the coral cliffs of Bermuda, it hardens upon exposure to the air. The fine sloping beach, which elsewhere would be of yielding sand, is here a plane surface of solid stone, a natural macadam that offers but the slightest resistance to the wheels.

The Gayety of Half Society.

THE half of society that remains is gay as ever. It represents perhaps the soberer element, the elder element. The society ball is its public farewell to brilliance before the coming of Lent. But about that time-honored festivity are grouped a number of private affairs like the costume party which young Mr. Hyde has just given, where society matrons and men appeared in extraordinary garb. There are still to come the balls of the Orme Wilsons and the related Gerrys. The "marrying Wilsons" the former are called. By marriage in one generation this family is bonded to the Vanderbilts, the Gerrys, the Astors and to the aristocratic Herberts in England.

The mention of the Astors recalls the matrimonial misadventures of a daughter of the name who was Mrs. Coleman Drayton. The absurd duel talk between her husband and Hallett Alsop Borrowe was followed by her divorce, and, some years after, by her remarriage to an Englishman. As Mrs. Haig she is now one of London's "smart" matrons. Young Coleman Drayton, who recently married Miss Knower, of New York, is of this Drayton family. The young Mrs. Drayton is one of the prettiest brides of the season and popular in her set.

When Miss Catherine Morgan Dix, a daughter of the venerable Dr. Dix, of Trinity, was married in her father's church to Mr. William H. Wheelock, two unusual features were much noted. One of the attendants upon the church wedding was Aunt Millie Gardiner, a colored woman who has been for 65 years a servant in the bride's family. And in the blazing heap of wedding presents at the house a pincushion mounted in silver was prominently displayed. It came from Kitty, the applewoman, who for many years has had a stand in front of St. Paul's church, which belongs to Trinity parish.

Well-wishers like these are worth having.

OWEN LANDGON.

Seasonable Dates.

"Have you any fresh dates?" asked the prospective customer.

"No," answered the druggist. "I gave away the last calendar I had this morning."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

Notable Women

Annie S. Peck, Mrs. Taylor and Others

Among feminine achievements of the past year none is more remarkable than the mountain climbing of Miss Annie S. Peck of Chicago. Her record for 1904 includes the scaling of two great Andean heights, Mount Sorata in Bolivia and Mount Huascaran in Peru. Both the trips are to be classed among the world's notable climbing feats without even the addition of that condemnatory phrase "for a woman." Sorata Miss Peck ascended to a height of 22,000 feet, certainly to within 500 to 800 feet of the very top. There her guides turned coward and refused to follow her, to her infinite chagrin. Indeed, she went on alone to a considerable distance before she discovered that the one last Indian who had agreed to accompany her up the perilous steep had slipped out of the other end of the safety rope which bound him to the intrepid American girl and left it dangling loose upon the snow. At the same instant, to her horror, Miss Peck found herself upon the very brink of a crevasse that might have been a mile deep for aught any human being knew. The only thing to do was to retreat, that, too, with the utmost circumspection, for only the frozen snow crust was between her and the unfathomed depths of that crevasse. When she reproached the Indian for his desertion he merely said he did not know why he should risk his life because she was determined to risk hers. So the woman mountain climber took the back track and returned to the foot of great Sorata. She did not rest long, however. So soon as she could make preparation she journeyed to the foothills of Huascaran and made a try at its summit. She reached an altitude of 19,000 feet on this mountain, which she believes to be the highest in the western hemisphere.

She climbed Huascaran farther than any other explorer has gone. Its scenery she found indescribably beautiful, incomparably finer than that of the Alps, and she is certain it contains mineral deposits of untold richness.

Next summer Miss Peck declares she will try again to climb Huascaran and this time will succeed.

Women Art Bookbinders.

Chicago is the home of another lady in the public eye of late, Mrs. Hobart Chatfield Chatfield-Taylor. Heretofore she has been known chiefly as an ornamental lady of society, and it was a surprise to society when Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor suddenly declared that she thought every woman ought to do something useful and accordingly opened an art bookbindery in Chicago. She believes a book may be made a work of art as to its outside, and she will endeavor to show the American people what can be done in that line.

Associated with Mrs. Taylor in her bookbinding shop are Miss Enid George, an English lady whom Mrs. Taylor met while studying art bookmaking in Paris, and Miss Streeter of Chicago. At first Mrs. Taylor took up bookbinding as an artistic fad, then became so much interested that she determined to engage in it as a business enterprise.

"Of course I wish to make money," says Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor, with refreshing honesty.

A Russian Patriot.

Not long ago there landed in America one of the most remarkable of living women, Mme. Katherine Breshkofskaya, a Russian. Twenty-two years Mme. Breshkofskaya spent as a political exile in Kara and Baikal, Siberia. Few men even survive such an ordeal, yet this woman, now sixty-one years old, is still in the prime of physical and mental vigor. She was the first woman to be sentenced to hard labor in Siberian mines. She comes to America to make propaganda for free speech and free government in Russia.

THE GRAFTERS

By

FRANCIS LYNDE

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

Hawk closed as dispassionately as he had begun, and the judge bowed gravely in Hunnicott's direction. The local attorney got upon his feet, and as he began to speak a telegram was handed in. It was Kent's wire from Juniberg, beseeching him to gain time at all hazards, and he settled himself to the task. For 30 dragging minutes he rang the changes on the various steps in the suits, knowing well that the fatal moment was approaching when—Kent still failing him—he would be compelled to submit his case without a scrap of an affidavit to support it.

The moment came, and still there was no encouraging whistle shriek from the dun plain beyond the open windows. Hawk was visibly disgusted, and Judge MacFarlane was growing justly impatient. Hunnicott began again, and the judge reproved him mildly.

"Much of what you are saying is entirely irrelevant, Mr. Hunnicott. This hearing is on the plaintiff's amended petition."

No one knew better than the local attorney that he was wholly at the court's mercy; that he had been so from the moment the judge began to consider his purely formal defense, entirely unsupported by affidavits or evidence of any kind. None the less, he strung his denials out by every amplification he could devise, and, having fired his last shot, sat down in despairing breathlessness to hear the judge's summing-up and decision.

Judge MacFarlane was mercifully brief. On the part of the plaintiff there was an amended petition fully fortified by uncontroverted affidavits. On the part of the defendant company there was nothing but a formal denial of the allegations. The duty of the court in the premises was clear. The prayer of the plaintiff was granted, the temporary relief asked for was given and the order of the court would issue accordingly.

The judge was rising when the still, hot air of the room began to vibrate with the tremulous thunder of the sound for which Hunnicott had been so long straining his ears. He was the first of the three to hear it, and he hurried out ahead of the others. At the foot of the stair he ran blindly against Kent, travel-worn and haggard.

"You're too late!" he blurted out. "We're done up. Hawk's petition has been granted and the road is in the hands of a receiver."

Kent dashed his fist upon the stair-rail.

"Who is the man?" he demanded.

"Major Jim Guilford," said Hunnicott. Then, as footfalls coming stairward were heard in the upper corridor, he locked arms with Kent, faced him about and thrust him out over the door-stone. "Let's get out of this. You look as if you might kill somebody."

CHAPTER XI.

THE LAST DITCH.

It was a mark of the later and larger development of David Kent that he was able to keep his head in the moment of catastrophies. In boyhood his hair had been a brick-dust red, and having the temperament which belongs of right to the auburn-hued, his first impulse was to face about and make a personal matter of the legal robbery with Judge MacFarlane.

Happily for all concerned, Hunnicott's better counsels prevailed, and [illegible] the anger fit passed Kent found [illegible] growing cool and determined. [illegible] free of the courthouse, Kent [illegible] a rapid-fire of questions.

"Where is Judge MacFarlane stopping?"

"At the Mid-Continent."

"Have you any idea when he intends leaving town?"

"No; but he will probably take the first train. He never stays here an hour longer than he has to after adjournment."

"That would be the Flyer east at six o'clock. Is he going east?"

"Come to think of it, I believe he is. Somebody said he was going to Hot Springs. He's in miserable health."

Kent saw more possibilities, and worse, and quickened his pace a little.

"What do we do?" asked Hunnicott, willing to take a little lesson in practice as he ran.

"The affidavits I have brought with me and the telegrams which are waiting at the station must convince MacFarlane that he has made a mistake. We shall prepare a motion for the discharge of the receiver and for the vacation of the order appointing him, and ask the judge to set an early day for the hearing on the merits of the case. He can't refuse."

Hunnicott shook his head.

"It has been all cut and dried from 'way back," he objected. "They won't let you upset it at the last moment."

"We'll give them a run for their money," said Kent.

By five o'clock Kent was in the lobby of the Mid-Continent, sending his card up to the judge's room. Word came back that the judge was in the cafe fortifying the inner man in preparation for his journey, and Kent did not stand upon ceremony. From the archway of the dining-room he marked down his man at a small table in the corner, and went to him at once, plunging promptly into the matter in hand.

"The exigencies of the case must plead my excuse for intruding upon you here, Judge MacFarlane," he began courteously. "But I have been told that you were leaving town—"

The judge waved him down with a deprecatory fork.

"Court is adjourned, Mr. Kent, and I must decline to discuss the case ex parte. Why did you allow it to go by default?"

"That is precisely what I am here to explain," said Kent, suavely. "The time allowed us was very short; and a series of accidents—"

Again the judge interrupted.

"A court can hardly take cognizance of accidents, Mr. Kent. Your local attorney was on the ground and he had the full benefit of the delay."

"I know," was the patient rejoinder. "Technically, your order is unassailable. None the less, a great injustice has been done, as we are prepared to prove. I am not here to ask you to reopen the case at your dinner-table, but if you will glance over these papers I am sure you will set an early day for the hearing upon the merits."

"JUDGE MACFARLANE, IT IS MY OPINION, SPEAKING AS MAN TO MAN, THAT YOU ARE A SCOUNDREL."

Judge MacFarlane forced a gray smile.

"You vote yea and nay in the same breath, Mr. Kent. If I should examine your papers, I should be reopening the case at my dinner-table. You shall have your hearing in due course."

"At chambers?" said Kent. "We shall be ready at any moment; we are ready now, in point of fact."

"I cannot say as to that. My health is very precarious, and I am under a physician's orders to take a complete rest for a time. I am sorry if the delay shall work a hardship to the company you represent; but under the circumstances, with not even an affidavit offered by your side, it is your misfortune. And now I shall ask you to excuse me. It lacks but a few minutes of my train time."

The hotel porter was droning out the call for the eastbound Flyer, and Kent effaced himself while Judge MacFarlane was paying his bill and making ready for his departure. But when the judge set out to walk to the station, Kent walked with him. There were five squares to be measured, and for five squares he hung at MacFarlane's elbow and the plea he made should have won him a hearing. Yet the judge remained impassible, and at the end of the argument turned back in a word to his starting point.

"I cannot recall the order at this time, if I would, Mr. Kent; neither can I set a day for the hearing on the merits. What has been done was done in open court and in the presence of your attorney, who offered no evidence in contradiction of the allegations set forth in the plaintiff's amended petition, although they were supported by more than a dozen affidavits; and it cannot be undone in the streets. Since you have not improved your opportunities, you must abide the consequences. The law cannot be hurried."

They had reached the station and the eastbound train was whistling for Gaston. Kent's patience was nearly gone, and the auburn-hued temperament was clamoring hotly for its innings.

"This vacation of yours, Judge MacFarlane: how long is it likely to last?" he inquired, muzzling his wrath yet another moment.

"I cannot say; if I could I might be able to give you a more definite answer as to the hearing on the merits. But my health is very miserable, as I have said. If I am able to return shortly, I shall give you the hearing at chambers at an early date."

"And if not?"

"If not, I am afraid it will have to go over to the next term of court."

"Six months," said Kent; and then his temper broke loose. "Judge MacFarlane, it is my opinion, speaking as man to man, that you are a scoundrel. I know what you have done, and why you have done it. Also, I know why you are running away, now that it is done. So help me God, I'll bring you to book for it if I have to make a lifetime job of it! It's all right for your political backers; they are thieves and bushwhackers, and they make no secret of it. But there is one thing worse than a trickster, and that is a trickster's tool!"

For the moment while the train was hammering in over the switches they stood facing each other fiercely, all masks flung aside, each after his kind; the younger man flushed and battle-mad; the elder white, haggard, tremulous. Kent did not guess, then or ever, how near he came to death. Two years earlier a judge had been shot and maimed on a western circuit and since then, MacFarlane had taken a coward's precaution. Here was a man that knew, and while he lived the cup of trembling might never be put aside.

It was the conductor's cry of "All aboard!" that broke the homicidal spell. Judge MacFarlane started guiltily, shook off the angry eye-grip of his accuser, and went to take his place in the Pullman. One minute later the eastbound train was threading its way out among the switches of the lower yard, and Kent had burst into the telegraph office to wire the volcanic news to his chief.

CHAPTER XII.

THE MAN IN POSSESSION.

Appraised at its value in the current coin of street gossip, the legal seizure of the Trans-Western figured mainly as an example of the failure of modern business methods when applied to the concealment of a working corporation's true financial condition.

But in the state at large the press was discussing the event from a political point of view; one section, small but vehement, raising the cry of trickery and judicial corruption, and prophesying the withdrawal of all foreign capital from the state, while the other, large and complacent, pointed eloquently to the beneficent working of the law under which the cause of the poor woman, suing for her undoubted right, might be made the whip to flog corporate tyranny into instant subjection.

As for the dispossessed stock-holders in the faraway east, they were slow to take the alarm, and still slower to get concerted action. Like many of the western roads, the Western Pacific had been capitalized largely by popular subscription; hence there was no single holder, or group of holders, of sufficient financial weight to enter the field against the spoilers.

But when Loring and his associates had fairly got the wires hot with the tale of what had been done, and the much more alarming tale of what was likely to be done, the Boston inertness vanished. A pool of the stock was formed, with the members of the advisory board as a nucleus; money was subscribed, and no less a legal light than an ex-attorney-general of the state of Massachusetts was despatched to the seat of war to advise with the men on the ground. None the less, disaster out-travels the swiftest of "limited" trains. Before the heavily-feed consulting attorney had crossed the Hudson in his western journey, Wall Street had taken notice, and there was a momentary splash in the troubled pool of stock exchange and a vanishing circle of ripples to show where the Western Pacific had gone down.

In the meantime Major Guilford, somewhile president of the Apache National bank of Gaston, and antecedent to that, the frowning autocrat of a 25-mile logging road in the North Carolina mountains, had given bond in some sort and had taken possession of the company's property and the offices in the Quintard building.

REVOLT IN ARGENTINA.

Mutinous Troops Repulsed at Rosario—Three Hundred Taken.

BUENOS AYRES, Argentine, Feb. 6.—An insurrection has broken out in this province. Several police posts have been attacked by bands, but the assailants nearly everywhere were repulsed. Two posts which were surprised were recaptured by the police. An attack on the arsenal was also repelled. It is rumored that two regiments of troops have mutinied and are marching on the capital.

Mutinous troops from San Lorenzo have attacked Rosario without success. They were obliged to retire. General Benavides, with government re-enforcements of 3,000 men, is expected to arrive at Rosario today.

Government troops drawn from Tucuman and San Juan are marching on Mendoza to re-establish order there. The governor of the province of Mendoza is said to be a prisoner in the hands of the insurgents.

The committee directing the revolutionary movement is said to be established at Cordoba. The members of this committee are Radicals—Pedro Melina, Dr. Grotto, Del For, Del Valle and Colonel Martin Irigeya.

The night service on railroads has been suspended for the present.

In the course of the attacks upon police stations here several rioters were killed, about thirty were injured and some 250 arrested. Order has been completely restored, and the city presents a normal aspect.

Ex-President Roca has telegraphed President Quintana offering his services in aid of the restoration of order.

With a view to avoiding bloodshed the government has sent a sufficiently large force to Mendoza and Cordoba to easily overpower the few hundreds of revolutionaries. It is hoped the latter will be forced to surrender without fighting. There are 5,000 men marching on these two towns by different routes.

The revolution is practically crushed.

All the newspapers here strongly condemn the revolutionary movement.

As a result of the insurrectionary movement not only here, but in several other cities of Argentine, the government has issued a decree establishing a state of siege for thirty days throughout the republic and has ordered the mobilization of the national guard.

The movement was instigated by the Radical party, which was assisted by sections of the military.

The movement is now limited to the provinces of Rosario, Santa Fe, Mendoza, Corboda and southern Buenos Ayres and sections south between the Plate river and Bahai Blanca, where, it is reported, Colonel Momembello, commanding the government forces, has inflicted a severe defeat on the rebels.

President Quintana declares that he will not interfere between the law and revolutionary prisoners, of whom there are 300 already in the hands of the government.

MACEDONIAN REFORMS.

Landsdowne Proposes Christian Governor For Turkish Province.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Foreign Secretary Lansdowne has definitely proposed to the concert of Europe the appointment of a Christian governor general of Macedonia, with powers and responsibilities similar to those of Prince George in Crete.

Thus far the acknowledgments indicate little sympathy with the British proposition with the exception of Italy, which approves of it, perhaps because she sees therein a chance to overthrow the predominant influence of Austria and Russia in the Balkans.

Old Woman Burned to Death.

CHARLTON, Mass., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Luann Lamson, ninety years and two months old, was burned to death in a small house in which she lived, a mile and a half from this village. The house was all right at midnight, and nobody saw the fire, but her charred body has been found in the ruins of the house. She is supposed to have set her clothing on fire by pouring oil in her stove, as was her custom. She had lived alone thirty years.

No Witness to Sad Drowning.

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 6.—Three children have been drowned at Brownstown. The finding of a hole in the ice in Wengers dam, on the Conestoga creek, led to the discovery of the tragedy. The victims were children of George W. Hoeffner of that place. The circumstances of the accident are not known, as there were no witnesses.

Plot to Smuggle Jewelry Detected.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 6.—Custom house officials at Vera Cruz have detected a plot to smuggle a large quantity of jewelry from Germany into this country, the goods being concealed in the bottom of an ice cream freezer. Active investigation into the matter is being made.

Italian Victim of Shooting Dead.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 6.—Joseph Caputo, who was shot in a fight with three other Italians Friday night, is dead at the hospital here. There is no trace of Augustino and Voloccio Guglielmino, the brothers wanted on the charge of murdering Caputo.

Two Drowned Shooting Ducks.

GEORGETOWN, S. C., Feb. 6.—W. G. Catlin, special agent of an insurance company, while shooting ducks on Black river, near Georgetown, was drowned, together with a negro boatman, Zeb Barron. It is not known just how the accident happened.

Fort Wayne Factory Burned.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Feb. 6.—A fire here has destroyed the Paragon Shirt Waist factory, entailing a loss of $110,000. The loss is covered by insurance.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

The ancient game of curling has gained many devotees during the present winter. The game is becoming more popular each year, and although of Scotch origin, is now participated in by men of all nationality. Chicago curlers recently began a movement for the organization of the Central Curling association, which will answer the same purpose in the north central states and that part of Canada bordering on the United States as the Grand National Curling association in the east and the Northwestern Curling association in the northwest. Like golf and bowling, curling can be participated in, and thoroughly enjoyed by men from 15 to 50 years of age, a feature which largely accounts for the popularity of games of Scotch origin. It is one of the most inexpensive of games to play, the greatest expense being the curling stones, which cost about $18 a pair. Only one pair is needed, and they will last for five or six years. Most of the curling stones used are imported from Scotland. In shape they resemble a small convex cheese and are about a foot in diameter. The bottom of the stone is slightly hollowed out, thus giving the stone an edge on which it runs on the ice. The stones are provided with handles to enable the player to hurl or slide them on the ice with the proper degree of force. Each stone weighs from 35 to 50 pounds, and each player has a pair. The game is played as follows: Sides, or rinks, are made up, consisting of four against four, with a captain, styled a "skip," for each four. A hog line is drawn 21 feet from the tee. If the stones do not pass this line they are dead and pushed off the ice. The brooms, which are in part an emblem of curling, are used to indicate where a stone is to be played and, of course, to sweep the ice. If a stone lacks force the sweepers labor in front of it trying to make the surface so keen and clean that the slight momentum will carry it over to where it is wanted. The principle of the game is simple. The stones of either party are played from one tee to the other, and those found at the conclusion of the round to be nearest the tee count as shots. A game is generally considered 16 ends, but more or fewer may be played. Sixteen ends means playing from from end to end 16 times. The players on one side are followed alternately by the players on the other side, until all of the eight contestants have cast their stones. The efforts of each player are directed by the skip. He indicates what is best to play for and directs the sweeping; he himself plays the last shot at each head. The skip is supposed to be one of the best and most experienced players in a club.

A Curler.

Before the invention of dirigible balloons the nearest approach to flying that had been consistently achieved by mankind was found in the long leaps made by experts on skis, the long snowshoes of Scandinavia. Skill in the management of these implements is one of the prized assets of the athletes of Denmark, Sweden and Norway, and the sport has been imported into the United States by emigrants from those countries. National ski tournaments have been held in this country for several years, and the 1905 events are scheduled to be held at Ishpeming, Mich. "Ski races," as conducted at the national tournaments, are not running contests nor long distance walking tests of endurance. A series of hazardous leaps off a "bump" comprise the tests, and the one covering the greatest distance and landing on his feet in good form is adjudged the winner. The Ishpeming slide is constructed so as to allow of a jump of 100 feet. The entries already made for the big tournament give assurance that the best ski riders in the United States will participate. Many of these men have been prize winners at similar contests, conducted under royal auspices, in Norway.

Ski Jumping.

New world's records were established in a ski tournament at Red Wing, Minn., recently. In the long jump, stand or fall, George Thompson, of Red Wing, covered 118 feet, and in the long jump, standing, Gustaf Bye, of Ishpeming, Mich., went 106 feet, both being ahead of all previous records. There were 51 entries from the local club, Ishpeming, Stoughton, Ironwood, Grand Rapids, Ada, and Frederick, Wis., Track conditions were the finest and the ordinary tournament marks were excelled in the trial run.

Pat T. Powers has been reelected president, secretary and treasurer of the Eastern baseball league.

Clark Ball, pugilistic promoter and former manager of Bob Fitzsimmons, is out with a proposition to bring Fitzsimmons and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien together in a finish fight, to be pulled off in Panama. Ball guarantees the fighters $25,000, and says he will deposit a good part of the purse at any time the men agree to sign articles of agreement.

GUN CLUB SHOOT.

Prize Contest at Cole's Hill on Saturday by Plainfield Cracks.

The Plainfield Gun Club held a shoot on its range, Cole's Hill, Saturday afternoon, for three small prize events, in the first of which Thomas Brantingham won the first prize, a sugar and butter set, while Phillip Jahn, Scott Terry, John Terry, George Johnson and Van Goodman were tie for second prize, a cheese service, which was won by John Terry on the shoot off of the tie, with a score of nine out of a possible ten.

In the second event, John Terry won first prize, a salt and pepper set and there was a tie between Thomas Brantingham, I. Sabacker, Scott Terry, James Moffett and T. A. Pope for second prize. In the shoot off of the tie, Moffett won by killing fourteen out of fifteen targets. He received a napkin ring. In the third James Moffett won first prize, a large meat fork, with a score of fourteen out of a possible fifteen. Scott Terry won second prize, a small meat fork, with a score of twelve out of a possible fifteen.

W. D. MURRAY'S TALK.

Bible Scholar at a Sunday-School Concert.

The value and necessity of the Sunday-school as an independent and yet an auxiliary institution, was brought out by William D. Murray, superintendent of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school primary department, at the special Sunday-school concert of the Congregational church last night. The occasion was in a sense an echo of Christmas, as a feature was the school's rendition of the Christmas carols. Two soprano solos by Miss Florence Bennett, and a baritone solo by William Wadsworth added much to the musical service. Miss Alberta Waterbury was the accompanist.

Mr. Murray took for the foundation of his talk the words which an English chaplain used in directing the attitude of the church toward missions, "Know, Glow, Grow and Go."

Grist From the City Court.

In the city court, this morning, John Hogan, who has been making it a habit of sleeping in the basement of Grace church parish house on East Sixth strete, was fined $5 He was taken from the place at 6 o'clock yesterday morning after he had badly frightened the janitor, who came down while it was still dark to fix the furnace. William Haberle, arrested by Patrolman Hamilton for drunkenness, had sentence suspended, it being his first offense.

Wagner Recital Friday.

Miss Harriette Cady's postponed Wagner recital will be given Friday night, Feb. 10, at 8:30 at the home of Mrs. A. H. Atterbury, 315 West Seventh street. The programme to be presented is considered by Miss Cady to be her best.

SHURTS RESIGNS.

Dungan and Frech Candidates to Succeed Him as Democratic County Chairman.

Chairman Jacob Shurts, of Somerville; John S. Everett, of Neshanic, and M. Mount Corle, of Branchburg, resigned as members of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee, held at Somerville, on Saturday. Mr. Shurts resigned because of ill health.

Former Freeholder Hoagland was elected to succeed Mr. Corle and Nelson Y. Dungan and John A. Frech were nominated for the chairmanship. The vote was a tie and further action was deferred until a larger attendance of the committee. James Flynn was elected a member to succeed Frank D. Cramer, of North Branch, who died recently.

Mrs. Sarah Brady Dead.

Mrs. Sarah Brady, a life-long resident of Plainfield, died yesterday morning at her home on West Second street, at the age of sixty-seven years, following a severe attack of the grip. She was a faithful member of Trinity Reformed church and always attended when her health would permit. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Daniel I. Smalley, with whom she lived, and Mrs. Fred Bird, formerly of East Front street. The funeral service will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home in West Second street, and interment will be at Hillside Cemetery. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will have charge of the services.

New Retail Firm.

Leonard B. VanCamp and John A. Franklin, who have been employed by Hill & Shupp, have formed a partnership under the firm name of VanCamp & Franklin and have leased the store and basement, at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, formerly occupied by the Courier-News, and as soon as alterations are made, which will be about March 1, will open a carpet and upholstery store. Mattress making will be a specialty.

Employing Union Labor.

Owing to the inability of S. P. Hoffman, of Duer street, who had the contract to erect the new buildings on Watchung avenue, near Second street, for Charles H. Hand and J. P. Homan, to complete the same, he being quite ill, Mr. Hand has taken up the work and will complete it with union mechanics. Mr. Hoffman was a non-union mechanic and he employed similar assistants.

Dr. Richards' Success.

The Brick Presbyterian church, Fifth avenue and Thirty-seventh street, New York, of which Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, formerly of the Crescent Avenue church, this city, is pastor, raised more money last year than any other church in New York. The amount was $336,000, a sum greater by nearly $40,000 than was raised by St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church, which usually takes the palm in this respect.

A Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given in honor of Miss Mae Huntington at her home on West Fourth street, Friday night. A violin solo was given by John Caulfield and a piano solo by William Sunners. Other solos were given by James Buckley, James Cullem and Thomas Kennedy. A supper was served at midnight. The affair was in charge of Ella Lappim and May Kennedy.

Hired Horse Runs Away.

Two local men hired a sleigh from MacDonald's livery on East Second street, Saturday night, to drive to Scotch Plains. While in the latter place the horse ran away and was found by a policeman at 3 o'clock yesterday morning on West Seventh street. The sleigh was badly damaged but the horse was uninjured.

Hot Ashes Cause a Fire.

A pile of boxes in the rear of Kiroh's cigar store on North avenue, caught fire from hot ashes yesterday afternoon, the flames spreading to the porch of Mrs. Drake's flat above. Patrolman Overbaugh turned in an alarm from box 18 and the blaze was extinguished in a few minutes. The loss is placed at $35.

Took Civil Service Examination.

Several persons took the Civil Service examinations on Saturday for the positions of letter-carrier and postal clerks at the local postoffice.

Business House Changes.

Harry Feinberg, of West Front street, occupying a store in the Schopflin building, has leased through the agents, Leifke & Laing, the store at 239 West Front street, now occupied by Peter Flynn, Jr., the shoe dealer, and will take possession about April 1. Mr. Flynn has not yet announced where he will locate.

Another Criterion Dance.

The Criterion Club, which conducted a successful dance in the Casino last week, is making arrangements to hold another. It will take place in the Casino, March 2, and invitations are to be issued within a short time.

Hunt Club Chase Abandoned.

Though the depth of the snow Saturday afternoon made it impossible to conduct the regular weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club, the members spent a pleasant time in exercising their horses at the jumps.

PERSONAL.

Miss Lulu Randolph, of West Eighth street, has gone to Philadelphia and Baltimore to visit with friends.

Daniel VanWinkle, of 3 Mercer avenue, has taken up his residence with his brother, Wm. H. VanWinkle, 28 Park place.

The Misses Shreve, of Island Heights, N. J., are visiting at the home of their uncle, B. J. Shreve, of Grove street.

Augustus Hoagland and family, of Trenton, spent Sunday with friends here. Mr. Hoagland formerly was employed at Hill & Shupp's store.

Mr. Brown, father of Louis Brown, formerly of this city, but now of New York, is critically ill at Muhlenberg Hospital. His son has been sent for.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The February meeting of the Board of Health will be held tomorrow afternoon.

—The Watchung Whist Club will be entertained tomorrow night by Mrs. Leek, of Westfield.

—From the moment when you order the insertion of your want ad. you may "quit worrying."

—The regular February meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held tonight.

—For breakfast or after dinner, nothing is so good as one of Neuman Brothers' choice oranges. The highest grades at reasonable prices.

—George M. Hoagland, assistant superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company, accompanied by his son, J. Russell Hoagland, of Duer street, spent Sunday at Newark with his brother.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Patrick Poole, of Camden, a veteran of the Civil War, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital during the last ten days for treatment for rheumatism, was discharged today and will return home.

Gloom at Fire Headquarters.

"Dick," the widely known, sagacious cat at fire headquarters is no more and the whole department is mourning. He had been the mascot of the East Second street house for nine years and he knew more tricks than any generally acquired by feline animals. "Dick" was picked up one cold night by Harry Bush, returning from a fire and was his especial pet.

MAJORITY FAVOR SALOON LIMITS

After Strong Protest, Measure is Passed in Common Council to Second Reading.

MAYOR FIGHTING IT

During Debate President Daniel Declares That Proposed Ordinance Would Create a Monopoly—The Vote Six to Four.

The introduction of Mr. Tyler's proposed amendment to the ordinance to license inns and taverns whereby the territory in which saloons can be located, is defined and restricted to the business section, except in cases where licenses are now held outside of the prescribed territory, provoked a lively discussion at the regular meeting of the Common Council, last night, in which several members, as well as Mayor Buckle took part. Mr. Tyler presented the amendment. It was defeated last year. The prescribed district comprises that part extending from Watchung avenue, through Front street on the line of Green brook to Central avenue, to Park avenue, to West Fourth street, to Watchung avenue to point of beginning. It will interfere with anyone now holding a license outside of this district.

Councilman Frank Randolph questioned its legality and Mr. Randolph facetiously remarked that it would be well to refuse all license applications, it would only mean a jump of fifteen points. He also argued that the adoption of the amendment would mean extra duty for the policemen in looking after the speak-easies. Mr. Tolles declared it was illegal and was persecution of saloonkeepers. Mr. Tolles referred to his previous argument that in case a saloonkeeper dies after paying the $1,000 fee, his estate is deprived of the benefits of that money if the licensed place is outside the district. Mr. Bullock favored the amendment.

"I move the measure be laid on the table," said Mr. Gloak. The motion was seconded by Mr. Tolles, but it was lost, Councilmen Bullock, Hibbard, Higham, Charles O. Randolph, Tyler and Wilson voting in the negative and Councilmen Gloak, Frank Randolph, Tolles and Daniel in the affirmative.

President Daniel then vigorously opposed the amendment on the ground that it would create a monopoly to saloonkeepers and landowners and it would absolutely preclude hotels outside the district from having a license. He referred to Hotel Netherwood in its prosperous days and he believed that there should be some attraction for persons to establish hotels in this city.

Mayor Buckle asked for the privileges of the floor and spoke at some length. "It is better to have liquor sold open and above-board than in secret," continued Mr. Buckle. "No one has been around saloons more than I have, not that I have gone there to get drunk. I go there to meet the men, the citizens of the town and I find that they like to meet me. The Jackson and Stillman buildings are right in the thickly settled residential section and yet in the saloon district.

"There is not a member of this body, with possibly the exception of two new members, with whom I have not drank. Don't put an arbitrary ordinance through which will result in more trouble than under present conditions. I am amongst the people more than you are. I try to teach them that they can enter a saloon and yet be respectable and I find that a small percentage abuse the privilege.".

"It is not a liquor question, but a question as to whether the saloon is to grow," remarked Mr. Tyler. "We don't want them in the residence section. In fact a special ordiance can be adopted granting a license to hotels, such as the Netherwood. We want the saloon to stay where it is."

Mr. Tyler's motion to place the amendment on the second reading was carried by a vote of six to four—Councilmen Bullock, Higham, Hibbard, C. O. Randolph, Tyler and Wilson voting in the affirmative and Councilmen Gloak, Frank Randolph, Tolles and Daniel in the negative.

A previous motion of Mr. Tolles to adjourn the meeting to Monday night, February 27, was taken from the table, but was opposed by Mr. Tyler on the ground that his amendment could not

COPS TO TAKE EXERCISE

Course of Gymnastic Training at Y. M. C. A. for the Police.

CITY TO PAY THE BILL

Common Council Passes the Necessary Resolution—President L. M. Daniel Voting in the Negative.

For the purpose of securing much-needed physical exercise for the regular members of the police department, Mr. Tyler, chairman of the Police Board, at last night's meeting of the Common Council, introduced the subject of having the men take regular gymnastic exercises at the Y. M. C. A. He stated that he thought it would be a benefit to the force and such arrangements could be made with the Y. M. C. A., by paying $5 annually for each man, as a membership fee. Mr. Tyler's proposition was to have the patrolmen take regular exercise three times a week under the direction of the physical director at the association, and at other times under the direction of Chief Kiely. He added that the cost to the city would be $85 a year as there are seventeen men.

Councilman Frank Randolph wanted to know if the patrolmen favored the scheme, and Mr. Tyler said that a vote was taken and all but two of the force voted in favor of it. Later he went to headquarters and explained the proposition to the men and that time all but three voted in favor of it. He told the men that it was a business proposition and would be a part of the discipline of the force. In response to Councilman Charles Randolph's question, Mr. Tyler stated that the exercise would be taken in the city's time.

Mr. Tyler's resolution that for the purpose of increasing the efficiency of the police department such an arrangement be made at an expense of $85, was adopted, all the members except President Daniel voting in the affirmative.

NEW APPLICANTS FOR LIQUOR LICENSES

JOHN GOFF, JAMES SHAY AND JEROME LEARY FILE PETITIONS.

There were three new applicants for liquor licenses at the February meeting of the Common Council, last night—John Goff, for his hotel on West Front street, and John Shay, for a place on West Third street, which was formerly licensed to Mr. Turner, who at that time was connected with the Eastern Bottling Company. Jerome W. Leary, who was trying to lease the Hotel Rosell, made application for a liquor license for that place, and A. B. Rosell, the present proprietor, also applied for the same place. It is believed that if Mr. Rosell gets a license it may be transferred to Mr. Leary, in case a lease for the hotel can be obtained from the new owner of the property, J. A. Staats. The Shay application for a license was unexpected.

The applications are as follows:

Jerome W. Leary, Charles Schantz, Michael Watson, Jacob Blimm, Bernard Clark, J. A. Staats, Henry Windham, Henry Haurand, A. B. Rosell, John Shay, John J. Goff, A. D. Findlay, Chris. Gloeckler, John Rafferty, Eastern Bottling Company and Frank Linke.

The applications were all referred to the police committee and they will be advertised according to the ordinance governing them. Action will be taken on them so that in cases of renewals or the granting of new licenses business can be commenced on March 1.

Charles Schantz, who now conducts a saloon at 216 Park avenue, applied for a license at 136 Park avenue, the building owned by Marcus Silbert. It appears in the application that Mr. Silbert is one of the signers.

Not D. L. Darby.

In justice to D. L. Darby, correction is made of the report that judgment had been obtained in Justice Clark's court by Stonewall Jackson against C. A. Wood as maker of a note and Mr. Darby as endorser. The Mr. Darby against whom judgment was gotten was Elston Darby and D. L. Darby had no connection with the case.

HOSPITAL DONATION CUT

Common Council Reduces the Appropriation on Request.

SALARIES ARE RAISED

Overseer of the Poor and Fire Captains Get Increase in Pay—Kelly a Regular Patrolman.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital in a communication to the Common Council at its regular meeting, last night, made a request for the withdrawal of the recent proposition whereby the hospital was to care for the city's indigent poor for the sum of $1,500 annually and another proposition offering to do this work for $1,000 was substituted and adopted in accordance with an ordinance, also passed, which provided for the manner in which the patients should be cared for and treated. Such persons going to the hospital must have an order from the city physician, mayor or city judge.

Residents of Belvidere and Leland avenues petitioned the Common Council for an extension of the sanitary sewer in that part of the city, and John Ross, owner of the building corner of North avenues, where a large plate glass was broken one Sunday some months ago, as he claims by a stone as the result of city employes working in the street nearby, asked the Common Council whether it proposed to settle for the damage. He desired this information before starting a suit through his counsel, Charles J. McNabb. The city previously denied being responsible for the break in the glass and so informed Mr. Ross. Both of these petitions were referred to the proper committees for further consideration.

Constable John Manley's bond was received, approved and filed, and the appointment by the Mayor of John W. Kelly as a regular patrolman was confirmed. Building Inspector Deane reported that during January nine building permits were granted.

Mr. Tolles, chairman of the finance committee, reported back several petitions asking for the cancelling and adjustments of taxes, but acting upon the advice of the corporation counsel, he moved that they be refused. Such petitions were received from Brooks Carson, Francis B. Thorn, Mrs. L. C. Hurtt and Alfred H. Lawton.

Mr. Higham, chairman of the committee on public affairs, presented a letter from Col. E. W. Hine, of the Public Service Corporation, in which his attention had been called to a violation in the ordinance under which trolley cars are operated. Blanchard Huntington Turner had complained that the conductors would not stop the cars at the corner of East Second street and Raymond avenue, and Mr. Hine replied that the violation would cease.

On a motion offered by Mr. Murphy lights were ordered placed at the corner of Dunellen and Compton avenues and at the corner of Hunter and Evans avenues.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for an appropriation not to exceed $100 to purchase a typewriter for the use of the city clerk's office. Another resolution by the same member, requested that Assemblyman E. S. Coyne arrange with Assembly Clerk D. H. McIntyre to have copies of all new bills sent to the city clerk's office as soon as passed, the expense for this work not to exceed $35. This resolution was also adopted.

Still another resolution by Mr. Tolles fixed the salary of Overseer of the Poor Ayers at $600 a year and those of the captains of the fire department at $840. The other salaries, except those of the assessors, which were previously fixed, will remain the same as last year. This resolution was adopted.

Mr. Tolles called up the ordinance providing for the appointment of sewer commissioners to assess benefits and damages and it was adopted. A resolution offered by Mr. Wilson and adopted, provided that all money in the hands of the city treasury, not to exceed $800 and which is not otherwise appropriated, be used for the work of removing snow from the streets.

Another resolution by Mr. Wilson authorized the street and sewer committee to make such repairs to streets and sewers which shall not exceed in expense the amount appropriated to it by the Common Council.

A petition from residents of McDowell and West Third streets asking for a hydrant there, was referred to the fire and buildings committee.

PARK AVE. WIDENING PETITION IN COUNCIL

Property Owners Ask That Width of Street From Second to Bridge Be Increased.

HEARING DAY IS SET

PUBLIC TO VOICE VIEWS ON SUBJECT ON MARCH 6.

Sycamore Street Between Fourth and Fifth Streets May Also be Widened—New Building Lines.

The Plainfield Trust Company, in view of its proposed action to erect a handsome new building at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, as well as Charles W. McCutchen and Boice, Runyon & Co., also interested propery-owners in that vicinity, petitioned the Common Council, last night, to take up the question of widening Park avenue from Second street to the railroad bridge, allowing an additional ten feet on the southwesterly side of the avenue. They asked that commissioners be appointed to assess benefits and damages and that the street and sidewalk be laid to proper grade. In doing this the petitioners stated that it was not their intention to waive their rights to receive benefits and they did not intend to donate land for the purpose without due compensation.

Later in the evening Mr. Wilson, chairman of the street committee, offered an ordinance effecting this petition, but as the request of the corporation counsel, it was referred back to the street committee after the first reading, that it may be corrected in a few particulars before final adoption. This ordinance also provides for the establishment of a building line.

In this connection Mr. Wilson offered several ordinances which will establish building lines on Watchung avenue, and West Second street, between Park avenue and Liberty street. Public hearings will be granted on these at the meeting to be held Monday night, March 6.

In the case of Watchung avenue from the railroad to East Sixth street and Crescent avenue, the side-line is established sixteen feet from the curb line, allowing a twelve foot sidewalk and in West Second street, between Park avenue and Madison avenue, the side-line is established 12.25 feet wide, and from Madison avenue to Liberty street, the side-line is established 13.75 feet from the curb line, allowing a width of 9.75 feet for the sidewalk.

Mr. Wilson also presented a map and an ordinance of providing for the widening of Sycamore street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, to a width of fifty feet, twenty-five each side the centre line of the street. The lands to be taken in making this improvement are owned by Elizabeth Chapin and Charles H. Hand. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised, and a public hearing will be granted on Monday night, March 6.

Another matter introduced by Mr. Wilson provided for the preparation of plans for installing additional sewage beds at the sewage farm, owing to the great number of connections being made to the system. He stated that the cost of preparing plans would not cost over $35.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING BEING AGITATED HERE

COUNCILMANIC COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER SUBJECT THURSDAY NIGHT.

Thomas Watson, city clerk of Passaic, in a communication, to the Common Council last night requested co-operation in securing favorable legislative action permitting cities in the State to establish municipal lighting plants and for the placing of electric light wires in conduits underground.

A resolution adopted by the Passaic Common Council and giving cities the right to issue bonds for this work, accompanied the communication, and an early reply was requested. The matter was referred to the committee on public affairs and the committee will hold a meeting Thursday night to discuss the question.

TESTING NEBRASKA LAWS

Validity of Decree Granted J. E. Codington, Questioned.

HE MARRIED AGAIN

Defendent in Proceedings Lived in This City at One Time—Case in Court Today.

A case involving the validity of the divorce laws of the State of Nebraska in this State is on the calendar of the February term of the Court of Chancery, which opened at the State House at Trenton today with twenty-six cases listed. The suit in question is that of Mrs. Emma F. Codington, formerly Miss Hopper, of Astoria, Long Island, against James E. Codington, of Warren Township, Somerset County, is of local interest.

After having been legally married in Astoria to Codington, the complainant alleges he went to Nebraska and secured a divorce by fraud. She asks to have the separation set aside and made of no effect. A long array of counsel has been retained on both sides, and from its bearing on the courts of two States it is expected to attract unusual interest.

The bill of complaint recites at length the history of the case, and it is alleged therein that Miss Hopper was married to Codington in Astoria, March 27, 1894. She claims that while her mother was informed of the marriage, the defendant insisted that it be kept from his parents. She says she trusted him implicity and agreed to the arrangement. After the marriage both parties continued to live at home as before, the complainant alleging that Codington insisted it should be so.

The wife claims there was never any disagreement, but that in September, 1902, Codington went to Nebraska, where he wrote to her, claiming he went there for his health. In 1903 he returned to this city, from where he wrote his wife, and later visited her at intervals.

The complainant alleges that some time after this she learned that her husband had married Lillian May Wyckoff, at Griggstown, Somerset County, December 30, 1903. She says that December 31, 1903, he wrote her this letter: "I have had a divorce from you for some time and refuse to have anything more to do with you whatever." Mrs. Codington avers that this was the first intimation she had that he had procured a divorce, or had thought of procuring one.

The allegations in the bill are that Codington filed in the office of the clerk of the District Court in the Fourth Judicial district of Nebraska, September 16, 1903, a petition for divorce, and secured a separation on the ground of desertion. The wife denies the desertion and claims the divorce was obtained by fraud.

The complainant alleges that one week previous to the filing of the petition for divorce Codington visited her, but made no mention of his intention to secure legal separation. The bill charges Codington with having under oath falsely, maliciously, wickedly and fraudulently alleged that for more than two years the complainant had deserted him.

Codington has filed a demurrer in which he claims that the complainant has not made out a case which entitles her to relief.

GARBAGE COLLECTION.

City to Ask Legislature for Needed Powers to Maintain the System.

Common Council at its meeting last night discussed the subject of municipal collection and disposal of garbage.

Mr. Higham stated that while the city now has the right to issue bonds for the establishment of such a plant, it has no right to raise money for the maintenance of it, and he offered a resolution which will be forwarded to the Assembly representative asking that legislative action be taken giving Plainfield this right. The resolution was adopted.

SUSPECT'S WIFE ENGAGES LAWYER

NIGGERS, NOT GENTLEMEN

So Prosecutor Griggs Stigmatizes Four Colored Prisoners.

NOW AWAIT SENTENCE

New Trials to be Asked for by the Defendants Counsel on Friday.

Convicted for the second time on a charge of assault with intent to kill, together with a third for simple assault, James Toms, Whit Tunstall, Lee Wells and Thomas Henderson will appear for sentence in the Somerset county court before Judge Sobenck, Friday. A long term of imprisonment stares Tunstall in the face while the others may get off with easier and varying terms through the recommendation of the juries for mercy in the two graver convictions.

The color line was so tightly drawn in the trial that because Mr. Swackhamer referred to the negroes as "the gentlemen charged with the crime" and designated them as "Mr. Tunstall, Mr. Toms, Mr. Hunt and Mr. Henderson," in pleading their case to the jury, he was rebuked by County Prosecutor James Griggs, who said to the jury: "They are not gentlemen. They are only four common Southern niggers, who brought their blood lust to the North with them and sought to kill four white men because they were courageous enough to stop their disorderly conduct on a public thoroughfare."

The return of the jury with a verdict yesterday afternoon, practically ended proceedings against the Plainfield colored men who attacked the North Plainfield policemen, Christmas eve, but there is a possibility that they may be commenced all over again. The negroes are represented individually by three local lawyers, Messrs. Swackhamer, DeMeza and Angleman, and it was said by all yesterday that application for a new trial would be made Friday on the ground that new evidence in favor of the prisoners had been secured. If Judge Sobenck deems it of enough importance and grants the request, the proceedings just ended will be set at naught; if not, sentence will be pronounced and they will begin their terms the following day.

45 OUT OF 4,100 VOTED HERE THIS MORNING

NO INTEREST BEING TAKEN IN ASSEMBLY ELECTION.

Up to the noon hour today there was a total of forty-five votes cast in the four wards at the special Assembly election. There is no interest in the matter and the various boards of election and registry are having a difficult job in passing the time to earn their money. The vote by district up to 12 o'clock was as follows:

First ward—First district, 14; Second district, 6

Second ward—First district, 6; Second district, 3

Third ward—First district, 7; Second district, 2

Fourth ward—First district, 2; Second district, 2; Third district, 3.

There are 1,400 voters in the city.

Mrs. Wood Has a Conference With George Bird Before Returning to New York.

SEEKING EXTRADITION

Man Believed to Have Murdered Williams Likely to be Brought to Somerville This Afternoon—Were Wood and "Mack" in Dunellen?

Discouraged but still confident that her husband, George H. Wood, was not the slayer of George Williams, the grocer, of Watchung, who was shot to death last Thursday, Mrs. Wood returned to her three babies in New York, last night after a journey to the scene of the murder to get evidence that would clear her husband.

Mrs. Wood, who is barely more than a girl, being only twenty-three, came out early yesterday. With her was Edmund L. Pollock, of No. 2343 Broadway, one of Wood's uncles and a son of Mrs. Pollock, to whose farm near Countown Williams was driving Wood when the grocer was killed.

When Mrs. Wood returned to the flat of her sister, Mrs. Bischoff, in West Twenty-seventh street, last night she was too disheartened to say much about what she had done during the day. She had gone to old Mrs. Pollock's farm and had visited her father, George E. Whitten, whose farm adjoins the Pollock place. She had driven over the same route followed by Grocer Williams. Mrs. Wood knows that section of the country, having been born and raised there, but nothing that would prove of benefit to her husband was discovered.

After her trip through the country Mrs. Wood and her uncle returned to this city and retained Lawyer George Bird to defend her husband. Only a few minutes before her arrival Mrs. George Williams, widow of the murdered man, had left the office of the same lawyer. Mrs. Williams had retained Mr. Bird to settle up the affairs of her husband's estate, but learning later that he was to be counsel for Wood, she rescinded her instructions and engaged Codington & Swackhamer to perfect her legal work.

Mrs. Wood told Lawyer Bird everything that she knew about her husband's movements last week. After her departure Mr. Bird said he was far from convinced that Wood had committed the murder. He could assign no motive whatever for the crime.

He said that the theory had been advanced that Williams's death was purely accidental, but would not admit that this would be the defense offered.

Mrs. Wood told the lawyer that her husband had had no quarrel with her father. Neither the Pollocks nor the Whittens are well to do, and the idea that Wood had started out with the intention of robbing either of them is absurd, in the opinion of the lawyer.

Lawyer Bird sent word to Wood by Mrs. Wood to agree to extradition. Mrs. Wood went to the Tombs this morning to see her husband and give him Lawyer Bird's message. Wood may leave for Jersey this afternoon.

He was arraigned in the Tombs Court yesterday, and at the request of the police was remanded for thirty days to await the arrival of extradition papers.

A sensational report that Wood was trying to starve himself was emphatically denied by the Tombs officials. They said that he was eating the prison fare with relish.

Coroner Howard Toms has notified the members of the jury which he empanelled last Friday, to assemble at Mani's Hotel at Watchung, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock when the formal inquest will be held and place the responsibility for the death of Williams if possible. Many of the witnesses who have evidence to offer will be in attendance.

In searching for evidence to establish Wood's movements in this city, Chief Kiely has learned that he might have been in Dunellen on Thursday afternoon at 4:30, though he does not place much credence in the story. His informants are Thomas Kelley and James Brennan, who assert they met two men in Maier's saloon, Dunellen, on the afternoon of the murder. One of them answers the descriptions of Counsel Contradicts Report.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The article in your issue of Saturday stating that Mrs. Goggin won her suit against J. Fred MacDonald, the assignee of James F. Daly, is not true. Vice Chancellor Stevens, who tried the case, filed his opinion two months ago, and subsequent proceedings were merely to carry that opinion into effect. The case was correctly reported in your paper at the time. Mrs. Goggin, through her solicitors, Codington & Swackhamer, claimed that two mortgages which she held were a first line on all the estate assigned by Mr. Daly to Mr. MacDonald. This claim was resisted by the assignee, and Vice Chancellor Stevens sustained the assignee with the exception of about $300 worth of the estate which formerly belonged to Hirst & Henderson, which concern owed Mrs. Goggin some money. The balance of the estate of about $1,500, the court said, was rightfully held by the assignee and was to be distributed to the general creditors. The mere finding that Mr. Daly owed Mrs. Goggin some $2,000 did not affect the claim of the assignee that the goods in his possession belonged to the general creditors. As Mrs. Goggin can only get about $300 of the $2,000, by virtue of her suit, instead of the entire estate, as she claimed, it would appear to a schoolboy that she is in the hole to the tune of about $1,700. And she is in this hole because a chattel mortgage was not recorded, for nearly six months after its execution.

After the vice chancellor had rendered his opinion, Mrs. Goggin's solicitors tried to get in out of the wet by filing her claim as a general creditor with the assignee. This fact of itself shows that she did not win her suit as a preferred creditor.

It is quite clear where the misleading information came from which led to the publication of the article, and it is perhaps to be regretted that lawyers who can not win their cases in court should not be allowed to win them in the newspapers. Your informants, however, failed to state that Senator Reed tried the case and made the argument for Mrs. Goggin's solicitors, and if there were a great big half-column victory, he should not be omitted when the "congratulations" (God save the mark!) are being passed around. W. S. Angleman.

AMUSEMENTS.

Robert Edeson has scored a popular success of unusual dimensions in William C. DeMille's comedy drama, "Strongheart" at the Hudson Theatre. The popular enthusiasm has been more than equalled by the critical approval bestowed upon star, play and production. "The best piece of acting that Mr. Edeson has ever given—'Strongheart' a real romance," is the praise bestowed by the Evening Sun. "No warmer greeting was ever given a new drama—'Strongheart,' the most attractive hero in town—Mr. Edeson made a distinct and the play scored," is the enthusiasm of the Evening Telegram.

William Barress, who, as Dr. Popoff, in "It Happened in Nordland," at the Lew Field Theatre, New York, is supposedly very deaf, says to Mr. Field: "So! You can't convict me, because I don't know what you say!" Lew Fields replies: "Of course not! You are too deaf!" Barress says: "Can't you send a deaf man to prison?" Fields says: "No. It is against the law to convict a man without a hearing." The other night they got the conversation twisted. Barress said: "A hearing is against the law, isn't it?" Fields replied, impromptu: "A hearing is usually a very long brief, which nobody hears and nobody reads. Brief is the legal name for something which is so long and gets so tired that you can't get it or the judge awake with an alarm clock." Former Judge Alton B. Parker, who occupied one of the boxes with Simeon B. Baldwin, of the Supreme Court of Errors of Connecticut, admitted afterward that Mr. Fields' definition was very accurate.

A Beautiful Memorial.

The great St. Louis Exposition of 1904, unrivalled as the greatest of all the world's fairs, is now a scene of desolation. Fortunately, the beauties of its magnificent architecture and fairy-like palaces are preserved in a series of thirty artistic portfolios, containing several hundred views of the buildings and scenes at the Fair, from photographs taken especially for the work by the official photographer of the Exposition, and constituting a permanent memorial of its vanished grandeur. They were designed to sell at $7 50, but the New York World has made special arrangements to furnish a limited number of sets at cost—$3 for the set of thirty. Address The World, P. O. Box 1780, New York.

ASSASSIN'S WORK

Russian Procurator of Finland Shot at Helsingfors.

MOTIVE WAS PURELY POLITICAL

Murderer Wounded by Official's Son and Captured.

DISGUISED IN OFFICER'S UNIFORM

Terrorists Continue Work of Slaughter, Deed Being Sequel to Killing of Plehve—Prisoner, Whose Identity Is Unknown, Wounded Young Soininen In Endeavor to Escape. Nobles Ask For Legislature.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 7.—A Helsingfors (Finland) dispatch says that Soisalon Soininen, procurator general of Finland, who before he was ennobled was known by the name of Johnsson, was assassinated there by a young man whose identity up to the present time has not been determined. The assassin and Soininen's son were both wounded in a revolver duel following the killing. The motive of the crime apparently was purely political, the slain official being a prominent member of the government party.

The murderer appeared at the procurator's residence at 11 o'clock and sent in a card bearing in French the name of Alexandre Gadd, who is in the Russian service. The young man, who was smartly dressed in an officer's uniform, was promptly admitted to the official's private study and on his entrance fired four shots from a revolver, one of the bullets piercing the breast of the procurator, who expired almost immediately. His seventeen-year-old son, hearing the shots, rushed in from an adjoining room and fired three or four shots at his father's assailant, whose right leg was broken below the knee by a bullet. He was also slightly wounded in the shoulder, and a finger of his left hand was struck. The assassin fired the one bullet remaining in his revolver at Soiningen's son, wounding him slightly in the calf of his right leg. He then endeavored to escape, but fell unconscious to the floor in the anteroom. There he was seized. Dr. Wasastjerna was called immediately, but found the procurator beyond need of his services. The assassin was removed to the Surgical hospital, where he lies guarded by police, answering no questions and evidently unconscious. His recovery, however, is thought to be certain. Up to the present the authorities have been unable to identify him. He is of dark complexion and apparently between twenty-five and thirty years of age.

Soiningen was born in 1856, was highly esteemed and had held various government appointments. He was appointed procurator of the senate in 1901 and in the same year was made procurator general of the duchy of Finland. He was regarded as a wise and patriotic official. It is understood that it was at his initiative that the Finns exiled by Governor General Bobrikoff were allowed to return to Finland.

The news of the assassination of Soisalon Soininen, procurator general of Finland, has produced an immense sensation here, as it is regarded as the precursor of an era of terrorism for which the events of January in St. Petersburg and throughout Russia gave the signal. Until the identity of the assassin is definitely known it will be impossible, of course, to establish with perfect positiveness the motive of the attempt, but it seems to be purely political. As procurator general he was the adviser of the Finnish senate, which incurred the enmity of the anti-Russian parties on account of its alleged subserviency to the process of Russification, and Soininen undoubtedly was selected as the representative and responsible victim.

An official statement says that the assembly of the nobles of St. Petersburg have adopted an address to Emperor Nicholas congratulating him on the birth of the heir to the throne and assuring him of the confidence of the nation. The address asserts that the union between the autocratic monarchy and his devoted nation is unshaken by recent events at home and abroad, points out that officials and statesmen cannot solve all questions and begs his majesty to permit of representatives of the whole people participating in the discussion and legislation on government measures and says:

"We have met in troublous times. Foes are attacking us, their aim being to bring Russia to a shameful peace, wring from her distant territories and bring to naught the system of government which has been sanctioned by centuries. A way out of the difficulties must be found. We realize that every word addressed by your majesty in this painful hour is weighted with grave responsibility. We all are witnesses to your majesty's efforts to secure the welfare of Russia. The decree of Dec. 25 revived the hopes of your subjects, who saw therein the true salvation of the fatherland. This is not the first time dark clouds have lowered over Russia, but despite former efforts to shake the basis of the government the country became stronger and advanced proudly and puissantly along the path of progress. From union between an autocratic monarch and a devoted nation Russia has ever derived a strength which neither the foreign foe nor trouble at home could exhaust.

"The nobility of St. Petersburg are convinced that this union is unshaken and must prevail. With the aid of God our valiant troops, who are not sparing their lives for the emperor and the fatherland, will crown the Russian arms with fresh glory, and troubles at home will cease.

"The whole nation awaits with eagerness the fulfillment of the imperial will, but officials and statesmen, of whatever qualities and zeal, cannot solve all the questions of the nation's life. Your forefathers hearkened to the voice of Russians elected by the nation, and this custom, so far from weakening, strengthened the autocracy and aided it to attain its present greatness.

"Order now that elected representatives of the country may raise their voices to the throne and participate, in accordance with your sovereign direction, in legislation and discussion of governmental measures. The nobles of St. Petersburg sincerely believe that, provided union of the throne and nation is supported by confidence on the part of the emperor, internal troubles will vanish and that all Russia will rise and serve the sovereign faithfully, for the salvation and glory of the country and the confusion of its enemies."

The address was adopted by a vote of 158 to 20.

A state of siege has been declared at Sosnovice, General Jedczynski taking command. The superintendent of police has been dismissed from office. Gatherings of as many as three persons on the streets are forbidden. The military are using their arms upon the slightest disobedience of orders. Tearing down placards announcing the state of siege is punished with ten days' imprisonment. Serious collisions are expected. The strikers have abundant supplies of dynamite and hand bombs. The exodus to Germany by rail is very heavy. Germans arriving at Sosnovice are advised by the authorities to remain at the railway station for safety.

A procession of strikers at Sosnovice, estimated at 40,000 persons, contained a number of German mining officials whom the strikers had captured and compelled to march in their ranks.

A Mukden dispatch says that Lieutenant General Gripenberg, former commander of the Second Manchurian army, has left Mukden for St. Petersburg owing to friction with General Kuropatkin.

The following telegram was addressed to Russian military headquarters by General Gripenberg after the battle of Heikoutai: "We had taken several fortified positions, but, not being supported in time, had to retire. During the retreat I lost 10,000 men."

War Helps Koreans.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The state department is in receipt of a long and interesting report on the commerce and industries of Korea and the effect of the war on the trade of Korea by Gordon Paddock, the American consul general at Seoul, Korea. Mr. Paddock says there being a large number of troops to be fed and large railway and other undertakings being pushed forward in Korea there has been much money distributed throughout the country and that the Korean laborer often has more ready money than it ever was his lot to enjoy.

Gold Was Substantial Evidence.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—Substantial evidence of police corruption was shown here when the foreman of a grand jury deposited $1,350 in gold on the desk of Presiding Judge Lawlor of the superior court and reported the work of the police committee of the grand jury. A police sergeant, it was alleged, had received the $1,350 from Chan Chung, a Chinese now under indictment, as a bribe to guarantee Chinese against arrest. The sergeant in charge of the officers detailed to the Chinese quarter was regularly paid from $250 to $400 a month to let gamblers alone, while the members of his squad got from $30 to $40 a month each.

McClellan and Von Steuben Statues.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The commissions charged with the erection of statues in this city to General McClellan, of civil war fame, and Baron von Steuben, the revolutionary hero, met here. The McClellan statue is to be erected in the reservation at the intersection of Connecticut avenue and N street. The commission has accepted the design submitted by Mr. Frederick MacMonnies. The Von Steuben is to be erected at the northwest corner of Lafayette park, opposite the White House.

Watchung Suspect Identified.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—George H. Wood, a Harlem iron worker who is held on suspicion of having murdered George Williams, the grocer of Watchung, N. J., in his sleigh last Thursday, has been remanded to the Tombs. Charles Frone and William Demler, two clerks in Williams' store, identified him as the man who engaged Williams to drive him to Warrenville.

Hardwick School and Library Burned

HARDWICK, Mass., Feb. 7.—The High school building, in which was also located the Hardwick Free library, was burned, with its contents, last night. The loss, including $7,000 worth of library books, was $20,000. The fire started from the furnace and was fought by a bucket brigade, the town's only protection from fire.

Three Hundred Rescued at Stryker

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 7.—Three hundred school children had a narrow escape when the school building at Stryker, O., was burned. The fire started in the basement and had spread to the halls before the alarm was given. All the children were rescued through the windows.

HARBORS ALL CLOSED

Navigation Stopped by Ice on New England Coast.

LIGHTSHIP ASHORE AT NANTUCKET

Sixty Years Since Buzzards Bay Has Been Thus Frozen In—Maine Ports Blockaded—Ohio River Traffic Held Up.

BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Nearly all of the smaller ports on the New England coast between Passamaquoddy and Narragansett bays are closed tightly with ice, while the larger harbors, including Boston, Portsmouth, N. H.; Portland, Me., and Providence, R. I., are filled with huge floating cakes that impeded and endangered navigation.

The southern storm and rising temperature that prevailed during the day caused a temporary lifting of the ice embargo at a few of the blockaded ports, but last night the wind changed to the northwest, a cold wave approached and it was expected that today would bring about conditions even worse than those that have existed for the past three days.

A notable feature of the ice blockade was the experience of the government lightship No. 66 in attempting to force a passage from New Bedford to her station on Nantucket shoals. The vessel stuck fast in the ice and was forced ashore near Dumpling rocks, in Buzzards bay. An attempt is being made to float and free her.

Not for nearly sixty years have such conditions been known in Buzzards bay, which is frozen from side to side and almost the entire distance from New Bedford to the Elizabeth islands.

At Nantucket the residents of the island believed when the temperature rose that the end of their isolation was at hand, but last night the temperature fell and the blockade was strengthened.

Part of the ice in Vineyard Haven harbor has moved out, carrying with it two schooners and eight barges. The schooners were forced ashore, but the tugs rescued the barges.

Navigation in Boston harbor is impeded by floating ice, though the conditions here are less serious than elsewhere.

Practically all the Maine ports east of Portland are icebound, and shipping is at a standstill.

The weather indications last night were not favorable for an early lifting of the embargo.

The Ohio river is icebound from Pittsburg to its mouth. In Louisville dynamite was used to break a gorge which threatened damage to many boats. There is no prospect of a resumption of river traffic for some time to come.

Many newspapers have appeared in the smaller cities without a line of telegraphic news. News destined to a paper in Sumter, S. C., was taken from a leased wire system at Mobile and reached its destination after a journey from Mobile to Flomaton, Ala., to River Junction, Fla., to Jacksonville and thence to Charleston and Columbia.

A conservative estimate from Chattanooga places the property loss from the freeze in the fruit belt at $100,000. The effect on full grown peach trees and the 1905 yield has not yet been determined.

Doctor Lost All Night In Storm.

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 7.—Dr. Elijah Catten, a prominent physician of New York, is at the home of Joseph Wood, at Blackwood, near here, with both hands and feet so badly frozen that it may be necessary to amputate them. Dr. Catten was visiting friends at Mount Ephraim, and while going to the railroad station he lost his way in the snow. He spent the entire night in the storm and when discovered by Mr. Wood he was suffering severely from exposure. His condition is said to be serious. Dr. Catten is a member of the Yale club and other organizations in New York.

Pennypacker Besieged For Pardon.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 7.—Governor Pennypacker received a large number of letters and telegrams from people who want him to prevent the execution of Mrs. Kate Edwards on Feb. 16 for the murder of her husband. The governor will not take any action unless the board of pardons, which meets on Feb. 15, shall recommend a commutation of the death sentence, and he has not intimated that he will do anything even under such a recommendation.

Kaual Island Postmaster Held.

HONOLULU, Feb. 7.—Manuel Rego, postmaster of Koloa, island of Kauai, has been arrested charged with the embezzlement of $27,077 of money order funds. He was brought before United States Commissioner Judge and committed for trial. To Postoffice Inspector Hare Rego is alleged to have admitted that he had taken the money for use in a private business enterprise.

Millionaire Leather Man Dead.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 7.—James K. Mosser, a millionaire leather merchant, the largest owner of tanneries in Pennsylvania and a member of the firm of Keck, Mosser & Co., with offices in New York and Boston, died here last night, aged seventy-five years. He was a presidential elector on the Republican ticket in 1892.

Steamer Admiral Sampson Ashore.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7. — The steamer Admiral Sampson, belonging to the United Fruit company and plying between this city and Port Antonio, is ashore on the lower end of Pea Patch shoals. Tugs have gone to her assistance. The Admiral Sampson is laden with fruit and carries several passengers.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 7, 1905.

Its effort to stir up some interest in a plan to build a reformatory for women in this State is very kind of The New York World, but why should it not get nearer to home and quicken the agitations for much needed reforms in the Metropolis?

C. E.'S ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED AT TRINITY

REV. A. E. FINN MAKES ADDRESS AT THE CELEBRATION.

In commemoration of the twenty-fourth anniversary of the birth of the Christian Endeavor movement, a service was held by the society of Trinity Reformed church last night, the special topic of the meeting being: "What We Owe to Christian Endeavor," and the speaker was Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Following the usual devotional service, Rev. Mr. Finn was introduced and spoke in part as follows: "It would be difficult for me in a limited time to answer the question which is embodied in the weekly topic. We owe so much to the Christian Endeavor that it is impossible for me to attempt to relate everything in a few words. The one phase which I will refer to, however, is this: That young people owe to the Christian Endeavor the discouragement of worldly wisdom and counsel, and the encouragement to accept the wisdom and counsel of Jesus Christ.

"To follow worldly counsel is to follow the path of least resistance, and of agreeable silence, to drift, and to practice selfishness; while to follow the counsel and wisdom of Christ is to choose the path of expression, and confession, to endure, and to strive for the standard of self-sacrifice which Christ gave to us. The first point embodies a conflict between the policy of silence and the policy of expression.

"It was Christ's own practice to follow the policy of expression, and when he said 'Ye are my witnesses,' he meant us, not to keep silent, not to lose sight of the truth by withholding it, but to confes to all men, to practice the policy of expression.

"Between the policy of drifting and the policy of endurance, there is a vast difference. One is easy, the natural worldly force; the other is the hard road, strewn with obstacles; yet, as the Savior said, 'He that endureth unto the end, shall be saved.' Finally the policy of selfishness, toward which the wisdom and counsel of the world tends, is opposed to the policy of self-sacrifice. In this respect also the easier course is the former, and the one broadly accepted by the world. The world's conception of self-sacrifice is not Christ's conception. Let us then follow the example of self-sacrifice given to us by the remembrance of Calvary, and pattern our lives after the greatest of sacrifices.

"It is then to the Christian Endeavor Society that our gratitude turns on account of the fact that it directs us aright in these conflicting paths of life. It points out in its very pledge the way we should go, directing us to choose the wisdom and counsel of Christ, rather than the wisdom and counsel of the world. It encourages expression of thought, it calls for the greatest endurance, and it demands self-sacrifice and unselfishness."

Among other features of the anniversary service were duets by Miss Florence Bennett and cornet solos by E. D. Young.

—Mrs. Cornelius B. TenEyck moved yesterday from Norwood avenue to East Fifth street, where she will live with her son, Alvah TenEyck.

—Alfred W. Dunavan, of L. W. Randolph's pharmacy on West Front street, has received word that he successfully passed his examination before the State Board of Pharmacy at Trenton as an assistant druggist. Mr. Dunavan has been with Mr. Randolph for several years and by close application to his duties has become a valuable assistant.

ANNUAL MEETING OF P. C. C.

Session Tonight to Elect Trustees and Committee.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

List of Winners of Events for Last Season—Membership is Now 652.

The Plainfield Country Club will meet tonight in annual session at the Casino on West Seventh street and elect as trustees Elliot T. Barrows, Leighton Calkins and Julius E. Erickson. A nominating committee for 1906 will also be elected, made up of S. St. John McCutchen, Townsend Rushmore and J. Whitney Baker. The organization changed its name on January 1 from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club and it is one of the most prosperous about New York, with an active membership of 352 and a total membership of 652. In the report to be presented at the annual meeting, President George P. Mellick will have this to say on the club's golfing:

"During the past year the interest in golf has been steadily on the increase. There have been more competitions of various kinds among club members than ever before. The year also marks the adoption at our club of a scientific system of handicapping, complete in every detail, based on the theory that the scratch man should have as good a chance as the man with a high handicap. The success of the system, tested by an entire season's play, is shown by the prominence of the scratch men in all handicap events. Players failing to return cards have been penalized, under carefully considered rules, and the committee has thus been able to secure more information than ever before as to the playing form of members, all results being tabulated by a card index. This system has attracted attention at other clubs, the problem of handicapping having been for many years one of considerable difficulty wherever golf is played.

"On account of the new automobile approach and plaza, together with the development of the park features connected, the green committee has had an unusual amount of work outside of the course proper. Several of the improvements started last season are now nearing completion and when in playing condition will add very much to the course, notably the filling in of the pools and swamps on the line of the second and fourth holes. These, together with the changes in some of the tees, will add about 200 yards to the playing length of the course."

The competitive record of last season was 70, made by Robert Abbott. The following were winners of events: Club championship, W. L. Glenney; runner up cup, Leighton Calkins; second eight cup, R. F. Murray; third eight cup, E. B. Shoemaker; golf committee cup, W. L. Glenney; Green committee tankard, Dr. G. W. Endicott; Holiday cup, H. C. Munger; handicap cup, Arthur Murphy; women's handicap cup, Miss Margaret Goddard; Gilbert cup, Miss Maude VanBoskerck; kickers' handicap, H. K. Stockton; Gaston cup, Harold Robert; Independence Day cup, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges.

CLOSED PORTALS.

The Daughters of Rebekah, of Friendship Lodge, No. 4, I. O. O. F. will hold a sociable at Mrs. Ford's home, 223 East Fourth street, near Watchung avenue.

Miantonomo Tribe, I. O. R. M., at its regular meeting Friday night, received two propositions and discussed plans for the conferring of the adoption and warrior degree in elaborate form, which will take place at the local lodge on Friday night, February 17. Local candidates and a class from Cranford will be adopted at the meeting. The good and welfare committee has been instructed to provide for an entertainment and collation.

Extensive preparations are being made for the meeting of the great council of New Jersey Improved Order of Red Men, which begins in Trenton Thursday, February 23. There will be changes in the constitution and much other important business to be transacted. Judge Frederick Rees, great sachem of New Jersey, will be made great prophet. Herbert Stetser, of Gloucester, will be advanced to great sachem. There will be several representatives chosen to the great council of the United States. Judge Rees will be one of the representatives and James H. Tindall may be also elected. The report of membership, which will be made to the council, shows a great increase. There are now over 25,000 Red Men in the State, a gain of over 2,500 during the year. All the tribes will be reported as being in a flourishing condition.

Voice Culture.

Paul F. Handel, tenor, will be in Plainfield Monday and Thursday afternoons of each week, and will receive pupils in the study of pure tone production. Studio, 515 Madison avenue. 2 7 2

WIFE ENGAGES LAWYER

Wood and the fellow addressed the other as "Mack." They were going to Trenton, they said, and "Mack" offered his companion a job at some erecting work, possibly telephone poles. Wood claimed to have left New York in company with a man named Mack and that it was their intention to go to Scarsdale, Pa., where Mack was to secure a loan of $1,000 for Wood. The New York and the local police regard "Mack" as a myth as no trace of him can be found. Kelley and Brennan may have seen two such individuals as they describe but it is hardly possible as there is no doubt but what the murderer went to Millington and escaped to New York from there.

—William Flanders, of West Seventh street, has secured a position at the Plainfield Trust Company.

—Charles McCann, formerly connected with the local telephone office, but now with the telephone company at Mt. Holly, spent Sunday in town with relatives and friends.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of the Presbyterian church, will hold a valentine social at the church on Thursday evening. The affair will be the first of its kind which the society has conducted for a long time. Games appropriate to the occasion will be played and an interesting programme has been arranged. The social is in charge of Miss Emma Craig, who is chairman of the entertainment committee for the occasion.

The bad walking which has followed in the wake of the blizzard, has made itself felt upon the school attendance almost as much as the blizzard itself. Parents are scrupulous over letting their children go out in the wet streets, and the school work is therefore losing steadily in time. It is hoped that it will be made up with as little difficulty as possible.

The erection of a modern apartment, including room for flats and two stores, has been considered as a profitable investment for the property on North avenue, owned by George Kuldeshes. He has expressed his intention of building a three story stone apartment, to accommodate two stores and four families. No definite action will be taken until spring.

The monthly business meeting of the Epworth League, of the M. E. church, will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. Albert Apgar. The usual business of the month will be transacted, and a social time will be enjoyed. Selections will be read by the mission class, which will be of interest to the members of the society.

The new heating aparatus in the chapel of the Presbyterian church was not put in any too soon. The severe weather of late has made it necessary to have all the heat that is possible, and the new furnace is a great improvement on the steve. The work of putting in the heater was completed last week.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Afternoon Card Club, which will be held today will meet at the home of Mrs Charles Day, of New Market. The usual features will characterize the meeting of the club.

An entertainment will be given on Friday night by the members of Thomas Bodine's Sunday-school class. It will be held at the church parlors and promises to be a delightful social occasion.

Two sleigh rides, which were planned by the young people of the borough for last night, had to be postponed much to the disgust of the pleasure seekers, on account of the weather.

Miss Edith, of Haddonfield, has returned to her home after a visit with Rev. W. W. Casselberry, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Miss Amy Sampson, of the Trenton Normal School, has returned to her duties after a visit with her parents.

Among those who are confined to their homes by illness are A. A. Lake and Rev. Frank Fletcher.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Newark Poultry Show, which was the attraction for many of the local breeders of fancy chickens last week, came to a close Saturday. The local entries all came out with ribbons. Gray Brotheres, who have taken seventeen prizes during the past summer and fall at poultry shows, took first prize, (the blue ribbon) for their entries of cochin banty hens, also first in the cochin banty cochrel class. Benjamin Elliot, another breeder of fancy stock, took a number of prizes, his entry in the puff Orpington pullet class winning the blue ribbon against some of the largest breeders in the country, winning out over the first prize winner in this class at the last Madison Square Poultry Show. Elliot also brought back a blue ribbon in his entry among the game stock, won two third prizes, one with his Braham hen entry and another in the Manocha hen class. Thomas S. Whitenack, who entered his spangle orpington, brought back a second prize. Louis Burgmiller also won second prize in the Plymouth Rock class.

One of our regular Sunday visitors in town, who had spent his last nickel in the noble work of "putting down rum," was obliged to return home afoot Sunday afternoon. While staggering along the trolley line near Leland avenue one of the Trenton expresses narrowly escaped putting an end to the "regular's" career, the fender only missing the man by a narrow margin.

Votes at the special election being held today are being cast slowly and from present indications will hardly be larger than the vote on the amendment to the Constitution held several years ago. At that time less than thirty votes were cast.

The Township Committee has finished the work on the annual township report. The report will be ready for distribution among the taxpayers before February 20, the time set by law for the completion of the annual report.

Scotch Plains had to come in somewhere on the Williams murder mystery, so lay claim to having had the suspected murderer as a fellow resident several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stilger and children, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with Mr. Stilger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stilliger, of East Front street.

The Suburban Club's annual dance and reception, which will be held tonight in the club's hall, promises to be one of the largest the club has yet held.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Liable, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyers, have returned to their home in New York.

The break in the weather will make a grand harvest for the local blacksmiths when it freezes.

Rev. G. M. Shott has returned from a stay with out-of-town friends.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Andrew Andre, who has been in charge of the poultry business for Rufus Delafield for some years, has resigned his position. Elias Bailey will remain in the employ of Mr. Delafield the coming season, and will also till the farm which he recently purchased of the Elliott estate.

Wires of the telephone and telegraph lines in this neighborhood were heavily coated with ice all yesterday but no breaks in the lines were noticed.

A large gang of men were employed yesterday at the D. V. station clearing away the ice and snow.

Eddie Horne, who has been confined at home six weeks on account of scarlet fever, is out again.

Mrs. Charles H. Brantingham is spending a few days visiting friends in New Brunswick.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—VanArdsale's annual shoe sale begins tomorrow. Read today's ad.

—William H. Gourley, when he completes the defense of suits against the trolley company tried at the present term of court, and other legal business of the Public Service Corporation, will sever his connection with that company and will ally himself to the New York and North Jersey Rapid Transit Company, being interested in that new concern. Mr. Gourley has tendered his resignation to the Public Service, and it has been accepted with much reluctance.

—There are not many adult companies in this country that give a performance of an opera such as is given by the New York Juvenile Opera Company, nor can it be said that Plainfield is likely in the next decade to hear Gilbert & Sullivan's delightful fairy opera, "Iolanthe" again if it does not go to hear the wonderful troupe of juvenile prodigies, who appear at the Casino Monday, Feb. 13, Lincoln's Birthday, matinee and night. There will be no less than fifty children in the company and they give the beautiful Gilbert and Sullivan opera with a cast composed entirely of girls; even the comedy role, "The Lord Chancellor," is played by a girl, and what a clever girl she is. Reserved seats on sale at Armstrong's.

For Tired, Aching Feet, use Randolph's Foot Powder.

"Everyone knows where his own shoes pinch," but he doesn't always discover it until he buys and wears them—yes, there's the rub which mean's discomfort and annoyance.

But remember you can have comfortable feet if you use Randolph's Foot Powder. It's a positive cure and preventive for tired, aching, swollen or perspiring feet, giving quick relief to the pain of corns, bunions, blisters, callous or sore spots. Shake the powder in each shoe. MET PROBATIONERS.

Captain Irving Pleased With Conduct of Eight of Mrs. Williamson's Charges.

Captain C. W. Irving, of Elizabeth, who is the assistant to Mrs. Williams, the county probation officer, called at police headquarters, yesterday afternoon, and there met eight Plainfield probationers. They had been summoned by Chief Kiely who furnished a complete account of their movements as is required by the terms of their release. Captain Irving was satisfied with the conduct of all and gave them a few words of encouragement.

There are 290 probationers in Union county and all are looked after by Mrs. Williams and her assistants. Those who prove themselves unworthy of probation are sent to the Rahway reformatory where two Plainfield young men are now confined.

REBELS DRIVEN OUT

The National Bank of Buenos Ayres Sacked.

LEADERS FLED TO THE MOUNTAINS

Senator Yofre and Others Held by Revolutionists In Hope That Their Lives Will Be Spared by President Quintana.

BUENOS AYRES, Feb. 7.—Government troops attacked the rebels, who had fortified themselves at Mendoza, at dawn yesterday. Soon afterward the rebel leaders and officers fled to the mountains, whereupon the men surrendered unconditionally. The rebels had sacked the local branch of the National bank of Buenos Ayres and seized $300,000. Numerous arrests have been made, and the city is now quiet.

Late information shows that the insurrectionary movement is now restricted to Cordoba. Generals Winter, Benavides, Garcia and Roca, with largely superior forces, are surrounding the city.

The rebels are holding Senator Yofre.

The Buenos Ayres police have seized a quantity of guns and revolvers and also many copies of manifestos and revolutionary documents.

Night trains on the line between Buenos Ayres and Rosario will be resumed today.

All the bankers here condemn the attempted revolution and express the hope that the energetic policy of President Quintana will have the effect of preventing any such attempt in the future.

The only group of rebels in the province of Buenos Ayres, 170 men strong, has been defeated near Pirovano Station. Two officers and 7 men were killed, and 121 surrendered. The rest, with Commandant Villamayor, are retreating, and government troops are in pursuit.

The military rebels at Cordoba endeavored to make terms with the government by offering to surrender if they were absolved and permitted to retain their rank, threatening that if these conditions were refused they would hold as hostages Dr. Alcorta, the vice president of the republic, and other notable persons surprised and captured in that city on Saturday. President Quintana declined to listen to any compromise, adding that rebels had no rights as combatants and would be amenable to military law.

IN THE SENATE.

Debate on States Bill and Swayne Impeachment Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The long drawn out general debate on the bill creating two states out of the territories of Oklahoma and Indian Territory and New Mexico and Arizona was concluded with a speech by Mr. Beveridge, which consumed the greater part of the day's session. He reviewed the principal arguments in opposition to the bill, giving special attention to the proposition to unite Arizona and New Mexico. He spoke for almost three hours and closed amid a cordial burst of applause from the galleries.

Previous to Mr. Beveridge's speech Mr. Foraker spoke in support of his amendment to eliminate Arizona and New Mexico from the proposition.

The only other important business of the day was the receipt through the house managers of the house's replication to Judge Swayne's answer in the impeachment trial.

Youthful Holdup Bandit Guilty.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—"I'm guilty," said "Sandrock" Smith, the youthful bandit, when arraigned in Jefferson Market police court. "They've got me with the goods on, and there is no use in making a holler. It was a snap while it lasted, and if I hadn't been so gabby I could be doing it yet." Nearly all of the holdup youth's victims were in court. Ernest G. W. Woerz, the brewer; his daughter and his niece, Miss Hoffman; E. L. Shipman and his daughter, Eva; Dr. R. L. Talbot and the negro butler of the Delta Phi club, all of whom have had the experience of looking into the muzzle of a revolver held in the right hand of "Sandrock." They gazed curiously at the grinning youth standing in the dock and confessing to the enjoyment he gained by terrorizing them.

Founder of Bramwell, Va., Dead.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Joseph Bramwell, who is said to have amassed a fortune in the cotton trade by running the blockade of southern ports during the civil war, is dead at his home in Flushing, N. Y., aged eighty-nine years. Mr. Bramwell founded the town of Bramwell, W. Va., where he owned the bank and important mining industries. During the war he lost many ships in endeavoring to bring cotton through the blockade of southern cities and was once captured by Mosby, the famous guerrilla, but escaped by payment of a ransom of $30,000.

War on Subway Signs In New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Justice Davis in the supreme court has issued two temporary injunctions restraining the city from removing the advertising signs, slot machines and newspaper stands from the subway stations. The city authorities notified the officials of the Interborough company on Saturday that they must remove all signs from the subway or that they would be removed by force.

FREIGHT RATES DEBATE.

Member From Alabama Wants Railways to Join With Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Following weeks of hearings and consideration by the committee on interstate and foreign commerce as well as urgent recommendations of the president on the subject the house of representatives began debating the proposed legislation looking to the regulation of railway freight rates. This action was taken only after opposition by the Democrats, led by John Sharp Williams (Miss.), the minority leader, to the adoption of a rule which would shut out opportunity to amend the bill.

Mr. Richardson (Ala.) said the demand for legislation to regulate freight rates had come in such an earnest way that congress could not for a moment disregard it, but he counseled against engaging in hasty or hostile legislation. He was particularly antagonistic to a special court to pass upon rates, maintaining that it was a departure from the judicial system of the government.

President Roosevelt, he said, was a practical, straightforward man, who in a recent speech in Philadelphia had stated that this republic should not fail for the same causes that governments and republics of history had failed. The president, he declared, did not give that admonition idly. It behooved the railroads, he said, to come in and join hands with congress in the matter and prevent even the probability of a calamity to this government.

The river and harbor appropriation bill was reported before the house adjourned.

IN A FOUNTAIN PEN.

Hoch Had White Powder Where Ink Should Be—More Wives Found.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—When Johann Hoch was arraigned in court in the expectation that he would be turned over to officers from Chicago it was found that the extradition papers had not arrived, and he was remanded to police headquarters.

Detective Foye explained that the papers were in Albany awaiting the signature of Governor Higgins, but that he had left for New York without signing them. It is expected that the papers will be received tomorrow and that the prisoner will probably start for Chicago on that day.

Additional charges are made against Hoch of having married three women in New York. It was also learned that in the search of the room occupied by Hoch when he was arrested there was found a stylographic pen, the reservoir of which was filled with a white powder, believed to be poison. The pen, with the rest of Hoch's effects, were turned over to Detective Loftus of Chicago.

WILL RESORT TO ARMS.

Protest Against Our Agreement With Santo Domingo.

TURK'S ISLAND, Bahamas, Feb. 7.—A report from Santo Domingo says that General Cespedes, governor of Puerto Plata, has resigned and gone to Porto Rico.

The Clyde line steamer Cherokee, which left here today, carried a protest against the United States-Santo Domingo protocol to the United States congress from former Vice President Deschamps of Santo Domingo and his followers (now here), who say they are disposed to resort to arms in furtherance of their cause and remove the present government of Santo Domingo if it does not resign.

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

A World of Beautiful Things to Choose From.

At last the day of the hateful flat hat which projected over into the next county is past, and we are now to have variety if nothing else. But the newest of the hats are so large that we are no longer to be accused of not getting full value for our money.

The hat that is most affected by the younger contingent is a large felt or beaver with a wide brim turned up sharply at one side and with an immense high crown that reminds one of the brave days of old when men wore such contrivances all decked with feathers and big buckles. But now it is only the fresh young faces to which they are allowed. A dark brown felt had a high crown and around that a band of black velvet, with a large buckle on the right side, while along the left was a bunch of paradise plumes laid closely, just barring a little at the back. In front there was a soft rosette made of shorter plumes of the same dull plum shade.

Another of these high crowned hats had the brim slightly waved as it tipped down in front, and it was curled up in the back with a shaded short ostrich plume curled under the edge. Around the crown there was a whole panache of short brown ostrich tips and in front a bunch of lemon colored ones, which formed the starting point for an immense paradise sweep, also in lemon color.

Two Popular Shapes.

The turban and tricorne are still in vogue and are certainly pretty and becoming to every one. One tricorne is shown in the illustration. It is of woolly black felt and has at the left side a rosette of pale blue velvet ribbon extended along the back a short distance for the purpose of affording a hold for the hatpins which otherwise would have to be driven through the skull. Above the rosette is a natural paradise sweep, the colors being white, cream and faint brown. This is certainly a dainty conceit and is peculiarly adapted to the brunette type.

In the illustration are two dress hats for wear at all sorts of functions where hats are permissible. The one turned down is of white velvet made with a flat brim. The underside of the brim is incrusted with fine lace medallions over satin, and the crown is completely hidden under a mass of beautiful fluffy plumes, shading from pure white to a faint pink. The other is of white felt as to the outside of the brim, with folded white chiffon on the inner side. It is tilted high on the left to allow for a large bunch of American Beauty roses and foliage. More of the same are intwined with white tulle on the outside around the high crown. The tulle is gathered at the right and held under a buckle of whited silver and rhinestones.

The Pagoda Hat.

In another place I found a hat shaped like a lamp shade and called a pagoda. It was flat and round, but there were eight corners where the brim was pinched up into sharp points. The crown was rather high and had a flat Alsatian bow with a jeweled buckle directly in front. Other shapes show a turban front, sometimes with and sometimes without a visible crown. There is literally no limit to the caprices of the milliners in trimming these hats. Some have little rosettes set upright all around the brim, and these are of metal in many pretty fancies. Again, they will be of crocheted chenille or made of velvet ribbon. I think one might go absolutely insane trying to tell half their glories, but the most salient point about them all is the use of plumes. No trimming is more graceful or so universally becoming, but it does look queer to see on a heavy velvet or felt or beaver hat a trimming made up of feathers, flowers and tulle all together. Tulle is the most fragile of all the things offered to beauteous woman, and we naturally associate it with the short lived happiness of brides, but when a clever milliner gets hold of it she makes it seem twin to fur or felt.

For runabouts there is an unusually large choice of felts, and these are trimmed with darker stuffs, sometimes a piece of the dress material and a nice buckle or some short feather. The plainer these hats are the more stylish they are considered.

OLIVE HARPER.

THE GRAFTERS

By

FRANCIS LYNDE

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

His first official act as receiver was to ask for the resignations of a dozen heads of departments, beginning with the general manager and pausing for the moment with the supervisor of track. That done, he filled the vacancies with political troughsmen; and with these as assistant decapitators the major passed rapidly down the line, striking off heads in daily batches until the overflow of the Bucks political following was provided for on the railroad's pay-rolls to the wife's cousin's nephew.

This was the work of the first few administrative days or weeks, and while it was going on, the business attitude of the road remained unchanged. But once seated firmly in the saddle, with his awkward squad well in hand, the major proceeded to throw a bomb of consternation into the camp of his competitors.

Kent was dining with Ormsby in the grill-room of the Camelot club when the waiter brought in the evening edition of the Argus, whose railroad reporter had heard the preliminary fizzing of the bomb fuse. The story was set out on the first page, first column, with appropriate headlines.

WAR TO THE KNIFE AND THE KNIFE TO THE HILT.

TRANS-WESTERN CUTS COMMODITY RATES.

Great Excitement in Railroad Circles. Receiver Guilford's Hold-up.

Kent ran his eye rapidly down the column and passed the paper across to Ormsby.

"I told you so," he said. "They didn't find the road insolvent, but they are going to make it so in the shortest possible order. A rate war will do it quicker than anything else on earth."

Ormsby thrust out his jaw.

"Have we got to stand by and see 'em do it?"

"The man from Massachusetts says yes, and he knows, or thinks he does. He has been here two weeks now, and he has nosed out for himself all the dead-walls. We can't appeal, because there is no decision to appeal from. We can't take it out of the lower court until it is finished in the lower court. We can't enjoin an officer of the court; and there is no authority in the state that will set aside Judge MacFarlane's order when that order was made under technically legal conditions."

"You could have told him all that in the first five minutes," said Ormsby.

"I did tell him, and was mildly sat upon. To-day he came around and gave me back my opinion, clause for clause, as his own. But I have no kick coming. Somebody will have to be here to fight the battle to a finish when the judge returns, and our expert will advise the Bostonians to retain me."

"Does he stay?" Ormsby asked.

"Oh, no; he is going back with Loring to-night. Loring has an idea of his own which may or may not be worth the powder it will take to explode it. He is going to beseech the Boston people to enlarge the pool until it controls a safe majority of the stock."

"What good will that do?"

"None, directly. It's merely a safe preliminary to anything that may happen. I tell Loring he is like all the others: he knows when he has enough and is willing to stand from under. I'm the only fool in the lot."

Ormsby's smile was heartening and good for sore nerves.

"I like your pluck, Kent; I'll be hanged if I don't. And I'll back you to win, yet."

Kent shook his head unhopefully.

"Don't mistake me," he said. "I am fighting for the pure love of it, and not with any great hope of saving the stockholders. These grafters may have us by the nape of the neck. We can't make a move till MacFarlane comes back and gives us a hearing on the merits. That may not be till the next term of court. Meanwhile, the temporary receiver is to all intents and purposes a permanent receiver; and the interval would suffice to wreck a dozen railroads."

"And still you won't give up?"

"No."

"I hope you won't have to. But to a man up a tree it looks very much like a dead cock in the pit. As I have said, if there is any backing to do, I'm with you, first, last, and all the time, merely from a sportsman's interest in the game. But is there any use in a little handful of us trying to buck up against a whole state government?"

The coffee had been served, and Kent dropped a lump of sugar into his cup.

"Ormsby, I'll never let go while I'm alive enough to fight," he said slowly. "One decent quality I have—and the only one, perhaps: I don't know when I'm beaten. And I'll down this crowd of political plunderers yet, if Bucks doesn't get me sand-bagged."

His listener pushed back his chair.

"If you stood to lose anything more than your job I could understand it," he commented. "As it is, I can't. Any way you look at it, your stake in the game isn't worth the time and effort it will take to play the string out. And I happen to know you're ambitious to do things—things that count."

"What is it you don't understand—the motive?"

"That's it."

Kent laughed.

"You are not as astute as Miss Van Brock. She pointed it out to me last night—or thought she did—in two words."

Ormsby's eyes darkened, and he did not affect to misunderstand.

"It would be a grandstand play," he said half-musingly, "if you should happen to worry it through, I mean. I believe Mrs. Hepzibah would be ready to fall on your neck and forgive you, and turn me down." Then, half-jestingly: "Kent, what will you take to drop this thing permanently and go away?"

David Kent's smile showed his teeth.

"The one thing you wouldn't be willing to give. You asked me once when we had fallen over the fence upon this forbidden ground if I were satisfied, and I told you I wasn't. Do we understand each other?"

"I guess so," said Ormsby. "But—Say, Kent, I like you too well to see you go up against a stone fence blindfolded. I'm like Guilford: I am the man in possession. And possession is nine points of the law."

Kent rose and took the proffered cigar from Ormsby's case.

"It depends a good bit upon how the possession is gained—and held—doesn't it?" he rejoined coolly. "And your figure is unfortunate in its other half. I am going to beat Guilford."

CHAPTER XIII.

THE WRECKERS.

Just why Receiver Guilford, an officer of the court who was supposed to be nursing an insolvent railroad to the end that its creditors might not lose all, should begin by declaring war on the road's revenue, was a question which the managers of competing lines strove vainly to answer. But when, in defiance of all precedent, he made the cut rates effective to and from all local stations on the Trans-Western, giving the shippers at intermediate and non-competitive points the full benefit of the reductions, the railroad colony denounced him as a madman and gave him a month in which to find the bottom of a presumably empty treasury.

But the event proved that the major's madness was not altogether without method. It is an axiom in the carrying trade that low rates make business; create it, so to speak, out of nothing. Given an abundant crop, low prices, and high freight rates in the great cereal belt, and, be the farmers never so poor, much of the grain will be stored and held against the chance of better condition.

So it came about that Major Guilford's relief measure was timed to a nicety, and the blanket cut in rates opened a veritable flood-gate for business in Trans-Western territory. From the day of its announcement the traffic of the road increased by leaps and bounds. Stored grain came out of its hiding places at every country cross-roads to beg for cars; stock feeders drove their market cattle unheard-of distances, across the tracks of competing lines, over and around obstacles of every sort, to pour them into the loading corrals of the Trans-Western.

Nor was the traffic all out-going. With the easing of the money burden, the merchants in the tributary towns began thriftily to take advantage of the low rates to renew their stocks; long-deferred visits and business trips suddenly became possible; and the saying that it was cheaper to travel than to stay at home gained instant and grateful currency.

In a short time the rolling stock of the road was taxed to its utmost capacity, and the newly appointed purchasing agent was buying cars and locomotives right and left. Also, to keep pace with the ever-increasing procession of trains, a doubled construction force wrought night and day installing new side tracks and passing points.

Under the fructifying influence of such a golden shower of prosperity, land values began to rise again, slowly at first, as buyers intrusted the continuance of the golden shower; more rapidly a little later, as the Guilford policy defined itself in terms of apparent permanence.

Towns along the line—hamlets long since fallen into the way-station rut of desuetude—awoke with a start, bestirring themselves joyfully to meet the inspiriting conditions. At Midland City, Stephen Hawk, the new right-of-way agent, ventured to ask municipal help to construct a ten-mile branch to Lavabee: it was forthcoming promptly; and the mass meeting, at which the bond loan was anticipated by public subscription shouted itself hoarse in enthusiasm.

At Gaston, where Hawk asked for a donation of land whereon the company might build the long-promised division repair-shops, people fought with one another to be first among the donors. And at Juniberg, where the company proposed to establish the first of a series of grain subtreasuries—warehouses in which the farmers of the surrounding country could store their products and borrow money on them from the railroad company at the rate of three per cent. per annum—at Juniberg enough money was subscribed to erect three such depots as the heaviest crop could possibly fill.

It was while the pendulum of prosperity was in full swing that David Kent took a day off from sweating over his problem of ousting the receiver and ran down to Gaston. Single-eyed as he was in the pursuit of justice, he was not unmindful of the six lots standing in his name in the Gaston suburb, and from all accounts the time was come to dispose of them.

He was smoking his after-dinner cigar in the lobby of the hotel and trying as he might to orient himself when Blashfield Hunnicott drifted in. Kent gave the sometime local attorney a cigar, made room for him on the plush-covered settee, and proceeded to pump him dry of Gaston news. Summed up, the inquiries pointed themselves thus: was there any basis for the Gaston revival other than the lately changed attitude of the railroad? In other words, if the cut rates should be withdrawn and the railroad activities cease, would there not be a second and still more disastrous collapse of the Gaston bubble?

Pressed hardly, Hunnicott admitted the probability; given another turn, the screw of inquiry squeezed out an admission of the fact, slurred over by the revivalist, that the railway company's treasury was really the almsbox into which all hands were dipping.

"One more question and I'll let up on you," said Kent. "It used to be said of you in the flush times that you kept tab on the real estate transfers when everybody else was too busy to read the record. Do you still do it?"

Hunnicott laughed uneasily.

"Rather more than ever just now, as you'd imagine."

"It is well. Now you know the members of the old gang, from his excellency down. Tell me one thing: are they buying or selling?"

Hunnicott sprang up and slapped his leg.

"By Jupiter, Kent! They are selling—every last man of them!"

"Precisely. And when they have sold all they have to sell?"

"They'll turn us loose—drop us—quit booming the town, if your theory is the right one. But say, Kent, I can't believe it, you know. It's too big a thing to be credited to Jim Guilford and his handful of subs in the railroad office. Why, it's all along the line, everywhere."

"I'm telling you that Guilford isn't the man. He is only a cog in the wheel. There is a bigger mind than his behind it."

"I can't help it," Hunnicott protested. "I don't believe that any man or clique could bring this thing about unless we were really on the upturn."

"Very good; believe what you please, but do as I tell you. Sell every foot of Gaston dirt that stands in your name; and while you are about it sell those six lots for me in subdivision five. More than that, do it pretty soon."

Hunnicott promised, in the brokerage affair, at least. Then he switched the talk to the receivership.

"Still up in the air, are you, in the railroad grab case?"

Kent nodded.

"No news of MacFarlane?"

"Plenty of it. His health is still precarious, and will likely remain so until the spoilsmen have picked the skeleton clean."

Hunnicott was silent for a full minute. Then he said:

"Say, Kent, hasn't it occurred to you that they are rather putting meat on the bones instead of taking it off? Their bills for betterments must be out of sight."

It had occurred to Kent, but he gave his own explanation of Major Guilford's policy in a terse sentence.

SIGOURNEY LEADS.

San Francisco Expert Beat Stark, Gardner Defeated Norris.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—The first game in the amateur billiard tournament here was between W. H. Sigourney of San Francisco and J. Byron Stark of New York, Sigourney winning, 300 to 177. Sigourney outplayed Stark from the start and maintained a good lead after the first few innings. Sigourney's highest run was 29 and Stark's 25. Sigourney's average was 7 34-38 and Stark's 4 25-38.

In the second game Edward G. Gardner of New York easily defeated Charles S. Norris of New York, 300 to 145. Gardner played an excellent game and finished with an average of 8 20-35. He took the lead early in the game and never relinquished it. His high run was 59. Norris played a weak game, his highest run being 20 and his average 4 9-34.

Queen Rose at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7.—Racing conditions were against the favorites, and Queen Rose, who won handily, was the only successful favorite. Darius in the last race gave the starter trouble, planting himself squarely across the track as the barrier was sprung and holding Southampton behind him.

Asterisk Won Essex Handicap.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 7.—Essex park races were run over a frozen track, the weather being chilly and the attendance light. Asterisk won the Kentucky Club handicap easily, leading all the way. Canteen was second easily, Bill Curtis getting third money.

Play Ball Disqualified.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7. — Play Ball won his race easily at Oakland, but was disqualified for bumping, and Barney Dreyfus was placed first. It was a bad day for favorites, only two winning.

MAY STOP INQUIRY.

Injury to Judge Hooker Will Hinder Investigation.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 7.—That the serious injury of Supreme Court Justice Warren B. Hooker in the railroad accident near Utica last Saturday morning may lead to the indefinite postponement of the assembly judiciary committee's investigation of the charges against the justice is admitted by Assemblyman Fish of Madison, chairman of the committee.

"I have heard from Justice Hooker's secretary," said Mr. Fish, "that Justice Hooker is seriously injured and that no one is allowed as yet to see him."

"Will that lead to a postponement of the investigation?" he was asked.

"Very probably. How long it may be postponed cannot be told until we know how badly Justice Hooker is injured."

"Two weeks perhaps?"

"It might be two weeks, or it might be two months. No one can say as yet."

The letter of Justice Hooker's secretary to Chairman Fish said that the justice was on his way to New York to get counsel when the accident occurred and in view of his condition requested postponement of the matter.

His Photograph as Evidence.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—Following the allegation in the presentment of the grand jury that syndicated vice exists here and that Director of Public Safety Smyth is responsible for the condition, D. Clarence Gibboney, secretary of the Law and Order society, in a letter to Mayor Weaver made a specific charge of official collusion with a disreputable resort. The place was raided by agents of the society early yesterday morning. Mr. Gibboney says in his letter: "This place has been protected by your police. On the bureau of the mistress of the house the most conspicuous ornament was a large cabinet photograph of a patrolman of the beat. The house is a house of officially protected and syndicated crime."

Bond-Hay Treaty Ratified.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 7.—General satisfaction is expressed here over the prospect of the ratification by the United States senate of the Bond-Hay treaty. It is understood that the senate amendments are acceptable to the colonial ministry. They include free entry of fresh fish, lumber and wood pulp to the American markets and a similar concession for American lumber, wood pulp machinery, rubber boots and shoes and farming implements entering Newfoundland.

Four Murderers Will Be Hanged.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 7.—The supreme court of the state of Colorado has declared that the Colorado capital punishment law is valid. Four murderers, whose execution have been postponed awaiting this decision, will now be hanged. Murder was punishable with hanging in Colorado from 1871 to 1897. In 1897 the capital punishment law was repealed, but two years later it was re-enacted.

Prominent Democrat Accused.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 7.—At the Comerford investigation here Representative W. S. Lurton testified before the house committee that an attempt had been made to bribe him in connection with the Democratic minority leadership of the house. He named Richard E. Kinsella, a prominent Democratic politician, as the man who made the attempt.

Railway Men Frozen to Death.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 7.—Search is being made for two Philadelphia and Reading railway section hands who, it is feared, were frozen to death in the storm. The bodies of Joseph Faak and Frank Eckert, railroad employees, who lost their lives in the storm on Sunday, were found yesterday.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

Heston, Michigan's crack half back for the past four seasons, and unanimously given one of the positions behind the line by both eastern and western critics in their All-American lineups, has signed a contract to coach the Drake college football eleven next fall. Heston's salary is fixed at $1,250. His work will last during the football season only. The salary paid him by Drake is the largest ever earned by a Michigan athlete upon his first venture into the coaching business. Heston had flattering offers from other prominent schools. As Drake will probably play against Michigan next fall, Heston will be the first one of Yost's proteges to put against a Michigan eleven an opponent trained in Yost's style.

Heston.

A short time ago it was announced that Heston would succeed "Bummy" Booth, at Nebraska, but this was later denied. Booth has announced that he has retired from the coaching profession and will hereafter devote all of his time to the practice of law. Booth has been practicing law in New York city for the past three years. During this time he has given his time to acquiring knowledge of the practical side of the profession and in acquiring a big acquaintance. In the falls he had devoted three months to coaching football at Nebraska. When Booth visited in Chicago on his way west last October, he discussed the value of a football career to the young man who intends to enter a profession or any vocation which demands a close and large acquaintance with business men. Booth declared that he believed that his football experiences at Princeton had practically made a professional career easy for him in New York city. In discussing this matter he said: "We all know that a large acquaintance is absolutely necessary to the professional man. I have been practicing law, or rather been running the bluff, for three years. Fully half of that time I have spent making acquaintances. Nearly every night I go to some club or to a public place where men of influence congregate, and meet men. This has been very easy for me, because I have had easy access to the society of good, influential men. And this has been almost entirely due to the fact that I was at one time a prominent football player at Princeton. Everybody has heard of me, it seems, and this fact alone is better than an introduction. Somehow people love a hero, and every football player on a big team is more or less of a hero in the minds of all college-bred people at least. I got more than my share in football. Now I find it easy to meet men, and my success has been such that my business has grown until I can no longer afford to coach football three months in the year. My law business demands all of my time."

The fascination of bowling seems to have a strong attraction for baseball players, and some of the best-known ball players of the country are among the most expert tossers of the lignum vitae. Capt. Anson, the veteran Chicago manager and player, was the first prominent ball player to become identified with the bowling game, and is proprietor of a large establishment in Chicago. He is vice president of the American Bowling congress, and at the last tournament he captained the team that won the national championship. Hermn Long, for many years the king of shortstops, is another diamond star who is interested in the game, and is manager of a set of alleys in Chicago. Will Terry, the old bowling pitcher off whom the late Delehanty made four home runs and a single in one day, is also a bowler and has a bowling establishment in Milwaukee. Among the eastern baseball men, President Ebbets, of the Brooklyn Baseball club, is the most conspicuous patron of the game. John McGraw, the clever little manager of the New York Nationals, conducted a bowling establishment in Baltimore for a number of years. Frank Brill, who some 12 years ago played with Detroit, is the manager of a bowling establishment in Chicago. Brill is a bowler of considerable prominence and an ex-national champion. Al Selbach is another baseball player who has made a record for himself on the alleys. He toured the country a few years ago with the All-American bowling trio.

A. C. Anson.

E. R. Thomas, of Buffalo, made 15 miles in 9¼ minutes in his 90-horse power car, an average of 27 seconds, on the beach at Daytona, Fla., the other day. This is an unprecedented showing, sustaining for ten miles the rate of the best unofficial mile ever made on the beach.

James Devine, a prominent lawyer of Syracuse, N. Y., is dead. Nineteen years ago Devine was famous as a ball player and athlete, and he is credited with pitching for the Syracuse Stars in the game, July 5, 1885, when the easterners defeated Chicago 5 to 0, allowing Chicago only five hits.

BASKET BALL.

Leal's school basketball season will conclude with the city scholastic championship contest tomorrow.

The Y. M. C. A. players ran up against one of the fastest teems in the State last night, and the result was a creditable one.

The Plainfield High School basketball players will conclude their season with a game on the local gymnasium floor against the crack New Jersey scholastic champions, the South Orange Team. The match will be played on March 1.

The second team of the Plainfield High School are attempting to arrange a series of post-league games, and are negotiating with F. A. Henckel, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., for the use of the Y. M. C. A. floor for the games. The Whittier school, winners in the juvenile league, will continue to use the Hope Y. M. A. gymnasium for their practice and games.

This will be the line-up of the two teams which will contend for the city scholastic championship at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon: Plainfield High School—Thompson, captain; Bentley and Smith, forwards; Freeman, center; Gavett and Stutsman, guards. Leal's School—Chapman and Howard, forwards; Jewett, center; Manning, Lyman and Perkins, guards. This game is the most important in the Interscholastic League series, which has been conducted under the Y. M. C. A's auspices all through the season. The result of the match will determine the winner of the silver loving cup offered by Schwed Bros.

be adopted on final reading as an adjourned meeting. He wanted it left so that a special meeting could be called. The motion to adjourn to February 27, was lost by a vote of six to four, but Clerk MacMurray came to the rescue of the four when he stated that the meeting must adjourn to some date to allow for the advertising of the liquor license applications. Mr. Tyler then waived his request and said he would arrange for a special meeting.

Isaac P. Runyon, Esq.

Isaac P. Runyon, of North Plainfield, has been mentioned in various sections throughout Somerset county as a candidate to succeed Prosecutor Griggs. The Republican County Committee is unable to agree upon a candidate, the vote taken being tied between Mr. Reger and Mr. Griggs. Mr. Runyon is recognized as an able lawyer and has many friends in the county. The power of appointment is vested in Governor Stokes.

Electrical Display at Rahway.

Rahway was visited yesterday morning by an electrical display that was startlingly beautiful it began about 5 o'clock and lasted half an hour. Flashes brilliant enough to light a room occurred at intervals of a few seconds, the tints being of a pink shade The waves of light were of a tremulous nature quivering with great rapidity.

TO USE FIRE ALARM AS A SCHOOL SIGNAL

FIRE WHISTLE TO BLOW ON STORMY MORNINGS MEANING NO SESSIONS.

In response to a suggestion made by Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson, Mr. Bullock, chairman of the fire and buildings committee, at the Common Council meeting last night, proposed a method of informing the school children when there would be school and one session.

Mr. Maxson suggested that certain signals be given on the fire alarm to denote the decision of the head of the school on stormy days. In this connection Mr. Bullock offered a resolution that Chief Doane and Superintendent Maxson arange for such a system of signals, provided that the same does not interfere with the efficiency of the fire department work. This was adopted.

It was suggested that the whistle be sounded at 8 o'clock in the morning when there would be no school for the day and about 11:30 on one-session days, notice to be given to Chief Doane a half hour previous to giving such alarm. Mr. Bullock stated that the system is now in force in many cities and works satisfactorily.

Mr. Bullock also recommended that all fire-alarm boxes not equipped with "key-guards" which permit any person to send in an alarm of fire, be so equipped and offered a resolution to that effect, which was adopted. He stated that there are eighteen boxes without such an arrangement and the cost for equipping them would be less than $60. The work will be done by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company which has charge of the maintenance of the system.

BOAT CLUB TO DINE AT HOTEL ST. GEORGE

WANAMASSA BOYS TO HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET IN NEW YORK.

The Wanamassa Boat Club, of which several young men of this city and the borough are members, has arranged for a meeting and banquet to be held at the Hotel St. George, Broadway and 12th street, New York city, on Thursday night, February 16, at 7:30. The banquet will be served after the meeting in a private dining room. During the summer the club has a camp at a place near Asbury Park called "Camp Wanamassa," and it has been a great success. The Plainfield members are Fred Martin, Richard F. Randolph, G. Howell Whitney, Edward Hardingham, Edward Hobby, Percival Phillips, Walter Sampson, Stryker Hoagland and Robin Hamilton.

NEW TROLLEY ROUTES.

A Line to Parallel the Jersey Central Railroad.

The presence of surveyors in this part of the State laying out trolley routes has brought to light some new trolley plans. A line to run parallel with the Central Railroad of New Jersey is projected. The surveyors have been at work between High Bridge and Clinton and are working on the proposed line from Washington to Flemington. This line is connected with the Easton-Washington line now in course of construction. It will connect Changewater, New Hampton Junction, Glen Gardner, High Bridge, Clinton, Hamden and Flemington.

J. W. McManiman, of the Easton-Washington Traction Company, has been over the route procuring the right of way and floating the bonds of the company. He says that it is the intention of the company to have cars running by December next.

It is understood that the Public Service Corporation, which controls the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company's line through Somerville to Raritan, will extend its tracts and connect with the Washington-Flemington Traction Company at Clinton. This line would connect Somerville and Raritan with North Branch, Whitehouse, Lebanon, Annandale and Clinton.

Inspector Doane Reappointed.

Mr. Bullock offered a resolution at the Common Council meeting last night, which was adopted, reappointing T. U. Doane building inspector for one year at a salary of $500, and in response to a petition from J. D. Loiseaux and John Kriney, one four-way hydrant be located at Rock avenue and West Second street, one two-way hydrant on West Second street near View avenue and one two-way hydrant at Hunter and Evona avenues. The motion was adopted. Mr. Bullock stated that the Plainfield Water Supply Company would extend its mains early in the spring and the hydrants could then be located.

FIREMAN TROUNCED A BOROUGH MARSHAL

CHIEF WOOLSTON HAD ORDERED COP OUT OF HEADQUARTERS.

Borough officials today are very reticent over an affair which occurred at police headquarters, last night, and in which, to all accounts, Marshal Walter Smalley was trounced by Peter Dooley, a call man in the fire department.

Smalley was off duty yesterday, and in the evening made himself so obnoxious about fire headquarters that he was ordered out by Chief Woolston. Going from there to police headquarters where Dooley has been doing special duty, he again made himself objectionable, it is said, and refused to go out. Dooley essayed to eject him and succeeded, a pugilistic affair taking place while it was being done.

It was said today that the matter is being investigated by Mayor Smalley but no official information has been given out.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—A. E. and A. L. Giddes, who recently purchased the shoe business conducted for many years by John H. Doane in the new Stillman block on West Front street, are now in possession and while keeping open, are making extensive alterations. Their special opening will take place Saturday.

Simon Yelled "Hot Air."

Because he yelled "hot air" and other slang of the streets at Patrolman Morris Higgins, on upper North avenue, Sunday, George Simon, a Polak, appeared in the city court, this morning. He owned up to the shouting and also to asking his wife to fetch a revolver in order that he might exterminate the bluecoat. Judge Runyon made it $3 or ten days.

Funeral of Mrs. McInnes.

Funeral services over the body of Mrs. James McInnes were held from her late home on West Third street, yesterday afternoon, with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. They were conducted by Rev. L. H. Howard and two solos were rendered by City Judge William N. Runyon. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Instructive Course of Lectures.

A course of instructive and entertaining lectures has been arranged to be given at Trueil Inn on the dates March 8, 16, 23 and 30, beginning at 3 o'clock each afternoon. They will be given on different topics by Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, Mrs. Hugh France, Miss Katherine Johnston, who will recite, and Mrs. Florence Howe Hall.

Before Recorder Doud.

Garfield Nelson, arrested by Chief Marshal Weiss together with John Perkins, for fighting on Regent street, Sunday, was fined $10 by Recorder Doud last night. Sentence on Perkins was suspended. William Calloway, who was arrested for drunkenness, was consigned to the borough jail for seven days to let him sober up.

Salvationists Plan Barracks.

The Salvation Army is securing funds to purchase a two story brick building on Second street to be used as a barracks. Already $1,600 has been subscribed and when $1,300 more is collected the Salvationists will get possession of the building. Charles W. McCutchen has subscribed $300 and William S. Tyler $50.

55 Years An Odd Fellow.

Gerome Pack, of Park avenue, who has been a member of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., for fifty-five years, was pleasantly remembered at the meeting of the lodge, last night, when he was presented with a veteran's jewel. Past Noble Grand John Becker made the presentation and Mr. Pack responded.

Fire Losses Covered.

The occupants of the double house on Manning avenue, which was partially destroyed by fire Sunday night, were Mrs. Lydia G. Larison, in No. 79, and Mrs. Mary E. Layman, in No. 81. Mrs. Layman's furniture, which was totally destroyed, was insured for $1,500. Mrs. Larison's loss was fully covered.

Clinical Assistants Appointed.

The only business of importance transacted by the Board of Governors of the Hospital at its monthly meeting last night was the appointment of Doctors A. B. Pittis, P. B. Oregar, J. Hervey Buchanan, M. L. Clausen and A. F. Van Horn as clinical assistants.

TEMPLARS INVADED THIS CITY LAST NIGHT

SPECIAL TRAIN BRINGS KNIGHTS TO WITNESS INSPECTION.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., at its annual inspection, last night, entertained a large delegation of Knights from Damascus Commandery, of Newark; Jersey Commandery, of Orange, and Hugh De Payn Commandery, of Jersey City. The visitors came in a special train, arriving here about 8 o'clock and were escorted to the asylum by a committee from Trinity Commandery.

The local commandery was inspected by Captain General A. T. Methever, of the Grand Commandery, of Camden, and he expressed his appreciation and approval of the excellent work of the commandery, especially in the drill. Among the dignataries present was Grand Commander J. J Henry, of Newark. After the work of the evening an elaborate banquet was served.

SNAP SHOTS.

Lawrence Paoli, of North avenue, has received from his son, Gabriel Paoli, who is second fireman on the U. S. transport ship, Elcano, which has been stopping at the Asiatic Station, at Shanghai, during the past two and a half years, has sent home to his father several fine photographs giving different views of the Russian cruiser "Askold," after its encounter with the Japanese warships. The Askold was run into the harbor at Shanghai for repairs, remaining there two weeks. The cruiser was badly damaged and one of the five funnels was shot off. The Askold, which was engaged in the fight at Port Arthur, is 6,000 tons, 19,000 horse power. Mr. Paoli is twenty-one years old, and he expects to return in time to spending next Christmas at his home in this city. Ever since he enlisted he has been stationed at Shanghai and unless something unforeseen happens he is likely to remain there for some time to come.

The ground hog saw his shadow Friday. Opinions vary as to when the groundhog emerges from his snug winter residence in the bosom of mother earth and ventures out to reconnoitre. Some persons contend that the groundhog is certain to take his preliminary peep out of doors on the second day of February and that no matter what time of day he may appear, should he chance to see his shadow, that will send him at once into an additional six weeks' retirement. Others there are who declare with equal force that the little animal remains indoors until the stroke of noon and then after elaborate preparations, steps out with trepidation. This is based on the well-known fact that a characteristic of the groundhog is his noon-day excursions, and from this it is easy to believe that his observations as to the condition of the weather are made only at noon. The belief that groundhog day was of special import as regards the weather as long prevailed in Europe and still does. When the idea was transplanted, like many others, to the United States, the belief continued the same. The second of February is also called candlemas day and is a church festival, being one of the four term days in Scotland. It commemorated the purification of the virgin, and the reason of its odd name is that candles are lighted, and in the Catholic church those that are to be used during the year are consecrated. They are said to have an emblematical reference to the prophecy of Simeon, that the child Jesus should become a "light to lighten the Gentiles." This feast probably dates back as far as the year beginning 542 during the reign of the Roman Emperor Justinian. The best explanation of the origin is that it grew out of the heathen festivals, of which there were several. The Latin word februare means purification, and the purification of the Romans took place in February as did the rites of the Lupercalia, which were celebrated on the 15th of the month. These included the lighting of candles in allusion to those used by Ceres in her search for Proserpine.

Funeral of F. C. Phoebus.

The funeral of F. C. Phoebus, who died at his home last week, was held yesterday afternoon from his late residence. Rev. E. M. Hodman, rector emeritus of Grace church, officiated.

VETO AWAITS TYLER ORDINANCE

Measure Restricting Saloon District to be Passed Over Mayor's Head.

STRONGLY DENOUNCED

His Honor Declares Emphatically That He Will Not Sanction Novel Excise Bill Becoming a Law.

Mayor James F. Buckie, who vehemently denounced William S. Tyler's measure to restrict the sale of liquor to the business section of the city when the proposed ordinance was before the Common Council on Monday night, declared to a reporter for The Daily Press today that if the bill is passed by the city fathers he will have no hesitation in vetoing it. There is no mincing of words in the Mayor's utterances regarding this excise measure and he is backed by the Republican leaders in his attitude.

His Honor's ringing speech against the restriction of the sale of liquor to a defined territory, on the floor of the Common Council, caused a sensation for it is very rarely that a chief executive has asked permission to protest in such manner against the will of the Councilmanic body.

When seen by The Daily Press man today, Mayor Buckie said: "Certainly I shall veto that obnoxious ordinance when it comes to me and I presume it will come for it was passed to second reading you know. It is not a square deal. The workingman should have just as much right to get a drink as the wealthier citizen. Those men pushing it through Council can get their liquor at the hotels and at the clubs in New York during the day. Then why shouldn't the plain workingman be allowed to go into a saloon somewhere near where he lives here and get his glass of beer. As I said before I have drunk with nearly every member of that Council and I don't like the way they are acting in this matter. It's all bosh."

"Why should the present Common Council," continued Mayor Buckie, "bind future Councils. It's a reflection on future governing bodies. Those who will be elected in years to come will be just as capable of looking after the saloon question as the present members are. You can say I will veto that bill and they can then pass it over my head."

It will not be necessary to secure a two-thirds vote to pass the ordinance over the Mayor's head.

An Arion Club Dance.

The second reception and dance of the Arion Club will be held in I. O. T. Hall on Thursday night, February 23. The committee in charge consists of Raymond L. McVoy, Berlin Banks, William Baker, Harry Keen, Alex Muir, and V. W. Nash, Jr. Music will be furnished by Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra.

MARSHAL SMALLEY RESIGNS FROM FORCE

GAVE HIS SHIELD TO BOROUGH MAYOR AFTER MONDAY NIGHT'S AFFRAY.

Preferring not to wait for official investigation into his conduct, Marshal Walter Smalley, who was trounced by Peter Dooley and then ejected from borough police headquarters, Monday night, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Smalley. His action came shortly after the trouble occurred and was at once accepted, the Mayor taking his shield and equipment. His successor will be appointed at the next Council meeting.

The trouble which led to Monday night's affair really began two weeks ago when Smalley became abusive to Chief Howard Woolston, of the fire department, because he had not hired his horses to be used extra during the time the streets were made heavy with snow. At the time he was ordered from the fire house and Monday night he entered and renewed his argument. He was ejected summarily by the Chief and went from there to police headquarters and began an attack upon Dooley, who has been doing special night work. The latter repeated Chief Woolston's action, only a little more vigorously.

It was stated by Mayor Smalley yesterday, that Smalley had been drinking Monday and that the Council would have considered his case had he remained on the force. Smalley was one of the three policemen hurt in the Christmas eve fight with the Plainfield negroes and during the trial he was severely criticised by the defending counsel, who claimed that it was he who had precipitated the trouble.

GERMAN UNIVERSITIES, PROF. WALKER'S TOPIC

LECTURE BEFORE THE MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

Professor Williston Walker, Ph. D., D. D., of the Divinity School, Yale University, gave a very delightful lecture before the Monday Afternoon Club at the Casino Monday on the subject "German University Life." Dr. Walker stated that universities were not German in origin, for the first university was established in Paris, in 1200 A. D. The medieval universities, he said, had four faculties similar to those of the present day, arts, theology, law and medicine.

The German universities, according to Dr. Walker, are twenty-one in number and rank in size with the following American universities: Berlin, the largest, with over 6000 students, is about the size of Harvard, that of Leipsic numbers about the same as Yale and the one in Munich bears the same comparison with the University of Chicago.

In contrast with similar institutions of this country, Dr. Walker said that foreign institutions are not the recipients of gifts but are State institution, receiving large grants from the government; they have no dormitories and give no guarantee to graduate students. In securing a degree it is necessary to prepare a thesis showing original work.

The meagre salaries of the professors greatly increased by student fees for professional services; the simplicity of the university building, the students' home and club life, the singing and beer drinking, the skill in fencing, the lack of admiration for muscle simply and the earnest character of the students' work were pleasantly dwelt upon by Dr. Walker, who said in conclusion that an American student going to a German university would find the companionship of the foreign students kindly and helpful.

Dr. Walker is a relative of Col. and Mrs. Mason W. Tyler and was entertained by them at their home on West Seventh street.

Bridge Collapsed.

The bridge in course of construction over the canal at South Bound Brook, fell in yesterday. It was being swung into position when one of the anchor posts gave way, letting one end down in the water. Much of the timber and shear poles were smashed. It is believed it will be necessary to take the framework apart to get it out. J. K. Tantum, the chief builder, says the loss is about $2,000.

COUNTRY CLUB ELECTION

George P. Mellick Again Chosen President.

PROSPEROUS YEAR

Meeting at the Casino Last Night Largely Attended by the Club Members.

Report were presented, trustees and officers were elected and a nominating committee was appointed at the annual meeting of the Plainfield County Club, held at the Casino, last night. There was a large attendance of members and much interest shown in the club's affairs. It was reported that the past season was one of the most successful in the history of the club, both financially and from a social standpoint and the coming season is quite likely to be even more so, as plans are underway to increase the interest in tennis and golf.

Elliot T. Barrows, Thomas R. Van Boskerck and Leighton Calkins were elected trustees for three years and after the club meeting the trustees met and organized as follows:

President, George P. Mellick; vice president, Ernest R. Ackerman; secretary, Leighton Calkins; treasurer, Stuart H. Patterson. This nominating committee was appointed for next year: S. St. John McCutchen, Townsend Rushmore and J. Whitney Baker.

Just as soon as the president appoints his committees definite plans for the coming season will be formulated and the work of preparing the course for golf and the courts for tennis will be commenced.

P. H. S. INVITED TO ENTER DUAL MEET WITH NEWARK

ACCEPTANCE WILL DEPEND UPON SUCCESS IN INTERSCHOLASTIC EVENT.

Depending upon the outcome of the interscholastic athletic meet which will be held in the Y. M. C. A. on March 4, will be the possibility of a dual meet between the Plainfield and Newark High Schools. The members of the latter institution, who have a track team, have requested a meeting, and though no reply has been sent, it is under the consideration of the board of directorr.

An outdoor meet is proposed, to be held either here or in Newark at the choice of a committee of members of both schools. The usual athletic events will comprise the programme. The High School athletes are only waiting the outcome of the local championship meet in order to decide upon the offer. If the degree of success in the approaching meet warrants a dual contest with Newark, the local school will accept.

A meeting was held in the school yesterday presided over by H. H. Craig, president of the P. H. S. A. A., for the purpose of determining the names of those who will enter the interscholastic meet. A try out of the candidates will be held within ten days of the meet and three men will be selected from the results for each event.

REACHES FOUR SCORE.

Aaron Bradford Karner is Today Celebrating His Eightieth Birthday.

Aaron Bradford Karner, of 1406 Bradford avenue, is celebrating the eightieth anniversary of his birthday, today. Despite his advanced years he is quite rugged and daily attends to the work on his small farm. He is a member and regular attendant of the First Presbyterian church and a strong Prohibitionist.

One of the most pleasant features of today's celebration is the recovery of Mr. Karner's wife from a severe illness. He has three children living: Rev. George N. Karner, of Brooklyn; Miss Clara I. Karner, a trained nurse, and Miss M. Louise Karner, a teacher, both of Plainfield.

Principal Travell to Talk.

Ira W. Travell, principal of the Plainfield High School, will go to Somerville Thursday evening, Feb. 9, to make an address at a reception tendered the parents of the pupils of the High School in that place by the principal and teachers in the public school building.

Archdeacon to Speak.

Archdeacon Alexander Mann, of Orange, will conduct a special service at Grace church Sunday night under the auspices of the Men's Club. The archdeacon has been, on several occasions, recently strongly supported as a candidate for vacant bishoprics.

ELECTION FIZZLE

Perkins' Majority Equals the Number of Votes Cast for Assemblyman.

The estimated total vote in Union county at the special election yesterday for a successor to the late Assemblyman Embree was 1,500. The total normal vote of Union approximates 19,500. Mayor Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, secured these 1,500 votes as the Republican nominee. The Democrats refused to nominate, and deplored the fact that a special election was necessary.

In Elizabeth there were 462 votes cast, the smallest vote being three in the First district of the Second ward. Two of these votes were cast by Republican officers.

In Plainfield only 176 voted. The vote in Rahway was eighty-six and in Westfield 198.

The returns from the other parts of the county are not complete, but they are known to be very light.

Mayor Perkins will be sworn in at once.

NO ELECTION, MAYBE, IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

BILL ABOLISHING SPRING ELECTIONS PASSES ASSEMBLY.

Assembly Bill No. 7, abolishing spring elections in townships and boroughs throughout the State, passed the Assembly yesterday by a vote of 43 to 4.

It was afterward sent to the Senate and action was expected today. When the bill was presented the Senate laid it on the table.

It is believed that the bill will pass, which means that there will be no spring election in North Plainfield.

The Senate adjourned today until Tuesday.

NEW ORGANIZATION OF AMATUER BOWLERS

PICKED MEN FROM THREE CLUBS FORM "THE TRIANGLES."

A new bowling organization has recently entered the field of amateur sports under the name of the Triangles, being composed of picked members from the Y. M. C. A., Fanwood Suburban and Alis bowling clubs. The organization was recently effected at a meeting of these representatives, with eight charter members. It is the purpose of the club to pick from local bowling teams good players, and to form either a ten-men team, or a chosen five-men representation.

Chauncey B. Koons, the organizer of the affair, has been elected president and F. A. Neal is treasurer and manager. The Fanwood bowling alleys are used by the new club, though it is entirely independent of the Suburban aggregation. Friday night is the regular bowling night for the club, which at present consists of these members: C. B. Koons, F. A. Neal, M. C. Sutphen, of the Y. M. C. A. team; Augustus Sheelen, A. C. Stewart, of the Fanwood Suburban team; R. T. Phillips and Alfred Egan, of the Alis team, and possibly Alexander Aitken, George Ortleb and Gilbert Sutphen, who are expected to join the club.

Manager Neal is preparing a schedule of games, which will be rolled off before the season closes. It is his object to get a series of three games with the Dunellens, Bound Brook, Somerville and other teams in the vicinity. The first game of the schedule will be rolled on Friday night against the Saengerbund's.

Muhlenberg Auxiliary Tea.

Mrs. Samuel Huntington, of Franklin place, has issued invitations for a tea to be given for the benefit of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital, at her home Friday afternoon, February 17.

WILLIAMS' INQUEST ON

Coroner's Jury in Murder Case Case in Session Today.

AT MAUL'S HOTEL

George Bird, Counsel for Wood, the Suspect, to be Associated With Another Lawyer—No Developments.

George W. Bird, the local lawyer who has been engaged by Mrs. George H. Wood to defend her husband in the murder charge that will be preferred against him, stated to a Daily Press reporter last night, that he would engage a prominent criminal lawyer to assist him in the case. He would not divulge his name but he is said to be one who has had wide experience in matters of this nature.

There were no further developments in the case today and those interested are looking forward to the coroner's inquest being held at Maul's Hotel, Watchung, this afternoon.

A large number of witnesses have been called and the hearing will probably take all afternoon.

Coroner Thoms arrived at Watchung in ample time for the inquest but some delay was occasioned and the session did not begin at 2 o'clock, the hour set.

George Ball, counsel for Wood, was on hand to familiarize himself with the facts of the case.

NO PHYSICAL COURSE FOR THE FIREMEN

POLICE ALONE TO UNDERGO GYMNASTIC TRAINING.

Coincident with the proposition of the police committee to establish regular physical exercises for members of the police department, under the direction of the physical director of the Y. M. C. A., the same proposition was considered by the fire and buildings committee, in the interest of the physical improvement and benefit of the regular members of the fire department.

Owing, however, to the fact that every member of the present force is constantly needed on active duty at the several fire houses, the plan has not been found feasible to the members at this time. Mr. Bullock has interested himself in this matter with Chairman Tyler, of the police committee, and it was hoped that the firemen could get the benefit of the physical exercise as well as the policemen. Perhaps at some future date such an arrangement will be made possible, it being the belief that the firemen need this exercise fully as much as the police.

According to the plans adopted for the police, the regular members of the force will be required as a part of the regular discipline to visit the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium three times a week and take such exercise as shall be planned by the physical director. At other times the men can visit the gymnasium under the direction of Chief Kiely's order. While the regular Y. M. C. A. fee for these privileges is $8 a year, a concession is made to the police department, and a fee of $5 for each man charged.

To be a Hong Kong Dentist.

Dr. Emerson C. Currie, the dentist, of West Front street, will leave Sunday for SanFrancisco, where he will sail for China, to practice dentistry with Dr. Joseph Noble, formerly of Carlisle, Pa., who has been in Hong Kong eighteen years. Dr. Currie is a native of Woodstock, Canada, and is a graduate of the dental department of the University of Pennsylvania. He came to Plainfield several months ago.

Bell Gets the Limit.

David Bell, arrested by Patrolman Overbaugh last night, and entered on the police blotter as guilty of "general disorderly conduct," was sent to jail for fifty days and fined $50 beside by Judge Runyon this morning. Bell has been making a nuisance of himself about the streets for several weeks and his arrest was ordered by Chief Kiely.

To Talk to Fellow Barristers.

Prosecutor James L. Griggs, president of the Somerset Bar Association, has secured R. V. Lindabury, of Newark, to make the chief address at the dinner to be given by that organization in Somerville in the near future.

Death of Miss Campbell.

Miss Jennie Campbell, of Hillside avenue, died yesterday afternoon at the hospital from heart failure. Miss Campbell was born in Scotland and has lived for many years in Canada, before she came to this city.

ONLY 176 BALLOTS CAST HERE

Seven Per Cent. of Normal Vote Represented in Local Assemblyman Election.

FULL VOTE IS 4,100

In Second District of Second Ward Three Votes Were Registered—At Last General Election 3,600 Were Cast in This City.

There were just 176 votes cast in this city at the special election held yesterday, which is about seven per cent. of the normal vote, and it is estimated that each vote cost the taxpayers about $5. There was little or no interest in the election and the members of the boards of election and registry had hard work to put in their time.

The largest vote in the city was polled in the Third district of the Fourth ward, where fifty-two ballots were cast. Next came the Second district of the same ward with thirty-two votes and then the First district of the First ward with twenty-nine votes. The Second district of the Second ward polled the smallest number of votes, there being only three ballots placed in the box there.

The large vote in the Second and Third districts of the Fourth ward is accounted for by the fact that many men employed in the shops in that section of the city are near the polls and it was not difficult for them to spare the time to cast their ballots.

When it is considered that the number of voters in the city is about 4,100 and that 3,600 voted at the last general election, the vote of yesterday seems very insignificant. The absence of an opposition candidate to Randolph Perkins, the Republican nominee, was largely responsible for the lack of interest in the election, although the general public seemed to disapprove of the election anyway. However, there are many who believe that had there been a Democratic nominee he would have stood an excellent chance for election as the Republicans did not make an effort to get out the votes, and there would probably have been as little interest on the part of the Republicans had there been opposition.

All of the returns reached the office of City Clerk J. T. MacMurray before 8 o'clock, the first returns arriving at 7:20 and the others in quick succession. There was not even the usual crowd of interested ones about the office to learn the size of the vote.

The vote by districts was as follows:

First ward—First district, 29; Second district, 11.

Second ward—First district, 13; Second district, 3.

Third ward—First district, 17; Second district, 7.

Fourth ward—First district, 12; Second district, 39; Third district, 53.

SCHOOL BOARD WANTS CITY PARK IMPROVED

MEMBERS DECIDE UPON NAME OF STRUCTURE IN COURSE OF ERECTION.

Planning to beautify the spacious grounds about the new High School, the city Board of Education at its meeting, last night, discussed the advisability of asking the Common Council to join with it in the movement by improving the southerly side of the city park. The idea is to make the park and the school grounds uniform in appearance and it is proposed to secure the services of a competent landscape artist to prepare plans and submit them at the next session. In the meantime, Mr. Abbott, of the Board, will consult with Mayor Buckle regarding the city side.

It was announced at the meeting that the official title of the new building is to be "The Plainfield High School" and it was decided to have the name placed in front on a terra cotta base at a cost of $105. The present High School is officially known as the Stillman building, although it is nearly always called the Plainfield High School.

A motion was passed at the meeting that Professor Maxson attend the meeting of the National Superintendents Association at Milwaukee, Wis., the latter part of this month, representing the Plainfield schools. John Ebberly and Isaac Kennedy applied for the janitorship of the new building and the matter of a speaker for the June commencement exercises was discussed but no action was taken. Mr. Lovell made an unusual suggestion in favoring no speaker at all but the majority of the Board did not acquiesce.

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN GUESTS OF MEN'S CLUB

INTERESTING LECTURE ON NEW YORK A FEATURE OF PROGRAMME.

"New York City, Its Past and Present," was pictured by Professor L. P. Gratacap, of the American Museum of Natural History, of New York, at the "ladies' night" of the Men's Club, of the Congregational church, last night. A feature of the programme was the rendition of a number of old Scotch and Irish selections in a delightful manner by Miss Grace Carroll, contralto of the choir of the Crescent Avenue church. She was enthusiastically appauided.

In his history of New York, Professor Gratacap was complete, yet entertaining, and as he traced the growth of the Metropolis from the settlement by the Dutch in the seventeenth century up to its present condition, stereopticon illustrations were thrown on the screen, which made his portrayal even more vivid.

He divided his lecture into three divisions, the settlement by the Dutch, the English, and the modern condition. He showed pictures of historical points about Manhattan, pointing out the places of colonial interest. Maps of the city showing its growth at various periods made the lecture an instructive one as well and an interesting story of the rise of America's largest city.

At the conclusion of the talk, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. There were a large number of the women of the congregation present, the affair being given for their benefit.

TAX RATE $1.50.

Bill Introduced in the Legislature to Make That the Maximum Amount.

Thomas J. Hillery, Senator from Morris County, has come to the front in the Legislature with a bill fixing a maximum tax rate throughout the State of $1.50 on each $100. This is in the line of the recommendation made by Governor Stokes in his inaugural address, and the prospect of its passing without a struggle is not overbright. Mr. Hillery thinks that the enactment of his measure will tend to the equalization of taxes throughout the different counties.

He also thinks that it will compel the assessor to discover the personal property which in many cases now escapes taxation altogether.

Oil Stove Makes Trouble.

Mrs. Parsons, a boarder at the home of Mrs. Mary Kitchell at 209 West Second street, left an oil stove burning in her bed-room when she went out yesterday afternoon and a little later a girl in the house discovered that the room was full of smoke. Thinking that the house was on fire she ran across the street to the fire house and gave an alarm. Captain Daly, accompanied by Fireman Freeman hastened to the house and an investigation proved that there was all smoke and no fire and they opened the windows to allow free ventilation. The oil stove was left burning too high. The only damage was to the ceilings and walls and the furnishings, all of which were blackened.

FANWOOD TOWNSHIP.

Union County paid about $8 per head for votes cast at the special election for Assemblyman, held at Fanwood yesterday. Out of a registry list of 315 only 20 exercised their right of suffrage and voted. But little interest was manifested by even the party leaders, no effort being made to get out the voters as at a regular election. This was partly due to the fact that but one ticket was in the field, although the rank and file behind that the whole thing was a needless expense thrust upon the taxpayers. The vote in the borough was also very light, only a small number of the 100 voters availing themselves of the opportunity to cast a ballot.

CENTRAL RENUMBERING ALL PASSENGER CARS

JERSEY ROAD GETTING RID OF ITS ANCIENT EQUIPMENT.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey is about to start the work of renumbering its passenger equipment. This is no easy job to handle, but it has finally been decided to use a metal plate with the new number painted on same and place the plate over the old number of the car; this will be allowed to remain on the car until it is sent to the shop for general repairs, when the number plate will be removed, and the number applied direct to the car. The equipment will be numbered according to class. Men were started out on the road February 1 to change all the cars that they can get hold of, and others will be changed at the shop. The work will be in charge of the mechanical engineer of the road, H. P. Flory. The Central Railroad is getting rid of some of its old passenger equipment that has seen better days. These are bought up generally and fitted up as "Jim Crow" cars for use in the South.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Money Makers," George Rollett's amusing farce comedy in which Ida Conquest scored very strongly at one of the Broadway playhouses within the past several weeks is to be the offering of the Proctor Stock Company at the Fifth Avenue Theatre next week. The original scenic equipment has been secured and many original effects will be added by the artists employed by Mr. Procsor, and the performance will be one well worth seeing. The piece will be cast with all the favorites including Edwin Arden, Miss Isabelle Evesson, Edmund Lyons, Miss Annie Ward Tiffany, Wallace Erskine, H. Dudley Hawley, John Westley and many others. The vaudeville numbers before and between the acts will be unusually strong and will include the twelve "Wood Nymphs," who created such a sensation at Mr. Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre several weeks ago, with their clever singing and dancing, and by the elaborate scenic setting of their act. The Atmos Family, four European jugglers and head-to-head balancers have a unique specialty which is greatly enhanced by the fact that two of the performers are children. Hughey Dougherty, the famous oldtime minstrel who is today even better than ever, will offer a monologue over-brimming with original and up-to-date humor.

LITERARY.

The Era Magazine for February contains the true story of Tom Lawson, the surprising facts in the picturesque career of a remarkable man, written without prejudice or bias. The article is illustrated with a score of beautiful photographs of the magnificent Lawson country home, and the interesting family of the financier. The fourth of the series of Life Insurance exposures by Henry Shedd Beardsley is more sensational, and contains information more appalling than any previous installment.

Collier's calls attention to the inaugural address of Governor Stokes of New Jersey on January 17, in which he showed that New Jersey had a balance of $2,940,916 98 in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year. She collected from corporations $3,351,543 69 or nearly 78 per cent. of the entire revenues of the State. She did not raise a single cent by direct taxation; yet she was able not only to meet all the usual expenses of a State government, but to develop a road system embracing one-third of all the macadamized State roads of the Union.

The February number of The Era, contains the best fiction of the month. Among the notable contributions is a story by Edith Rickert, author of "The Reaper," "Strayed a Princess" is the name of the charming tale by this author in the February Era. Other attractive features are "Slivers," a story, by Maitland Leroy Osborne; "The Penalty," by Joe Woodworth; "A Quotation of Honor," by P. Hamilton Goodsell; "Viola Allen—the Woman," by a member of her company; "Without Benefit of Training," by Rita Soberman, and others.

The number of depositors in the savings banks of the United States has doubled in the last seventeen years. The total amount of their deposits has increased from $1,235,247,871, in 1887, to $2,985,204,845, during the year 1903. The official statistics, for 1903, show 7,305,228 individual depositors. About one-half of the amount deposited represents the savings of the wage-earning class. The figures here given not only show an increasing prosperity among those of small incomes, but they also indicate an increasing frugality. Of the total deposits of the entire country not less than 38 5 per cent. are in the State of New York.—From "Success."

SENATE PASSED BILL LAST NIGHT.

Proposition to Include Arizona Defeated, Thus Eliminating the Apache Territory—Mormon Question Aired.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—After a continuous sitting of almost nine hours the senate at 8:45 o'clock last night passed the joint statehood bill. As passed the bill provides for the admission of two new states—Oklahoma, to be composed of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, and New Mexico, according to the present boundaries, with Arizona eliminated. The long session was characterized by exciting incidents and many surprises. Beginning promptly upon convening, the senate proceeded to consider the various amendments which had been suggested by the committee on territories and which had been passed over. One of the first of these taken up was the amendment prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in what is now Indian Territory for the next ten years, and this was displaced with a substitute offered by Mr. Gallinger, which extended the amendment to the entire state for a period of twenty-one years, and this was adopted.

The first surprise of the day came when the committee accepted Mr. Foraker's amendment providing for a separate vote by each of the territories of Arizona and New Mexico on the constitution to be adopted by the proposed state of Arizona. That provision had scarcely been made a part of the bill when Mr. Bard presented his amendment, which had been originally offered by Mr. Patterson and which provided for the admission of New Mexico as a state without the addition of Arizona. This amendment proved to be the point around which all the subsequent proceedings of importance revolved. It was at first adopted by the close vote of 42 to 40. This vote was taken while the senate was sitting in committee of the whole and was reversed in the senate proper by the tie vote of 38 to 38.

Subsequently the senate decided by a vote of 38 to 36 to entirely eliminate New Mexico and Arizona from the bill, and this result had hardly been announced when Mr. Bard in slightly changed form renewed his proposition for the admission of New Mexico as a state, and this to the amendment prevailed by the vote of 40 to 37. One of the affirmative votes was, however, cast by Mr. Beveridge, in charge of the bill, for the purpose of moving the reconsideration of the vote. He was prompt in entering this motion as soon as the result was announced, but the motion was laid upon the table by a vote of 39 to 38. The effect was to eliminate Arizona from the bill and to establish a state of New Mexico and another of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. In this form the bill passed.

The defeat of the Bard amendment in the senate after it had been adopted in committee of the whole gave rise to some interesting incidents. Mr. Bailey intimated that there had been a "trade" regarding the adoption of an amendment adding a portion of Arizona to Utah.

The Mormon question also received an airing during the day. While the provision for a separate admission of New Mexico was under consideration Mr. Burrows, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, announced his opposition to the bill and stated that it was due to the practice of polygamy in that territory to such an extent that he considered it unwise to take the administration away from the federal authorities. Mr. Dubois, Mr. McComas and Mr. Platt (Conn.) referred to the question of polygamy and to the revelations before the committee.

Army Feeds Hungry School Children.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—More than four score children, noisy and insistent, gathered at Salvation Army headquarters here and later departed for the Jones public school warm and comfortably fed, many of them, it is said, being so for the first time in their school career. The gathering marked the putting into effect of a plan of the Salvation Army, both here and in other large cities, to provide breakfast in crowded school districts for children who ordinarily, it is asserted, leave home half fed or wholly empty to take up studies for the day.

Woman Killed by Trolley.

QUAKERTOWN, Pa., Feb. 8.—One woman was killed and a man and a girl were seriously injured last night in a collision between a sleigh and a trolley car on the Philadelphia and Lehigh Valley Traction company's line. The sleigh was occupied by Daniel Yanisch, Miss Florence Lewis and Mrs. Heitz. Because of slippery rails the motorman was unable to stop his car. Mrs. Heitz was killed instantly, and the others were badly hurt.

Central Express Killed Italian.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Train No. 2, a fast express on the New York Central railroad, struck and killed an Italian section hand yesterday afternoon near Cranesville. The man stepped from in front of a freight train directly in the path of the express train. He was about thirty years old and unmarried.

UNDER THE RED FLAG AT CAPITAL

Violent Proclamation by Democratic Operatives—Will March to Palace, Not With Ikons, but With Rifles—Gopon In Switzerland.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 8.—This morning at the capital the startling crime in Helsingfors has withdrawn public attention from the strike situation throughout Russia. Recent events in Poland and the Caucasus, however, are quite serious enough in themselves. Disorders in the smaller industrial towns of Poland have added more than a score to the tale of the killed, and troops have had to be sent to Warsaw and Kutno, eighty-three miles west of Warsaw, to quell uprisings there. The strike conditions in the Caucasus are becoming worse, and traffic on the Transcaucasian railway is interrupted.

The men employed in three St. Petersburg factories threatened to walk out, but the grievance in this instance, which was over strike pay, was settled at a conference.

A large nail factory in the Vassili Ostroff section was burned, and reports of incendiarism were current, but appear to have been based on presumption rather than proof.

The central committee of the Russian Social Democratic Workmen's party has issued a violent proclamation, which has been widely circulated in the factories of St. Petersburg, calling on the operatives to array themselves under the red flag of the Social Democracy and prepare for an armed renewal of the January demonstrations. The proclamation bitterly assails church and state and the higher classes and concludes: "In order to gain victory we must organize a vast workmen's army. Then again we will start for the palace to present our demands not without weapons, not with ikons and not with supplications, but with arms in our hands, under the blood red standard of the Russian Social Democratic party."

Father Gopon, the leader of the workmen of St. Petersburg in the affair of Jan. 22, is now known to be in Switzerland.

The police have discovered at the residence of Municipal Councilor Kedrine, one of those who was arrested with Maxim Gorky after the attempt to interview Minister of the Interior Sviatopolk-Mirsky the night before the collision between the soldiers and workmen in this city and who is still in St. Peter and St. Paul fortress, the draft of a proclamation inciting the army to revolt.

The manufacturers of Lodz at a meeting there have decided to concede the men a workday of ten hours and an increase in wages ranging from 5 to 15 per cent, provided they all return to work forthwith.

The assassin of Soisalon Soininen, procurator general of Finland, has been identified as Karl Lonard Hohenthal, formerly a student at the Imperial Alexander university at Helsingfors.

Hohenthal recovered consciousness late yesterday, but no deposition has been taken, as he steadfastly refuses to answer questions. His injuries are slight, the broken leg being the most serious. He evidently was actuated by the widespread condemnation of Soininen's failure as procurator general to guard the ancient laws of Finland.

At Warsaw several men were killed by strikers in bakeries and elsewhere when attempts were made to resume work. Many arrests have been made.

Sudden Death of J. H. Manley.

AUGUSTA, Me., Feb. 8.—Joseph H. Manley, former chairman of the national executive committee of the Republican party, died suddenly at his home here. He was found dead lying on his bed by members of his family. As private secretary to the late James G. Blaine during the most important part of the career of Blaine at Washington and as the manager of the campaign of Mr. Blaine for president Mr. Manley became one of the best known men in the Republican party.

Baltimore Tug Turned Turtle.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 8.—The tug Charles J. Baker turned turtle in the upper harbor yesterday owing to a peculiar accident. The tugs Transport and Baker were towing a large car float, both tugs carrying the same hawsers. One of the tow lines snapped between the two tugs, which caused the Baker to capsize. She filled almost immediately and sank in about twenty-seven feet of water. The members of the crew were rescued after their sudden plunge into the icy water.

Mrs. Duke's Partner Arraigned.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Charles E. Taylor, business partner of Mrs. Alice Webb-Duke, was arraigned in court here charged with swindling E. A. Blount of Nacogdoches, Tex., out of $3,000. Pending the arrival of officers from Nacogdoches the case, at the request of the police, was continued until Feb. 14.

A Success For "the Divine Sarah."

PARIS, Feb. 8.—Sarah Bernhardt's revival of Victor Hugo's "Angele" at the theater Sarah Bernhardt last night was the dramatic event of the season. There was a large and brilliant audience present, and it warmly received Mme. Bernhardt's magnificent portrayal of the character Tisbe.

BLIZZARD IN THE SOUTH.

Rain and Sleet In Texas, Louisiana and Tennessee.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 8.—With a blizzard raging in north and east Texas and rain and sleet falling in many districts in southern Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee, weather conditions last night were decidedly worse than at any time since the present storm began. A blizzard has been sweeping over the cattle ranges of western Texas for two days, and last night showed no signs of abatement. Thousands of cattle are reported to be suffering and in many cases totally deprived of water.

Telegraphic communication is demoralized in all sections of the southwest, and the cities of Shreveport, Baton Rouge and Crowley, in western Louisiana, are completely cut off from wire connection of any kind. Rain is falling in New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, accompanied by falling temperature.

The state of Arkansas is in the grasp of one of the worst sleet storms in its history.

Reports from Waco and southern Texas state that the temperature is slowly rising. Rains have set in, and it is feared the precipitation will be followed by a freeze.

The city of Natchez, Miss., has been without wire communication since Saturday.

BILLIARDS AT CHICAGO.

Norris Defeated Schmitt—Sigourney Lost His First Game.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—In the billiard tournament here Charles Norris of New York defeated Charles S. Schmitt of Racine by the score of 300 to 190. Both men played exceptionally well, making runs in double figures for the first twenty innings.

W. H. Sigourney, the Pacific coast champion, lost his first game so far in the tournament last night. His opponent was Charles Threshie of Boston. The final score was 300 to 207 in favor of the Boston player. Sigourney fell down on several easy shots and played a rather weak game. Threshie's high run was 43. The best run Sigourney secured was 32.

Charles F. Conklin of Chicago, Edward Gardner of New York and W. H. Sigourney of San Francisco are the players left in the tournament who will fight out the final games for first honors.

Mr. Jack and Barca Defeated.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8.—Rainy, disagreeable weather and a heavy track cut down the fields, diminished the attendance and interfered with the racing generally. Four favorites won—Mr. Jack, who was repeatedly cut off and interfered with, and Barca, who disliked the conditions, meeting defeat. Beginning today the Crescent City Jockey club raised the value of all purse and selling races from $400 to $500 and $600 and of handicaps to $800 and $900.

Hit Ward In the Stomach.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 8.—Mike Ward of Sarnia, Ont., won his fight last night with Jimmy Kelley of New York in the fifth round on a foul. The men were fighting "clean breaks," and Kelley from the first round persisted in hitting in clinches with one arm free. Near the close of the fifth round he hit Ward twice in the stomach in a clinch, and Referee Lynch declared Ward the winner.

Fought to a Draw at Chelsea.

CHELSEA, Mass., Feb. 8.—Willie Lewis of New York and Jimmy Briggs of this city fought fifteen rounds to a draw before the Douglas Athletic club last night. Lewis outpointed Briggs, but it was agreed that if both men were on their feet at the end of the fifteenth round no decision would be given.

Four Favorites In Front.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 8.—Four favorites came home in front at Ascot, the other two races going to third choices at liberal odds. Frank Perley, perfectly ridden by Fuller, scored his first victory in the fifth race. Bugle Horn was backed strongly for the sixth race and reached the wire first in a drive.

Chess Tournament at Paris.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The sixth game in the chess match between Frank J. Marshall of Brooklyn, N. Y., and D. Janowski of Paris resulted in a draw after fifty-two moves. The score now stands: Marshall, 2; Janowski, 2; drawn, 2.

Colgate Defeated Syracuse.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The Colgate university basket ball team defeated Syracuse university here last night by the score of 34 to 18.

DAMARA FOUNDERED

Furness Liner Ran on Rocks at Musquodoboit.

CAPTAIN AND BOAT'S CREW MISSING

Raging Snowstorm Wrecked Steamer on Nova Scotia Coast—First Officer and Seamen Had Hard Struggle For Life.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 8.—During a raging gale and blinding snowstorm, which has swept the Nova Scotia coast for the past twenty-four hours, the ocean steamer Damara of the Furness line ran on the rocks at Musquodoboit, thirty miles east of Halifax, early in the morning and is believed to have foundered with the loss of many lives.

The first officer of the ship, with eighteen of the crew, escaped in one of the lifeboats and landed at Pleasant point after a terrible struggle with wind and sea. Captain Gorst, master of the Damara, four passengers and the balance of the steamer's crew left the vessel in another lifeboat and have not been heard of since, and it is feared that they have perished.

The occupants of the boat which reached shore were utterly exhausted, and many of them were badly frost bitten. They had a harrowing experience, battling in the darkness for hours in the open boat against tempestuous seas on a treacherous coast, with the thermometer 10 degrees below zero and an arctic blizzard raging.

They landed on shore some time during the day and reached the telegraph office at Musquodoboit harbor last night, from whence they wired the first intelligence of the disaster to the agents of the Furness line at Halifax, to which port the Damara was bound.

The survivors say that the steamer struck about 2 o'clock in the morning, when the blizzard was so thick that it was impossible to see a ship's length ahead. How the steamer got so far out of her proper course they cannot imagine. The ship struck without warning on what proved to be Musquodoboit ledge.

An immense hole, through which the sea poured in torrents, was smashed in the bow of the steamer. The shock of the impact shivered the vessel from stem to stern, waking every one on board, and huge breakers swept the vessel fore and aft. Lifeboats were immediately ordered over the side and all hands left the ship.

It is believed that the steamer must have foundered quickly, and small hope is entertained by the survivors of the wreck that the captain and other occupants of the missing lifeboat could have successfully withstood the extreme rigor of the weather prevailing on this coast for the many hours which have passed.

The wind was offshore, and if the missing boat has not already swamped it has been driven seaward many miles and is now probably adrift on the Atlantic in the midst of some of the worst weather of the season.

Students Fled From Smallpox.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 8.—The entire student body of Gettysburg college has been placed under quarantine because of the discovery of smallpox in the institution. Two freshmen, Roy W. Stambough of Perry county and Ralph Zimmerman of Somerset, were stricken with the disease, and the board of health has deputized a large force of men to guard the dormitories. Before their arrival, however, more than 100 students had fled from the college, many of them leaving the building by way of the fire escapes, while others jumped from the windows.

Assault on Student Caused Fire.

EAST HAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 8.—Fire Aid George F. Crittendon of the state police, who is here investigating the fire in North hall, one of the Williston seminary dormitories, was quoted last night as saying that William C. Porter, the student who was found unconscious in his room at the time the fire was discovered, stated to him that he had been assaulted in his room by an unknown young man and rendered unconscious and that during a struggle a lamp was overturned, thus starting the fire.

Did Not See King George.

ATHENS, Feb. 8.—With reference to the story from Paris, which has been published in the United States, that the yacht of the king of Greece, on which his majesty was going to France from Denmark at the time of the Dogger bank incident, was fired upon by vessels of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron, King George authorizes the statement from the captain of the yacht that the craft never came in sight of the Baltic fleet at any time or place.

Comerford May Be Expelled.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 8.—The investigation of Representative Frank D. Comerford's charges of corruption and attempted bribery against members of the Illinois legislature have been concluded. The house committee, it is authoritatively stated, will report that Mr. Comerford has failed to substantiate his charges against members of the legislature and that the gravity of these unsupported charges warrants his expulsion as a member of the house.

Mme. Garibaldi's Request.

ROME, Feb. 8.—Clelia Garibaldi has addressed to parliament a petition against the proposition of Ricciotti Garibaldi that the government permit of the cremation of the body of General Garibaldi, according to the wishes he expressed prior to his death. In this petition it is argued that the body of General Garibaldi should not be removed from the island of Caprera, where it is entombed at present.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 8, 1905.

Some provision should be made in the proposed saloon district ordinance, now passed to second reading, for hotels which are or may hereafter be located in the territory where it is intending that no saloons should exist. The Hotel Netherwood, for instance, which has in the past and is likely in the future to be conducted as a summer resort, would be debarred from the right to apply for a license, working an irreparable injury. Truel Inn would be similarly affected. An unambiguous clause should be inserted in the proposed measure defining what constitutes a hotel and under what conditions a license will be granted it when located in the exclused territory. Too many saloons today are masqueraded as hotels, and licenses are given although it is perfectly evident that the chief business of the resort is to sell liquor. It is suggested in this connection that the Common Council might in some way legally prohibit an entrance to the bar room from the street. A hotel is a place where the sale of liquor is a mere adjunct to the general business and it should not be flaunted in such a way as to make it the chief end of the concern. When the door to the bar room is made the principal entrance to a hotel, a license should be withheld until the proprietor makes the bar more inconspicious. The saloon restricting bill is sure to pass in the Common Council and therefore it is right that the ordinance should be carefully drawn and we believe that one of its most important features should be the hotel aspect.

FOR STATE'S TROOPS AT INAUGURATION MCH. 4

BILL APPROPRIATING $15,000 TO DEFRAY EXPENSES OF JERSEY SOLDIERS.

Leader Duffield has introduced in the Assembly a bill appropriating $15,000 to defray the expenses of the New Jersey troops that will participate in the inaugural ceremonies of President Roosevelt at Washington on March 4 Co K, of this city, will be among the troops.

The military board was in session yesterday arranging the details of the assignment of the troops. It is expected that the Essex Troop and a provisional regiment to be composed of companies from the four regiments of the National Guard will represent New Jersey in the inaugural parade.

Commander D Unger, of the Second Battalion, Naval Reserves, and Assemblyman Miller, of Cumberland, who is an officer of the same battalion, are endeavoring to have a detachment of the Reserves detailed to accompany the State troops.

MISSIONARY ADDRESS.

Mrs. Pearson Spoke on Japan at Meeting of Women's Foreign Missionary Society.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Presbyterian church, yesterday afternoon, was a particularly interesting and instructive one. The subject was "Japan," and the speaker was Mrs. Pearson, a missionary in the Island Empire, who is partially supported in her work by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church.

Mr. Pearson has not been in Japan since the hostilities with the Russians were taken up, though she mentioned in her address certain interesting facts leading up to the war. As all say who are acquainted by personal observation with the Japanese, Mrs. Pearson spoke of the races, one in which there are the greatest Christian possibilities. She mentioned the leading characteristic of the Japanese, their humanity, their endurance and their courage. These, the speaker said, when used toward the right end, would prove the race, one of the strongest and one of the noblest on the earth.

—The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at the home of Mrs. Frank Howland, 772 Kensington avenue.

CITY BOARD OF HEALTH ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

HEARS THAT THERE WERE NINETY CASES OF MEASLES DURING JANUARY.

Officers were elected, committees appointed and reports were presented at the February meeting of the Board of Health, held yesterday afternoon. The election resulted as follows: President, Charles J. Fisk; secretary, Dr. B. vanD. Hedges; treasurer, Fred W. Dunn. President Fisk then appointed these committees:

Finance and supplies, Fred W. Dunn, Dr. B. vanD. Hedges; contagious diseases, Dr. T. S. Davis, Dr. B. vanD. Hedges; food and drink, Dr. B. vanD. Hedges, Charles Dunham; nuisances, Charles Dunham, Fred W. Dunn.

The Board adopted a resolution making compulsory the smoke test on plumbing before connection were made with the city sewer system. This is to apply to old plumbing systems which were formerly connected with cesspools as well as new systems; also that the health officer be instructed to notify all plumbers of this resolution.

During January there was reported seven marriages, thirty-four births and twenty-two deaths. At present the city is exceptionally free from contagious diseases, there being no house in the city under quarantine. During the month but one case of diphtheria and two of scarlet fever were reported. There were ninety cases of measles, this being an epidemic at present. The different diseases reported during January are as follows:

Scarlet fever, 2; diphtheria, 1; typhoid fever, 2; chicken-pox, 1; measles, 90; tuberculosis, 8; whooping-cough, 4; total, 108. Of this number there were fourth deaths from tuberculosis, one from measles and one from typhoid fever.

In the opinion of the Board the epidemic of measles is a difficult disease to control, chiefly because of the lack of any fear of it on the part of the parents. In a majority of cases no physicians are in attendance and the child is allowed to return to school before having fully recovered. The Board has taken necessary precaution to prevent a spread of the disease and it is now believed that it is dying out. The marked decrease in the total number of contagious diseases reported since September 1 last, the opening of the school year, is noticeable and shows a favorable comparison with the same period of the previous year.

is a fairly large amount of money. How to get it is a question, and how to take care of it after you do get it is another. The way to get it is to save, and deposit a certain sum each month. By allowing the interest to compound semi-annually, the principle is surprisingly increased. We take care of the large and small deposits and pay 3½ per cent. interest.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

One of the annual events of the year for the Christian Endeavor Society, of the Presbyterian church, will take place tomorrow night, when the valentine social will be held at the church parlors. Preparations for the affair are being completed and it promises to be one of the most attractive of the church social functions. The evening will be appropriately spent, and under the direction of Miss Emma Craig an interesting programme has been arranged. Miss Craig is chairman of the committee in charge of the social. Another valentine social will be held tomorrow night, which will be given by the members of Lakeside Council, D. of L. Elaborate plans are being made for the occasion, and a large attendance is anticipated for the event.

Routine business was transacted at the regular monthly meeting of the Epworth League, which was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Apgar last night. Selections relative to the mission work of the society were read, and a social time was enjoyed. There was a good attendance, and the reports show the work to be progressing rapidly.

The funeral of Mrs. Joseph Maier, who died last week, was held from her late home yesterday morning and subsequently from St. John's church, where a requiem mass took place in charge of Father Dumphy.

The regular meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society, of the Presbyterian church, was held yesterday afternoon at the parsonage. The usual routine business was transacted, followed by a social hour.

Among the local attractions for next week will be a chicken supper to be given by the Ladies' Aid Society, of the M. E. church, in the lecture room on Thursday evening.

The Afternoon Card Club held its regular bi-monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Day, of New Market, yesterday afternoon. It was well attended.

An entertainment will be given Friday night at the Presbyterian chapel by the members of Thomas Bodine's Sunday-school class.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle is out-of-town attending the funeral of his brother, who died recently at Port Jarvis, N. Y.

Miss Elizabeth Dunham returned last week from Pennsylvania, where she has been the guest of relatives.

The condition of Rev. Frank Fletcher, who is confined to his home by the grip, is improved.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Day have been entertaining out-of-town relatives for a few weeks.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of the late Mrs. Isabella Billings, who died at her home Friday night, were held from All Saints' Episcopal church yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Mulford, rector of the church, having charge of the obsequies. Mrs. Billings had been a resident of this place for nearly forty years. During that time she had made many friends, who were shocked to hear of her sudden death, although her health had been failing for several years. Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery, the pall bearers being her four nephews, George H. Lyons, Harry Lyons, George Lee and Harry Lee, all of New York.

One of the enjoyable events in the social life of the Suburban Club was the annual reception and dance given last night in the club hall. The dancing floor was crowded until a late hour with the merry dancers who were enjoying the waltz and two-step, to the strains of Suhr's orchestra. Those who desired other amusements found the bowling alleys and billiard room open and very popular counter attraction prizes being given for the high scores on the alleys. Guests were present from Westfield, Plainfield and the 'Plains. All were unanimous in voting the affair one of the most enjoyable the club has ever held.

The local bowlers and Suburbs team roll a match game tomorrow night on Lee's alleys. The locals want to be in better form than they were at Dunellen on Monday night, or the borough team will walk away from them.

Freeholder John Robison, who has been detained at home for several days with an attack of rheumatism, is able to be around again.

Miss Nancy Wade, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade, has returned to her home at Milburn.

Miss Minnie Squiers has returned from a visit with her mother, Mrs. Douglass, at Rahway.

Miss N. L. Litteill was the guest yesterday of Miss Pond, of Washington Park.

Edward Johnston has returned from a visit with friends at Hackensack, N. J.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Some roads in the country are still blocked with snow. On the road between Oak Tree and Metuchen a wagon laden with a dead horse has stood fast in the snow several days. The owner evidently after getting stalled in the snow banks abandoned his load.

Letters remain uncalled for in the local postoffice since February 1, for Julia Barley, Adam Albinoski, Louis Gary and Harry Oswald, as advertised.

Mrs. P. C. Johnson has entirely recovered from a recent attack of scarlet fever, and is able to be out among her friends again.

S. R. Dayton has rented a farm on the Raritan river road near Riverside Park, which he will occupy in the spring.

MOVING PICTURES AT Y. M. C. A.

Other Numbers on the Entertaining Programme.

Under the management of D. W. Robertson, the finest moving pictures which have ever been presented in this city for some time, were given at the Y. M. C. A. last night, accompanied by a first class musical and humorous entertainment. The artists were John Foreman, humorist and monologist, and Howard D. Argie. Both were well received. The rest of the entertainment was supplied by the Edison Projectoscope, in a programme which was varied and interesting.

The pictures were the latest, including views of St. Louis, and scenes from the Russo-Japanese War. A feature of the programme was a series of illustrated songs which won much applause. Popular songs were well rendered while illustrations appropriate were thrown upon the screen.

Casino Attraction.

One of the best engagements that have been effected by Manager Mase Edwards for the Casino this season is the one which will be played Monday, February 13, Lincoln's Birthday, matinee and evening, when The New York Juvenile Opera Company, numbering nearly fifty children, will present Gilbert and Sullivan's delightful comic opera entitled "Iolanthe." It may be truthfully stated that the opera will be given in its most absolute entirety without any cuts and in the cast will be seen some of the most extraordinary of youthful prodigies. The engagement will be a source of much delight and anticipation for the women and children who are sure to crowd the theatre for the matinee. The company carries its own special orchestra. The opera will be given with new and gorgeous costumes. Between the first and second act several specialties will be introduced for the purpose of showing the versatility of some of the members of the cast who are not enabled to display all their talent in the opera itself.

Voice Culture.

Paul F. Handel, tenor, will be in Plainfield Monday and Thursday afternoons of each week, and will receive pupils in the study of pure tone production. Studio, 515 Madison avenue. 2 7 2

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. A. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, is recovering from a recent illness.

"Jesus' Prayer for His Glorification" will be the subject of the prayer meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church tonight.

Dr. Grenfell will give his lecture on "Labrador" in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Thursday night, February 16.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the local Episcopal churches will attend a meeting in St. John's church, Elizabeth, tomorrow, when Dr. Griggs, of Alaska, will tell of his work there.

"What I Owe to Christian Endeavor," will be the topic of the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Friday night. Miss Jennie Giles will be the leader.

The Women's Foreign Mission Circle of the Park Avenue Baptist church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Freeman, 1008 South avenue, and considered the subject: "Modern Christian Missions in Japan." A prayer service followed the discussion.

The approaching removal of Mr. and Mrs. Noble C. King from Plainfield to Chicago, deprives Hope chapel Sunday-school of two most efficient teachers. The chapel primary department, under charge of Mrs. King, has during the past four years showed the following figures of total yearly attendance: 2941, 3922, 3959, 4532; with an average weekly attendance of 56, 75, 76, 87. During the past year the largest attendance on any one Sunday was 139; and the average weekly offering was $1.12. The primary department of Hope chapel constitutes about one-quarter of the school, and is its most interesting as doubtless it is its most important department.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McKenzie, of Watchung avenue, are spending a few weeks at Wilmington, N. C.

Jacob Williams, of Newark, who has been visiting his son, W. D. Williams, of East Front street, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Buckle, of Camden, have been visiting Mr. Buckle's brother, Mayor J. F. Buckle, of Westervelt avenue.

Louis Brown, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, has been visiting his father, who is seriously ill at Muhlenberg Hospital.

CLOSED PORTALS.

In connection with the initiation of ten new members, Plainfield aerie, No. 886, F. O. E., enjoyed a social session, last night. Vocal selections were given by William Kregar, William McConnell, Frank McCabe and Dan V. Force, while Horace G. Adams, Lawrence Powers and John K. English made addresses. In the regular business session, five applicants were elected and four propositions were received.

Miss A. S. Dunn Dead.

Miss Adeline S. Dunn, aged seventy-five years, a life-long resident of Stelton, died at her home yesterday morning following an attack of the grip. She was well known in Piscataway township and for many years was a member of the Baptist church at Stelton. She is survived by a brother, W. P. Dunn, of Stelton, and a sister, Mrs. Robert Pierce, of Dunellen. The funeral services will be held from the home of Miss Dunn's brother on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and Rev. W. T. Dorwood, pastor of the Baptist church, will officiate.

A Jolly Strawride.

A pleasant straw ride was given by a party of Bound Brook young men last night in return for a leap year party given by a number of Plainfield girls on Hallowe'en. There were about twenty in the party which met at the home of Miss Edna Long, of Park avenue. Westfield was the destination and a return was made by the way of Scotch Plains.

YOUTH IN THE CITY

RECREATION IS A NEED THAT MUST BE CONSIDERED.

CHICAGO IS IN PERPLEXITY

There Come to Polite Ears Unsavory Reports of Dance Halls—Some Contrasts in the Big Town.

CHICAGO—Our English cousins are accused of taking their pleasures sadly, and we Americans have been likewise ridiculed. But, alas and alackaday for the lads and lassies that take their pleasures madly.

The Chicago papers, the civil authorities and, mildly, the public, have been concerned recently with what they call the dance-hall evil. Without doubt, it comes in the nature of a shock to people generally. Average persons with average feelings of humanity, have been wont to look on these dances attended by the servant-girl class with a mixture of amusement and approval; amusement that the ball should have such a strong attraction that a girl who has been on her feet all day should care to be on her feet all night; approval, that those whose portion is one of so much drudgery should be able to find some merry, lightsome amusement.

And now investigation is spoiling this pleasant, innocent picture.

The harmless dance we held in imagination we are told, is an orgy. The attendants in these affairs as a rule are mere youngsters, boys and girls that a hard fate has sent into the world at too early an age; sent out for the bread and butter struggle, and left unprotected, adrift, in the other struggle—the grasping after pleasure, happiness, whatever be the name for that human necessity apart from the labor one.

The pursuit of this evanescent thing buoys up the servant girl over her pots, the shop-girl in the long hours of her service, the factory-worker in her toil, the laundry-girl in her heavy task. It is natural, sane, wholesome, the desire; but the reality looms up very different from the dream to which the above adjectives belong. Why is it? Is it that there is a lack in our social system, a failure to recognize the recreations needs of the working-girl, or is it that we in our narrow bounds do not approve of mirth and dance for her, would consign her to Browning clubs and classical music? Perhaps what we await is a bishop that will open a really social, truly respectable dance hall.

The Occasional Open Tragedy.

WHEN we come to think of it, we have overheard now and then a servant-girl characterize a fellow worker in this phrase: "Oh, she goes to the all-night dances;" but to our ignorant ears this scorn had appeared a bit of narrowness, a bit of Phariseeism. May not the speaker have known better than the one on a different level the true inwardness of these rolls? If we had had an inkling we (at least so we trust) would not have greeted with such smiling indifference Hilda's or Olga's dishevelled appearance on "the morning after."

What started the belated interest of Chicago in the character of these places of amusement was the recent suicide at one of them of a young girl. It was at one of the semipublic dances that are given in various quarters of the city Saturday nights the desperate act occurred, and the circumstances attending it are bringing to light the fact that these affairs pay no heed to the ordinance in regard to midnight closing, selling liquor to minors, and other restrictions aimed at the upholding of decency and order.

The girl's companions had noticed that she looked pale and seemed rather apart from the general merriment all during the evening, and it had been observed she kept watching the door as though expecting some one that failed to come. She stayed through the long hours of the revel—these things begin late, after the dishes are all done, the grime of the week removed—then, apparently giving up all hope that some promise to her was to be kept, at three o'clock she went to the dressing room and swallowed enough carbolic acid to put an end to her troubles.

A humble tragedy, but significant.

Now the Moralizers Have the Floor.

OF COURSE this has furnished the pulpits with a theme. And, what was bound to happen, some of the preachers have brought to the fore not only the dance hall of low degree, but also the Charity Ball of exclusive renown.

Moralizing is easy. We, too, draw a lesson. But the preachers' and ours do not seem to have a great deal in common. The former say, "Close the halls! Close the halls!" and, "The real test of charity comes when the giver is not on dress parade. The spirit which prompted the charity dance was one of pride rather than of compassion." We admit the command may be wise, the statement have a quantum of truth, and yet the gist of the matter seems something different, something like this:

Youth craves, whether dwell he and she on the Lake Shore Drive or over on Canal street, mirth, hilarity, a chance to rebound from routine. And youth, whether for good or ill, is going to get it. The average person finds small cause to censure the little child whose ebullition of spirit is expressed in hop and skip; the colt that feels its oats; the dog released from the confinement of house and capering in its freedom. Animal spirits, and not to be suppressed — at least so the psychologist and the physiologist tell us.

The weary, the blase, cannot always find recreation in such sober joys as reading, concerts, lectures; they are too tired, they require diversion, must forget for awhile the conditions that have brought them to the extreme weariness, "lose themselves." And some agreeable physicial exercise is a reasonable, wholesome means of banishing the fatigue; be it dancing, riding, bicycling, rowing, skating, some means of employing that wonderful energy of youth.

What substitute for the low dance hall can be offered? A perplexed town, you see.

Exclusive Days and Public.

NOW that we are speaking of contrasts of the big town, it may not be out of place to offer impressions of two days at the Art Institute; impressions gathered when society was honoring an exhibition, observations taken during the nooning hour of one of the free days. Mention of this may come in specially well now, as there is just drawing to a close an important and very interesting loan exhibition of portraits.

The Chicago Art Institute, by the way, is a much visited institution; 700,000 persons visit it annually, twice as many as are reported at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts in that length of time. The visitors are of all classes, all ages; I was about to say, of all colors. For this thing is noticeable on the free days, always a sprinkling of negroes in the crowds strolling through the galleries. And what surprises one farther is the proportion of people whose appearance would suggest a life given over to dealing with the bare necessaries, who here seem to get real enjoyment in contemplation of works of art.

On the private days, too, one sees variety. There are usually a goodly number of out-of-town folk taking advantage of a day in the city to "do" the institute; always a group of art students observing pictures, and commenting in passing; a burly man here and there, looking big amongst the petticoats, in a busy life stealing a moment for indulgence in what mayhap was a thwarted taste; grandmas with a desire to improve; granddames, patrons of art and the support of struggling artists. These latter move about as though they knew a thing or two, eye the exhibition with critical poise of the head, judging eye. We wonder if their verdict is of as real worth as that of the young people over the way, the earnest art students?

Engaged in the Social Act.

HONESTY is the best policy, and also cordiality. The sledge-hammer methods, the suspicious attitude, today are not to the fore in commercial life. And Chicago is demonstrating this at present.

The Commercial association has just opened headquarters in the Great Northern building, the rooms to be used as a rendezvous for out-of-town traders and merchants. Here the out-of-town folk can enjoy club comforts and club advantages, enjoy intercourse with men representative of the great progressive town they have come to visit. And the Commercial association has for its object more than mere hospitality; it is evincing intense interest in furthering Chicago's good, in bringing to notice Chicago's accomplishments. The "Chicago spirit" is hastening a wonderful Lake Shore boulevard, planning for civic beauty ,striving for fair laws, preaching the practical value of art.

The ladies, too, have introduced a new social feature in the city's life; so English, you know. We have just opened our first tea shop, a belated copy of London and New York mode. But, though a little slow, we are quite content with the result, have as pretty and attractive a place in which to spend a leisure hour as one need wish. Our tea shop is quiet and charming, prettily situated on Michigan boulevard, looking out on this smooth driveway and on the waters of the lake beyond. It is decorated in the "old English out-of-door style," the paper on the walls shows lattice work, green on white, there are border panels of leafy loveliness, the woodwork is white, the chairs and tables are of wicker; all airy, dainty, just the sort of thing in which to take a five o'clock.

The ladies are generous, and admit men to this restful spot. But they do not allow the men to bring along cigar or pipe. The tea shop is essentially feminine.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark.
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

VAGARIES OF FASHION.

The Bolero Holds Its Own in Popularity—The Draped Bodice.

The bolero, which is so popular, is nothing like its Spanish namesake. The new development is a half loose coat which finishes in a round belt at the waist. Another example of the bolero is evolved of lace hung in loose plaits from the shoulders and confined at the waist by a high pointed girdle of soft silk. This girdle is pointed in front and rounded at the back.

The fitted and draped style of waist is gradually gaining in popularity. The loose, graceful blouse bodices so long in favor the average woman finds difficult to dispense with. Consequently a smart wardrobe will have waists of both styles.

Myrtle and lizard shades of green as well as the bronze tones, currant and various shades of red, medium violet, deep plum, burgundy and the golden browns will be the day wear tints for early spring gowns.

Most becoming and dainty are the exquisitely embroidered fine white chemisettes designed for wear with long tailor made coats.

A hat of one color and gown in a contrasting or harmonizing tone bid fair to be a fashionable vogue later in the season.

Very stunning is this dress of gun metal cashmere. The skirt is laid in fine plaits about the waist. At the knee the plaits flare, and each one is caught alternately with passementerie motifs. The sleeves are odd affairs consisting of circular ruffles trimmed with black velvet buttons.

FADS AND FANCIES.

Advance Spring Modes—Some of the New Jewelry Notions.

It is early to think of spring and summer fashions. Still many of the advanced modes are appearing in the shops. One summery novelty is the ribbon parasol.

A novel and dainty new parasol is reminiscent of the mikado's realm. It has bamboo sticks and is covered with white silk heavily embroidered with cherry blossoms in their natural colorings.

In the jewelry line amethysts are reigning in fashionable favor. Sleeve links, collars, brooches, hatpins and watch fobs are all made up in this lovely purple stone.

Jeweled graduated safety pins in sets of three are a new fancy. There is a long bar brooch to close the collar. The two smaller pins of diminishing length are placed below the long bar.

Jet is again used as a trimming on evening frocks, the new white variety being particularly smart.

The attractive waist illustrated is of light blue French flannel. It is tucked a few inches from the shoulders. Edging the plain cloth vest are rows of braid put on in lines, the outer line being in a looped design. A smartly tied ribbon scarf makes a pretty trimming down the front of the bodice. A girdle of ribbon encircles the waist.

THE GRAFTERS

By

FRANCIS LYNDE

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

"It is a part of the bluff; fattening the thing a little before they barbecue it."

"I suppose so. It's a pity we don't live a little farther back in the history of the world: say at a time when we could hire MacFarlane's doctor to obliterate the judge, and no questions asked."

Who can explain how it is that some jesting word, trivial and purposeless it may be, will fire a hidden train of thought which was waiting only for some chance spark? "Obliterate the judge," said Hunnicott in grim jest; and straightway Kent saw possibilities; saw a thing to be done, though not yet the manner of its doing.

"If you'll excuse me," he said abruptly to his companion, "I believe I'll try to catch the flyer back to the capital. I came down to see about selling those lots of mine, but if you will undertake it for me—"

"Of course," said Hunnicott; "I'll be only too glad. You've ten minutes: can you make it?"

Kent guessed so, and made the guess a certainty with two minutes to spare. The through sleeper was lightly loaded, and he picked out the most unneighbored section of the twelve, being wishful only for undisturbed thinking ground. But before the train had swung past the suburb lights of Gaston, the smoker's unrest seized him and the thought-wheels demanded tobacco. Kent fought it as long as he could, making sure that the smoking compartment liars' club would be in session; but when the demand became a nagging insistence, he found his pipe and tobacco and went to the men's room.

The little den behind the drawing-room had but one occupant besides the rear-end brakeman—a tall, saturnine man in a gray grass-cloth duster who was smoking a Porto Rican stogie. Kent took a second look and held out his hand.

"This is an unexpected pleasure, Judge Marston. I was counting on three hours of solitary confinement."

The lieutenant-governor acknowledged the hand-clasp, nodded, and made room on the leather-covered divan for the new-comer. Hildreth, the editor of the Argus, put it aptly when he said that the grim-faced old cattle-king had "blown" into politics. He was a compromise on the ticket; was no part of the Bucks programme, and had been made to feel it. Tradition had it that he had been a terror to the armed and organized cattle thieves of the early days; hence the brevet title of "Judge." But those who knew him best did not know that he had once been the brightest man upon the supreme bench of his native state: this before failing health had driven him into exile.

For a time the talk was a desultory monologue, with Kent doing his best to keep it from dying outright. Later, when he was fairly driven in upon his reserves, he began to speak of himself, and of the hopeless fight for enlargement in the Trans-Western struggle. Marston lighted the match-devouring stogie for the twentieth time, squared himself on the end of the divan and listened attentively.

Marston opened his watch and looked at it. Then he lighted another of the villainous little cigars.

"We have an hour yet," he said. "You have given me the legal points in the case: now give me the inferences—all of them."

Kent laughed.

"I'm afraid I sha'n't be able to forget the lieutenant-governor. I shall have to call some pretty hard names."

"Call them," said his companion, briefly; and Kent went deep into the details, beginning with the formation of the political gang in Gaston the dismantled.

The listener in the gray dust-coat heard him through without comment. When Kent reached the end of the inferences, telling the truth without scruple and letting the charge of political and judicial corruption lie where it would, the engineer was whistling for the capital.

"You have told me some things I knew, and some others that I only suspected," was all the answer he got until the train was slowing into the union station. Then as he flung away the stump of the little cigar the silent one added: "If I were in your place, Mr. Kent, I believe I should take a supplementary course of reading in the state law."

"In what particular part of it?" said Kent, keen anxiety in every word.

"In that part of the fundamental law which relates to the election of circuit judges, let us say. If I had your case to fight, I should try to obliterate Judge MacFarlane."

Kent had but a moment in which to remark the curious coincidence in the use of precisely the same word by both Hunnicott and his present adviser.

"But my dear sir! we should gain nothing by MacFarlane's removal when his successor would be appointed by the executive!"

Marston turned in the doorway of the smoking-compartment and laid a fatherly hand on the younger man's shoulder.

"My boy, I didn't say 'remove;' I said 'obliterate.' Good-night."

CHAPTER XIV.

THE GERRYMANDER.

With Judge Marston's hint partly to point the way, Kent was no long time in getting at work on the new lead.

Having been at the time a practitioner in one of the counties affected, he knew the political deal by which MacFarlane had been elected. Briefly described, it was a swapping of horses in midstream. In the preliminary canvass it was discovered that in all probability Judge MacFarlane's district, as constituted, would not re-elect him. But the adjoining district was strong enough to spare a county without loss to the party; and that county added to MacFarlane's voting strength would tip the scale in his favor. The assembly was in session, and the remedy applied in the shape of a bill re-adjusting the district lines to fit the political necessity.

"GOOD, GOOD! DAVID, I'M PROUD OF YOU."

While this bill was still in the lower house an obstacle presented itself in the form of a vigorous protest from Judge Whitcomb, whose district was the one to suffer the loss. The county in question was a prosperous one, and the court fees—which a compliant clerk might secretly divide with the judge appointing him—were large: wherefore Whitcomb threatened political reprisals if Kiowa county should be taken away from him. The outcome was a compromise. For elective purposes the two districts were gerrymandered as the bill proposed; but it was expressly provided that the transferred county should remain judicially in Whitcomb's district until the expiration of Whitcomb's term of office.

Having refreshed his memory as to the facts, Kent spent a forenoon in the state library. He stayed on past the luncheon hour, feeding on a dry diet of digests; and it was not until hunger began to sharpen his faculties that he thought of going back of the statutory law to the fountain-head in the constitution of the state. Here, after he had read carefully section by section almost through the entire instrument, his eye lighted upon a clause which gradually grew luminous as he read and re-read it.

"That is what Marston meant; it must be what he meant," he mused; and returning the book to its niche in the alcove he sat down to put his face in his hands and sum up the status in logical sequence.

The conclusion must have been convincing, since he presently sprang up and left the room quickly to have himself shot down the elevator shaft to the street level. The telegraph office was closed, but there was another in the Hotel Brunswick, two squares distant, and thither he went.

"Hold the pool in fighting trim at all hazards. Think I have found weak link in the chain," was his wiring to Loring at Boston; and having sent it, he went around to Cassatti's and astonished the waiter by ordering a hearty luncheon at half-past three o'clock in the afternoon.

It was late in the evening before he left the tiny office on the fifth floor of the Quintard building where one of his former stenographers had set up business for herself. Since five o'clock the young woman had been steadily driving the type-writer to Kent's dictation. When the final sheet came out with a whirring rasp of the ratchet, he suddenly remembered that he had promised Miss Van Brock to dine with her. It was too late for the dinner, but not too late to go and apologize, and he did the thing that he could, stopping at his rooms on the way to dress while his cab-driver waited.

He found Portia alone, for which he was glad; but her greeting was distinctively accusative.

"If I should pretend to be deeply offended and tell Thomas to show you the door, what could you say for yourself?" she began, before he could say a word in exculpation.

"I should say every sort of excuseful thing I could think of, knowing very well that the most ingenious lie would fall far short of atoning for the offense," he replied humbly.

"Possibly it would be better to tell the truth—had you thought of that?" she suggested, quite without malice.

"Yes, I had; and I shall, if you'll let me begin back a bit." He drew up a chair to face her and sat on the edge of it. "You know I told you I was going to Gaston to sell my six lots while Major Cuttler's little boom is on?"

"I'm trying to remember: go on."

"Well, I went yesterday morning and returned late last night. Do you know, it's positively marvelous!"

"Which——the six lots, the boom, or the celerity of your movements?" she asked with a simulation of deepest interest.

"All three, if you please; but I meant the miraculous revival of things along the Trans-Western. But that is neither her nor there—"

"I think it is very much here and there," she interrupted.

"I see you don't want me to tell the truth—the whole truth; but I am determined. The first man I met after dinner was Hunnicott, and when I made him my broker in the real estate affair we fell to talking about the railroad steal. Speaking of MacFarlane's continued absence, Hunnicott said, jokingly, that it was a pity we couldn't go back to the methods of a few hundred years ago and hire the Hot Springs doctor to 'obliterate' him. The word stuck in my mind, and I broke away and took the train chiefly to have a chance to think out the new line. In the smoking-room of the sleeper I found—whom, do you suppose?"

"Oh, I don't know: Judge MacFarlane, perhaps, coming back to give you a chance to poison him at short range?"

"No; it was Marston."

"And he talked so long and so fast that you couldn't get here in time for dinner this evening? That would be the most picturesque of the little fictions you spoke of."

Kent laughed.

"For the first hour he wouldn't talk at all; just sat there wooden-faced, smoking vile little cigars that made me think I was getting hay-fever. But I wouldn't give up; and after I had worn out all the commonplaces I began on the Trans-Western muddle. At that he woke up all at once, and before I knew it he was giving me an expert legal opinion on the case; meaty and sound and judicial. Miss Van Brock, that man is a lawyer, and an exceedingly able one, at that."

"Of course," she said coolly. "He was one of the justices of the supreme court of his own state at 42: that was before he had come west for his health. I found that out a long time ago."

"And you never told me!" said Kent, reproachfully. "Well, no matter; I found out for myself that he is a man to tie to. After we had canvassed the purely legal side of the affair, he wanted to know more, and I went in for details, telling him all the inferences which involve Bucks, Meigs, Hendricks, MacFarlane and the lot of them."

Miss Portia's eyes were flashing.

"Good, good, good!" she said. "David, I'm proud of you. That took courage—heaps of it."

"I did have to forget pretty hard that he was the lieutenant-governor and nominally one of the gang. But if he is not with us, neither is he against us. He took it all quietly, and when I was through, he said: 'You have told me some things that I knew, and some others that I only suspected.'"

"Was that all?" asked Miss Van Brock, eagerly.

"No; I took a good long breath and asked his advice."

"Did he give it?"

MRS FORCE.

ICE BLOCKADE RAISED.

Gunboat Hist Failed to Release Nantucket Lightship.

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—The ice embargo which has been in force at most of the ports along the New England coast for the past four days has been partially raised.

Conditions at Newport are unimproved. Ice that was driven down Narragansett bay was forced into Newport harbor and packed tightly around the wharfs. A passage in the harbor was kept open, however, and ferries and launches were enabled to navigate.

The greater part of the ice in Buzzards bay has been driven out to sea, although the head of the bay remains closed to navigation.

The gunboat Hist and two tugs made several ineffectual attempts to float the Nantucket shoals lightship, which was forced ashore near Dumpling rocks. Another attempt to float the vessel will be made at high water this morning.

Several vessels remained fast in the ice at Vineyard Haven last night.

The steamboat Erastus Corning, running from New Haven, was dragged from the ice by two tugs at Whitestone, N. Y., where she has been a prisoner for five days.

IN THE HOUSE.

Democrats Claimed President Had Stolen Bryan's Thunder.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The feature of the debate in the house on the freight rate bill was the speech of Mr. McCall (Mass.), who in opposing the proposed legislation declared that it was not to be imagined that the supreme court would stand between the government and its victim, following that utterance up with the statement that the courts usually reflected the policy of the party in power.

The names of William J. Bryan and President Roosevelt figured prominently in the discussion, the allegation being made from the Democratic side of the chamber that the president in his recent message to congress on the subject of rate legislation only reiterated the views of Mr. Bryan and the declarations of the Democratic party in three national platforms.

BOMBS AT BUENOS AYRES.

Military Insurgents on Trial For Their Lives.

BUENOS AYRES, Feb. 8.—A council of war for the trial of military insurgents, of which General Montes Deoca is president and Colonel Lynch secretary, is in session in the arsenal here. The government ordered the military insurgents to Buenos Ayres for trial.

In a fight near Pirovano, province of Buenos Ayres, the revolutionary engineer Baca and former Senator Rhur were killed, and several others were wounded.

The transport Primero Mayo has left the roadstead with 300 political prisoners.

Search of the ruins of the Workingmen's union here resulted in the discovery of two bombs.

FORTY-THREE WIVES.

Another Wife Tells Remarkable Story of Hoch's Escapades.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Governor Higgins, at Albany, has granted the requisition of the governor of Illinois for the extradition of Johann Hoch, the alleged bigamist who is under arrest here, and he will be taken to Chicago today.

As the investigation into Hoch's marrying career continues, the list of women who have followed him to the altar grows and now reaches forty-three. The police declare there is no doubt about his having married seventeen of these women and little doubt that the other twenty-six became his wives, only to die suddenly and mysteriously or to lose their cash with the disappearance of Hoch.

With the finding of the fountain pen in the room here occupied by Hoch, in the house of Mrs. Kommerle, who caused his arrest, the police believe they have discovered one means by which Hoch put his trusting spouses out of the way when the time came for him to collect insurance on their lives or when what money they had tempted him. It has been declared that this pen contained poison.

In connection with an expressed belief that Hoch is identical with a man known as John Ely, a woman who says she married Ely four years ago told the Chicago police yesterday one of the most remarkable stories yet brought into the Hoch case. The woman, whose name the police will not give, declares that her husband chloroformed his mother-in-law, and when detected by his wife in rummaging through a chest of drawers in the room where the mother lay unconscious he explained that the aged woman had been taken sick, and, going out on a pretext of getting a doctor, he was seen no more. With him disappeared $100 of his wife's money. "Hayes" and "Bessing" were stamped on linen left behind by Ely, and this leads to a theory that he is Hoch, Bessing being the name under which Hoch is said to have married a New York woman.

MACHEN AND GROFFS PRISONERS

Postal Frauds Convicts Taken to Moundsville Penitentiary.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—August W. Machen, the former head of the entire free delivery system of the postoffice department and the foremost figure among the officials, politicians and contractors indicted as a result of the postal investigation, and Diller H. Groff and Samuel A. Groff, both of this city, convicted in connection with the promotion of a letter box fastener scheme, left Washington with a party of eleven other convicts for the Moundsville (W. Va.) penitentiary shortly after 6 o'clock last night to serve a sentence of two years' imprisonment.

The three prisoners, who had surrendered to the United States marshal early in the day, spent part of the afternoon in the jail here and were taken from there to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad depot in a carriage, accompanied by a guard. The men were placed in a special car. All three were handcuffed. Machen occupied a seat in the car alone, while the Groff brothers were linked together by their handcuffs. The three postal prisoners had a corner of the car to themselves.

Mr. Machen in an interview in the car said: "I have made a good fight and was courageous to the last. I am now facing the inevitable and will take the consequences with bravery, fortitude and philosophy. I expect to be in Moundsville for twenty months, reducing the two years' sentence to this time by good behavior. I have no intention at this time of asking for a pardon. I wish to thank all my friends who have stood by me and believe in me in this trouble. I am innocent; my friends know that I am innocent, and time will show that the man who put me here will have to answer for what he has done."

Doctor Found With Dead Woman.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—After being found in a room in a hotel in West Twenty-third street here, beside the dead body of a woman, a man who described himself as Dr. Clarence McDonald, a physician, of Port Hawkesbury, N. S., and later an interne in one of the institutions on Randall's island, was locked up in the Tombs without bail to await the coroner's inquest. McDonald told the police that the woman was Mrs. Elizabeth Himadi and that her home was at Lodi, N. J. He said that she had died from natural causes. An examination of the woman's body revealed a cut under the eye and bruises on various parts of the body inflicted by McDonald.

Hooker Inquiry Postponed.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The investigation of the charges against Supreme Court Justice Warren B. Hooker has been postponed by the assembly judiciary committee until Thursday, Feb. 16, on the ground of the serious injury to Justice Hooker in the railroad accident near Utica last Friday night. It was reported to the committee that Justice Hooker is in a serious condition as the result of his injuries and that the result of the accident to him was still uncertain.

First Contracts For Barge Canal.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Superintendent of Public Works Franchot has made the first awards of contracts under the barge canal act. The successful contractor in both cases was Lindon W. Bates of New York city. The awards cover contract No. 1, Champlain canal, for $905,008.40, and contract No. 4, Erie canal, for $726,815. Both amounts are based on item prices.

BASKET BALL.

The greatest game of the season in scholastic basketball will be played this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. between the Plainfield High School and Leal's School teams. Not only will the winner of the fine prize cup be determined by this game, but the city scholastic championship will be decided. It is the final game in the interscholastic league, which has been conducted at the Y. M. C. A. under the direction of F. A. Henckel.

ROD AND GUN.

The members of the Plainfield Gun Club are making arrangements for a shoot to be held on Washington's Birthday. In addition to other events there will be two special ones for the local shooters. The shoot will be held at Cole's hill.

Considerable interest is being shown in reviving the New Jersey State Sportsman' Association and the local shooters have identified themselves in the movement. As soon as a re-organization is perfected arrangements will be made for holding State tournments. Neaf Apgar and Henry P. Vosseller, of the Plainfield Gun Club, is among those interested in the matter.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Scotch Plains and Dunellen bowling teams met on Taylor's alleys at Dunellen, Monday night, and the home team won two of the three games rolled. The scores: Dunellen—937, 840, 779, Scotch Plains—796, 834, 794.

"Prince" Brown Dead.

Albert Brown, better known as "Prince" Brown, died at Muhlenberg Hospital at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, following a week's illness with pneumonia. He was born at New Providence sixty-five years ago and for many years lived at Scotch Plains, where he conducted a blacksmith and wheelwright business. He moved to this city and continued the same business on Richmond street. He leaves one son, Louis Brown, of New York. Announcement for the funeral will be made later.

Rode to Springfield.

Miss Josephine Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, gave a delightful straw ride to about twenty-five of her friends last night. The party went to Springfield, stopping at Westfield on the way back.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—A glance at Neuman Brothers' big display of fresh vegetables means a dozen suggestions for dinner. New consignments arrive daily.

—If you would be served promptly and honestly, give John Mobus a call when you need kindling or grate wood. Order by mail, box 320, or call 69 Somerset street.

—Jesse Hatfield expects to assume charge of his restaurant and newsstand at Cranford Junction on Monday. Charley Bock will be assistant to Mr. Hatfield in the restaurant.

—Things are sure to "go wrong" unless they are well managed—and there are a lot of things in business and home life which can only be managed well by the aid of want advertising.

—George Turbett, who has been central office manager at the local exchange of the telephone company, will return to the Newark office on Saturday. A member of the Brooklyn office staff will take his place.

Verdict of Six Cents.

The jury brought in a verdict for the sum of six cents in favor of the defendant in the case of the Union Pacific Tea Company against Nathan Meyers, which was tried for the third time at Justice Mosher's court yesterday afternoon. On both former occasions a non-suit has been granted. Francis J. Blats represented the defendant, while Louis Clement was the plaintiff's lawyer. The members of the jury were H. P. Paul, H. F. McKeon, Joseph Kingston, H. Jenkins, Mr. Forrester and Mr. Clarkson.

$50 Goes Up in Smoke.

Because he sent one of his children upstairs after the change to pay for a paper, Sunday morning, Michael O'Day, of South Plainfield, is some $50 poorer. The child struck a match to locate the money in its hiding place in a box and in doing so set fire to a roll of bills. There are lots of people who have money to burn but it never went up in smoke faster than did Michael O'Day's. The child called for assistance and one lone dollar bill was saved from the ruins.

To Wipe Out Church Debt.

In an effort to raise $500 to liquidate the floating debt the members of the Park Avenue Baptist church, began this week a self denial. Under the direction of the Ladies' Aid Society the albumf and crosses will be distributed among the members of the church and congregation. The teachers of the Bible school will also assist in this work.

STATE APPORTIONMENT, SCHOOL RESERVE FUND

The apportionment of the State school reserve fund for the school year commencing July 1, 1905, was made by the State Board of Education at a meeting held at Trenton yesterday. The fund is made up of 10 per cent of the total school tax, and is set aside for the purpose of aiding the schools in those counties which are unable to take care of themselves.

The total amount of the reserve fund apportioned was $188,649, and the total amount to be received by the schools from the State is $3,102,292.13.

For Union and Somerset counties, respectively, the amounts received from reserve fund are $8,865.23 and $3,522.34 and the total amounts received are $146,511.20 and $57,966.42, making the amounts per teacher $359.09 and $354.11 respectively.

SNAP SHOTS.

Among the familiar faces about the city this winter is that of Former Mayor Charles J. Fiske, who is spending the season at his home on West Seventh street, instead of New York. Mr. Fiske is deeply interested in local affairs of a public and private character and his aid and influence are always sought after.

Another view of the snow removal question is furnished today by one who is interested in city affairs:

"It is the duty of the city government to remove the snow whenever it becomes an obstruction to the public travel; such obstructions as were found on East Front street at Cole's Hill or along the trolley tracks, especially where the tracks are double. It is not incumbent upon the city to remove snow banks from the tracks because they are objectionable to the owner of the property or to interfere with his business; public money, the people's money, should only be expended for public benefits. If all the streets were cleaned from curb to curb, all the taxpayers would be benefitted alike, but it is manifestly unfair to favor a part of the people at the expense of the rest."

In the proposed improvement for the widening of Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad, as petitioned for by the Plainfield Trust Company, Charles W. McCutchen and Boice, Runyon & Co., interested property-owners, the plan is to provide for a twelve foot sidewalk and establish the building line 41.63 feet from the centre line of the street. This will make the building line uniform with the one now established between Front and Second streets.

While it is to the advantage of the city, as well as the property-owners to have the street widened at the point mentioned, the petitioners desire that commissioners be appointed to assess benefits and damages. The ordinance for the making of the improvement will probably be adopted at the next meeting of the Common Council, as it will not be long before the work of demolishing the old buildings on the southwesterly side of Park avenue will be commenced so that the new building for the trust company can be erected.

Teachers' Monthly Meeting.

The Union County Teachers' Association will hold its February meeting in the Morrell Street School, Elizabeth, Saturday morning, beginning at 10:30.

A Desirable Outing Place.

To one person Lakewood suggests the rendezvous of select society, to another a Utopia for invalids, and to a third the domicile of pony polo, golf, drag hunting and other sports. It means, in fact, all things desirable to all men. It bids fair to become in time as famous as the old English resorts of fashion. Within striking distance not only of New York but of Philadelphia also, besides such a change of scene and amelioration of climate as one expects at a winter resort, it offers the inhabitants of both cities a common meeting ground for social pleasures and recreations. A number of the larger hotels afford accommodations which leave the most fastidious patrons nothing to desire, and smaller hotels and select boarding houses abound which are adapted to the needs of people of refinement, whose means are moderate. An admirable school system makes the town suitable as a family home. The natural scenery is far made, particularly the Cathedral Pines and the romantic shores of Lake Caracalje. The attractiveness of the region is also greatly enhanced by the architectural beauty of the private residences which have been constructed on every scale and in a wide variety of charming styles, both modern and antique. An interesting little brochure on Lakewood has been published by the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, which may be had for the asking. Send for it to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., 143 Liberty street, New York city.

Brokaw's Creamery.

The impression that good Butter, first-class Buttermilk and No. 1 Pot-cheese cannot be made regularly and of uniform grade in winter, is being rapidly dispelled in Plainfield.

My customers unsolicited testimony is proof that we are doing it every day. I make my own goods fresh every day. Try them and know for yourself.

My fancy Print Butter, both salted and unsalted, is gaining in popularity every day.

All grades of Western Creamery Butter, strictly fresh Eggs, and everything in the dairy line, including pure Milk, pure Cream and Full Cream Cheese always on hand.

BITTERLY ARRAIGNS THE MAYOR

Mr. Kinsman Says His Talk "Outside of a Barrooom" Should Be Condemned.

MISPLACED CONFIDENCE

Astonished That Mayor Buckle Should "Advertise His Personal Habits"—Reflection on Voters.

Frank E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue, inventor of the safety block signal system used in the New York Subway and of numerous other devices, strongly disagrees with the opinion of Mayor Buckle on the merits of the proposed ordinance to restrict the district in which saloons may be located and strongly condemns his honor for the remarks attributed to him at the Common Council meeting Monday night. The following communication has been received from Mr. Kinsman:

"Editor, The Daily Press:

"Since your publication of Mayor Buckle's reasons for not passing Councilman Tyler's saloon restriction ordinance, I have been waiting for some expression of views on the subject by representative individuals.

F. E. Kinsman.

"In the absence of communications from others on the subject, I feel constrained to express my astonishment and regret that a man in whom the citizens of this city have put their chief confidence, should allow himself to thus advertise his personal habits, and those of the majority of the Common Council of this city. He is quoted as having said: 'I have drank with all of you but some of the new members, and we all know that no business brings human nature together so much as the saloon.' Such language indulged in outside of a bar room ought to receive the severest condemnation from all parents and guardians of young men, who naturally look upon men raised to positions of honor and trust as safe-guides in paths of morality and rectitude.

"Fortunately those of us who have had time to trace the devious courses taken by some in whom public confidence has been misplaced, are not likely to be led astray, but when the Mayor says: 'I used to vote for temperance once, but I see things different now,' he casts reflection upon the good sense of those, including the writer, who last fall voted to place him in the most conspicuous position in the gift of this community.

"Are we to understand when he says 'I have to go to the saloons to meet men,' that he has reference to the other members of the city government, including the Board of Health and the Board of Education? In imagination I think I hear their answer. I think I hear them say that the saloon is not a necessary adjunct to their business success, and believe that the presence of any one of them there would be like a light in a dark cellar, causing the habituates a feeling of unrest and shamefacedness.

"As I love my own reputation and the good name of the city in which I have spent over twenty years of the best part of my life, I cannot refrain from raising my voice against the publication of such a libel upon the better portion of this community. If I were to let such an occasion pass unnoticed I should feel like covering my face in shame whenever I found it necessary to return to the home of my nativity.

"Concerning the ordinance in question, I take this opportunity to express my most profound respect for

BULLYING THE COUNCIL

Those Disobedient to "Machine" Are Threatened.

INDEPENDENT TICKET?

Mr. Taylor Asks if the People Will Stand by Those City Fathers Guarding Their Interests.

William Taylor, general manager of the Hart Manufacturing Company, of New York, who resides in Kensington avenue, rallies to the support of the Common Councilmen who favor strict regulation in the matter of liquor saloons and scores those who might frustrate the independent action of that body. He has sent the following communication to this paper:

"Editor, The Daily Press:

"I have read in your valuable journal from time to time reports of the actions of our Common Council in regard to the granting of saloon licenses and, as a citizen of Plainfield and one who is interested in the welfare and happiness of my fellow citizens, I wish to thus publicly thank those members of our Council who are fighting to keep the saloon invading our resident districts.

"The saloon, at best, is a curse to the community in which it exists and to all who are connected with it. It is a curse to the young man—robbing his brains, sapping his energies, depleting his purse, lowering his moral tone, and in return poisoning his mind and body and unfitting him for the great battle of life in which he is about entering. It is a curse to the husband and father and too frequently leaves his home desolate and his wife and children in want for the necessities of life while he is throwing his last dollar over the bar in order to prove himself a 'good fellow' among 'the boys.'

"Most of us do not have to walk many blocks from where we live to find evidences of the evil that saloons have wrought. You know, Mr. Editor, and your readers know, as well as I do, that there are many hundreds of our citizens who would go down on their knees today and thank God, if the saloon could be wiped from the face of the earth. As the saloon cannot be entirely done away with at present, the next best step is to regulate it so as to minimize the evils resulting therefrom.

"I do not agree with those who claim that the saloon is the 'workingman's club' and that it is the 'right' of the workingman to have a saloon located near his home so that he can 'get his glass of beer.' The very large majority of workingmen are too intelligent and think too much of their families to want to make them neighbors to a saloon. The men who want to open the saloons in our resident districts are the men who are going to run them and make money out of them, at the expense of the workingman and his family.

"We all know, and it is to our discredit that it is so, that the saloon influence plays by far too prominent a part in our political life. In this instance the machine whip has been cracked and some of our Councilmen have been given to understand that if they do not favor the granting of certain licenses, the 'machine' will see that they are retired to private life as soon as their present terms expire. The 'political leaders' who are thus trying to coerce our Councilmen are not even residents of Plainfield. Talk of Ireland's fight for Home Rule! Where does Plainfield come in? What are we as residents of Plainfield and voters going to do about it?

"Are we going to remain quiet and inactive and allow our Councilmen to be bullied and butted by outside influence, or are we going to express ourselves and get to work so that at our next election the men who are now loyally guarding our interests will be elected to any offices for which they are candidates? The influence of the saloon party decreases in proportion as the vote of the non-saloon party increases.

"I have voted the Republican ticket all my life, but if, as stated in your today's issue 'Republican leaders' are now trying to coerce our Councilmen, I am ready for an Independent ticket for city and State issues.

"Your truly,
"William Taylor.

CHIEF OF POLICE KIELY OF PLAINFIELD

ROBERT HUMPSTON WEDS MISS IDA TALLAMY

DUNELLEN MAN MARRIED TO PLAINFIELD GIRL.

Miss Ida Tallamy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tallamy, of 1140 West Front street, and Robert Humpston, of Dunellen, were married at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of eighty guests from Trenton, Somerville, Raritan, Dunellen, Orange, Elizabeth, New York, Manasquan and this city, including many from the choir of the First Baptist church, of which the bride is a member. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace church, performed the ceremony.

The home was attractively decorated with smilax, cut flowers and carnations. In the parlor, where the ceremony was performed there was a floral arch, with a number of white floral bells suspended from the chandelier to the arch and around which was banked ferns, palms and smilax. The same color scheme was carried out in the dining room.

The bride's gown was of satin finish crepe de chine, over white taffeta, trimmed with silk embroidered chiffon and draped with sprays of orange blossoms. She also wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried white bridal roses and smilax.

She was attended by Miss May Maran, of Scotch Plains, who was gowned in white silk mull, trimmed with chiffon and she carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Etta Raybert and Miss May Mulford, who were gowns of green silk, trimmed with all-over lace, and carried white carnations and ferns. The best man was William J. Tallamy, brother of the bride.

The Lohengrin Wedding March was played by Howard Case, organist at the First Baptist church, while the bridal party, entered the parlor, and during the ceremony he rendered appropriate selections.

Following the ceremony congratulations were offered and supper was served, and at 8 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Humpston left the city for a wedding trip to Washington, Old Point Comfort and other points of interest. Upon their return they will reside temporarily with the bride's parents. In the spring Mr. Humpston will begin the erection of a new home on Dunellen avenue and upon its completion he and his bride will live there.

The bride received a large collection of handsome and useful gifts. In the exchange of gifts among the bridal party, the bride received from the groom a diamond and pearl pendant and to the best man he gave a Masonic pin set with pearls, while the ushers, Fred Tallamy and John T Sutphen, received pearl stick pins. The bride gave her maid-of-honor and the bridesmaids pearl brooches.

The bride is quite prominent in musical circles, and besides being a soprano in the choir of the First Baptist church, she has taken part in several entertainments here. The groom is also interested in music and is organist at the Presbyterian church, Dunellen. He is employed as a pattern-maker at the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works.

SAVE THE LANDMARK! CRIES THE NEW YORK SUN

PROTESTS AGAINST TEARING DOWN SOMERSET'S OLD COURT HOUSE.

Since the agitation for a new court house and jail for Somerset County has been renewed, some protests have been made against the tearing down of the present court house building which has done service since 1798. Today's New York Sun says editorially:

"An interest much wider than the boundaries of Somerset County, or even of the State of New Jersey, attaches to the efforts that are being made to save from destruction the old court house at Somerville. Such heirlooms handed down to us out of the past are all too rare, and, alas! their number of rapidly diminishing. They are not of the things that may be replaced. Gone once, they are gone forever. The misfortune of their loss is by no means merely parochial: it touches all the country in a way. Moreover, it is not altogether a mere sentimental affliction. Particularly in rural parts, contact with our quieter and simpler American past, as expressed in the architecture of many of the eighteenth century public buildings, is a steadying influence that is wholesome and of value.

"The old Somerville court house, standing in its quiet dignity with its grave and stately trees about it, is an instance in point. We hope the old building may not be swept away. We heartily sympathize with the efforts that are being made to save it."

PARK CLUB BOWLERS LOSE TO ROSELLE FIVE

IN TWO OUT OF THREE GAMES IN CENTRAL JOURNAL LEAGUE.

The Park Club team was defeated by the Roselle men last night in the Central Journal Bowling League tournament.

The following was the score of the match:

Park Club—Barlow, 224, 203, 169; Rogers, 165, 204, 168; Willis, 215, 154, 163; Thurlow, 148, 126, —; Dupee, —, —, 176; Ball, 163, 199, 179; total, 915, 886, 855.

Roselle—Patterson, 190, 200, 136; Rawlins, 138, 192, 166; Miller, 146, 176, 160; Mulford, 208, 191, 191; Howe, 237, 217, 214; total, 912, 976, 867.

Lawyers Will Separate.

Charles Q. Dolliver, Esq., and N. Douglas Drake, Esq., who have law offices together in the Vanderbeek building, have decided to make a change April 1. Mr. Dolliver will lease offices in W. R. Codington's new building on Second street, near Park avenue, while Mr. Drake will take the office on the North avenue side of the Vanderbeek building directly over the Daily Press business office.

DON'T WANT SALOON NEAR THEIR STORES

STRONGLY OBJECT TO LICENSE FOR 136 PARK AVENUE.

Many property owners and merchants on Park avenue, between Second and Front streets, will send a strong remonstrance to the Common Council at the adjourned meeting to be held Monday night, Feb. 27, protesting against the granting of a license to Charles Schanz for 136 Park avenue, the store now occupied by Marcus Silbert. They will present the argument that with the erection of new buildings on Park avenue and the absence of a saloon on the southwesterly side of the thoroughfare, it will permit women and children and others to walk on that side without being obliged to meet crowds that sometimes ook out of drinking places, and it will also enhance the value of the property not to allow a licensed place in that block.

Mr. Schanz is represented by Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and City Judge Wm. N. Runyon in his efforts to secure a license for the new place.

Another objection made to the granting of the license will be that within a short distance of the place applied for there are eight saloons, including that of Mr. Schanz, and the number is considered sufficient for all purposes.

In addition to the remonstrance of the Park avenue merchants it is expected that merchants on Front street will also enter a protest. In the opinion of some of those who are in a position to know the trend of affairs, there is expressed some doubt as to whether this license will be granted.

MASS-MEETING.

Protest Against Russian Government's Tyranny Towards Workingmen.

As a protest against the cruelty and tyranny of the Russian Government, practiced on the helpless workingmen of that country, a mass meeting will be held at Reform Hall on Monday night, under the auspices of Branch 84, Workingman's Circle, of Plainfield.

Rev. L. R. Howard will be chairman of the meeting and will be one of the speakers. Other speakers will be Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Former Assemblyman William Newcorn, Donatio De Leonardo, Abraham Kahn, editor of the New York Daily Forward, and two well-known speakers from Newark. Admission will be free and everyone interested is invited.

Juvenile Opera.

Already there is a great demand for seats at the Casino for the two performances of the comic opera, "Iolanthe," to be given there Monday, the 13th, Lincoln's Birthday. 'Phone calls from nearby cities and families and theatre parties are reserving seats for the matinee for it is not often that so great a novelty as the New York Juvenile Opera Company is secured. At the matinee the opera will be given same as at night. Reserved seats at Armstrong's.

WOODS ACCUSED AND EXTRADITED

NEW AUTOMOBILE LAW

Features of Proposed Amendments to Scovell Act.

RIGID REGULATIONS

Police Will be Able to Make Arrests Without Warrants—Punishment for Fictitious Numbers.

Plainfield automobilists are much interested in the proposed amendments to the Scovell automobile law, which are now before the New Jersey Legislature for action.

Section two of the act entitled "An act defining motor vehicles and providing for the registration of the same and uniform rules regulating the use and speed thereof," is amended so as to read as follows:

"Every resident of this State who is the owner of a motor vehicle and every non-resident owner whose motor vehicle shall be driven in this State shall file in the office of the Secretary of State a declaration duly verified that such owner is competent to drive the motor vehicle for which application for license is made, and a written statement containing the name and address of such owner, together with a brief description of the character of such motor vehicle, including the name of the maker and the manufacturer's number of the motor vehicle, if number there be, and the rated horsepower of the motor vehicle, and shall pay to the Secretary of State an annual registration fee of $5 for each motor vehicle; the Secretary of State shall issue for each motor vehicle so registered a certificate, stating that such motor vehicle is registered in accordance with this section, and shall cause the name of such owner with his address, the number of his certificate and a description of such motor vehicle, or motor vehicles, to be entered in alphabetical order of the owners' names in a book to be kept for such purpose; this section shall not apply to manufacturers or dealers in this State of motor vehicles, except as to vehicles kept by such manufacturer or such dealer for private use or hire."

Section three is amended so as to provide that no license number except that issued by the State of New Jersey shall be carried on machines, and another amendment provides that any owner displaying a fictitious number shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $50 or imprisonment for not more than thirty days.

It is provided in an amendment to section nine that any person driving an automobile on public highways in a race or on a bet or wager shall be subject to a fine of not more than $50 or imprisonment for not more than ten days.

An important proposed amendment is that which provides that any constable or police officer may arrest persons charged with violation of the automobile act without warrant. The last amendment provides for the amount of fine which shall be inflicted for violations of the various sections of the proposed statute.

GRAND JURY PRESENTS.

Foreman and Clerk Remembered As is Customary.

When the Grand Jury adjourned yesterday it was subject to the call of the court, as there may be other business to be considered. Before adjournment the foreman, Charles K. Halsey, was presented with a handsome Cross travelling bag, fully equipped.

The presentation was made by James E. Martine. John K. English, clerk to the Grand Jury, was presented with an umbrella and a silver plated stirrup for a whisk broom holder. John Davidson made this presentation. In each case the recipient expressed hearty appreciation for the gift.

Held for Manslaughter.

Miss Hart, the nurse in the Egenolf Day Nursery, Elizabeth, who was indicted by the Grand Jury for manslaughter, was arraigned before Judge Vail at Elizabeth, yesterday, and held in $5,000 bail to await trial on Monday, February 20. Miss Hart is charged with being responsible for the death of a deaf mute child in the nursery by placing the child in a scalding hot bath.

Coroner's Inquest Fails to Find a Motive for the Crime.

GOV. STOKES ACTS

Suspect Was Sane at the Time—Witnesses Badly Examined—Cruse Contradicts Himself.

Deliberating less than half an hour after they had heard the testimony of nineteen witnesses, the members of the jury empanelled by Coroner W. Howard Toms, yesterday afternoon reached a verdict that George Williams, of Watchung, found murdered in a sleigh on the Coontown road, last Thursday morning, "came to his death from a bullet wound inflicted by a pistol in the hands of George H. Wood." A complete chain of evidence was woven about the accused man but at no time was anything revealed that might throw any light on the motive and this feature of the case is still far from being solved. The trend of the testimony seemed to show that Wood was perfectly sane up to the last time he was seen before the crime was committed and several new points were brought out that indicate that he had some covert act in view when he came to Plainfield.

Governor Stokes has issued the necessary papers and they have been sent to Governor Higgins, of New York, for Wood's extradition. He will be brought out to the Somerset County jail, at Somerville, today or tomorrow.

The inquest was held in the parlors of Maul's Washingtonville hotel at Watchung and farmers from every part of Somerset county crowded the place long before the start. It was devoid of dramatic incident with one exception, when Mrs. Sarah Pollock, the aged grandmother of Wood, swooned away after giving testimony that may aid in sending the young man to the gallows. Her voice shook with emotion while on the stand and as she staggered into a seat she became inert and lifeless. It required several minutes exertion to restore her and she then left the room, leaning on the arm of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edmund L. Pollock, of New York.

Prosecutor James Griggs, of Somerville, was in charge of the proceedings and plied the questions, prompted by Coroner Toms and County Detective George Totten. A great deal of time was lost through the prosecutor's unfamiliarity with the crime or the scene and he was so wrapped up in keeping straight on what day the murder occurred and where Watchung is on the map that he neglected to ask vital questions. Wood's counsel, George W. Bird, and former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, of Codington & Swackhamer, were included among the spectators and the latter took copious notes. Codington & Swackhamer were retained to assist Mr. Bird at Wood's personal request.

Of the nineteen witnesses examined, the ones giving testimony of the greatest importance were Mrs. Pollock, George Whitten, Wood's father-in-law, and Ferinand Linnerts, a young man who came from New York to work on the Pollock farm and who worked side by side with Wood in a New York factory.

Mrs. Pollock said that Wood came to her home on the Coontown road last Tuesday and it was the first time she had seen him since last June. He came in the house simply to tell her that he was going to spend the night at Whitten's, but went off without dismissing Eugene Wood, the hackman who had taken him up from Plainfield. He afterward returned from Whitten's and told Wood to go back to Plainfield, this fact showing that it was not his intention to spend the night in the mountains when he started out. Continuing her story, Mrs. Pollock said he returned to her home Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and that after pacing about the floor for a time said that his head "felt awful queer." He said he was anxious for the return of "Mack," who had gone to Pennsylvania to see about some steel beams and that if he was in Plainfield when he got back, he would have lots of work and would not return to her place or Whitten's. Mrs. Pollock was positive that Wood

The New York Tribune Almanac.

Of course, it is possible to worry through life without keeping a Tribune Almanac at your elbow, but is it worth while—does it pay? For 25 cents a year this publication supplies you with a really marvellous amount of information, and the man who has it is an authority in his neighborhood. He doesn't have to be "guessing" or "supposing" about election pluralities, the names of Cabinet Ministers, Senators, Congressmen, Governors or Judges. He doesn't have to rely upon his memory when anything comes up about the big events of the preceding year or in relation to our army or navy, or sporting records, or, in fact, almost anything else of record worth knowing. If you never examined The Tribune Almanac just invest a quarter for once, and see how well pleased you'll be. The 1905 one will be on sale January 1, and may be had from your newsdealer, through your local paper or direct from The Tribune office, New York.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

Sigourney Defeated Conklin by a Score of 300 to 273.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—In the first of the final matches of the billiard tournament here W. H. Sigourney of San Francisco defeated Charles F. Conklin, the local expert, by the score of 300 to 273. This game was by far the best played in the tournament.

Sigourney took the lead in the first inning and never relinquished it during the entire game. At one time he was over 100 points ahead of his opponent, but during the last ten innings Conklin made several good runs which brought the men on more even terms.

Toward the end of the game Conklin was playing the better game of the two, but Sigourney was too far in the lead to be overtaken. Sigourney's high run was 31 and his average 7 6-42. Conklin's high run was 40 and his average 6 21-42.

Bragg Repeated His Victory.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—Bragg, who won the handicap here yesterday, has repeated his victory, beating his field easily by two lengths. Arcade, who carried the talent's money, broke down at the half mile pole. Cloverland beat Veterano for the place. Best Man was the only favorite to win.

Favorites Beaten at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—Racing conditions showed no improvement. A drizzling rain fell, and the track was very heavy. Inspector Halpin, who had enough of it after three furlongs, and Gladiator, who weakened badly at the finish in his race, were the beaten favorites.

Motor Boat Made Mile In 2:02.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—W. Gould Brokaw's motor boat Challenger has again lowered the world's record in Biscayne bay, making a mile in 2 minutes 2 seconds. Another trial will be made today.

Two Ships Caught In Ice Floe.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 9.—An ice floe has packed against the harbor here, and two vessels, the brig Energy, bound inward, and the brig Vidonia, outward bound, are caught amid the masses. Tugs have tried to reach them, but failed. The Energy signaled that she was short of provisions. A party of men who were sent over the ice with food were caught in the blizzard, and their fate is unknown. Three men who traversed the floes from the Vidonia as volunteers to carry a message for help have reached land safely. It is feared that both vessels will be destroyed. The gale is growing fiercer. If the vessels sink there will be small chance for the crews.

Verdict Against George H. Wood.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—At the close of the inquest held at Watchung, N. J., into the death of George Williams, the grocer of that place who was found shot to death in his sleigh last Thursday, the jury found that he came to his death by a pistol shot fired by George H. Wood. Nineteen witnesses were examined, but could throw no light on the motive for the crime. Most of them testified to having seen Williams in the company of Wood on the day of the shooting. It was shown that Williams had but a small sum of money on his person when he and Wood entered the sleigh and that this was found on his body.

Ice Embargo Continues.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—Although the ice jam in the Delaware river continues to seriously impede navigation, the situation is somewhat improved. Nearly a dozen steamers were fast in the ice near the "Horseshoe Bend," a short distance below this city, until late in the day, when all but two were able to proceed. The British steamers St. Oswald, hence for Havana, and the Ursula Bright, for Baltimore, are held fast in the ice pack and will probably remain there some time. About a score of tugs and barges are also caught in the blockade at various points along the river.

Will Be Hauled Over the Coals.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Postmaster General Wynne has ordered an investigation of the incident that occurred at the railway station here Tuesday, when a carrier said to August W. Machen, just before the latter's departure for the penitentiary, that Machen had the sympathy of a large number of the free delivery carriers. The postmaster general feels that such a remark does not represent the sentiment of the carriers.

Charges Against Wyoming Senator.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 9.—A concurrent resolution was introduced in the state senate here by Senator Keister, Democrat, relating to rumors of charges against United States Senator Francis E. Warren and demanding a triple investigation by the state legislature of Wyoming, by the senate of the United States and by President Roosevelt.

Error In Recording Senator's Vote.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The senate received from Mr. Kearns a disclaimer of the vote in favor of separate statehood for New Mexico, which the records for Tuesday credited him with. He said that he had been misunderstood by the clerks and that he had voted against the provision.

Nantucket Still Icebound.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Feb. 9.—The ice blockade which was established about the island a week ago was last night as complete as ever, with no prospects of an early raising of the embargo. No mails from the mainland have been received for six days.

John J. Ryan Acquitted.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 9.—John J. Ryan, charged with the embezzlement of $900,000 in a "get-rich-quick" scheme here, was last night acquitted.

TO EXPEL PLATT.

Postum Coffee Man's Petition Against Senator.

POST CHARGES A CONSPIRACY.

Complaint Based on Assertion That Office Is Used to Maintain Excessive Rates For United States Express Company.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—C. W. Post of Battle Creek, Mich., who has interested himself largely in the establishment of a parcels post system, filed with President Pro Tem. Frye of the senate a petition for the expulsion of Senator Thomas C. Platt from the senate. The petition is based on the assertion that Mr. Platt, as the executive officer of the United States Express company, is a party to a conspiracy to maintain identical rates among express companies for articles shipped over their lines, and he asserts that Platt has told representatives of his that he will oppose all legislation injuriously affecting his company's interests.

In his petition Mr. Post charges the six express companies of the United States with conspiring to violate the antitrust act by monopolizing the express business of the country and fixing the rates. He alleges that "by reason of the unlawful combination the express companies have maintained charges for all the different kinds of business far in excess of reasonable rates and they have been collecting and are now annually collecting from the people of the United States and from the banks and trust companies and other financial institutions, and from publishers of books and others having frequent occasion to require the service of express companies, hundreds of thousands of dollars over and above just compensation for the service which they render."

He then mentions the Post check currency bills, which are and have for several years been before congress, and says that by the plans proposed in them much of the business of sending small sums of money through the mails, "which is now transacted by the express companies, would be taken from them, to their injury, but to the benefit of the people of the United States and of the government of the United States, which itself now pays many thousands of dollars every year to the express companies for services, which it is one of the objects of such bills to render unnecessary."

Mr. Post charges that in his capacity as president of the United Express company Senator Platt is participating in the conspiracy charged and, proceeding, says:

"He is daily engaged in performing overt acts in pursuance thereof and that in the senate he has used and is continuing to use his influence as a senator to oppose the passage of the bills referred to or any of them on the ground that if passed they would affect injuriously the business of said express companies and reduce the amount which said companies by reason of said combination and conspiracy are yearly obtaining from the people of the United States and from the government thereof over and above just compensation for the services which they render."

He therefore asks the senate to institute an examination into the case and that if the charges are proved the senator be expelled. Explaining his reason for proceeding against the senator, he says:

"The petitioner and the public are without an adequate remedy elsewhere against the said Thomas C. Platt because of the provisions of section 5 of article 1 of the constitution of the United States, which makes the senate the sole judge of the qualifications of its members and gives to the senate only the power to deprive a senator of his seat."

In support of his statement Mr. Post filed an affidavit by Clarence E. Dawson to the effect that Senator Platt had told him that he was against the Post check bills because the plan if adopted would interfere with his business and that he would use his position as a senator to defeat them.

Miss Templeton Missing.

BERRIEN SPRINGS, Mich., Feb. 9.—Miss Olive Templeton, eighteen years old, has disappeared from the Adventist college in this village. Miss Templeton was sent away from the chapel exercises, and since that time no trace of her has been found. The St. Joseph river has been vainly dragged for several miles in the hope of finding her body. Her father says he sent his daughter to college so she could escape the advances of a young man.

ARGUES THE CASE

Governor Pennypacker Petitioned For Clemency.

MERCY FOR MRS. KATE EDWARDS.

Pennsylvania's Chief Executive Not In Favor of Capital Punishment, but Laws Must Be Carried Out. Plea to Board of Pardons.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—The Rev. Martin Sweitzer of Norristown, Pa., son of the spiritual adviser of Mrs. Kate Edwards, who is to be hanged at Reading next week for the murder of her husband, called on Governor Pennypacker in the interest of the woman. He was accompanied by a committee of Berks county officials who are interested in the case.

Mr. Sweitzer presented a lengthy petition asking for clemency in behalf of Mrs. Edwards.

"Why do you come to me with this petition?" asked the governor.

"We want to enlist your sympathies for this woman," replied Mr. Sweitzer.

"This is exactly what the constitution of Pennsylvania means to prevent," said the governor, "but it seems that these people after thirty years do not yet understand this."

"I am opposed to capital punishment," continued Rev. Sweitzer.

"So am I," replied the governor, "but I sat and tried murderers for thirteen years when I was on the bench. Hanging is a relic of barbarism. If it is wrong for one man to kill another, it is wrong for a thousand to kill one person."

Rev. Sweitzer said he regarded the murder as being almost justified on the plea of self defense, as "Mrs. Edwards' husband was a worthless brute."

"Many of us may think it would not be a bad thing to get the lowest specimens of humanity together and exterminate them in some painless manner," answered the governor. "They might not be a loss to society, but the law cannot consider this. Would you tell all women to kill their husbands if they are worthless?"

"Then what can be done?" finally asked Mr. Sweitzer.

"Hand your petition to the board of pardons, for the board is the proper authority," said the governor.

"Should the board decide to act favorably I would consider everything you have said when I consider that recommendation. I do not like to see a woman hang, but I did not make the law."

Governor Pennypacker said it was difficult to deal with a case like this, which appealed to sentiment entirely, and added: "It may seem strange, but in not one of the letters, petitions and telegrams I am receiving is a single reference made to Greason, who is under sentence to be executed on the same date for the same crime. Do these people want Greason to hang and Mrs. Edwards commuted? If they do not, they fail to say so."

The committee next called at the office of the board and filed a petition.

Movement For Lorenz's Pardon.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Dr. Lorenz, who was convicted with Machen and the Groffs in the postal fraud cases, will be brought to Washington by his bondsman on Monday. In view of Lorenz's severe illness he will not be forced to come to Washington when he is not able to travel. Lorenz comes to Washington to be formally surrendered by his bondsman as a preliminary to being sent to Moundsville penitentiary. It is said that a movement is under way with a view to asking the president to pardon Dr. Lorenz.

Edey Jewel Robbers Sentenced.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 9.—John Morgan and Carl Wilson, the Pasadena bellboys who robbed Mrs. William Edey of New York, a guest of the Maryland hotel, of $20,000 worth of jewelry, pleaded guilty in the superior court of burglary and were sentenced to three years each in the state prison. The jewelry which they stole was recovered shortly following their arrest.

Forty-niner Dead at Mattison.

MATTISON, Ill., Feb. 9.—C. C. P. Holden, who as president of the Chicago city council at the time of the great fire in 1871 rendered distinguished public service, is dead here of pneumonia at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. D. S. Holden. He was a forty-niner in California, served as a volunteer in the Mexican war and also in the civil war.

Banker Indicted at Lima, O.

LIMA, O., Feb. 9.—The grand jury, after a ten days' session, reported several important indictments. President Leighton of the defunct South Side bank was indicted in ten separate counts for embezzlement. Amos Young, former secretary of the Allen County Building and Loan association, was also indicted for embezzlement.

New Mexico Rejoicing.

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 9.—The legislature has passed resolutions thanking the United States senate for the passage of the statehood bill. The news that the senate had passed the bill admitting New Mexico as a state alone has caused great jubilation throughout the territory.

Admiral Cosby Dead.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Admiral Frank C. Cosby, U. S. N., retired, is dead from paralysis. He was born in Louisiana in 1840, served during the civil war and was retired in 1902 with the rank of rear admiral after having served for some time as general inspector of the pay corps.

AFFIRMS MONROE DOCTRINE.

Santo Domingo Agreement Revised and Completed.

SANTO DOMINGO, Feb. 9.—The task of revising and amending the convention between the United States and the republic of Santo Domingo, under which the former government is to undertake the financial administration of Santo Domingo until the claims of certain foreign powers are adjusted and satisfied, has been completed.

The American government agrees to completely respect the territorial integrity of Santo Domingo. The convention or protocol specifically affirms the Monroe doctrine. The customs officials are to be subject to the civil and penal jurisdiction of the Dominican republic without being considered subjects of that government. There is to be paid to the Dominican government 45 per cent of the total gross amount collected in all the custom houses of the republic, that proportion of the revenues being for the necessities of the administrative budget. The estimate in the first protocol that this 45 per cent shall be $900,000 for the first year is eliminated, as is also the agreement "that the extraordinary expenses which may be occasioned in the collection of the customs duties shall be made for the account of the creditors of the republic of Santo Domingo, without assigning to the latter any part thereof." Any reform of the Dominican tariff is to be subject to approval by the president of the United States. There shall be no increase of export duties or of the public debt of Santo Domingo, but export duties may be reduced or abolished by the authority of the American government on the request of the Dominican government.

The Dominican government pledges itself to give all necessary aid to the American government in carrying out the purposes of the convention as the latter may deem convenient.

The convention will not take effect until it shall have been ratified by the American senate and the Dominican congress and will remain in force for such time as may be necessary for the amortization of the Dominican republic's debt.

The country remains quiet.

EXPLOSION IN MINE.

Firing of Five Tons of Dynamite Caused Disaster.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Feb. 9.—Three men are dead, seven were injured and three are missing as the result of an explosion of 10,000 pounds of dynamite in No. 3 shaft of the Kearsarge branch of the Osceola Consolidated mines late yesterday.

Peter Kulpa, Matt Kaskala and William Pollots are dead, and Henry Missila, Peter Sarvala and John Karvala are missing.

The injured are: Joseph Mice, arm broken; Wilfred Rumfry, face and hands burned; Gus Donald, Ben Orchard, John Nevore, William Wills and Peter Putela, injured by gas.

No explanation can be given for the explosion. The dynamite was kept in a drift at the eighth level and was used by the men in blasting. The shaft was on fire last night, and it is feared the five men missing are dead. The searching party was unable to get down farther than the fifth level. The shafts are being sealed.

Hearst Freight Rate Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The arguments in the case of W. R. Hearst of New York against the anthracite coal carrying railroads were continued before the interstate commerce commission. Attorney Shearn, for the complainant, occupied the entire day. Mr. Shearn contended that between 1897 and 1903 these roads had departed from the published tariffs and had imposed discriminating rates.

Philippine Railway Extension.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Willard Green of New York and Patrick Egan, formerly American minister to Chile, made formal application to Secretary Taft for permission to undertake the extension of the Philippine railway system under the terms of the new act of congress. The secretary has referred the application to the Philippine commission.

Sales Agent Killed at Port Chester.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 9.—A man supposed to be E. C. Allen, general sales agent for the Appleton Car Mover company of Appleton, Wis., was struck and killed here by an express train on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. He was crossing the tracks on the way to the station, intending to take a train for New York.

Cecilia Loftus Ill.

AKRON, O., Feb. 9.—Cecilia Loftus, the actress, is at a hospital here, suffering with a serious case of nervous prostration. Since she fainted while on the stage she has gradually become worse, and her engagements at Erie, Pa., and Youngstown, O., have been canceled.

Miners Killed by Falling Coal.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 9.—Michael Bogdonick and Peter Cutch, miners, were killed by a fall of coal here in the Hampton mine of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company.

MISSING BOAT SAFE

Captain, Passengers and Crew Frozen In Lifeboat.

DAMARA FOUND TEN FATHOMS DOWN

Terrible Suffering at Sea In Zero Weather—All Encased In Thick Coating of Ice—Brave Woman Among Rescued.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 9.—After battling for twelve hours in an open boat with the temperature 2 degrees below zero and a mighty gale lashing the sea Captain Gorst, three passengers and ten of the crew of the ill fated Furness line's Damara have reached Pleasant point in safety. The news of their safe arrival was received here by telephone from Musquodoboit Harbor.

The news was brought to Musquodoboit after a hard day's travel through almost impassable snow drifted roads by one of the crew who landed in the first boat that left the wreck. He telephoned the agents here that Captain Gorst and the others in the second lifeboat, which had been reported missing, reached Pleasant point just before dark. The seaman reported all in the captain's lifeboat to be badly frost bitten and exhausted, some of them being so benumbed from the cold that they had to be lifted from the boat.

It was with the greatest difficulty that the shore was reached amid the heavy breakers, and all were thoroughly drenched. They had suffered much the same experience as did the occupants of the first boat, but the weather they encountered was much worse. They were incased with thick ice from head to foot, and most of them had to be dragged from their craft. They were taken into nearby homes and made as comfortable as possible, but whether all will survive cannot be determined at present.

Mrs. Prowse, the lady passenger who was in this boat, bore up under the trying ordeal wonderfully well and endured the great hardships with fortitude. She encouraged the men when they were almost overcome by the cold and wearied with constant work at the oars. When near the landing the rowers were so fatigued that they could not force the boat through the surf, and the men on shore waded out and dragged the boat in.

Captain Gorst said the Damara foundered at 10 o'clock in the morning. They had stood by her for six hours in the lifeboat, and it was only when the steamer plunged into the sea that they pulled away.

Previous to the foundering of the steamer the seas were breaking clear over her and tossing her like a toy from one side to the other. The water in her hold caused her to roll with the action of the waves, and just at the hour of 10 her decks were awash, and she went down, bow first.

None of the survivors is in a condition to leave Pleasant point, and it will be days before they can reach the city.

The tug F. W. Roebling that went out to the wreck has put into Jeddore for shelter owing to the severe gale blowing. Captain Harrison, the marine superintendent, has sent word to the Furness agency here that the tug found the Damara sunk in ten fathoms off Pleasant point.

Smallpox Scare False Alarm.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—Dr. Welsh of Philadelphia and Dr. Rice, the county physician, who were summoned here by the Gettysburg college authorities, have pronounced the supposed cases of smallpox as mild cases of chicken pox. The college students who were placed under quarantine have been discharged as cured, and the quarantine will be lifted as soon as Dr. Rice can bring the matter before the state board of health.

Unique Gavel For Fairbanks.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Senator Fairbanks, vice president elect, has received a unique gavel from a single piece of red cedar. The tree from which it was cut grew on the Vermont shore of Lake Champlain and was whittled out with a penknife by Edward P. Hatch. The gavel was presented to the senator by Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews, on behalf of Mr. Hatch, who is a warm admirer of the vice president elect.

Central Express Derailed.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 9.—The westbound southwestern limited on the New York Central, leaving New York at 1 p. m., jumped the track at St. Johnsville at 6 o'clock last night. The train was running at a high rate of speed, and every car left the track, running a quarter of a mile on the ground before stopping. The passengers were badly shaken up, but no person was seriously injured.

Murder Over Dispute at Cards.

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 9.—William Sears, twenty-four years old, was shot and almost instantly killed by Edward Ecker, aged thirty-three, at Knoxville, this county. A dispute over a game of cards is said to have caused the tragedy. Ecker is in custody in this city.

Chief Justice Tillinghast Ill.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Feb. 9.—Chief Justice of the Rhode Island supreme court, Bardon E. Tillinghast, is very ill with pneumonia at his residence in this city. The crisis in the progress of the disease has not yet been reached.

Roman Baths For Russians.

ROME, Feb. 9.—Grand Duchess Sergius, president of the Russian Red Cross society, has been in negotiation with the Sermione baths, near Brescia, to have 1,000 officers from Manchuria treated there in groups of 100.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 9, 1905.

Mayor Wyckoff, of Dunellen, needlessly exerts himself when he takes the trouble to deny that there is any sentiment in that borough favorable to its annexation to this city. There is no more agitation for such a scheme there than there is here and we have yet to learn of any intelligent person advocating such a consolidation. Despite his alleged statement, the people of this city have not got the annexation fever and there is no reason to believe that they will be afflicted in that way for some time to come at least. When the subject is given a moment's thought one can realize how absurd the proposition is so far as Plainfield is concerned. It would mean that the underground sewage system would have to be extended through Dunellen and the building of a storm sewer through its business section. There are a hundred and one items of expense which Plainfield would incur if such a thing should come to pass and the advantages to be obtained would be very small. Mayor Wyckoff need not be alarmed by newspaper fakes: Plainfield is not coveting Dunellen.

ARRAIGNS THE MAYOR

the man who has the courage to antagonize the votes of those who have contrary views, or who desire to keep their tax rates down at the expense of those unfortunate ones who are willing to pay for a large proportion of the city improvements, through the saloon agencies. The recent trial in Somerville has severely strained public opinion as to the economy of this method.

"Unfortunately prohibition does not seem to fully prohibit. High license, however, tends to minimize the number of opportunities for unnecessary indulgence and many might reasonably feel that it would be something of an added safeguard to also restrict the location of the saloon within the fire limits. Respectfully yours,

"F. E. Kinsman.

JANUARY WEATHER.

Highest Fifty-Two Degrees and Lowest Zero.

Weather Prophet John Neagle presents some interesting statistics regarding the weather for January. The highest temperature for the month was 52 degrees on the first and the lowest temperature was zero on the 26th. The mean minimum temperature was 19 0 and the mean maximum temperature 35 8. The greatest daily range was 26. The total precipitation was 4 23 inches and the greatest in twenty-four hours was 1.56 inches on the 6th and 7th.

The total snowfall for the month was 18.3 inches and there were ten rainy days. Six days were clear, six were partly cloudy and six cloudy. There was sleet on the 3d, 4th and 6th of the month. The mean temperature for the month was 2.6 degrees below the normal, precipitation 0 44 inches above normal. The snowfall for the month was 8 5 inches above normal, but was two inches below that of January, 1904.

PERSONAL.

Miss Nellie Brown, of Dunellen, has been visiting her aunt on Washington avenue.

Mrs. Ella Hannigan, of Plainfield, has been visiting Mrs. Joseph McConnel, of Annandale.

Elmer D. Cutting, of this city, went to Trenton, last night, where he took part in a concert, singing several tenor solos.

The Misses Campbell, of Warwick, N. Y., have returned home after a visit with the Misses Rockwell, of East Front street.

—Under the auspices of the Plainfield Camera Club there will be an evening of whist at the rooms on Monday night.

—There was an executive committee meeting of the Public Library Board on Tuesday night, the business being of a routine nature, including the payment of bills.

CITY CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO LEAL'S SCHOOL

P. H. S. BASKET BALL PLAYERS FORFEIT INTERSCHOLASTIC TITLE.

Before the largest crowd which ever witnessed a Y. M. C. A. basketball game, and in a contest, the closest ever fought between two local schools, the team representing Leal's School defeated the Plainfield High School aggregation yesterday afternoon, concluding the interscholastic league, and winning the city scholastic championship. It was by the score of 22 to 20 that the private school defeated the public institution, and it required several minutes of extra play after the game had ended to decide the victory and championship. When the whistle blew at the close of the second twenty minute half the score stood 19 to 19, the result of hard close playing, and a remarkable rally on the part of the P. H. S. team.

The first half closed with the score 15 to 10, during which P. H. S. appeared to be asleep, and was man for man weaker during most of the game, but the playing of the red and blue supporters was far superior in the last four minutes. Thompson was the strong point on the High School, while for Leal's Jewett and Chapman were the stars. Jewett was retired from the game with an injured ankle on the first half. Howard and Manning passed well.

The summary was as follows: P. H. S.—Thompson and Bentley, forwards; Freeman, center; Gavett and Stutsman, guards. Leal's—Chapman and Howard, forwards; Jewett and Perkins, center; Manning and Lyman, guards. Goals from the field, Howard, 2; Chapman, 2; Jewett, 2; Manning, 2; Perkins, Thompson, 4; Freeman. Goals from fouls, Chapman, 2; Howard, Jewett, Thompson, 3; Gavett, 7. Referee, Morse; umpire, Browning; scorer, Collier; timer, Briggs.

CLOSED PORTALS.

There will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tonight.

The Grand Lodge of Royal Arcanum will hold its annual meeting in Lakewood, instead of Asbury Park.

Friendship Lodge, No. 4, Daughters of Rebekah, held a social Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. William Ford on East Fourth street and arrangements were made for another social to be held in the lodge rooms Tuesday night, February 14.

The members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, spent Tuesday night on the bowling alleys at the Casino, three games being arranged between the single and married men. The single men won the first and last games and the married men took the second games. For the single men Richard Birmingham rolled high score, 178 and Thomas Goff put up the high score for the married men, 180. There was also a pool match between William O'Keefe and A. E. LaPorte at fifty points. Mr. LaPorte won by fourteen points. After the bowling refreshments were served.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Young People's Society of Swedish Pilgrim church will hold its second anniversary concert in the church on Saturday night, when an attractive programme will be presented. Rev. O. Nelson, of New York, will also make an address.

An enjoyable programme has been arranged by the members of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church for its monthly meeting to be held Monday night. The members of the club have just received a copy of the constitution and by-laws.

Miss Emery, of New York, general secretary of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church, addressed the Women's Episcopal Guild at Trnell Inn, Tuesday afternoon, telling of her work for the cause of missions. Following Miss Emery's talk, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, made a short address.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

The public school meeting, at which the decision of the citizens of New Market toward the question of a new school will be made, is to take place this afternoon at the building which is at present used as a school. It is expected that the meeting will be largely attended, and it is hoped that some amicable situation may be suggested. At present there is little chance of prediction upon the result of the meeting as the opinions are so varied. Some desire a $10,000 school building, while to others the idea of several district schools seems more acceptable. A vote will be taken today upon the questions which have been perplexing the board for some time, and the petitions recently received will be acted upon.

W. J. Campbell has been engaged as the entertainer for the social to be given at the chapel of the Presbyterian church by the pupils of Thomas Bodine's Sunday-school class tomorrow night. Mr. Campbell is a well known reader and humorist, and it is a privilege to be able to hear him. The social by the class is an annual event.

The condition of Mrs. Newton Apgar, who was reported to be dangerously ill, is much better, and it is expected that she will be out again in a short time. She has been suffering from an attack of pleuro-pneumonia.

Robert Humpston, of this borough, was married last night, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives, to Miss Ida Talmy, of Plainfield. There were several local residents in attendance.

The surprise party given recently in honor of J. T. Apgar, of High Bridge, was largely attended by local residents. The affair was a most enjoyable one, being in honor of Mr. Apgar's fiftieth birthday.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle, pastor of the M. E. church, is expected to return today from Port Jarvis, where he has been attending the funeral of his brother.

Miss Emma Craig, of Front street, is chairman of the committee in charge of the valentine social to be given this evening at the Presbyterian chapel.

The annual valentine social of the Lakeside Council, D. of L., will be held tonight at Friendship Hall.

Mrs. P. R. Apgar, who has been confined to her home by the grip, is now greatly recovered.

F. G. Hart, of Elizabeth, has returned to his home after a visit with Blanchard Gardner.

The regular church prayer meeting was held as usual at the First Baptist church last night.

Archibald Brakeley will be home from Princeton College for a few days next week.

William Beekman is able to be out again after a severe illness.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The Suburban and 'Plains bowling teams meet tonight on Lee's alleys, in a match game. The Suburban team defeated the former local team twice, but since then the team has been reorganized and strengthened considerably and should be able to hold its own with the borough team.

Albert Brown, a former resident of this place, having conducted a wheelwright and blacksmith business here for years, died Tuesday at Muhlenberg Hospital, where he had been under treatment for several days with pneumonia.

Miss Little, of the corps of teachers, spent Wednesday visiting public schools in other places. Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Jr., had charge of her room during her absence.

The condition of Mrs. Alvah Ryno, who suffered a paralytic stroke early Monday morning, remains about the same, her condition being considered critical.

John Schmidt is filling the large ice house near the "Back Pond" and may possibly engage in the ice business during the coming season.

Frederick Clark has just received a fresh consignment of horses and cows, to meet the spring demands for live stock.

Mrs. Thomas Dobbins, of Kearney, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Ann Dobbins, of Front street.

The regular quarterly conference meeting will be held tomorrow night at the Methodist church.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., holds its weekly meeting tonight in the Library rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

William Green, who a few weeks since lost a foot by being caught in a cable at the L. V. coal storage, and has been cared for in Muhlenberg Hospital, is recovering and expects to be out in about two weeks. His fellow workmen at the storage grounds have kindly provided him with a fine pair of crutches with his name stamped thereon.

Elizabeth Smith, who has resided at the township home for several years, died there recently. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. A. Cubberley this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Henry Molleson, of Clinton avenue, who is employed in Philadelphia, remained at home two or three days this week on account of illness.

A daughter was born into the family of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wykoff two or three days ago.

Mrs. Morris Higgins is confined to her room with an attack of grip.

A baby girl has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wykoff.

AMUSEMENTS.

Francis Wilson is in his third week in the great laughing success "Cousin Billy" at the Criterion Theatre. Even in his palmiest comic opera days he never delighted his audiences more than he does now in this rattling comedy. May Robson and Edward Abeles are prominent in the cast of "Cousin Billy" and help to make it an effectual cure for dull care, wrinkles and all other undesirable things.

"Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" has scored a success, which gives Augustus Thomas three comedy triumphs in as many consecutive seasons. First "The Earl of Pawtucket," next "The Other Girl" and now the charming and exceedingly amusing set of complications which he has devised in Mrs. Leffingwell's misplaced boots. An immensely strong cast, prominent in which are Fay Davis, Margaret Illington, Jessie Busley, William Courtenay, Vincent Serrano, Ernest Lawford and J. H. Barnes, gives it splendid interpretation and prevents none of its fun values to escape. Matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday at the Savoy.

Ward & Vokes began a two weeks' engagement in their new musical comedy, "A Pair of Pinks," at the New York Theatre last Monday evening, continuing Klaw & Erlanger's policy at that house of great productions at popular prices ranging from 25 cents to $1. These clever entertainers will be followed Monday evening, the 20th inst., by Wright Lorimer in his magnificent production of the Biblical play, "The Shepherd King," which made such a long run at the Knickerbocker Theatre in New York last spring. Popular prices will still continue and the theatre-going public and church people will have the opportunity of seeing for $1 a production formerly presented in New York at $2. That this change of policy at the New York Theatre has been greatly appreciated has been proved by the hit of "Home Folks" and the remarkable success of George M. Cohan in "Little Johnny Jones."

Accurate and Reliable.

The New York World Almanac and Encyclopedia is a standard annual work of reference for professional and business men and politicians. It contains a vast amount of current information in small space and is always accurate and reliable. The 1905 edition is out and can be obtained of newsdealers for 25 cents, or will be sent by mail by the Press Publishing Company, Pulitzer building, New York, upon receipt of 35 cents.

SWEDISH PASTOR'S CALL TO WOODSTOCK, CONN.

REV. L. T. LINDHOLM TO BE SUCCEEDED BY REV. THEO. ENG UND.

Rev. L. T. Lindholm, who for nearly two years has been pastor of the Swedish Pilgrim church, has tendered his resignation to take effect May 1. He has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Swedish Congregational church, Woodstock, Conn., and will enter upon his new charge soon after May 1. The flock to which he goes is about twice the size of the Plainfield congregation, and it is for the purpose of entering a larger field of work that Mr. Lindholm makes the change.

The local church has extended a call to Rev. Theodore England, now pastor of the Swedish Pilgrim church at Perth Amboy, to succeed Mr. Lindholm and it is believed that he will accept. The church he is now pastor of is about the same size as the Plainfield church.

Mr. Lindholm received his preparation for the ministry in the Chicago Theological Seminary and his first charge was at Michigan City, Indiana. He afterwards was pastor of the Swedish church at Northeastern, Mass., and came from that church to Plainfield nearly two years ago. Since coming here he has received five calls to other churches, but refused them all until such time as he thought the local church was sufficiently well advanced to warrant his going away. He has done a good work here and has increased the membership considerably.

RAISING FUNDS FOR CITY NURSE'S SALARY

DAUGHTERS OF THE CROSS, EK. D., HOLD A LUNCHEON.

Under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross and for the purpose of raising funds with which to meet its pledge to the fund to support the City Union, King's Daughters' nurse, a successful luncheon and sale was held yesterday afternoon at the Park Club. There were 125 persons at the luncheon and many more attended the sale which followed. The luncheon was prepared in a satisfactory manner by Mrs. Johnson, wife of the club steward.

Cakes and fancy aprons were sold after the luncheon. Mrs. George T. Rogers, Mrs. DeWitt Brokaw and Mrs. Gilbert T. Rhoades presided at the cake table, while Mrs. Nelson A. Miller and Miss Susan Rafferty were at the apron table. Mrs. George Hallock and Mrs. Augustus V. Healy were in charge of the luncheon. The net profits from the affair is not known at present, but it is believed that a substantial sum will be realized.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Wilson, of Caldwell; Mrs. L. H. Biglow, Jr., of Montclair; Miss Endicott and Miss Shreve, of Island Heights; Mrs. Hegeman, of Princeton; Miss Leontine Meade, Rev. and Mrs. M. E. Dwight, of New York, and Mrs. John Clapp, of Mercer avenue, who is spending the winter in New York.

SNAP SHOTS.

Lincoln Association, of Jersey City, which was organized in 1865, and is the oldest in the United States, will hold its fortieth annual dinner at the Jersey City Club on Monday night, February 13. The Lincoln Association, of Hoboken, has arranged to hold its dinner on Saturday night, February 11. The speakers at the Jersey City dinner will be: Governor Edward C. Stokes, who will make his first speech in Hudson County since his election; Rear Admiral Joseph B. Coghlan, U. S. N.; the Hon. Arthur S. Tompkins, of Nyack, N. Y.; Colonel T. H. Roberts, of Brooklyn, and Congressman Marshall VanWinkle, a member of the association.

Princeton men are making a special effort to secure the passage of the bill now before Congress, appropriating $30,000 to assist in the erection of an imposing memorial of the battle of Princeton. The amount desired is to be subscribed by the Princeton Battle Monument Association and the balance is to come from the National government. The bill is now before the House of Representatives, having already passed the Senate and having been favorably reported by the House Committee on Appropriations. The site selected for the monument is the circle at the junction of Bayard lane, Nassau, Mercer and Stockton streets, near the residence of former President Grover Cleveland.

Feb. 12: "Christ a Servant, and We Are Servants"—Phil. ii, 5-12.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

It is not an easy task to learn that we must work if we would enjoy the things of this world. But we have to master it if we ever get our own. It is possible to so apply ourselves that finally we enjoy working and prefer it to leisure unoccupied. There is also a sense of elation as we come to mastery of things. We may also get to the state where we enjoy mastery over men.

But these are not the labors that tax all the best that is in us in their accomplishment. To know the mystery of things, to have the leadership of men—these are great accomplishments and stamp those who acquire them as great among men and as worthy of honor. But there is a more difficult and worthy work for us to do.

If this world is God's world and He has a purpose in sustaining it, if men are the children of God and capable of working with Him in the accomplishment of His ends, if Jesus Christ has been here and has shown us the perfect life and opened the gates into the eternal good for us, then the best task for us is the putting ourselves to learn the things of God and study how to lead men into the likeness of Jesus Christ.

This means the very prosaic effort of serving our fellow men instead of trying to find some way to make them serve us. It is a reversal of the ordinary thought of life. It is doing service instead of the getting of service from some other.

If this were a duty that gave no promise of pleasure in the doing, but was simply necessary in order to obtain the favor of God, an arbitrary requirement for which no good reason could be discovered, but only the purpose to test our obedience, even then it would be worth our striving to perform it.

But the fact is there is no pleasure in this life greater than that of feeling that we have helped some one beside ourselves. The hearty approval of one's own conscience gives a glow of happiness that no commendation from the lips of the greatest of earth can produce.

Somehow the taint of selfishness that clings to all that we do for self alone takes away the keen edge of enjoyment from effort and one feels a sense of dissatisfaction as if this is not as good a thing as one is capable of doing. Only when we throw all our power into the effort of helping some one in need and feel every faculty working to its utmost does interest grow intense and the will imperious in its demands. Only then do we rise to the full height of our moral nature and know that we are at our best.

Still better than all this is the consciousness that in such doing of service for another we are obeying the example and command of our Master, Jesus Christ. We are assured that He will approve and will help us to reach the desired end. The high sense of delight that comes to a soul that is knowingly and gladly working for and with Jesus to accomplish His desires is the most completely satisfactory emotion which we ever experience in this life.

If you want to reach the heights of life then follow the Lord and serve. He was here as one that serves. Exaltation lies along this road and is reached by no other.

Let us never forget that we are servants—servants of God and servants for, as well as with, our fellow men.

So Loved That He Gave.

A story is told of a child in Luther's time who had been taught to think of God only with dread as of a terrible judge. In her stern home the name of God had been mentioned only to terrify and frighten her. But one day in her father's printing office she picked up a scrap of paper and found on it the first words of this verse, "God so loved the world that He gave"—. The remaining words were torn off, but even in this mere fragment there was a revelation to her. It told her that God loved the world—loved it well enough to give something. What He gave she did not know, but it was a great deal for Him to give anything to it. The new thought brought great joy to her heart. It changed all her conceptions of God. She learned to think of Him as one who loved her, as her friend, ready to give her rich gifts and all good, and this brightened and transformed her life.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

The Pearl.

Every man who desires the pearl of great price must sacrifice his all to buy it. It is not enough to see the beauty and the glory and almost to taste the joy of this wonderful life. You must become the possessor of it. The man had found and seen, desired and rejoiced in the pearl of great price, but he did not have it until he gave up everything and bought it. Some Christians may be holding fast some doubtful thing, not being willing to surrender and leave behind the whole of wilderness life.

Do you expect that religion is so cheap that without giving time you can find close fellowship with God? You cannot. This pearl is worth everything. If you find there is a struggle within the heart, by God's grace deliverance will come.—Rev. Andrew Murray.

Who Can Doubt It?

Skepticism as to things spiritual and celestial is as irrational and unphilosophical as it is degrading. Who that sends his eye over this immense creation can doubt that there are orders of beings superior to ourselves or can see anything unreasonable in the doctrine that there are states in which mind exists less circumscribed and clogged by matter than on earth—in other words, that there is a spiritual world? —W. E. Channing.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 12.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Christ a servant, and we are his servants.—Phil. ii, 5-11.

A servant! The word has a distasteful sound. To be the personal helper of another or, worse still, in complete subjection to him or his slave has always been most repugnant to the natural human heart, and yet this word has a large place in the religion of Jesus Christ and has thereby come to have an exalted significance and to designate a relationship that is most desirable. Indeed, after all has been said the position of servant has always been a dignified and exalted one. The highest ambitions of men, rightly considered, have been to serve the person or the cause to which they were most deeply devoted. Love has ever desired to find its expression in service. "Ich Dien" (I serve) is not only the motto of one royal household, but the true insignia of all possessed of real kingly characteristics. Real royalty lives to serve God and its subjects, no matter where it may be found.

In our lesson Paul exhorts the Philippians to cultivate the Christian grace of humility that finds expression in a desire to serve rather than to be served. He exhorts them to unity of heart and mind by having a true conception of their proper relations to each other. Strife and vainglory are to be omitted from their lives. Each person in true humility is to consider every other person better than himself and to consider the interests of others before his own. Could the world have such a true and unselfish humility it would be transformed, and it should be the desire and aim of every Christian to practice, preach and spread such real Christian conceptions of man's relation to his fellow men. Such a condition of heart and mind will result in service, the true and final goal of the Christian religion.

As a spur to the possession and exercise of such a spirit Paul uses the example of Christ, "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus."

1. Christ was a servant. He came into this world to serve it. In His own language He came "not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many." He came to serve and to die a ransom for those whom He served. Though He was in the form of God and could claim equality with God and not do injustice to the Father, yet He "took upon Him the form of a servant!" And to what lowliness His service descended. "He humbled Himself and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross." Humility, obedience—obedience even to death, and that the despised death of the cross—these were the characteristics of Christ as a servant. Can we, then, refuse to serve Him and one another in His name and for His sake?

2. Christ's humility led to His exaltation. "Wherefore God hath highly exalted Him." We serve ourselves best by serving others best. The man who seeks happiness in selfishness misses the mark, while the man who unselfishly lives for the happiness of others finds the secret of his own happiness. The road to exaltation is not through vain personal ambition, but through humble self sacrificing service. Service exalts the king in the eyes of his people, the soldier in the eyes of his countrymen, the disciple to his master and the child of God in the sight of his Heavenly Father. "He that exalteth himself shall be abased, but he that humbleth himself shall be exalted." Service, therefore, is not only a Christian duty, but it is profitable. Let us therefore serve Him who served us by serving those who are His.

Notes at Random.

In Rayner's supply stores, Hampstead, Ireland, is a Christian Endeavor society that meets at 10 p. m. Its members are unable to attend the Christian Endeavor meetings in their churches and so have formed a society at their place of business.

New York city Endeavorers gave last year to missions $9,340.58 and to benevolences $4,850.63. This was at the rate of $2 a member, a magnificent record.

California Endeavorers have undertaken to support an Endeavorers' hospital, and the Santa Clara Endeavorers start the good work by maintaining a room for a year.

Next Christian Endeavor day every Endeavorer in Great Britain is expected to give an "Endeavor penny," for the extension of Christian Endeavor at home, on the continent and in India. It all give that little sum the total will be $5,000.

Baltimore Rally Song For the 1906 Convention.

[Tune, "O Mother, Dear, Jerusalem."—Materna.]

O Baltimore, in Maryland,
Fair city of our state,
A privilege is granted thee
In which can all partake.
A mighty host, with legions strong,
A consecrated band,
Will visit thee, with purpose true,
From o'er this great broad land.

Sweet fellowship and thoughts of God,
Communion of His saints,
A deepening of the spiritual life,
To grow like Him in grace,
Will be the wish of every one
Expressed in song and prayer,
And may our hearts be tuned to sing
And speak His praises there!

Endeavorers, then, of Baltimore,
Prepare for this great feast,
Be worthy of the name you bear
And join in labor sweet
That Jesus Christ may reign supreme
In hearts of young and old,
And our dear city may receive
Great blessings yet untold.

—Frederick Ohrenschall.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth. 7 Miles from Newark.
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or office of the Associations:

OPERA CLOAKS.

Exquisite Wraps For Theater and Ball Use—The Poke Bonnet.

Oyster shell white is a favorite shade for smart opera cloaks. These cloaks are very smart when trimmed with dark fur and silver embroidery.

An odd evening coat is of gray liberty silk cut like a monk's cloak and lined with accordion plaited chiffon.

There is a stunning new coat which emanated from Paris, a kind of cross between the ordinary basque coat and the redingote. It is tight fitting, the basque being without fullness at the top, while at the hem it forms godets. The coat is worn open or closed and is elaborately trimmed. The sleeves are of moderate size.

In the up to date evening coiffure bows and aigrets have disappeared. The new hair adornment is a diamond twisted bar, with a pair of side combs to match or a single top comb of an odd and pretty design.

For those who revel in the picturesque there is a poke bonnet, a perfect duplicate of one worn in 1820. It is made in two distinct parts, a flaring poke front reaching from ear to ear, while the crown is round and boxlike. On the left side is a bunch of white ostrich tips held in place by a jeweled rosette.

Very smart for theater wear are the feather boas and muffs made of ostrich, coq or marabou feathers. Sets of these feathers are extremely fashionable in deep cerise shading to a delicate pink.

The girlish hat illustrated is of white felt trimmed with a wreath of pale blush pink roses and mossy green leaves.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DRESS ACCESSORIES.

Dainty Belts and Stocks For the Up to Date Costume.

The twentieth century girl hangs her chatelaine watch on a long black half inch silk ribbon. On the left side of her blouse she fastens the timepiece with a fancy gold safety pin a couple of inches long.

A pretty necktie to wear with shirt waists is made from three-quarters of a yard of plain satin ribbon four inches wide and from two yards of Dresden ribbon four inches in width. The stock piece about the throat is of folded ribbon of both kinds. The loops of the bow in front are of plain ribbon and the long knotted ends of the Dresden ribbon.

A fortunate girl had given to her on Christmas a perfectly stunning home-made belt. It consisted of nothing more elaborate than a yard and a quarter of five inch moss green satin ribbon. At the center of the back the ribbon was laid in three plaits. Holding these in place was a large oval piece of green suede leather cut in a fanciful stenciled design. Under the middle part of the conventional design colored silk was applied. This pretty device was used in place of a buckle. The ribbon ends which looped in front were ornamented with small designs in leather.

Crapes in pastel shades adorn reception hats of chiffon or uncut velvet, while white Irish lace is combined with black velvet for toques and picture hats.

Colored taffeta adorned with velvet spots is one of the newest things of the day. It is especially handsome made up into long directoire coats worn over plain silk skirts of the same shade. An immense quantity of material is used in the construction of the up to date skirt.

The attractive girdle in the cut is of satin ribbon with shower ends. The wrinkled piece for the waist is of wide sash ribbon. The girdle fastens in the back with three choux. Graduated ends of two inch ribbon finished at the ends with tassels hang down the back.

THE GRAFTERS

By

FRANCIS LYNDE

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

"He did. He said in sober earnest just what Hunnicott had said in a joke: 'If I had your case to fight, I should try to obliterate Judge MacFarlane.' I began to say that MacFarlane's removal wouldn't help us so long as Bucks has the appointing of his successor, and then he turned on me and hammered it in with a last word just as we were leaving the train: 'I didn't say remove; I said obliterate.' I caught on, after so long a time, and I've been hard at work ever since."

"You are obliterating me," said Miss Portia. "I haven't the slightest idea what it is all about."

"It's easy from this on," said Kent, consolingly. "You know how MacFarlane secured his re-election?"

"Everybody knows that."

"Well, to cut a long story short, the gerrymander deal won't stand the light. The constitution says—"

"Oh, please don't quote law books at me. Put it in English—woman-English, if you can."

"I will. The special act of the assembly is void; therefore there was no legal election, and, by consequence, there is no judge and no receiver."

Miss Van Brock was silent for a reflective minute. Then she said:

"On second thought, perhaps, you would better tell me what the constitution says, Mr. David. Possibly I could grasp it."

"It is in the section on elections. It says: 'All circuit or district judges, and all special judges, shall be elected by the qualified voters of the respective circuits or districts in which they are to hold their court.' Kiowa county was cut out of Judge Whitcomb's circuit and placed in Judge MacFarlane's for electoral purposes only. In all other respects it remains a part of Judge Whitcomb's circuit, and will so continue until Whitcomb's term expires. Without the vote of Kiowa, MacFarlane could not have been elected; with it he was illegally elected, or, to put it the other way about, he was not elected at all. Since he is not lawfully a judge, his acts are void, among them this appointment of Major Gulliford as receiver for the Trans-Western."

She was not as enthusiastic as he thought she ought to be. In the soil prepared for it by the political confidences of the winter there had grown up a many-branching tree of intimacy between these two; a frank, sexless friendship, as Kent would have described it, in which a man who was not very much given to free speech with any one unburdened himself, and the woman made him believe that her quick, apprehending sympathy was the one thing needful—as women have done since the world began.

"What is the matter with it?" he demanded, when he had given her five full minutes for reflection.

"I don't know, David," she said gravely. "Have I ever thrown cold water on any of your schemes thus far?"

"No, indeed. You have been the loyalest partisan a man ever had, I think, the only one I have to whom I can talk freely. And I have told you more than I have all the others put together."

"I know you have. And it hurts me to pull back now when you want me to push. But I can't help it. Do you believe in a woman's intuition?"

"I suppose I do: all men do, don't they?"

She was tying little knots in the fringe of the table scarf, but the prophetess-eyes, as Penelope called them, were not following the deft intertwinings of the slender fingers.

"You mean to set about 'obliterating' Judge MacFarlane forthwith?" she asked.

"Assuredly. I have been whipping the thing into shape all afternoon: that is what kept me from dining with you."

"It involves some kind of legal procedure?"

"Yes; a rather complicated one."

"Could you explain it so that I could understand it?"

"I think so. In the first place the question is raised by means of an information or inquiry called a quo warranto. This is directed to the receiver, and is a demand to know by what authority he holds. Is it clear thus far?"

"Pellucidly," she said.

"In reply the receiver cites his authority, which is the order from Judge MacFarlane; and in our turn we proceed to show that the authority does not exist—that the judge's election was illegal and that therefore his acts are void. Do I make it plain?"

"You make it seem as though it were impossible to fail. And yet I know you will fail."

"How do you know it?"

"Don't ask me; I couldn't begin to tell you that. But in some spiritual or mental looking-glass I can see you coming to me with the story of that failure—coming to ask my help."

He smiled.

"You don't need to be the prophetess Penelope says you are to foresee part of that. I always come to you with my woes."

"Do you?—oftener than you go to Miss Brentwood?"

This time his smile was a mere tightening of the lips.

"You do love to grind me on that side, don't you?" he said. "I and my affairs are less than nothing to Miss Brentwood, and no one knows it any better than you do."

"But you want to go to her," she persisted. "I am only the alternative."

He looked her full in the eyes.

"Miss Van Brock, what is it you want me to say? What can I say more than I said a moment ago—that you are the truest friend a man ever had?"

The answering look out of the brown eyes was age-old in its infinite wisdom.

"How little you men know when you think you know the most," she said half-musingly; then she broke off abruptly. "Let us talk about something else. If Maj. Guilford is wrecking the railroad, why is he spending so much money on improvements? Have you thought to ask yourself that question?"

"A good many times," he admitted, following her promptly back to first principles.

"And you have not found the answer?"

"Not one that fully satisfies me—no."

"I've found one."

"Intuitively?" he smiled.

"No; it's pure logic, this time. Do you remember showing me a letter that Mr. Hunnicott wrote you just before the explosion—a letter in which he repeated a bit of gossip about Mr. Semple Falkland and his mysterious visit to Gaston?"

"Yes, I remember it."

"Do you know who Mr. Falkland is?"

"Who doesn't?" he queried. "He has half of Wall street in his clientele."

"Yes; but particularly he is the advisory counsel of the Plantagould system. Ever since you showed me that letter I have been trying to account for his presence in Gaston on the day before Judge MacFarlane's spring term of court. I should never have found out but for Mrs. Brentwood."

"Mrs. Brentwood!"

Miss Van Brock nodded.

"Yes; the mother of my—of the young person for whom I am the alternative, is in a peck of trouble; I quote her verbatim. She and her two daughters hold some 3,000 shares of Western Pacific stock. It was purchased at 57, and it is now down to 21."

"Twenty and a quarter to-day," Kent corrected.

"Never mind the fractions. The mother of the incomparable—Penelope, has heard that I am a famous business woman; a worthy understudy of Mrs. Hetty Green; so she came to me for advice. She had a letter from a New York broker offering her a fraction more than the market price for her 3,000 shares of Western Pacific."

"Well?" said Kent.

"Meaning what did I do? I did what you did not do—what you are not doing even now; I put two and two together in the twinkling of a bedstaff. Why should a New York broker be picking up outlying Western Pacific at a fraction more than the market when the stock is sinking every day? I was curious enough to pass the 'why' along to a friend of mine in Wall street."

"Of course he told you all about it," said Kent, incredulously.

"He told me what I needed to know. The broker in question is a Plantagould man."

"Still I fail to 'connect up,' as the linemen say."

"Do you? Ah, David, David! will you leave it for a woman to point out what you should have suspected the moment you read that bit of gossip in Mr. Hennicott's letter?"

Her hand was on the arm of her chair. He covered it with his own.

"I'll leave it for you, Portia. You are my good angel."

She withdrew the hand quickly, but there was no more than playful resentment in her retort.

"Shame on you!" she scoffed. "What would Miss Brentwood say?"

"I wish you would leave her out of it," he frowned. "You are continually ignoring the fact that she has promised to be the wife of another man."

"And has thereby freed you from all obligations of loyalty? Don't deceive yourself: women are not made that way. Doubtless she will go on and marry the other man in due season; but she will never forgive you if you smash her ideals. But we were talking about the things you ought to have guessed. Fetch me the atlas from the book-case—lower shelf; right-hand corner; that's it."

He did it; and in further obedience opened the thin quarto at the map of the United States. There were heavy black lines, inked in with a pen, tracing out the various ramifications of a great railway system. The nucleus of the system lay in the middle west, but there was a growing network of the black lines reaching out toward the Pacific. And connecting the trans-Mississippi network with the western was a broad red line paralleling the Trans-Western railway.

She smiled at his sudden start of comprehension.

"Do you begin to suspect things?" she asked.

He nodded his head.

"You ought to be a man. If you were, I should never give you a moment's peace until you consented to take a partnership with me. It's as plain as day, now."

"Is it? Then I wish you would make it appear so to me. I am not half as subtle as you give me credit for being."

"Yet you worked this out."

"That was easy enough; after I had seen Mrs. Brentwood's letter, and yours from Mr. Hunnicott. The Plantagould people want your railroad, and the receivership is a part of a plan for acquiring it. But why is Maj. Guilford spending so much money for improvements?"

"His reasons are not far to seek now that you have shown me where to look. His instructions are to run the stock down so that the Plantagould can buy it in. Cut rates and big expenditures will do that—have done it. On the other hand, it is doubtless a condition of the deal that the road shall be turned over whole as to its property values—there is to be no wrecking in the general acceptance of the word. The Plantagould doesn't want a picked skeleton."

Miss Portia's eyes narrowed.

"It's a skillful bit of engineering, isn't it?" she said. "You'd admire it as artistic work yourself if your point of view were not so hopelessly personal."

"You don't know half the artistic skill of it yet," he went on. "Besides all these different ends that are being conserved, the gang is taking care of its surplus heelers on the pay-rolls of the company. More than that, it is making immense political capital for itself. Everybody knows what the policy of the road was under the old regime: 'All the tariff the traffic will stand.' But now a Bucks man has hold of it, and liberality is the word. Every man in Trans-Western territory is swearing by Bucks and Guilford. Ah, my dear friend, his excellency the governor is a truly great man!"

She nodded.

"I've been trying to impress you with that fact all along. The mistake you made was in not joining his party early in the campaign, David."

HOCH USED CURARE.

Chicago Blacksmith Said to Have Used Most Deadly Poison Known.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Curare, the most subtle and deadly poison known to modern science, is believed by Dr. Joseph Springer, formerly coroner's physician, to have caused the death of Johann Hoch's wives.

Dr. Springer is convinced the fatal drug was probably administered by means of engagement or wedding rings.

"By turning the inner edge of the ring," said Dr. Springer today, "or making it rough or sharp in any manner, applying the curare on the rough edge and then slipping the ring on the finger so as to cause the slightest abrasion of the skin, death would follow.

"It would only be necessary for the slightest quantity of the poison to reach the blood. One-sixtieth of a grain of curare is fatal."

Foremost among the great crowd of persons who will be asked to identify Hoch upon his arrival from New York is a widow who is said to have some years ago married a man known as Leo Praeger. The description of Hoch tallies, it is claimed, with that of Praeger. According to information furnished the police, the widow Praeger married had been left $6,000 life insurance. Of this amount, it is alleged, Praeger secured $3,500 to open a furniture store. A few days after the store had been opened the contents were mysteriously removed and Praeger disappeared.

A BALLOT BOX STUFFER.

Denver Detective Jailed—Cast 587 Fraudulent Votes.

DENVER, Feb. 9.—City Detective William H. Green pleaded guilty in the criminal court to the charge of "stuffing" a ballot box at the election of November, 1904. It was alleged that Green, with others, cast 587 fraudulent ballots in the precinct commonly known as "Green county."

Green was sentenced to jail for ninety days, the term to be coincident with the six months imposed by the supreme court for violation of its injunction. In pronouncing sentence Judge Johnson said:

"I know you deserve more, but I am centering in you the hope that you may come out of this a better man. Assert your manhood by declining to be the tool of unprincipled election chiefs."

Edward Sweeny pleaded guilty to conspiracy to make a false count as a judge at the late election and was sentenced to ninety days in jail. This sentence also is to run coincident with the four months' sentence passed by the supreme court on Sweeny for contempt.

RISK IN TWO ADDRESSES.

One on Each Side of an Express Package May Result in Double Charge.

The clerk in the express office was just about to toss the package back off the counter, says the Philadelphia Record, when he noticed that it was addressed on both sides. "It's good I saw that. Charges might have been collected twice," he said. "That's funny," remarked the shipper. "I just paid the charges, you know." "Yes," responded the clerk, "and I marked it paid, but the second address might have caused them to collect at the other end. You see, I checked it off 'Paid' on one side, but when it reaches the other office it might be that the prepaid mark would be on the bottom. That would bring the other address up, and, seeing no check mark there, the receiving office would mark it 'Collect.' The chances are the package would be handled that side up, without the other address and the prepaid mark being discovered, and the party to whom it is addressed would pay the second express charges." "And I thought I was doing something to expedite matters in putting the address on both sides," commented the shipper. "You weren't," said the clerk. "It's all right to address letters on both sides, for the convenience of mail clerks, but don't put two addresses on express packages, unless you want to run the risk of paying double."

GROOM TAKES TRIP ALONE

Bride Is Left at Home When Her Husband Starts on Honeymoon.

Booker T. Washington says that a domestic long in the service of a well-known Alabama family recently gave "notice" of two weeks, explaining that she desired to get married. The mistress, says the Saturday Evening Post, managed to secure an acceptable successor, but was dismayed to discover that the new maid could not report for duty until a week subsequent to the time fixed for the wedding of her predecessor. So the present incumbent was asked whether she would not agree to postpone the happy event for a week. This the domestic declined to do, from superstitious scruples, no doubt bearing in mind the old adage: "Change the date, change the fate." However, she said that she didn't in the least mind getting married and continuing the household duties till her successor could put in an appearance. The husband-elect offering no objections, this arrangement was agreed upon; and an hour or so after the marriage ceremony the domestic was performing her duties just as before.

"I presume your husband has returned to his work, as you have done," the mistress chanced casually to remark.

"No'm," responded the girl in a matter-of-fact tone. "Joe, he done gone on his honeymoon."

TRAIN SPIDERS TO CHEAT.

Insects Weave Webs About Wine Bottles Thus Producing Aged Appearance.

In this age of shams even spiders' webs may be fraudulently attached to wine bottles, for there is an elderly Frenchman who makes a comfortable competence by supplying unscrupulous wine dealers with specially-bred spiders at a fixed rate of $2.50 per 100, which may be relied upon, if turned loose among wine bottles, to at once proceed to spin abundant webs among them. The reason of this is that he keeps a large establishment, which he devotes to breeding spiders. They are kept in dark, cool rooms, and the spiders are allowed to roam at their will about shelves on which are placed numerous empty port wine bottles. If a spider spins on the wall or in a corner of a shelf, its web is promptly destroyed by the owner; but if one of these creatures spins on a bottle it is promptly rewarded with a fly. When their education is completed they are placed in separate compartments in light wooden boxes and dispatched to the fraudulent wine merchants, who make use of them to give their bottles the appearance of 20 years' storage in cellars cool.

The Patient Brain.

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of labor. Few realize its capabilities and endurance. But it is sensitive. It will not long brook abuse. It briskly responds to the whip at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard and often it balks. It insists upon having plenty of good, red blood when it works hard; and good, red blood is made from wheat and roast beef, not from pie a la mode, lobster salad and cocaine or whisky. The most especial thing for the man who works with his brain is plenty of sleep. Only in sleep does the brain find the rest and refreshment that are necessary to maintain its vigor and integrity.

Bridge Lights Mean Much.

There are three lights on the Brooklyn bridge which are never seen by those who have occasion to use the bridge at night, but those three lights mean much to the masters of sailing vessels whose masts approach or exceed the 135 feet between the center of the span and the water. One of the three is directly in the center of the span and marks the highest point, the other two are at each side of the center light, about 100 feet from the towers, and mark the danger limit.

Navy Rejects Smokers.

It is stated that nearly 20 per cent. of the recent applicants for admission to the naval academy at Annapolis were rejected because they were suffering from "tobacco heart," caused by smoking cigarettes.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Mertens, who pitched for Rahway last season, and who is now a student at Cornell, will again be seen with the Rahway team this season. He says that he is the best of condition and will give a good account of himself.

Louis Wiltse, the popular baseball twirler, who resides in the New Madison, is anxious for the season to open. He says that in his whole baseball career he has never been in better condition, and he feels as though he could "put them over" the plate fast enough to puzzle the best of them. During the winter Wiltse has been regular in his gymnastic exercise at the Y. M. C. A., and he says that his arm is stronger than ever. In speaking about the benefits of exercise, the pitcher says that the use of the weights has been the means of keeping him in the best condition for his work. As yet Wiltse does not know positively whether he will be with Brooklyn or Baltimore this season, although he thinks that he will return with the Orioles. He is held on Ned. Hanlon's reserve list and of course can be called to Brooklyn. Hanlon must send him a contract by March 1, and he will then know where he is to play this year. Wiltse's work last season in Baltimore attracted the attention of many managers and he had a record of which any twirler might feel proud. He confidently expects to excel it this year, barring accident or illness. He speaks in high praise of the Y. M. C. A. and the gymnasium, and says that as an institution for the development of the mind and muscle it cannot be beat.

THE JURY ACCUSES WOOD

did not appear well, either on Tuesday night or Wednesday and her story of the mysterious "Mack" bears out Wood's statement to the New York police that he left the metropolis with the intention of going to Pennsylvania and that he lost "Mack" when his mind became blank.

Whitten followed Mrs. Pollock on the stand and proved himself exceptionally adroit at parrying questions which might have been overcome if the prosecutor had followed them up. In his previous statements, Whitten said that he and Wood had not been on good terms for nearly seven years but he flatly contradicted this in his testimony and said that "years ago they had a little difference that didn't amount to much" and that on Tuesday night when he came to the house, they were on the best of terms.

"It isn't true then, queried the prosecutor, "that Wood had not been to your place in seven years?"

"O, no," Whitten replied readily, "he was at my place during the hunting season last year."

He failed to add, however, that Wood did not come in the house on that occasion, his "being at the place" consisting of tapping at the back window, according to Whitten's original statemdent. In response to a question, Whitten said Wood's purpose in coming to his home last Tuesday night was to offer him a position as bookkeeper with a New York firm. He conveyed the impression that he had lots of money and as he went away Wednesday morning, he placed $3 in Whitten's hand, telling him to do what he wanted with it. That was the last Whitten saw of Wood.

When Ferdinand Linnertz was called, he said that he met Wood Tuesday near Williams' store at Watchung and that he had taken him to Whitten's place where he spent the night. Wednesday morning he had come to Plainfield and he went to Whitten's to see if Wood wanted to go with him, which he did. As they were returning to Pollock's for the rig, Wood asked if the Pollock family dog would make a racket if he heard a pistol shot. Linnertz said he didn't know and with that Wood pulled a revolver from his coat pocket and placing himself near the dog, which had followed Linnertz, fired three shots. This point is important from the fact the Wood must have had some reason for wanting to know how a pistol shot would affect the dog, but the prosecutor did not dwell upon it. Linnertz also said that Wood had been carrying a cap in his pocket from the time he arrived at Pollock's until he saw him the last time and he identified the one worn by Wood when arrested as the same he had seen in his pocket. Wood was in a jovial mood, Linnertz said, and on the ride to Plainfield Wednesday, they talked about "old times" in the New York factory and Wood acted as sane as he always had. At one time he asked Linnertz how much money he was getting at Pollock's and on being told said: "Then you must have three months' wages about you?" Linnertz described Wood's dress and appearance on the occasion and when asked if he wore a mustache said, "Yes, he always wore one." Wood's mustache had been shaved off when he was arrested in New York.

The majority of the other sixteen witnesses examined were simply put on to establish Wood's course and by them it was clearly proven that he had appeared at Blimm's hotel on Monday morning, January 30, and that he had either been there or at the Whitten or Pollock places from then on until he disappeared after the murder. These witnesses were as follows: Eugene Pope, who found Williams' body in the sleigh; Jacob Blimm, Jr., who identified the Wood arrested in New York as the "George H. Wood" who had registered at his father's hotel; John Long, hostler at Blimm's who saw him about the place; Edward Marlins, the barkeeper at the Washingtonville hotel who had served Wood with a drink and had directed him to go to William Demler's to get a conveyance to get to Pollock's; Charles Frone, Williams' clerk who was in the store when Wood and Williams struck the bargain for the rig; William Demler, who saw them drive away; Coroner Toms, who passed the rig near Warrenville and recognized Williams; George Cruse, the shoreboy at John Miller's on the Coentown road, who saw the sleigh pass along and who heard the shot fired that killed Williams; John Miller, who also saw the sleigh and who was called by Eugene Pope after finding the body; Mrs. Annie Dannwald, who came upon the sleigh after Pope did; Herbert A. Toms, who first recognized the dead man in the sleigh as Williams; Henry L. Klein and Antone Ammon, farmers, who had organized the posse that tracked the murderer to Pollock's barn and then on to Millington; Randolph Gliddes, who came upon Wood near the Millington station and who had offered him a ride which was declined, although Wood was striding along at a fast gait; Dr. S. O. B. Taylor, the county physician, and Dr. William Long, of Somerville, who had performed the autopsy upon Williams' body and who described in detail the technical cause of death and the course taken by the bullet.

The testimony of each was a repetition of what had been published and nothing of importance was revealed. The Cruse boy said that the men were making gestures as they passed the Miller place and might have been quarrelling but he did not hear any angry words. This is different than what he told a Daily Press reporter a few hours after the murder as he then said that the men were sitting quietly in the sleigh and that there was nothing about their appearance to distinguish them from any other rig that passed along the road. Chief Kiely, of the local force, who found Wood's suit case at Blimm's and who sent out the general alarm for his arrest through the evidence it revealed, was not called.

Wood's counsel said after the hearing that he would in all probability be brought to Somerville tomorrow. Lawyer Bird also stated that he still believed in the accident theory for Williams' death but would not go into details.

The jury was composed of William Miller, foreman; I. V. Adams, Peter Friday, J. L. Mundy, Frank Jennings and Frank Winn.

JOHN TEN EYCK DEAD

AT FOUR SCORE YEARS

SUCCUMBS TO STROKE OF PARALYSIS SUFFERED LAST AUGUST.

John TenEyck, aged eighty years, and one of the best known citizens, died last night at 7 o'clock at his home, 121 Watchung avenue. His death was the result of paralysis which he suffered last August.

Mr. TenEyck was the son of Jeremiah TenEyck, and was born at Samptown, Piscataway Township, where his father was for many years a farmer. He learned the tailoring trade with William Dunn, of this city. Afterward he went to DeWitt, Iowa, where he combined farming with carrying the mail and being a Justice of the Peace. He returned to Plainfield about twenty-five years ago and has continued to live here ever since. Shortly after his return he was a bookkeeper for his brother, Israel D. TenEyck, while he conducted a meat market. Later he again engaged in the tailoring business, which he continued until last August. He has lived on Watchung avenue about seventeen years. His first wife died a number of years ago and he afterward married Miss Mary Boll, who now survives him. He was a member of the First Baptist church, having united by letter from the Samptown Baptist church.

He leaves besides a widow, a brother, Israel D. TenEyck, superintendent of the Industrial Home; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alice TenEyck, and two granddaughters, the Misses Grace and Bessie TenEyck, of East Fifth street, and a nephew, Jeremiah F. TenEyck, of South Plainfield.

The funeral services will be held from the late home, 121 Watchung avenue, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church. The interment will be in the cemetery at Samptown.

Design for Vets Monument.

L. L. Manning & Son, of West Front street, were the only ones who submitted plans to the committee of Elizabeth citizens, who are taking steps toward the erection of a soldiers and sailors monument at Elizabeth.

To Practice Dentistry.

Edwin I. Smalley, of this city, a graduate of the dental department of the Western University of Pennsylvania, will enter the office of Dr. Chas. R. Thiers, of Grove street, on Monday, as an assistant.

MINISTERS' VIEWS ON TYLER ORDINANCE

In view of the widespread comment on the action of the Common Council on Monday night in adopting on first and second readings an amendment to the liquor ordinance to license inns and taverns, which provides for a saloon district, confined to the business section of the city, it has been thought appropriate to secure the opinions of the local ministers, who are largely identified and interested in the city's welfare. The majority of the opinions secured favor a proper restriction of the saloon and welcome the movement to keep it out of the residential parts of the city. Here are some of the opinions obtained:

REV. ARTHUR S. PECK—St. Stephen's church—"I recognize that there has got to be a legitimate use of everything, and until something better than the saloon is offered, such as coffee-houses or clubs where men can congregate, the saloon will continue to be the mecca for men. It is not solely for drink that men go to the saloons. They like the sociability of others and when they reach the saloon and find drink and refreshment there they are induced to partake. I would favor a public house or some similar institution in my district where my men and myself could go without being obliged to go to the city to seek the social features offered there in saloons. I am inclined to blame the clergy and the leaders of the government more than the men."

REV. A. C. NICKERSON—All Souls' church—"I have always been opposed to the saloon and its influence and in the name of morality and civilization every effort should be made to restrict it not only from the residential district, but the business section as well. All my life I have seen the harmfulness of the saloon and the drink habit and anything that can be done to reduce the influence of the saloon to a minimum should be welcomed."

REV. E. VICARS STEVENSON—Grace church—"I was greatly interested in the remarks of Mayor Buckle, as I admire frankness of speech. I favor Councilman Tyler's scheme, believing it is one that should commend itself to Plainfield. This community is peculiarly a residential one. There are plenty of saloons for all purposes, and there is no reason why they should be allowed to grow. The curse of the drink habit lies in the secretness with which it is carried on. I still believe that there are enough saloons here for the police to take care of."

REV. ERSKINE M. RODMAN—Rector emeritus Grace church—"It is much better to have some limits to the saloon district. We certainly do not want the saloon near factories where the temptation for men is so great. I favor keeping the saloon within bounds."

REV. DR. W. O. SNODGRASS—First M. E. church—"I am opposed entirely to the saloon. I would restrict it in every way practical and if possible I would put stone walls and iron bars around it."

REV. DR. J. A. CHAMBLISS—First Baptist church—"The saloon anywhere is a blot. Wherever it may be it defaces and degrades. If one section of the city—that within the proposed lines of restriction—is already hopelessly suffering such defacement and degradation, in the name of decency and goodness let that suffice. Like many others, my home is within the blotted section, and I would spare the homes that have so far escaped. I do not hold a man a devil because he uses drinks which, in excess will intoxicate, though I would pray him to abstain totally, but I do hold the saloon to be a curse whose power every good citizen ought to try to limit by every possible means. Its power must be limited in some measure if its location is restricted within narrow boundaries. Our Honorable Mayor does not take this view, and he has the right to differ, but I venture to say he lost his grip on himself the other day when he made certain remarks which grievously wounded a multitude of his friends."

REV. DR. A. H. LEWIS—Editor Sabbath Recorder—"It should be restricted by all means. As a citizen of Plainfield I am thoroughly ashamed of what the Mayor has said concerning the question. When the head of the city government takes such a stand as he does here I think that all should feel ashamed."

REV. DR. J. S. ZELIE—Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church—"I do not agree with Mayor Buckle. I feel that whatever is for the best interest of the city should be done and I believe that the saloon should be restrained to a certain section."

REV. DR. CORNELIUS SCHENCK—Trinity Reformed church—"Restrict the saloon more and more until you can entirely eliminate it. I believe the adoption of the ordinance is a step toward a desirable end."

REV. L. R. HOWARD—Hope chapel—"I do not consider the ordinance idea, but I think it is immediately practicable and fair. There may be some who like a saloon next door to their homes or across the street, but it is not great hardship even to them if it is further away. There are many others, especially of those not well to-do, who cannot move away from a nuisance if the city permits it to be placed in their vicinity and in justice to them the ordinance should be passed."

BANQUET TO CONCLUDE SCHOLASTIC LEAGUES

VICTORS AND VANQUISHED TO BE TREATED ALIKE BY Y.M.C.A. AUXILIARY.

Under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. a dinner will be given at the association tonight to the members of both the Interscholastic and Juvenile basketball leagues, which have been playing under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A. during the winter. The leagues were recently concluded, Leal's School winning the former, and the Whittier School players capturing the latter cup. All the teams in both leagues are invited to the dinner tonight, and it is expected that about fifty will be provided for.

The schools to be represented at the table are Leal's, first and second, Plainfield High School, first and second, Whittier, North Plainfield High School and Y. M. C. A. juniors. The cups offered by Schwed Brothers and by Moraller & Son will be presented and speeches will be made by Dr. Norman Probasco, of the boys' work committee; Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, and Lindsay Best, of the Plainfield High School faculty. President of the Y. M. C. A., Joseph W. Gavett, will preside.

The committee in charge consists of Mrs. G. M. Rittenhouse, Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett, Mrs. L. M. French and Mrs. H. G. Condit.

A St. Patrick's Supper.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, will hold a supper in the lecture room of the church on the eve of St. Patrick's Day, Thursday, March 16. Of course, green will be the prevailing color. The proceeds will be for the use of missions.

ARCANUMITES FORM SOCIAL ORGANIZATION

ITS PURPOSE IS TO PROVIDE AMUSEMENT FOR THE MEMBERS.

The members of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, at the regular meeting last night, decided to form what will be known as Royal Arcanum Club, No. 711, and every member of the Council has the privilege of being identified with the new organization, the purposes of which will be to provide amusements such as whist,, billiards and pool. A room on the first floor of the Babcock building has been leased and this will be open every day and night, except Sunday, for the use of the members. It is proposed to open the room on Monday, February 20.

There are 286 members of the Council and all have signified their intention to become members of the club. Regent Robert H. Lowry has appointed a committee comprising H. A. Todd, Armstrong Mulford, C. A. Dighigbm, Wheaton S. Lowry and A. I. Littell to take charge of the rooms for one year and to provide for the various amusements desired.

The Council received six new applications for membership, last night, and initiated three new members.

To Plan for Athletic Meet.

A meeting of the committee representing the various schools in the interscholastic athletic meet, which will take place at the Y. M. C. A. March 4, will be held tonight, to make further plans for the event. The preliminary meeting will take place at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, and will be presided over by president of the meet committee, F. A. Henckel. Lindsay Best, of the P. H. S., is secretary of the committee. The meeting will follow the basketball dinner.

MR. DUMONT'S OBJECTIONS

Entreats the Council to Defeat Tyler Ordinance.

FOR THE CITY'S SAKE

Saloon District Measure Would Prevent a Hotel Being Built in Residential District.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The ordinance that has been passed to a second reading by six affirmative votes is absolutely unnecessary and may prove injurious to the property interests of this city without any corresponding benefit.

In previous Councils and for more than twenty years the wishes, it was believed, of a majority of voters was respected in limiting the location of saloons to a small section of the city in the First and Fourth wards, and this without an ordinance defining limits, and this can still be done without an ordinance and can be continued.

The provision of the proposed ordinance to include hotels in this limit is unreasonable and in fact prohibatory to building of or use of hotels elsewhere, and it would not be a forceful argument to contend that the privilege might be abused as is the case in large cities, for the reason that it is now and will continue to be within the power of the Council to refuse a license to any objectionable place, and if it so happens that there be in the future six councilmen who would grant or continue an objectionable license the same number of councilmen can repeal the ordinance.

If this question was left to the voters it would, I have no doubt, be defeated by a large majority.

The liquor question in Plainfield has been quiet for a number of years and those who have had to deal with it in the past will be sorry to have it renewed as it continually will be if this ordinance is passed.

Many citizens will remember the year when the voters of Plainfield were greatly surprised to find that a majority of those elected were opposed to granting any liquor licenses. That year Plainfield was supposed to be dry but by only those who did not know.

Probably at no period before or since were so many empty bottles carried away in ash barrels.

That action did the city harm and no doubt kept away many desirable people, who no matter what their views on the use or abuse of liquor, did not care to reside in a community of fanatics.

This fact, no licenses in Plainfield, was published far and wide and the fact that it was changed the following year was probably not mentioned in the public prints outside the neighboring communities. Not long ago a friend from Chicago that I had not met for several years asked me whether I continued to reside in that prohibition town. So will this action, if concluded, be freely published. Many who have resided here for years have been hoping that a hotel would be erected in the residential party of the city—one that would be reasonably fire proof and run as a hotel and not as a boarding house.

With such restriction as proposed no one would put money in such an enterprise. With such a hotel here many would avail of the opportunity for a brief respite from household cares and also for entertainments that cannot be comfortably had in many houses.

J. B. Dumont.

Nuptial Event Takes Place Tuesday Night.

Miss Eleanor Norma Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pownall Ford, of Brooklyn, will be married to Theodore Casper Schafuss, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Schafuss, of this city, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the Flatbush Congregational church. Miss Elizabeth Swift, of Albany, will be maid-of-honor; Misses Marguerite and Bessie Reed, of Pittsburg, bridesmaids; Master Stewart Pownall Ford, brother of the bride, page, and Samuel I. Graham, of Brooklyn, best man.

The ushers will be Dr. William L. Bradley, of Manhattan; Messrs. Hugo Henckel and Thomas Burton Ford, of Brooklyn, and Harry A. Schafuss, of this city. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 465 Seventeenth street, for relatives and a few friends.

CANVASS ASSEMBLY VOTE

Board of Elections Finds 1,271 Votes Cast for Perkins.

65 ARE SCATTERING

Normal Vote of County is About 24,000—"The Costliest Assemblyman."

The Union County Board of Election and Registry met at Elizabeth, yesterday, and canvassed the vote cast in the county on Tuesday at the special Assembly election. It was found that 1,271 votes were cast, of which Randolph Perkins, Republican, the unopposed candidate, received 1,206. Of the remaining sixty-five votes, forty-seven were rejected and the other eighteen were scattering.

There are about 24,000 voters in Union County, according to the returns of the last election. The average Republican majority for Assemblyman was nearly 5,000. Embree, the dead member of the Assembly, got 4,760 majority. The new Assemblyman styles himself "the costliest the State has ever had."

The Board has filled the vacancy existing in the Board in the First district of the Fourth ward, caused by the death of Michael R. Flynn, by appointing John Payne, of West Fourth street, to the position. This was the only vacancy in Plainfield.

NEGRO CASE LAID OVER.

Absence of Prosecutor Causes Matter to be Adjourned One Week.

Owing to the absence of Prosecutor James L. Griggs nothing was done at Somerville this morning in the case of the four negroes, who were convicted in the assault cases tried last week. It was expected that Judge Schenck, before whom the cases were tried, would sentence the negroes today, and Lawyers W. S. Angleman, W. G. De Mesa and S. S. Swackhamer, representing the defendants, planned to present argument for a new trial.

Prosecutor Griggs was in Plainfield early this morning looking up some witnesses in the Williams murder case, and missing his train failed to reach Somerville in time for the session of the court. In consequence Judge Schenck laid the entire matter over until Friday morning, February 17, at 10 o'clock.

TALKED WITH WOOD.

Accused Man's Counsel Visited Him in the Tombs Yesterday.

Lawyers George W. Bird and S. S. Swackhamer, counsel for George H. Wood, who is suspected of having murdered George Williams, the Watchung grocer, held their first interview with their client in the Tombs, New York, yesterday, but both refuse to disclose the result of it.

Nothing can be learned as to the progress of extradition of Wood, although the papers were signed by Governor Stokes on Tuesday. Neither Mr. Bird or Mr. Swackhamer could give any opinion today as to when the man would be taken to Somerville. Prosecuter Griggs was here this morning in connection with the case, but would not say as to when the accused man would be extradited.

No School on Monday.

Though Lincoln's birthday occurs on Sunday, the local schools observed the holiday by simple exercises today, and will be closed on Monday throughout the entire city and borough. The exercises in some of the schools consisted of recitations appropriate to Lincoln's birthday, while in others the day was observed merely by classroom talks.

Mandolin and Glee Club Concert.

The first annual February concert by the Plainfield High School and Mandolin and Glee Clubs will be given at Franklin Hall on Feburary 21, for the benefit of the P. H. S. A. At a recent meeting of the clubs it was decided to hold two concerts annually, one in February and one at Commencement time.

Sophomores to Have Strawride.

The Sophomore class, of the Plainfield High School, is planning for a sleigh ride next Monday night. There will probably be about twenty-five in the party.

SCHOOL FOR NEW MARKET

Decided at Meeting to Again Submit $20,000 Proposition.

OTHER PETITIONS

Kerwin Asks for Building for Rock Avenue—One Also for Lincoln Maybe.

Applying to sixty-eight voters for favorable endorsement and from that number receiving sixty-five signatures for the plan, it was decided to re-submit the old proposition for a $20,000 school house at New Market, at the public meeting yesterday afternoon, when the general sentiment seemed strongly in favor of the original petition which was voted down. There were some dissenting voices, but the advocates of the proposition won out. The public meeting was held in the Rogers' building. Those who spoke in favor of the new school as a cost of $20,000 were C. M. Kelley, Arthur Tappen, David F. Kline and others. The meeting was presided over by William Dayton, while William D. Nichols, principal of the New Market school, acted as secretary. The meeting was attended by several South Plainfield men, who expressed themselves in favor of the High School for New Market, and said they would be willing to send their children, if such a school including twelve grades should be erected. They expressed the opinion of the majority of the residents of South Plainfield.

A petition was received from Lawrence Kerwin, for the erection of a $5,000 building near Rock avenue, while M. A. Gallagher petitioned for a $3,500 building to be put up in the vicinity of Lincoln Park. The latter desires a two room school house to accommodate thirty-five and a possible forty-seven pupils. Both petitions were laid over to be acted upon by the Board.

In presenting the above petition, it was announced that should they be granted, the $20,000 school proposition would receive the sanction of the petitioners. The Board will act upon the petitions within a short time, and those who are furthering the project feel confident that at a second vote the public will not reject the $20,000 High School. It is also thought that in all probability the two small school petitions will be granted.

"BILLY" REDMOND WANTS LOCAL BAND CONCERTS

HAS MADE GENEROUS OFFER TO BEN LA VERE TO SECURE THE FUNDS.

At the solicitation of "Billy" Redmond, the well known vocalist who has appeared in Plainfield on numerous occasions, Ben LaVere, of band fame, is making arrangements to conduct a vaudeville show in the Casino for the benefit of summer concerts. It had not been his intention to take the matter in hand but the offer made by Mr. Redmond is an exceptionally liberal one and could hardly be refused. He has offered to provide the entire bill, for two nights if necessary, the only expense to Mr. LaVere, being the railroad fares of the artists. The latter will be the best obtainable and the entertainment, if given, will be on a level with any of its kind yet seen in the city. Mr. LaVere has arranged for a meeting to be held in the Borough Council chambers tonight when the plan will be discussed.

The residents of both the city and borough have enjoyed the concerts in the past few years, but the lack of financial support has always made it difficult for Leader LaVere to arrange the series. Last season the greater part of the funds was secured by giving a minstrel show and a fair in Saengerbund Hall but it entailed a great deal of work on the part of a few. "Billy" Redmond sang at the minstrel show and also appeared at the concerts and he became so interested that his offer to Mr. LaVere came when he heard that no arrangements were being made for this season.

Hackman Accused.

William Newman, a hackman, was arraigned in the city court this morning on a charge of soliciting, illegally. He pleaded not guilty and trial was adjourned until tomorrow.

Held Lincoln Exercises.

The pupils of the City High School held exercises appropriate to Lincoln's birthday this morning. An address on "Lincoln" was given by Dr. G. H. Whitney, of First place.

GRAND JURY PROUD OF NEW COURT HOUSE

Union County's New Court House.

Following the adjournment of the Grand Jury on Wednesday, the members visited the new Court House at Elizabeth and thoroughly inspected the handsome structure which will be ready for occupancy in time for the holding of the May term of court. Being much impressed with the success of the work in erecting this building, which seems to be so well arranged for its special needs, James E. Martine, a member of the Grand Jury, presented this resolution, which was unanimously adopted and a copy was ordered sent to the Board of Freeholders:

"We congratulate the citizens of Union County upon the rapid completion of their new and handsome Court House. We deem its architecture stately, its arrangement complete, and its finish artistic and beautiful. We further congratulate the people upon the fact that this structure has been built practicably within the sum originally alloted for construction, and that there has been no suspicion or taint of jobbery or wrong in its building, so common in public construction.

"It is a fit home for our courts, and a safe repository for the county's records and archives for many years to come. We feel that all may point with pride and satisfaction to this edifice as a monument to our county's progress and to the integrity of our officials."

SALVATION ARMY ASKS FOR NEW HEADQUARTERS

PROPOSE TO ERECT $7,000 BUILDING ON EAST SECOND STREET.

Having been seriously hindered in their work by the lack of adequate rooms, the Salvation Army proposes to purchase a lot and erect a substantial brick building on East Second street, between Park and Watchung avenues, at a cost of $7,000, as told in The Daily Press. The site adjoins the fire department headquarters on the Watchung avenue side. The building will be suitable for public meetings on the ground floor, and for officers' apartments above.

It is the purpose of the Salvation Army to erect a neat and respectable building capable of seating at least 300 people, the structure to be known as the Consul Booth-Tucker Memorial Building. It is in memory of Mrs. Booth Tucker, who spent her life in Salvation Army work, and was killed in a wreck while travelling in the interest of the Salvation Army.

It is hoped that the building will be ready for occupancy by May 1. Letters have been sent to the friends of the Salvation Army requesting contributions for the proposed building, explaining the situation of the society, and stating the plans for the new building.

DEPOT SUBWAY.

Underground Passage to be Built at the Netherwood Station Within a Short Time.

To protect passengers who approach the station from the north side, New Jressy Central officials have taken steps to build a subway at the Netherwood depot. Surveyors have been taking the necessary measurements during the last few days and the actual work is to commence within a short time.

This will make all of Plainfield's four stations equipped with a tunnel under the tracks or a passageway around under bridges as is done at Clinton avenue and Grant avenue. The fences erected between the tracks prohibits passengers crossing them and it also keeps them from alighting on the wrong side.

Golf and Tennis Contests.

The Plainfield Country Club is another one of the New Jersey golf organizations that is to begin holding open tournaments this season. The members have voted to hold an open tournament for women affiliated with the Metropolitan Golf Association clubs during May, and also offer the courts to the East Jersey Tennis Association for one of its tournaments.

Another R. F. D.

The postal authorities have established a rural free delivery service at the Millington postoffice. The route takes in Loganville, Long Hill and New Vernon and Arthur C. Faulkner, of Pleasant Plains, is the carrier.

TRINITY TO OBSERVE 25TH ANNIVERSARY

MARCH 26 FIXED AS THE DATE FOR THE CELEBRATION.

Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, the former pastor, will be present on Sunday night, March 26, and address the members and congregation of Trinity Reformed church on the occasion of their twenty-fifth anniversary. In the morning there will be a special musical programme and the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, will preach an historical sermon.

In the afternoon the Sunday-school will be addressed by the different superintendents, E. E. Anthony, George L. VanEmburgh and F. E. Smith and any others who can be reached.

Wednesday, March 29, is the proper date for the celebration, but inasmuch as Dr. Raymond could not be present except on March 26, the date was moved ahead three days to suit Dr. Raymond's convenience. Wednesday night, March 26, will probably be a congregational meeting at which representatives from the different auxiliaries of the church will tell what each society has accomplished in the past quarter century.

The committee having the anniversary in charge has not completed their programme, but the two days above mentioned will be observed as stated.

Best Man Ill.

Louis Taliamy, of West Front street, who has been quite ill with fever, is now much improved. He was taken ill about a week ago and was prevented from being best man at the marriage of his sister, Miss Ida Taliamy, and Robert Humpston on Wednesday night, and so as not to disturb him during the wedding festivities, he was taken to the home of Isaac Randolph, where he is now under treatment.

A Serious Charge.

Held on a serious charge brought by Rosa Craft, a colored girl twenty years old, Francis Kline, also colored, aged seventeen, will be brought before Justice Huff this afternoon, to be given a hearing. Both are residents of this city. They will be represented by William Newcorn, for the plaintiff and William G. DeMeza for the defendant.

Women Play Cards.

The regular weekly meeting of the card party composed of women members of the Park Club, was held yesterday afternoon and proved to be as enjoyable as those previously held. Whist, euchre and bridge were played, after which refreshments were enjoyed.

Broke His Promise.

Nelson Ford, arrested by Patrolman McCarthy yesterday, for drunkenness, had forty days straight given him by Judge Runyon in court this morning. He was up for the same offense three weeks ago and secured his release by promising to keep from drinking.

S. P. C. A. Election.

The annual meeting of the Somerset County S. P. C. A. was held Wednesday at the society's offices in Somerville. There was only a meagre attendance as the members from the country districts could not reach town because of impassable roads. The society reported three cases in court, two of which had been prosecuted successfully; four horses killed and 22 smaller animals relieved from their misery. The following officers were elected: President, Joseph Fitzgs; vice president, Mrs. E. W. Murray; secretary, John Voorhees; treasurer, Henry Reimers; executive committee, Mrs. C. N. Sterling, Mrs. Henry Hardwicke, Miss Mae Loomis, Miss Kitty Vegbte, Miss Emily Messler. Mrs. Murray presented her usual check for $100 to help defray expenses.

KILLED HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Edwards Has Practically Confessed Crime.

EXONERATES CONVICT GREASON.

Woman Under Sentence of Death Feb. 16—Efforts Being Made For Pardon on Grounds of Brutal Treatment by Victim.

READING, Pa., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Kate Edwards, who is under sentence to be hanged with Samuel Greason on Thursday next for the murder of her husband, made a statement to her counsel last night, in which, it is said, she exonerates Greason from complicity in the murder. The statement will not be given to the public until it is presented to the board of pardons, but the inference is left that she has admitted that she alone committed the crime.

Mrs. Edwards and Greason, who is a colored man, were convicted of the murder of Edwards, and since the death sentence has been pronounced extraordinary efforts have been made to save them from the gallows. The board of pardons has heretofore refused to interfere, and the state supreme court has affirmed the lower court's verdict.

Mrs. Edwards' confession, it is thought, will place the case in an entirely new aspect before the board of pardons. The board will meet at Harrisburg Feb. 15, the day before the date fixed for the double execution. If the woman's statement is accepted by the board it may save the man's life. If the woman is spared it will therefore be entirely on sentimental grounds, as strong pressure is being brought before the board to not permit the woman to be hanged. In the trial much testimony was presented to show that Edwards was a dissolute character, that he drank heavily and that he treated his wife in a brutal manner. It was shown that Edwards was killed while he lay drunk at his home.

It is expected that the execution will at least be postponed in view of the statement of Mrs. Edwards. It is said Mrs. Edwards' conscience has been troubling her since she has been receiving the spiritual ministrations of her former pastor, Rev. Stephen Schweitzer; that she could restrain herself no longer and so sent for her lawyers and made the statement. That she has not made a statement before is, it is believed, due to the fact that she desired to shield her daughter Mary and that to spare the daughter she shifted the blame to Greason.

Mary Edwards, the daughter, was tried for complicity in the murder, but was acquitted. After her acquittal she went to St. Louis to live.

Another development in the case was the receipt from St. Louis of an affidavit signed by Mary Edwards, the daughter. This affidavit, which is now in the hands of John Rothermel, counsel for Greason, is as follows:

"I wish to state that I was very angry at Samuel Greason for what he did to my mother, but he had nothing to do with the killing of my father that I know of, and therefore he should not be hanged for that crime. I certainly wish they would not hang my mother."

Mrs. Annie Kutz of this city also made an affidavit, in which she states that after Mary Edwards had been acquitted she informed her (Mrs. Kutz) that her mother had struck her father on the head while he lay drunk, causing his death; that she (Mary) was present at the time; that Greason was not there, and that her story in court about Greason was not true.

German Miners Will Stay Out.

ESSEN, Feb. 10.—Mass meetings of miners held here and in this vicinity have voted by a large majority to disregard the orders of the strike committee and to continue the strike. The meetings were tumultuous in character. The operatives sharply denounced the committee of seven as traitors to the cause of labor and as having been bribed by trust money. Similar meetings are reported from Gelsenkirchen, Herne and Dortmund, where also it was decided by immense majorities to stay out.

Repudiate Sympathy With Machen.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—E. J. Cantwell, secretary of the National Association of Letter Carriers, has issued a card repudiating in the name of that organization the action of the former letter carrier who, in bidding goodby to former General Superintendent Machen of the free delivery service on the latter's departure for the Moundsville penitentiary, assured Machen of the sympathy of a large number of the letter carriers of the country.

Selling Off "Pig" Whalebacks.

TWO HARBORS, Minn., Feb. 10.—Sixteen whalebacks of the Pittsburg Steamship company's fleet, the vessel division of the United States Steel corporation, have been sold, and they will be taken to the Atlantic ocean to be used in coast trade. The loss of these "pigs," as they are commonly called, leaves only seventeen in the Pittsburg lake fleet.

Christian Scientists' Child Died.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 10.—A coroner's jury, after hearing testimony regarding the death of six-year-old Floyd Hubbard of diphtheria, has returned a verdict blaming the parents of the child, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubbard, for not having summoned competent medical assistance instead of relying solely upon Christian Science.

NORWOOD OHIO.

Favorite In Feature Event Beat Out Evaskill and Queen Rose.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 10.—The disqualification of Laura Hunter in the last race here helped the ring and added another to the list of defeated favorites. The track was very heavy.

Not in some time has there been such large fields as those which made up the six races which were run off.

First Race. — Garrett Wilson, first; Yellow Hammer, second; Decoration, third.

Second Race.—Hudson, first; Dapple Gold, second; Glendon, third.

Third Race. — Miss Gomez, first; Floral Wreath, second; Filia, third.

Fourth Race.—Belindian, first; Sarah Maxim, second; Favonius, third.

Fifth Race. — Norwood Ohio, first; Evaskill, second; Queen Rose, third.

Sixth Race. — Laura Hunter, first; Claremont, second; Princess Atheling, third.

Decimo Got Ascot Handicap.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 10.—The handicap steeplechase was the best jumping race ever seen at Ascot, every horse fencing cleanly and running in a bunch to the last jump, where Decimo, favorite, drew away and won easily from Allegiance and Cazador. The second went to Del Coronado, a strongly played favorite, through Miller's splendid ride.

Norris Won Fourth Race.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Norris of New York and Threshie of Boston met and played off the tie for fourth place in the national amateur billiard tournament here. The match was won by Norris after a long uphill fight. The final score was 300 to 256. At one time Norris was over 100 points behind his opponent.

Gus Heidorn Hot Springs Winner.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 10.—Gus Heidorn, the longest priced horse in the race, took the Hot Springs handicap here, defeating Asterisk, Mamie Worth and Van Ness, who finished in the order named. Mathes was the only favorite to win over the heavy track.

American Beat Janowski.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The seventh game in the international chess match between Frank J. Marshall of Brooklyn and D. Janowski of this city was won by the American player in the thirty-first move. The score now stands: Marshall, 3; Janowski, 2; drawn, 2.

Dr. Leggo at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10. — The track at Oakland was in a treacherous condition from recent rains, and a number of horses had narrow escapes from falling. A feature of the day was the successful run made by Dr. Leggo in the fourth race.

Broken Rail Caused Wreck.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 10.—Conductor H. M. Marsh was killed and twenty-five persons were slightly injured near Melbourne, Ia., when a locomotive and eight cars on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad went into a ditch as a result of striking a broken rail near the end of a 200 foot bridge. The wrecked train consisted of two locomotives and nine coaches, bound from Chicago to Omaha. About 300 feet east of a bridge that spanned a gulch at a height of eighteen feet the train struck a broken rail after the first locomotive had passed over safely.

Police Shakeup at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—In an effort to repress if not wipe out the social evil in Philadelphia Mayor Weaver has issued orders to Director of Public Safety Smyth, the head of the police, calling for the greatest shakeup in the history of that department. The mayor's orders direct the head of the department to "transfer all the officers from lieutenant down from such police districts in which disorderly houses are supposed to exist to some other district where there are none and bring in the police force from that district to the one thus vacated."

Judson Harmon to Investigate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Attorney General Moody has appointed Judson Harmon of Cincinnati, who was attorney general during the second administration of President Cleveland, and Frederick N. Judson, a prominent lawyer of St. Louis, to investigate the alleged action of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad in granting rebates to the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. This employment is with the view of taking legal proceedings against the company if after investigation such proceedings seem justified.

Baking Powder Bill Again.

JEFFERSON City, Mo., Feb. 10.—The house of representatives has passed the senate bill repealing the law which prohibits the use of alum in the manufacture of baking powder, and the bill now goes to the governor for his signature. This is the bill the introduction of which in the last legislature was responsible for the indictment of Daniel J. Kelley of New York, legislative agent for the alleged baking powder combination.

Boiler Makers Return to Work.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 10.—The differences which were alleged to have existed between the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company and the boiler makers and helpers in its employ have been adjusted, and the men have returned to work.

Baseball Pitcher Put Shoulder Out.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 10.—Jesse Tannehill, left handed pitcher of the Boston American League Baseball club, is confined to bed as the result of a fall on a slippery sidewalk, having landed on the right shoulder. It is said that his shoulder was dislocated.

URGED PRESIDENT

Interparliamentarians Would Stop War In Manchuria.

ROOSEVELT THE ONLY MAN TO DO IT

Emperor of Germany Might Take Initiative, but Shows No Disposition to Do So—Ask Immediate Action Taken.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The interparliamentary union through the president of the organization, Representative Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, is urging President Roosevelt to take some immediate action looking to the termination of the Russo-Japanese war. Dr. Bartholdt has explained to the president in an interview that the consensus of opinion among the members of the union and among European parliamentarians with whom he is in correspondence was that the president of the United States was the one man in the world, with the possible exception of the emperor of Germany, who might be listened to on the subject with favor by Russia and Japan.

Dr. Bartholdt pointed out that, although Russia had let it be understood that any offer of mediation, from whatever source, would be not only unwelcome, but would be regarded as an unfriendly act, such an attitude was in violation of the plain stipulations of The Hague convention, of which Russia was not only a party, but of which the czar was the moving power.

The president gave Dr. Bartholdt no definite assurances beyond promising to consider the matter with Secretary Hay. It is known to be quite unlikely that this government will take any action looking to mediation until some assurances have been received from both parties to the pending conflict that such action would not be unwelcome. The president told Dr. Bartholdt that the date of the proposed second conference of The Hague would depend entirely upon the termination of hostilities between Russia and Japan.

MRS. MERRITT NOT GUILTY.

Murder Trial at Towanda Came to an Abrupt End.

TOWANDA, Pa., Feb. 10.—The trial of Mrs. Sophia Merritt, one of the family of five charged with the murder and burning of Maggie B. Johnson, her son's wife, came to an unexpected ending here when the district attorney announced that he had no more evidence, and the court directed a verdict of not guilty.

Bigler Johnson, the dead woman's husband, pleaded guilty on Tuesday to the general charge of murder, and evidence is now being taken to determine the degree of guilt. The murder charges against Mrs. Merritt's twin children, Alanson and Nancy, for complicity will, it is understood, be dropped.

Tax on Stock Transfers.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 10.—The long discussed bill for the taxation of stock transfers has been prepared by the senate committee on taxation and retrenchment for introduction either today or Monday. It will be referred back to this committee for hearings and possible amendment. The measure will provide for a stamp tax of 2 cents on each share of stock of $100 or fraction thereof sold or delivered in the state and will be drawn with a special view of preventing evasion. If it operates like a similar tax enforced during the Spanish war it is expected to net the state about $4,000,000 revenue annually.

Want Truthful Label on Food.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The pure food commission, when received by President Roosevelt at the White House, cited to him instances developed by state food commissioners that they said showed the urgent need for pure food legislation. They said truthful labeling would lower and not raise the price of foods. The president informed the committee that he would take the matter up with the secretary of agriculture, on whom the committee called during the day. The committee has received from the United States Brewing association an indorsement of pure food legislation.

Murdered For Throwing Snowball.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Antonio Pomezito, a blacksmith, was shot in the side by Charles S. Dalia and died last night in a hospital. After the shooting Dalia ran up the railroad track. Chief of Police Seabury and several officers gave chase on a locomotive, but the man escaped in the woods near Highlands. In his antemortem statement Pomezito said the only cause for the shooting that he could think of was that a couple of hours before he had thrown a snowball at Dalia's younger brother.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 10, 1905.

Did you have a drink with your Councilman this morning?

Yes, fond reader, Smoot and Hoch are two different individuals.

Cleveland man paid $500 for a single kiss. We would rather buy an automobile.

"Honesty is the best policy." Still "Pittsburg Phil" left a cold million and a half.

If the people hammer those anti-saloon limits Councilmen much longer, it is gravely feared that they will be driven to drink.

Governor Pennypacker says that he believes the devil is an editor.—Bucks County Gazette.

And another somebody has said that "politics is worse than hell."

If matters continue as they are, the city had better purchase one of those Vacuum Cleaner Company's air brooms. It would be just the thing to place in the ceiling of the Common Council chamber.

Because he is the silent partner in an express business, which is said to violate the Sherman anti trust law, a Battle Creek, Mich., man wants Tom Platt ousted from the United States Senate. The Michigan man is an anarchist. If we were to fire every Senator who is connected with some fat corporation which violates the anti-trust law, we would have nothing left in the halls of Congress but a few poor and honest men.

By George!
George Williams, murdered man,
George H. Wood, the suspect,
George Bird, suspect's lawyer,
George E. Whitten, suspect's father-in-law,
George Bowers, preached funeral sermon,
George Demler's Hotel, where inquest was held,
George Totten, detective working up the case,
George Cruse, farm hand who heard the two men quarreling.

In exploiting its new characteristic feature, "patting itself on the back," our friend, the Courier-News, was amusing Wednesday, although that was far from its intention. It grew exultant over the fact that it published exclusively the reports of the Equal Taxation Commission and credited its "beat" to a superior news gathering service. In the same issue it asked editorially: "Will he veto it?" referring to Mayor Buckle's probable action on the Tyler ordinance restricting the sale of liquor to the business section of the city. The most important issue of the day in Plainfield is this latter question and on the same day that the Courier wondered what action the Mayor would take The Daily Press exclusively told exactly what His Honor will do and the account was a personal interview. The Daily Press is a "home" newspaper and aims to supply the people with all the latest local news. Superior news gathering service? We have it and always did.

POLICE AGREEABLE TO PHYSICAL TRAINING

WHAT THE NEW RULE MEANS TO THE PATROLMEN.

According to the consensus of opinion among many of the regular members of the police department, the men are inclined to welcome the opportunity for physical exercise at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, so long as it does not interfere with the time they should have for rest and recreation. Of course, the new rule which will be included in the discipline of the department, will be more advantageous for the day men than those on duty at night, for they will not have to cut out any of their hours for sleep to go to the gymnasium three times a week.

With the night men it will mean that they must get up a little earlier than at present to take the hour's exercise, and in case they have to appear at court in the morning against a prisoner, it will also mean that they will not be able to get to bed as early in the morning. As it is they claim that when they have to go to court it is frequently 10 o'clock or later before they can reach their homes.

When the proposition was originally placed before the men they were told that they would be required to visit the gymnasium six times a week. To this plan there was almost united opposition for they believed that it would take too much of their time. When Councilman Tyler learned this he fixed upon three times a week and this was more generally approved. The two or three votes against the new rule were cast by the older men of the force who felt that they would be unable to meet the requirements. It is not expected, however, that these men will go through the same course of exercise as the younger members and no doubt leniency in this direction will be shown. Another objection to the new order was that the men are not now allowed any time off, similar to the firemen, who get one day off in ten. The policemen believe that such a rule should be adopted for them.

According to the present rule the policemen work every day from 7 o'clock at night to 7 o'clock the next morning, while the day men put in the same number of hours. The policemen are hoping that the new police board will rearrange the shifts in someway so that they may be equally favored with the firemen as to time off.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

Under the auspices of the Young People's Society, of the Presbyterian church, a delightful social appropriate to Valentine's Day was held at the manse last night, and was attended by a large number of friends and members of the society. The evening was pleasantly spent playing the usual games, and credit is due to the committee for the manner in which the occasion was arranged. Decorations appropriate to Valentine's Day made the rooms attractive, and congeniality characterized the event. The social was preceded by a business meeting at which the usual matters of routine importance were transacted. This was the committee in charge of the affair, and to which the success of the occasion was largely due: Miss Emma Craig, chairman; Miss Eva Snyder, Miss Nellie Dodwell, Miss Edna Cerkell, Arthur Bogardus and Clarence Carmin.

Under the auspices of Lakeside Council, D. of L., of New Market, a delightful social appropriate to Valentine's Day was given at Friendship Hall last night. The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion, and the committee had arranged a pleasing programme. Progressive games, including many old favorites and new ones, made the evening pass in a pleasant manner. After the games, dancing made a fitting conclusion to the evening's enjoyment. On account of the fact that the weather kept many away, the affair was not such a financial success as was anticipated, but from a social point of view its success was unqualified. The committee in charge of the social consisted of H. J. Piddington, chairman; Mrs. Frank Nelson, Mrs. Foster Sofield, Miss Irene Day and Wyckoff Voorhees.

Out of a total enrollment of 258 pupils, seventy-five have not been absent during the school year so far. These same seventy-five have not been tardy at any time, and considering the severe weather and bad walking, they deserve credit. At a recent meeting the superintendent moved to keep the school open on Monday of next week. The superintendent in his recent report expresses himself unsatisfied with the result of the mid-year examinations, and though the weather greatly interferred, and it was not so much the fault of the pupils, he suggests that every possible chance be taken to make up the work, which has been unavoidably lost. It was voted, however, that school be closed on Lincoln's birthday. The average attendance out of the total enrollment of 258, has been 214.

Two sleigh rides among young people in the borough were postponed last night on account of the weather. A party has been arranged for tomorrow night, and several Dunellenites are anticipating excursions with Plainfield parties.

The cases of grip in the borough are spreading remarkably, and among those who are confined to their homes by the modern plague are Walter Clawson, Mrs. John Emmons, William Dealaman, Miss Janet Lake and Leslie Messrell.

For Tired, Aching Feet, use Randolph's Foot Powder.

"Everyone knows where his own shoes pinch," but he doesn't always discover it until he buys and wears them—yes, there's the rub which mean's discomfort and annoyance.

But remember you can have comfortable feet if you use Randolph's Foot Powder. It's a positive cure and preventive for tired, aching, swollen or perspiring feet, giving quick relief to the pain of corns, bunions, blisters, callous or sore spots. Shake the powder in each shoe. It's yours for real comfort, at 15c a box.

L. W. RANDOLPH.

The City Pharmacy,

143 W. Front St.

Archibald Brakeley, of Princeton College, is home for a few days. With him is his room-mate, John Cunningham. Both will remain in the borough for a few days before the resumption of the next collegiate term.

There will be a meeting of the Junior Auxiliary, of Holy Innocent's church, in the guild room on Saturday at 2 o'clock. On Sunday Holy Communion will be observed in the afternoon.

A union temperance service under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the First Baptist church Sunday evening. Rev. W. W. Casselberry will make the address.

Mrs. James Greenhalge, who has been suffering from the grip, is now confined to her home by a serious attack of pneumonia.

The condition of A. A. Lake, who has been suffering from the grip, is much improved.

Mrs. Sarah Fisher has returned from Lebanon, where she has been visiting relatives.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The library cake and fancy goods sale, to be held Monday from 8 to 10 in Excelsior Hall by the scholars of the High School, gives promise of being a most successful affair. The scholars are working hard and the public response will no doubt be very encouraging and will enable the scholars to add a nice little sum to the public library treasury.

The bowling tournament of the Suburban Club has been allowed to die a natural death. Those who were scheduled to roll the remaining games in the schedule have failed to be present and the tournament excitement is beginning to die out and the chances are it will never be finished.

The bowling fever of a number of years ago is being revived here. The town and borough now fostering their clubs, the 'Plains team, the Suburbans and the latest the Triangle, of Plainfield, which has leased the alleys of the Suburban Club for Friday nights.

Handicapped by the absence of several of their best players, the Suburbans were defeated by the 'Plains team on Lee's alleys last night, two out of three games rolled. The totals were: Suburbans, 616, 705, 770; 'Plains, 715, 783, 686.

The Brookside Gun Club holds its weekly shoot tomorrow afternoon as usual. On Monday afternoon the club holds a holiday shoot. No prizes are to be given, but several interesting events are scheduled.

John Patterson, who has been critically ill at the State Hospital at Morris Plains, for several weeks, does not improve and but little hopes are entertained of his recovery, owing to his advanced age.

"Will we Know Our Friends in Heaven," will be the subject of the weekly prayer meeting to be held in the parlors of the Baptist church tonight. Rev. T. Moore-Smith will lead the meeting.

The weekly study meeting of the Bible class, of the Methodist church, will not be held tonight, on account of the quarterly conference meeting to be held in the church.

The teachers of the public school will attend the Teachers' Institute meeting to be held tomorrow in the Morrell Street School, Elizabeth.

No meeting of the Amity Club was held last night, on account of the inclement weather.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

At the school meeting of the citizens of the township, yesterday afternoon, for the discussion of school building projects, three appeals came before the meeting. The former appeal for a $30,000 building to be erected at New Market was renewed by a petition signed by sixty-four voters. Appeal No. 2 for a $5,000 building, came from citizens in the neighborhood of Fourth street, near the county line, and appeal No. 3 came from those interested in a project for a $2,500 building at Lincoln. These appeals will be voted upon at a special township meeting, after legitimate notice has been given to the people.

The last snow has filled up some of the country roads again so that yesterday Undertaker Walter Runyon had great difficulty in driving through South Clinton avenue to South Plainfield cemetery. Only by shovelling out in many places could any progress be made.

Superintendent of the poor, L. D. Walker, deserves much credit for personally attending and assisting at the funeral services and burial of the aged inmates of the home which have recently died.

Elmer Teeple has accepted a position to work with F. S. Smith, of Bernardsville.

Italians Want Griggs.

A delegation of Italians from Somerset County visited Governor Stokes yesterday to urge him to reappoint James L. Griggs as prosecutor of the county. Governor Stokes told them that he would consider their request. There were about twenty in the delegation.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The average attendance in Trinity Reformed church during January, was 392.

Rev. G. B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, spoke at the Rescue Mission last night in the German Reformed church at 8 o'clock.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will observe Christian Endeavor Day tonight at 8 o'clock. A special programme has been arranged for the occasion, and Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, is expected to participate.

On Sunday evening a special service for men will be held at Grace church, East Seventh street, under the auspices of the Men's Club. The preacher will be the Venerable Dr. Alexander Mann, Archdeacon of Newark. While the service is primarily for men, everybody is cordially invited to attend.

A pleasant social was given at the Y. M. C. A. by F. A. Henckel and Harold Robbins, Wednesday evening to the members of their Bible classes. The evening was delightfully spent with games, refreshments being served in the latter part of the evening. Walter Caldwell entertained with sleight-of hand tricks. While Harold Robins won applause with his humorus readings.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., will hold a convocation tonight and work the past master's degree on three.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., worked the entered apprentice degree on two and the fellowcraft and master mason degrees on one Tuesday night.

There will be initiation at the meeting of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., tomorrow evening. It is expected that a number of the State officers will be present.

Crescent Company, No. 18, U. R. K. of P., has planned to give the second of its winter receptions and entertainments on Tuesday, February 21. It will be on a more elaborate scale than the one given in December and a hop will follow at the close.

IN THE SHOPS.

James Bushby, of West Third street, has entered the machine department at Pond's.

Theodore Zeller has resigned his position at Pond's to learn the carpenter trade with John McNally.

James Heron, of the West End, has resigned his position with the American Engine Works at Bound Brook, to accept one at Pond's.

Sir Arthur Sullivan.

The New York Juvenile Opera Company, which is to present the Gilbert & Sullivan opera of "Iolanthe" at the Casino, Lincoln's birthday, Monday, Feb. 13, is said to be a very remarkable and clever organization. It consists entirely of young misses, ranging in age from eight to fourteen years and the performances of the principals in the cast, rank with the best ever heard. Two performances of the opera will be given—matinee and night. The matinee is given for the special accommodation of women and children and will no doubt attract a large audience. Reserved seats for the two performances can be secured at Armstrong's pharmacy.

Women's Auxiliary Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. will be held at the association building on Monday, February 13, at 3 o'clock, preceded by a short business meeting. The subject of the meeting to which the friends of the auxiliary are invited will be "The Opportunity of the Auxiliary." The speaker will be Miss Chapman, of Montclair, who has had considerable experience in auxiliary work.

Case Adjourned.

The case of J. H. Ayres & Company against J. D. Smalley, on contract, which was to have been tried before Justice Huff yesterday afternoon was adjourned until next Wednesday.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, has returned from a visit in Philadelphia.

Ruth Douglass, of West Front street, has recovered from an attack of the measles.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, is convalescing from a recent illness.

Miss Ethel Derby, of Perth Amboy, has been spending a few days with relatives here.

Mrs. Thomas Meaney, of Elm place, has been spending several days with her parents in High Bridge.

Mrs. David J. Yerkes, of West Seventh street, who has been quite ill, is now able to be about the house.

The Misses Rose and Sadie McQuirk, of Raritan, have been spending a few days with friends here.

Justice V. W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, was at his office on Wednesday for the first time since his accident a few weeks ago. He is obliged to walk on crutches.

Miss Almira R. Comptyn, of Pluckemin, who is well known here, and Wm. Ludlow, of Peapack, will be married at the home of the bride on Wednesday, Feb. 22.

RATE BILL PASSED

Esch-Townsend Measure Carried by Vote of 326 to 17.

DAVEY PROPOSITION IS DEFEATED.

Williams Said a Democratic Idea of Bryan's Had Been Usurped by Government Party—South Against Federal Railway Ownership.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. — After nearly four days of discussion the house by a vote of 326 to 17 passed the Esch-Townsend bill providing for the regulation of freight rates. The negative vote was made up of eleven Republicans and six Democrats.

The Esch-Townsend bill extends authority to the interstate commerce commission to fix railroad rates.

The Davey bill, Democratic substitute for the Republican caucus measure, was defeatetd by 186 to 151.

The debate was opened by Mr. Pierce (Tenn.), who, after announcing that the president on the subject of rate legislation was the greatest leader that has lived in the Republican ranks since the civil war, said he would support the Esch-Townsend bill. He, however, based his support upon the fact that William J. Bryan and the Democratic party had declared for just such legislation.

Mr. De Armond (Mo.), while admitting the necessity for legislation, attacked the Esch-Townsend bill as being an inadequate treatment of the question. The bill, he said, was singularly lacking in its compliance with the recommendations of the president.

It did not reach private car lines, and it was not to be supposed that the courts would be eager and searching in the endeavor to find in it something on that subject which its authors themselves could not find.

Addressing himself to the Republicans, Mr. Williams said they need nothing more than a marking out of the pathway to follow the president not because he is president or a Republican, but because he was outlining the proper policy for the American people. "Oh," he said, amid Democratic laughter, "I know how nonpartisan you are!"

Mr. Williams said it might be true in some things, as Mr. Grosvenor had stated, that the Democrats "camped tonight where we camped last night," but he loudly proclaimed, facing the Republican side, that on this question "it is you who are camping this year where the Democracy camped last year." If, he said, the majority in the house did not follow the president's recommendations it proved the necessity for an automatic coupler between the White House and the house of representatives. "A Republican Daniel is calling you," he exclaimed, "and he is at the other end of the avenue, and he is calling you to do identically the same thing that you refused to do because it came out of a Democratic Nazareth."

Discussing the merits of the bill, Mr. Williams said the country had waited and waited for the railroads themselves to do it justice. He agreed in part with Mr. McCall (Mass.), who had said the right to fix rates was a dangerous power to confer on seven men, but he argued it was a choice between evils, as only about seven great railroad magnates, acting in conjunction with one another, were directing the stream of American commerce in the channels they wished and discriminating wherever they saw fit. If the fixing of rates was to be lodged in some hands Mr. Williams said he preferred it to be a government tribunal, "weak and ineffective as such tribunals are."

Declaring that he spoke as a conservative, as he was not a radical, Mr. Williams said the time may come when all the country except the south would be advocating government ownership of railroads. The south would never support that proposition because they had the old fashioned idea that the government should not become too strongly centralized. They were further opposed to government ownership because they knew the government would not operate separate coaches for the whites and blacks.

The Townsend bill, he said, in conclusion was a much better bill than he ever thought would come from the Republican side of the chamber.

Hale Called It "the War Craze."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The senate devoted its time to debate on the agricultural appropriation bill, but did not complete the measure. There was a renewal of the discussion of the general policy of distributing the appropriation bills among a number of committees. Mr. Gorman and Mr. Spooner contended that the change had resulted in a vast increase in the cost of conducting the government. Mr. Hale agreed that in recent years there had been a great increase in the appropriations, but he attributed it to what he characterized as "the war craze."

Wreck on Erie Near Meadville, Pa.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 10. — A westbound passenger train on the Erie road struck a broken rail between Union City and Concord, Pa., late yesterday, resulting in an immigrant car being thrown into the ditch and turned completely over. Six immigrants were injured, but it is said none will die. A dining car and an express car were also partially derailed, but none of the passengers in them was hurt.

Eighty Thousand Miners Out.

CHARLEROI, Feb. 10.—The national committee of the Miners' Federation has decided to issue a manifesto stating that 80,000 miners are on strike in this district, that there are indications of other miners going on strike and asking for the intervention of the minister of public works.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessments to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the act entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Mayor shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Common Council, shall appoint three disinterested persons as Commissioners of Assessments, to be intrusted with the duty of assessing damages and benefits under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, forthwith after this ordinance shall take effect as law, to hold office until noon of the first day of January next succeeding their appointment, and until their successors shall have been chosen and qualified, unless sooner removed in the manner provided by law, and successors to said Commissioners shall in like manner be nominated and appointed annually thereafter, at the first meeting of the Common Council after noon of the first day of January of each year.

Section 2. That said Commissioners of Assessments, upon being appointed as aforesaid and duly qualified and sworn, and upon having referred to them assessments of damages and benefits authorized by said Acts of the Legislature, shall perform the duties enjoined upon them by said Acts of the Legislature, and shall receive such compensation for their services under said Acts as shall be determined by the Common Council.

Section 3. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith be and are hereby appealed.

Adopted by the Common Council Feb. 6, 1905; approved by the Mayor Feb. 8, 1905.

JAMES F. BUCKLE, Mayor.

Attest: J. T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

JAMES T. MACMURRAY,
Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 6, 1905. City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an ordinance entitled "An ordinance to license inns and taverns and to regulate and prohibit the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors," approved Feb. 10, 1892, as amended.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That said ordinance be amended by adding thereto a new section as follows, to wit:

Section 27. That in order to enable the Common Council more effectively to regulate the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors within said city as they deem most conducive to the public good, the place in which any applicant for license to sell spirituous and fermented liquors, or for license to sell spirituous, vinous, malt or brewed liquors, under any of the preceding sections of this ordinance proposes to carry on his business under such license, is hereby required to be accurately set forth in the application for such license, and to be within the territory comprised within the following boundary lines, to wit:

Beginning at a point in the city line at Green brook distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet northeasterly from the center line of Watchung avenue; thence running southwesterly along said city line to the center line of Grove street; thence southeasterly along the center line of Grove street to the center line of West Front street; thence southwesterly along the center line of West Front street to a point distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southwesterly from the center line of Central avenue; thence southeasterly in a course drawn parallel with the center line of Central avenue distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southwesterly therefrom to the tracks of the main stem of the Central Railroad of New Jersey as the same now lies; thence northeasterly along said tracks to a point on said tracks distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southwesterly from the center line of Park avenue; thence southeasterly in a course drawn parallel with the center line of Park avenue and distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southwesterly therefrom to a point in said course distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southeasterly from the center line of West Fourth street; thence northeasterly in a course drawn parallel with the center line of West Fourth street and East Fourth street and distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southeasterly therefrom to a point in said course and the projection thereof distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet northeasterly from the center line of Watchung avenue; thence northwesterly in a straight line to the point of beginning.

Provided, nevertheless, that the foregoing provisions of this section shall not prevent the granting of any renewal of any license lawfully in force at the time this section takes effect to the same person who shall have been the lawful holder of such license continuously from that time to the time of such renewal.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FORECASTS OF FASHION.

Shirt Waist Hints—Separate Waists Button In the Back.

A pretty new shirt waist model is made up in deep cream satin. It has a small yoke and deep cuffs of lace. A welcome change from the too often employed tucks is the rows of shirring which appear on the sleeves and waist of this model. Instead of the usual plait down the center of the waist a line of shirring is substituted. In the lines of stitching are caught loops of gold ribbon. Over the shoulders is a band of shirring ending in bowknots of gold ribbon. The sleeves have a wide puff and a deep lace cuff. The back of the waist is laid in two inverted box plaits.

Chiffon cloth makes a dressy, becoming little separate waist when it exactly matches the skirt worn with it.

Most of the smart separate waists button in the back and have three-quarter or elbow sleeves.

There is a craze abroad among some smart women for dark colored jackets worn with a gay skirt. A black or dark colored redingote looks very well in the afternoon over a colored dress, but for morning wear the skirt of one color and a coat of another seem to shorten the figure and do away with the idea of harmony in coloring which is a great feature of the winter fashions.

VELVET EVENING FROCK.

Exquisitely dainty are the opera bags of suede. These little bags are rivaling the reticules of brocaded silk and satin. They are fitted with every toilet requisite.

Hand mirrors in French gray silver are very modish decorated with a monogram in copper.

To be quite up to date my lady must have the top of her dressing table of heavy plate glass. Doilies of lace and linen are placed under the toilet articles.

The stunning evening frock seen in the cut is of black chiffon velvet. Part of the skirt, bolero and tiny puffed sleeves are of velvet. The petticoat front and waist trimmings are of white gauze and lace. Bunches of morning glories embroidered in colors adorn the skirt.

Boots for street wear have narrower toes and lower heels. The broad last has given way to one more pointed and becoming.

"crazy last." There is an upward curve from the instep to the toe that raises the sole a little. This innovation makes the shoe very springy and comfortable for walking.

The very latest idea is to have the top of the boot match the gown. When ordering a shoe a piece of the gown material is given the bootmaker to incorporate into dainty footgear.

Women are wearing heavy Oxford ties this winter, and over them go very swagger looking "spats" for warmth and as a protection against dust.

Bluchers—shoes without seams over the insteps—are particularly comfortable for women with high insteps.

Tan shoes of light weight Russian calf are being worn with some of the smart brown costumes of the season.

The smart little slippers illustrated are of embroidered suede. They are built somewhat on sandal lines laced up the center and tied just below the ankle in a natty bow.

THE GRAFTERS

By

FRANCIS LYNDE

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

But Kent was following out his own line of thought and putting it in words as it came.

"Think of the brain-work it took to bring all those things into line. There was no hitch, no slip, and nothing was overlooked. They picked their time, and it was a moment when we were absolutely helpless. I had filed our charter, but our local organization was still incomplete. They had their judge and the needful case in his court, pending and ready for use at the precise moment. They had Hawk on the ground, armed and equipped; and they knew that unless a miracle intervened they would have nobody but an unprepared local attorney to obstruct them."

"Is that all?" she asked.

"No. The finest bit of sculpture is on the capstone of the pyramid. Since we have had no hearing on the merits, Guilford is only a temporary receiver, subject to discharge if the allegations in Hawk's amended petition are not sustained. After the major has sufficiently smashed the stock, Judge MacFarlane will come back, the hearing on the merits will be given, we shall doubtless make our point, and the road will revert to the stockholders. But by that time enough of the stock will have changed hands on the 'wreck' price to put the Plantagould people safely in the saddle, and the freezeout will be a fact accomplished."

Miss Van Brock drew a long breath that was more than half a sigh.

"You spoke the simple truth, David, when you said that his excellency is a great man. It seems utterly hopeless now that we have cleared up all the little mysteries."

Kent rose to take his leave.

"No; that is where they all go out and I stay in," he said cheerfully. "The shrewder he is, the more credit there will be in making him let go. And you mark my words: I am going to make him let go. Good night."

CHAPTER XV.

THE JUNKETERS.

When Receiver Guilford took possession of the properties, appurtenances and appendages of the sequestered Trans-Western railway, one of the luxuries to which he fell heir was private car "Naught-seven," a commodious hotel on wheels originally used as the directors' car of the Western Pacific, and later taken over by Loring to be put in commission as the general manager's special.

In the hands of a friendly receiver this car became a boon to the capitol contingent; its observation platform served as a shifting rostrum from which a deep-chested executive or a mellifluous Hawk often addressed admiring crowds at way stations, and its dining saloon was the moving scene of many little relaxative feasts, at which Veuve Cliquot flowed freely, priceless cigars were burned, and the members of the organization unbent, each after his kind.

But to the men of the throttle and oil can, car Naught-seven, in the gift of a hospital receiver, shortly became a nightmare. Like most private cars, it was heavier than the heaviest Pullman; and the engineer who was constrained to haul it like a dragging anchor at the tail end of a fast train was prone to say words not to be found in any vocabulary known to respectable philologists.

It was in the evening of a windblown day, a week after Kent's visit to Gaston, that Engineer "Red" Callahan, oiling around for the all-night run with the Flyer on the western division, heard above the din and clamor of Union station noises the sullen thump betokening the addition of another car to his train.

"Now fwhat the divvle will that be?" he rasped, pausing, torch in hand, to apostrophize his fireman.

The answer came up out of the shadows to the rear on the lips of M'Tosh, the trainmaster.

"You have the Naught-seven tonight, Callahan, and a pretty severe head wind. Can you make your time?"

"Haven't thim bloody fools in the up-town office anything betther to do than to tie that sivinty-ton ball-an'-chain to my leg such a night as this?" This is not what Callahan said; it is merely a printable paraphrase of his rejoinder.

M'Tosh shook his head. He was a hold-over from the Loring administration, not because his place was not worth taking, but because as yet no political heeler had turned up with the requisite technical ability to hold it.

"I don't blame you for cussing it out," he said; and the saying of it was a mark of the relaxed discipline which was creeping into all branches of the service. "Mr. Loring's car is anybody's private wagon these days. Can you make your time with her?"

"Not on yer life," Callahan growled. "Is it the owld potgutted thafe iv a rayceiver that's in her?"

"Yes; with Gov. Bucks and a party of his friends. I take it you ought to feel honored."

"Do I?" snapped Callahan. "If I don't make thim junketers think they're in the scuff iv a cyclone whin I get thim on the crooks beyant Dolores ye can gimme time, Misther M'Tosh. Where do I get shut iv thim?"

"At Agua Caliente. They are going to the hotel at Breezeland, I suppose. There is your signal to pull out."

Breezeland Inn, the hotel at Agua Caliente, is a year-round resort for asthmatics and other health seekers, with a sanatorium annex which utilizes the waters of the warm springs for therapeutic purposes. But during the hot months the capital and the plains cities to the eastward send their quota of summer idlers and the house fills to its capacity.

It was for this reason that Mr. Brookes Ormsby, looking for a comfortable resort to which he might take Mrs. Brentwood and her daughters for an outing, hit upon the expedient of going first in person to Breezeland, partly to make sure of accommodations and partly to check up the attractions of the place against picturesque descriptions in the advertisements.

When he turned out of his sleeper in the early morning at Agua Caliente station, car Naught-seven had been thrown in on a siding a little farther up the line, and Ormsby recognized the burly person of the governor and the florid face and pursy figure of the receiver, in the group of men crossing from the private car to the waiting inn tally-ho. Being a seasoned traveler, the clubman lost no time in finding the station agent.

"Isn't there some way you can get me up to the hotel before that crowd reaches?" he asked, adding: "I'll make it worth your while."

The reply effaced the necessity for haste.

"The inn auto will be down in a few minutes, and you can go up in that. Naught-seven brought Gov. Bucks and the receiver and their party, and they're going down to Megilp, the mining camp on the other side of the state line. They've chartered the tally-ho for the day."

Ormsby waited, and a little later was whisked away to the hotel in the tonneau of the guests' automobile. Afterward came a day which was rather hard to get through. Breakfast, a leisurely weighing and measuring of the climatic, picturesque and health-mending conditions, and the writing of a letter or two helped him wear out the forenoon; but after luncheon the time dragged dispiteously, and he was glad enough when the auto-car came to take him to the station for the evening train.

As it happened, there were no other passengers for the eastbound Flyer; and finding he still had some minutes to wait, Ormsby lounged into the telegraph office. Here the bonds of ennui were loosened by the gradual development of a little mystery. First the telephone bell rang smartly, and when the telegraph operator took down the ear-piece and said "Well?" in the imperious tone common to his kind, he evidently received a communication that shocked him.

Ormsby overheard but a meager half of the wire conversation; and the excitement, whatever its nature, was at the other end of the line. None the less, the station agent's broken ejaculations were provocative of keen interest in a man who had been boring himself desperately for the better part of a day.

"Caught him doing it, you say? * * * Great Scott! * * * Oh, I don't believe that, you know * * * yes — uh-huh — I hear. * * * But, who did the shooting?" Whether the information came or not, Ormsby did not know, for at this conjuncture the telegraph instruments on the table set up a furious chattering, and the railway man dropped the receiver and sprang to his key.

In an instant the telegraph operator dashed out of his bay-windowed retreat and ran up the track to the private car. In a few minutes he was back again, holding an excited conference with the chauffeur of the inn automobile, who was waiting to see if the Flyer should bring him any fares for the hotel.

Ormsby saw the chauffeur turn his car in the length of it and send it spinning down the road and across the line into the adjoining state; heard the mellow whistle of the incoming train, and saw the station man nervously setting his stop signal; all with no more than a mild desire to know the reason for so much excitement and haste—a desire which was content to wait on the explanation of events.

The explanation, such as it was, did not linger. The heavy train thundered in from the west; stopped barely long enough to allow the single passenger to swing up the steps of the Pullman; and went on again to stop a second time with a jerk when it had passed the sidetrack switch.

Ormsby put his head out of the window and saw that the private car was to be taken on; remarked also that the thing was done with the utmost celerity. Once out on the main line with car Naught-seven coupled in, the train was backed swiftly down to the station and the small mystery of hurryings was sufficiently solved. The governor and his party were returning, and they did not wish to miss connections.

ABOLISHED CONCORDAT.

Separation of Church and State Bill In French Cabinet.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The Rouvier ministry presented in the chamber of deputies the draft of a new bill for the separation of church and state. This measure has been anxiously awaited, owing to doubt raised by friends of former Premier Combes concerning the sincerity of the new ministry in carrying forward the policy of separation. When, therefore, Minister of Public Instruction Bienvenu Martin presented the bill in the chamber of deputies it was greeted with long applause.

The text of the new measure makes the separation of church and state definite and conclusive, but omits a number of details of the Combes bill, which had aroused antagonism. The essential points of the new measure are:

First.—Abolition of the concordat, whereby the relations of church and state were established.

Second.—Termination of all government aid and subsidies to religious sects or functionaries.

Third.—Formation of church associations into civil corporations amenable to the same laws as other organizations.

The bill comprises thirty-two articles, and the text of article 1 is as follows:

"The state henceforth neither recognizes nor contributes to any religious denomination. Public establishments of religion now existing are suppressed. All religious budgets of appropriations of government departments or communes are suppressed. The exercise of religion is hereafter free, under the sole restriction that exercise must accord with public order."

The article abolishing the concordat says:

"All laws and orders relative to the public organization or recognition of a religious denomination are abrogated, particularly the law ratifying the convention made between the pope and the French government."

It is expected that the new bill will be debated in the chamber of deputies at an early date.

BLIZZARD HITS ST. JOHN'S.

Newfoundland Cut Off From Outside World—Drifts Cover Houses.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 10.—The worst blizzard in twenty years is raging here. It commenced Wednesday and has continued with great intensity. The island is practically cut off from communication with the outside world. All telegraph and telephone wires are down, the railway system is paralyzed, and the electric light and fire alarm wires are useless. Street cars have stopped running, and business is at a complete standstill. Scores of houses are buried under drifts.

The party which carried provisions to the icebound ship Energy returned safely last night, but the fate of the Energy and the Vidonia, both of which are in the ice floe, is unknown.

Much anxiety is felt for the steamers Sylvia, from New York; London City, from Halifax, and Eagle, from Sunderland, which are overdue.

The entire coast is blocked with ice.

Postmaster Charged at Zionsville.

EASTON, Pa., Feb. 10.—Charles A. Hamman, a merchant and postmaster at Zionsville, Pa., was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Turner in Easton on a charge of delaying and detaining a registered letter. He was held in $1,000 bail for trial. A registered letter was sent to one of Hamman's bondsmen, informing him that the postmaster had been found about $400 short in his accounts, which the latter, however, had made good on demand. It was this letter, it is charged, that the postmaster opened, read and answered over his surety's name.

Damara Survivors at Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 10.—Suffering slightly from frostbite, but otherwise none the worse for their exposure to wind and weather after the wrecking of the Furness line steamer Damara off Jeddere, Captain Gorst of the steamer, together with his crew of twenty-seven men, three passengers and three stowaways, have arrived in this city. The passengers included one woman, Mrs. Prowse of Halifax. A submerged object of unknown nature is declared by Captain Gorst to have caused the wreck of his ship.

Kenosha Lawyer Gave Scheme Away

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—William Lowell, alleged to be the promoter of a score or more of "wildcat" insurance companies, was given a surprise in Judge McEwen's court when Walter M. Cowell, a Kenosha (Wis.) lawyer, who was jointly indicted with Lowell, took the stand and as a state's witness laid bare much of an alleged plot to organize such companies and sell insurance to persons unfamiliar with insurance methods or the standing of companies.

Italians Held For Assault and Theft.

BOSTON, Feb. 10.—Two men entered the Harrison avenue store of the Conner Furniture company last night and after beating Louis Goldman, a clerk, who was alone in the place, into unconsciousness escaped with $50. Two Italians were subsequently arrested on suspicion. Goldman will recover.

Tried to Steal His Wife.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 10.—J. A. Covington has been acquitted of the murder of John Cummings at Loudon, Tenn. Covington claimed that Cummings was trying to steal his wife from him and that he had locked her in a room to prevent her escape.

Permits Women to Vote.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 10.—The house here by a vote of 65 to 49 passed a bill permitting women to vote for presidential electors.

In the case of a widow appointed as Executrix, it is seldom that she has the necessary business training to enable her to properly handle the estate, hence she is compelled to rely on the advice of friends.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The regular meeting of the Triangles, a bowling club recently organized among members of the Y. M. C. A., Fanwood Suburban and Alls Clubs, will be held tonight, when practice and a match with some outside team will take place.

No further plans have materialized toward the formation of the proposed bowling league at the Y. M. C. A. among four or five teams in the association men's class. The matter will shortly be considered at a meeting of those interested in the subject, and definite action will be taken in the proposed plan.

The Park Club bowlers are still in fourth place in the Central Journal Bowling league, and William Barlow still holds the highest score mark in the league. His score of 247 was nearly reached Wednesday night by Howe of the Roselle team, who rolled a 237. The next match the local team will roll in the league will be on Tuesday, February 14, when they will meet the Cranford Casino at the latter's alleys.

BASKET BALL.

Collier's team is still in the lead in the inter-association basketball league which is being played in the Y. M. C. A. men's class every evening.

The Business Men's team, of the Y. M. C. A., will play a game with the Plainfield High School team on Monday evening. It will be in the nature of a practice game for the P. H. S. players, who have a hard contest to play on March 1 against the South Orange High School.

Arthur L. Denton, of this city, a former player on the Y. M. C. A. basketball team, recently threw sixteen field goals in a basketball game between a team from Brown College and a Boston Collegiate Institute. The game was won by Denton's team, 65 to 5.

Jewett, who was one of the strongest players on the Leal's School team, is laid up for the rest of the season, as far as basketball is concerned. Though his ankle, which was injured in the game with the Plainfield High School Wednesday afternoon, is not broken, it is in bad condition, and will prohibit him from playing, and possibly from competing in the interscholastic athletic games on March 4.

There will be another game between the Plainfield High School basketball five and the alumni of the school. Manager Collier, in conference with Francis K. Anderson, the captain of the alumni organization, decided upon March 6 as the date for the second game, which will take place at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The alumni line up will be somewhat strengthened for the next game, and they will endeavor to wipe out the former defeat.

FOOTBALL.

Howard Roland Reiter, the famous football player and coach, has not yet decided whether he will accept the position to coach the Wesleyan University football eleven this season. His services are being eargerly sought and it is possible that "Bosey" may accept.

DIAMOND DUST.

The annual meeting of the Westfield Baseball Association will be held at the Standard building, Westfield, Monday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of receiving reports of officers, the election of two trustees to succeed Chauncey D. Smith and William O. Littlefield, whose terms expire and it is also expected that a manager for the team during this season will be decided upon, it being expected that Charles H. Denman will continue as such.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet at Somerville on Tuesday.

—The owners of the Hotel Kensington are making extensive improvements about the building, including painting and papering.

—Today may be one day of the whole year when a want ad. is printed which is of such direct, personal interest to you that to overlook it would be a calamity.

—It was Miss Etta Randolph and not Miss Etta Rayners, who was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Ida Tallamy and Robert Hampton on Wednesday night.

—Vegetable specials at Neuman Brothers' tomorrow will include green beans, spinach, cauliflower, celery, rhubarb, tomatoes, egg plant, Boston head lettuce and new potatoes. The supply of each is received fresh each morning.

After Non-Sidewalk Cleaners.

Acting jointly, the local street and police departments are taking steps to arrest property owners who neglect to clear the ice from their sidewalks or to sprinkle them properly. The police today are securing the names of the offenders and they will be haled to court.

WANT FAITH CHAPEL TO BE INDEPENDENT

REV. J. W. MUSSON MAKES APPLICATION TO FIRST BAPTIST TRUSTEES.

Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel, and others prominently identified with the work there, appeared before the trustees of the First Baptist church, Wednesday night, and presented the proposition of making the chapel an independent organization, it being the purpose to make the change April 1, if the church sanction can be obtained, and there seems to be no doubt but that it will.

Since Mr. Musson assumed the pastorate of the chapel there has been a steady increase in the interest and membership and he believes that the time has arrived when the chapel should be self-supporting. Under the guidance and help of the First Baptist church the chapel has thrived from the first, when the work was started in a tent on the property where the chapel now stands.

If the chapel is made an independent organization, it will have the same form of government as any Baptist church, and it will mean the election of trustees and deacons and other church officers. It is understood that the First Baptist church is quite willing that the change shall be made provided that the membership and income is sufficient to make it self-sustaining. However, the church will never cease to have more than ordinary interest in this work, the success of which has been so gratifying.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mrs. Florence Potter-Sheppard, of Chicago, is visiting friends and relatives here.

Miss Mattie Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, gave a luncheon yesterday for a few friends.

J. B. Dumont, of Stelle avenue, left today for Atlantic City, where he will remain for a few days.

PERSONAL.

Miss Lillian Kiersting, of Morristown, has been visiting relatives here for several days.

Alexander Muir, of Essex street, has been confined to his home by illness for the past week.

Edwin Maynard, the North avenue tonsorial artist, has recovered from an attack of the grip and is able to work again.

Mrs. Wm. Gray, of this city, and Mrs. Kern, of Villa Elsinore, have been visiting Mrs. J. H. Koch, of Watchung.

Mr and Mrs. J. V. D. TenEyck, of North Branch, have been visiting Mrs. TenEyck's sister, Mrs. L. D. Holmes, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Tier, Sr., of Bank place, who have been seriously ill with pneumonia, are reported as being very much improved.

Well-Earned Promotion.

The promotion of Mr. Thomas Fitzgerald to the place of general manager of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad gives great satisfaction in this city, and especially to the employes and officials of the company here and elsewhere. It has been given out that the settled policy of Mr. Murray, the president of the company, is to fill vacancies in the service by promotion. Among the number of men employed by this great corporation there is doubtless excellent material for supplying every vacant place. To recognize merit and faithful service in making appointments opens the door of hope to everyone in the ranks and stimulates each one to the performance of his duties in the most efficient manner. The policy is a sound one, and Mr. Murray is to be highly commended for adopting it as well as for its application to Mr. Fitzgerald. If Thomas Fitzgerald, like others in the service of the Baltimore and Ohio, had a stripe on his sleeve for each year of his service, he would have "40 stripes, save one." Starting as a "water boy" on the Monongahela bridge 39 years ago, he worked his way up gradually from the bottom to the top, and he honestly earned every promotion he has received. He earned the confidence of his superior officers by his loyalty and efficiency and the esteem and affection of those under him by his kindness and love of justice. In his long connection with the Baltimore and Ohio Company he has filled many places, and has filled all of them well and loyally. The Sun extends its congratulations to Mr. Fitzgerald upon his promotion and to President Murray for making it.—Baltimore Sun.

Seeking John Loch.

COUNCILMEN FAVOR PASSAIC'S REQUEST

MAY ACT WITH IT IN SECURING NEEDED LEGISLATIVE ACTION.

In response to a request from the Common Council of Passaic, asking the Plainfield Common Council to cooperate in an effort to secure such legislation as would enable cities in this State to purchase electric light plants and compell the placing of electric light wires underground, the Public Affairs committee from the Common Council was to have held a meeting last night to consider the subject. Only three members put in an appearance and little could be done.

The matter was discussed, however, and it seemed to be the opinion that such co-operation would be a good thing and could do no harm, and undoubtedly such a recommendation will be made to the Common Council by the committee.

The city of Passaic is desirous of establishing or purchasing its own electric light plant, and a resolution to that effect was introduced and adopted at a recent meeting of the Common Council in that city. A copy of that resolution was forwarded with the request to this city, asking for co-operation. Other cities have similarly been requested to do likewise. It is the intention if possible to secure legislative action this winter.

MAXIMUM TAX RATE BILL FAULTY

Senator Reed Shows Governor how North Plainfield Would Suffer by the Law.

GOVERNOR CONVINCED

Conference in Trenton Will Result in Radical Change in the Hilliery Bill Now in the Senate.

Former President of the State Senate Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield, had a conference with Governor F. S. Stokes at Trenton yesterday in which he pointed out the great harm the uniform maximum tax rate bill will work in North Plainfield as well as other municipalities provided it becomes a law in its present shape. Senator Hilliery has introduced a bill in the State Senate which fixes $1.50 as the maximum tax rate. Governor Stokes's figure was $1.70. There appears good reason to believe that the Hilliery measure, which has the Governor's sanction, will become a law, but the chief executive has been convinced of the dangers of the measure in its present form, and some radical changes will be made.

Former Senator C. A. Reed.

The present tax rate in North Plainfield is $3.46 per thousand. Of this amount ninety cents is for special school tax fixed arbitrarily by the district school meeting and sixty cents is for county tax, fixed by the county authorities. The county and special school taxes alone, consequently, foot up to $1.50, which is all the proposed law would allow. And it can be seen that there is nothing left for State school or for borough tax.

If this bill goes through the Legislature and is signed by the Governor some steps will have to be taken to amend the present school law which gives the district school meeting arbitrary power to fix its own tax assessments or in other words the appropriation needed to run the schools. Otherwise it would be possible for the school district to vote a sum so large that the special school tax rate alone would amount to $1.50 on the $100. Even if all taxable property were assessed at full value, as the school tax must all be paid over to the school authorities before the municipality can use a dollar, the result would be disastrous.

In Plainfield the Hilliery law would not work so much harm for the appropriations for schools are under the control of the Common Council and there would be little or no conflict in fixing the total amount of taxes that it would not exceed $1.50. It is quite likely that Governor Stokes will consult with those having the Hilliery bill in tow as to the grave feature which former Senator Reed has pointed out.

Athletic Meet.

The date for the indoor interscholastic athletic meet, which was originally set for Saturday, March 4, has been changed to Saturday, March 11, by a vote of the committee which met last night at the Y. M. C. A. The following were the various representatives of the schools which will compete in the league: Plainfield High School, Howard Craig, Harry Thompson; Leal's School, Edwin Daniel, William Smith; North Plainfield High School, Otto Meuck, Charles Steiner; Westfield High School, Westley Collins and Edward Keyes.

—The Plainfield Dancing Academy, 320 West Front street, will hold a Lincoln's Birthday ball on Monday, February 13.

LOVE OLD COURT HOUSE

Chancellor McGill's Words as to the Landmark.

BUILT ABOUT 1780

Ample Room for Erection of Somerset's New Building Without Destroying Old One.

Strong opposition to the destruction of the old Somerset County court house, which the Board of Freeholders, at their Wednesday meeting, virtually decided to tear down to make way for a modern structure, has developed in Somerville. Chancellor McGill once said, according to tradition, that the building was one of the finest of the old style court houses in the State. The lovers of beauty and fine art in Somerville believe the chancellor meant what he said, and they are up in arms over the idea of making kindling wood of a fine old pile. The building was erected in the latter part of the eighteenth century.

When the Freeholders hold their final meeting the court house matter the objectors to the rasing of the old house will be represened.

One of the citizens who is most earnest in the effort to prevent what he and many others regard as vandalism, is H. T. Tompkins, a broker, whose home is in this city, but whose place of business is at 129 Front street, New York.

"It is a vast pity," said Mr. Tompkins, "that this old building should go.

"The old court house was built somewhere about 1780 or 1782, I believe. It is somewhat on the architectural lines of the old Greek temples—massive columns in front, the entrance reached by a broad flight of wide, brownstone steps. It stands high above the ground and is set well back from the street in a grove of superb old trees. There is a simple dignity of artistic effect which is only too rare in our rural public buildings nowadays. It seems simply pitable to think of substituting for this refining and beautiful picture in our old village street one of those glaring, harsh monstrocities which have supplanted so may of our old court houses in New Jersey counties.

"There is no doubt the old court house is inconvenient within and ill-arranged to meet modern conditions. But that could be easily obviated. And if it is necessary to build a new court house the old one need not be destroyed or its site pre-empted. There is plenty of room for the new court house in the rear of the old one, and it could be there built in such a way as not to clash in any manner with the architectural effect of the old structure as see from the street. The old building as it stands could be turned to good use. The surrogate's and other offices could be put in it and the little brick building now used for county office overflow done away with."

HIGH SCORES ROLLED ON FANWOOD ALLEYS

TRIANGLE BOWLING CLUB OPENS UP THE PINS IN PRACTICE GAME.

The game with Saengerbund team having been arranged for a week later, the Triangle Bowling Club devoted the evening to a practice game on their alleys at the Fanwood Club last night, in which excellent scores were rolled. Two picked teams were chosen, captained by Sheelen and A. C. Stewart, and four scores of over 200 were rolled during the evening.

These were the best scores: Sheelen, 202, 200; Neal, 206; Gahagan, 210; Wiltse, 205. Good averages were made by Sheelen, 180; Neal, 176, and Wiltse, 171.

A game has been arranged for Friday night with the Saengerbud team, and a three games series will be rolled with a Bound Brook team and with the Dunellen aggregation. The first of the Bound Brook series will be rolled on Wednesday, February 22.

This was the score of the best game rolled on the Fanwood alleys last night:

Sheelen	200	Stewart	159
Aitken	145	Gahagan	210
Sutphen	181	Neal	206
Phillips	122	Wiltse	159
Egan	195	Koons	158

TWO DESTRUCTIVE FIRES

One House Totally Destroyed; Second Badly Damaged.

TOTAL LOSS IS $2,700

West End Building Catches From Workmen's Stove — East End Residence From a Heater.

One partially completed new house in the West End totally destroyed and another in the East End badly damaged, is the aftermath of two conflagrations which kept the local fire department busy last night an early this morning. The total damage will reach $2,700, of which $1,200 is placed on the West End structure and $1,500 on the house and furniture in the East End.

The first blaze broke out in a house not quite finished being built for Mrs. Walter Wyckoff on Bergen street, a new thoroughfare between McDowell street and Clinton avenue, 200 feet north of West Fourth street. Workmen had left a stove burning in the lower part of the building and it is presumed sparks from this were responsible for the destruction. The house was well off by itself and when the flames were first noticed they were pouring out of every side. An alarm was sent in from box 49 but the department could do nothing as the nearest hydrant was over 2,000 feet away and the trucks did not carry that much hose. Chief Doane instructed the men to haul away all the nearby lumber and also pull the burned portions over until the last spark died down.

The alarm for the second blaze was turned in from box 52 at 5:50 this morning, the home of Richard Yetman, colored, at 616 East Third street, having caught fire from a heater in the cellar.

The department had no trouble in reaching the scene quickly but was greatly retarded in getting water, through the hydrants being covered with snow, one in particular on East Third street having been completely lost to view through a mound that had been piled above it.

Yetman discovered the flames but he had barely time in which to get his family out before they had mounted to the roof through a false work in the center of the house. The firemen worked hard and managed to save the structure from complete ruin despite the start it had upon them.

At one time Chief Doane narrowly escaped serious injury by falling through the first floor half-way to the cellar. He was seen to disappear by Assistant Chief Jennings, who sprang to his rescue, only to go through himself. Both managed to scramble out though badly shaken up and Jennings received a severe burn on the right arm.

Yetman is at a loss to understand how the fire gained such a start as he had been down in the cellar but twenty minutes before he detected smoke and everything seemed to be all right. His home was filled with furniture and bric-a-brac and he places the loss on the latter at $500. This and the damage to the house will be met by insurance.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY FALLS ON MONDAY

POSTOFFICE, BANKS AND SCHOOLS TO BE CLOSED.

Monday will be Lincoln's Birthday. The postoffice will close at 10 o'clock, there being one delivery in the morning by the carriers. The circulating department of the Public Library will be closed, but the reading room will be open in the afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock.

A chase will be held by the Watchung Hunt Club. The Men's Club, of the First Baptist church, Plainfield Camera Club and the Norwood Club will hold events at night.

In the afternoon and evening there will be performances of "Iolanthe," at the Casino. Miss Chapman will speak before the Women's Auxiliary at the Y. M. C. A.

The public schools in city and borough will be closed all day. The grocery and drug store will remain open all day.

Edward Coons a Benedict.

Edward George Coons, of this city, and Miss Eva May Lanning, of Washington, were married at the M. E. parsonage in the latter place last Saturday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Randolph in the presence of a few relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Coons will make their home in Plainfield.

OSHKOSH CHARITY BALL

Club's Benefit for Muhlenberg Hospital in May.

CHILDREN'S HOME GIFT

Organization Plans to be Permanent — Dance After Easter.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Oshkosh Club was held at the Casino, last night, when it was decided to make the organization a permanent one. At the same time all the affairs in connection with the recent show given at the Casino were closed up. Announcement was made that $250 of the net profits from the entertainment will be given to the Children's Home for the furnishing fund, and the balance will be kept in the club treasury for the present.

It was also decided to give a Charity Ball during May for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. This will be an elaborate affair. A number of minor events will also be arranged, including a dance which will be given after Easter.

The club has had a most successful season and the members are very anxious to continue the organization, giving entertainments from time to time.

Joseph M. Shellabarger, Harry Hall, George Ring, Harry Lovell, Harry McGee and Charles J. Fisk comprise the officers. They will have full charge of the club's affairs.

ARCHITECT NAMED FOR TRUST CO. BUILDING

GEORGE K. THOMPSON, OF NEW YORK, TO DESIGN STRUCTURE.

George Kramer Thompson, of New York, has been selected by The Plainfield Trust Company, as the architect for its handsome new bank building which will shortly be erected at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, which site was purchased a few months ago from the Randolph estate. While the plans have not yet been altogether decided upon, the new building promises to be one of the finest in New Jersey and will equal many to be found in New York, architecturally and as to convenience for the banking business.

The new building will occupy a good frontage on Park avenue and will extend back to include the late George W. Force property. There will also be provided a driveway to the institution from Second street. The building will be one story in height and will be occupied solely by The Plainfield Trust Company.

Mr. Thompson has had a wide and varied experience as an architect and stands high in his profession. Some of his work is found in the Empire Building, the Manhattan Life Insurance Company Building and Manhattan Savings Institution, of New York, and judging by these structures, it is predicted that the trust company's building will be an ornament to the city and one worthy of the progressive institution that is to house.

AGED DUNELLENITE SUCCUMBS TO GRIP

WILLIAM STEWART STEVENS DIES AT AGE OF EIGHTY-FOUR.

William Stewart Stevens, one of the oldest and best known residents of Dunellen, died at his home on Front street, that borough, yesterday. He was in his eighty-fourth year and had succumbed to the effects of an aggravated attack of grip. Dunellen had been his home for more than forty years and he was widely known in Plainfield through his business interests. The coal and lumber yard property at Front street and Washington avenue conducted by Garretson & Gray belonged to his wife, who died a year ago, and was maintained by him for many years.

Funeral services over the body will be held from his late home Monday morning at 9:30 and from the Dunellen Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

BASKET BALL TEAMS DINED

Trophies Presented at Celebration Last Night.

SOME GOOD SPEECHES

Talks by Rev. E. V. Stevenson, Dr. Norman Probasco, Lindsay Best and J. W. Gavett.

Concluding a scholastic basketball season which was in every respect the most successful ever conducted here, a dinner was given to the members of both the Interscholastic and Juvenile leagues by the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A., at the association last night. The affair was characterized both by the fact that the silver cups were presented to the winning teams at the conclusion of the dinner and by the fact that after dinner speeches appropriate to the occasion were made by prominent men.

The room was prettily decorated in the various school colors. Plainfield High School, North Plainfield High School, Leal's School and Whittier School were represented at the dinner by their first and second teams, the juniors of the Y. M. C. A. being also in attendance.

Joseph W. Gavett, president of the Y. M. C. A., presided at the meeting, and at the conclusion of the dinner, in a well worded speech, presented the cups, offered by Moraller & Son and another firm, to the winning teams, Leal's and Whittier schools. The cups were accepted by Charles Chapman, captain of Leal's School team, and by William Briggs, of the Whittier combination. Following the appropriate speeches in acceptance, Mr. Gavett introduced Lindsay Best, of the Plainfield High School faculty, who spoke on the subject of "Educational Effects of Athletics." It was an interesting address, in which the speaker emphasized particularly the meaning of true sport in its highest sense as an incentive to honesty, fairness, and self-control.

Mr. Best was followed by Dr. Norman Probasco, who, in an instructive talk, pictured "Athletics from a Physician's Point of View." Dr. Probasco pointed out the scientific reason for the pursuit of vigorous, healthy exercise, and referred to the effects of an existence in which exercise is extinct. "If a young man neglects to use his surplus energy in athletic exercise, this energy will show itself in the pursuit of habits which waste rather than build up," the speaker said.

Summing up the words of the two previous speakers, and combining in a strong and impressive speech, the best thoughts presented, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson made the concluding address, on the subject "The Moral Effect of Athletics."

Mr. Stevenson said in part: "I take particular pleasure in speaking on this subject because it is one in which I am personally interested. It is when a man learns to combine the spiritual and the physical, and to treat the body as the temple of the soul, that he becomes a strong, healthy man, morally, physically and intellectually. Diogenies went through the world looking for men with a lanthern; out Major, as he says, goes after men in a saloon; but we find the true man in the one who has combined the development of his moral and physical qualities, and in the pursuit of healthy, pure habits, has made a fit habitation for a healthy, pure soul."

Detailed Returns.

The official count shows that the 1,207 of the 1,271 votes cast at the special Assembly election were for Randolph Perkins, the only nominee, as follows: Elizabeth, 471; Plainfield, 174; Rahway, 86; Summits, 14; Westfield, 198; Cranford township, 40; Union township, 23; Clark township, 9; Fanwood township, 16; Linden township, 9; New Providence township, 8; New Providence borough, 18; Springfield township, 41; Fanwood borough, 7; Garwood borough, 7; Linden borough, 8; Mountainside borough, 9; Roselle borough, 6; Roselle Park borough, 2.

Will Settlie Williams' Estate.

Mrs. George Williams, of Watchung, has applied to Surrogate DeMond, of Somerset county, for letters of administration on her husband's estate, naming herself as administratrix. Mrs. Williams will continue the grocery business at Watchung and has placed her brother in charge. Yesterday she received $250 from the Gallia Council of Juniors and $1,000 from an insurance company, the amount of policies held by the murdered grocer.

The annual session of the New Jersey Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythians, will be held in Trenton next Wednesday and Thursday.

ELOPES WITH FATHER'S COACHMAN

Miss Mabel Hockridge Disappears and Writes of Marrying Servant.

A PLAINFIELD GIRL

Romance That Developed During Drives on Lonely Roads Near Esopus—Sleuths on Track.

By retaining detectives in the case it became known yesterday that Mabel Hockridge, daughter of William G. Hockridge, who until two years ago resided at 243 East Fifth street, is missing from her father's country estate near St. Remy, a village not far from Esopus. The day following her disappearance Mr. Hockridge received a note from her in which she announced that she had married Frank Tone, the family coachman.

This was a week ago, and the family conducted a quiet search in the hope that Miss Hockridge could be found and persuaded to return to her parents before her marriage to the coachman became known. The young couple have eluded pursuit, and Mr. Hockridge has called in detectives to assist him in the search.

The country folk around St. Remy who knew the girl, having seen her frequently during drives on which she was always accompanied by Tone, suspected some time ago a situation to which her family was apparently blind. Tone was not prepossessing, but it was apparent that Miss Hockridge had a tender regard for him.

He secured employment in the family shortly after Mr. Hockridge purchased the fine estate near St. Remy and removed from Plainfield. The residence was fitted up in luxurious style, and the family has lived there almost continuously since, preferring country life to that in the city. Mr. Hockridge is retained in a responsible position by a big Broadway concern.

His daughters were fond of driving and he provided them with equipages which were the admiration of the countryside. Miss Mabel is a decided brunette. Up to a few months ago she was content to drive her own horses in company with her sister. Her devotion to driving over little-traveled roads of late has been noticed, because of the fact that Coachman Tone, unaccompanied by other members of the family, was always present. Tone received permission from Mr. Hockridge just a week ago to visit relatives at Woodstock, a village in the Catskills. The morning he departed with a big valise, Miss Mabel announced her intention of spending the day with a friend at St. Remy.

She hailed the stage as it approached her home on its way to St. Remy, and entered. This action caused some comment in the family.

At night when the girl had not returned a search was immediately organized. At Kingston all trace of her was lost.

Mr. Hockridge received a letter from his daughter with the morning mail saying she had been married to Tone, and that they were going to visit his relatives at Wittenburg, in the Catskills.

Mr. Hockridge started in pursuit. Neither Mr. Hockridge nor the detectives have been able to learn who married the couple.

A search of Miss Mabel's room revealed that she had made ample preparation for the elopment. Much clothing, and her handsome gowns are missing. It is believed that Tone smuggled the girl's trousseau into the big valise which he carried away.

Bible Society Meets.

According to a custom observed every ten years, the Middlesex County Bible Society met at Perth Amboy, Thursday, and made plans to canvass the county to ascertain the homes in which there are no copies of the Bible. Local chairmen were named and they will organize the pastors and religious workers at once. Rev. S. K. Doolittle will have charge of the work in Dunellen.

KING HITTER WILL KEELER

Old Star of Plainfield Crescents Who Has a Record.

GREATEST BATTER

In 1903 He Was a $10,000 Man—Now Owns Property in Brooklyn and Saves His Coin.

Willie Keeler, known as the man who, perhaps, has less enemies than any professional baseball player, who was one of the stars of the old Crescents in this city, was born in Brooklyn in 1873, at 376 Pulaski street, where he still resides. He began playing baseball around Prospect Park, and soon became noted among the youngsters of that section as a phenomenal batter and fielder. The first regular team to which he was attached was the Brooklyn Rivals, a famous amateur team, in 1888.

He next joined the Acmes, of Brooklyn. He went from this club to the Rahway Club, and thence to the Crescents, of this city. He moved from here to the Binghamtons, from which he went to the New York Nationals, but was released by it to Brooklyn because the managers feared a left-hander would not be of much use as a fielder. Brooklyn later let him go for the same reason, and he went back to Binghamton. He signed with Baltimore for 1897, and there his career as one of the country's greatest batsmen and most popular players began. Keeler established himself for all time that season by batting .432 and leading the entire league in hitting.

The following year, with Baltimore, he again led the league, hitting that season .481. Keeler, in eight years that he has been in fast company, since 1897, never hit below .300, and in this time batted next to the highest percentage ever made by a batsman in a champion season. His mark of .432, made in 1897, has been surpased just once since 1876, Hugh Duffy, of Boston, in 1894, batted .498. The record was so great that it immediately won national fame for him and the name of Keeler was on every lip.

In 1899 he joined Brooklyn. He played there four seasons, batting .376 in 1899, .366 in 1900, .355 in 1901, .342 in 1902. The next year found him with the New York Americans at a figure said to be $10,000. This was in the war days, and he signed a two-year contract at that figure, or nearly that.

He batted .318 for the Yankees in 1903, his poorest year. In 1904 he came back strong again and hit at .343, being second to Lajoie in American League honors. Keeler has again been signed for 1905, at only a slightly reduced salary from the war-time price. Keeler is one of the players who saves his money and he already owns considerable real estate in Brooklyn.

NO LICENSE FOR GOFF IS MINISTERS' WISH

BIG REMONSTRANCE TO BE PRESENTED TO COMMON COUNCIL.

Notwithstanding the proposed action of the Common Council to adopt an ordinance to restrict the saloon district by an amendment offered by Councilman Tyler, the "reformers" in the Fourth ward are progressing steadily in getting signatures to the numerous petitions which will be presented to the Common Council as a remonstrance against the granting of a license to John J. Goff for his hotel on West Front street. There are about a dozen petitions being circulated by the temperance people in that ward, under the direction of the movement started by Rev. L. R. Howard, Rev. George Mooney and Rev. Robert Walker, representing Hope chapel, Monroe Avenue church and the Church of the Heavenly Rest respectively.

It will be necessary to have a special meeting to adopt the restricting ordinance finally, and as there is to be an adjourned meeting on Monday night, February 27, it is not known just now how Mr. Tyler proposes to have a special session. He will have to secure the special meeting this month in order to accomplish his purpose, that of cutting out all new applicants outside the prescribed district.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance to lay out and open Sycamore street from the southeasterly side line of East Fourth street to the northwesterly side line of East Fifth street," a copy of which is subjoined to this ordinance, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at 8 o'clock p. m., on the sixth day of March, A. D., nineteen hundred and five, at which time and place, prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Dated: Plainfield, N. J., February 6, 1905.

AN ORDINANCE

to lay out and open Sycamore street from the southeasterly side line of East Fourth street to the northwesterly side line of East Fifth street.

Whereas, the Common Council have judged and hereby do judge that the public good requires that Sycamore street should be laid out and opened between the points named in the title to this ordinance, therefore

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That a public street to be known as Sycamore street, be and the same is hereby ordered laid out and opened in said city as hereinafter specified, that is to say: The centre line of said street shall begin at an iron bar in the southeasterly side line of East Fourth street, where the same is intersected by the center line of Sycamore street as now laid out and opened, and running from said point in a magnetic course of south forty-four degrees and forty-four minutes east, a distance of three hundred, sixty-two and twenty-one one hundredths feet to an iron bar in the northwesterly side line of East Fifth street and there to end.

Said street shall be fifty feet in width, that is to say, twenty-five feet on each side of said center line; said center and side lines of said street are delineated on a certain map made by Andrew J. Gavett, City Surveyor, and filed with the City Clerk, February 6th, 1905, entitled "Map showing proposed laying out and opening of Sycamore street from East Fourth street to East Fifth street, City of Plainfield, N. J., January, 1905," to which map reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken for the laying out and opening of said Sycamore street, (the larger part of said street having already been dedicated to the public,) include that part of the property now or formerly of Elizabeth Chapin described as follows: Beginning at the intersection of the northwesterly side line of East Fifth street with the northeasterly side line of Sycamore street as proposed, and running thence along the said side line as proposed, north forty-four degrees and forty-four minutes west a distance of seventy and eighty-five one hundredths feet to a point in line of lands now or formerly of Charles H. Hand; thence along said line south forty degrees and thirty-one minutes west, distant one hundred ten and eight one hundredths feet to the westerly corner of the said property now or formerly of said Elizabeth Chapin; thence along the line of said property, south forty-four degrees and fifty-five minutes east, a distance of sixty-nine and forty-eight one hundredths feet to a point in the northwesterly side line of East Fifth street; thence along said side line of East Fifth street, north forty-nine degrees and seven minutes east, a distance of nine and eighty-four one hundredths feet to the place of beginning.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken and the lines of the proposed street as the same is hereinabove ordered to be laid out and opened, are shown on said map on file with the City Clerk, hereinabove referred to and made a part hereof.

AN ORDINANCE

to establish the side lines along West Second street from Park avenue to Liberty street and the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the side lines on either side of West Second street, from Park avenue to Madison avenue, shall be twelve and twenty-five one hundredths feet from the curb lines as now established, making the sidewalks eight and twenty-five one hundredths feet wide and leaving for areas a width of four feet. That the side lines on the northwesterly side of said street from Madison avenue to Liberty street, and on the southeasterly side of said street from Madison avenue to the Central Railroad of New Jersey shall be thirteen and seventy-five one hundredths feet from the curb lines as now established, making the sidewalks nine and seventy-five one hundredths feet wide and leaving for areas a width of four feet; said side lines being distant twenty-eight and seventy-five one hundredths feet at right angles from the center line of said street and parallel therewith.

Sec. 2. That hereafter all coping, grating, flagging, concrete or other material for areas along said portion of said street shall be laid upon the established sidewalk grade.

Sec. 3. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances, so far as they conflict with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same are hereby repealed.

ESTATE OF Jeremiah Manning, deceased. Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the County of Union, made on the application of the undersigned, administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscriber under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from the thirtieth day of December, 1904, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscriber.

Is it Right?

Is it right that a property owner should lose $4 20 to let a dealer make 50 cents? A dealer makes 50 cents more on fourteen gallons of ready-for-use paint, at $1.50 per gallon, than our agent does on eight gallons of L. & M. Paint and six gallons of linseed oil, which makes fourteen gallons of the best paint in the world, at $1 20 per gallon; the property owner loses just $4 20. Is it right?

It only requires 4 gallons of L. & M. and 3 gallons linseed oil to paint a moderate sized house.

NEW ORLEANS RACING.

Baywood Beaten In Feature Event by Redman.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.—The track of the New Orleans Jockey club shows no improvement and was very heavy, with treacherous footing. Bisque in the first race and Lady Free Knight in the second fell. Both horses and riders escaped injury. Baywood, who tired so badly in the heavy going that he could not stand off Redman's sturdy challenge, was the only beaten favorite. Summary:

First Race.—Sanction, first; Hershman, second; Bannock Bell, third.

Second Race.—Redman, first; Baywood, second; Merry Acrobat, third.

Third Race.—Flattery, first; Chief Archibald, second; Blue Grass Lad, third.

Fourth Race.—Lampoon, first; Fitzbriller, second; Spec, third.

Fifth Race.—Contentious, first; Floral Wreath, second; Mary Worth, third.

Sixth Race.—Knowledge, first; Dixie Lad, second; Plautus, third.

Golf Association Elects Officers.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The United States Golf association held its annual meeting at Delmonico's last night, 288 clubs, of which 31 were associate, being represented. President G. H. Windler of the Brookline (Mass.) Country club presided. The following officers were elected: President, Ransom H. Thomas, Morristown (N. J.) Golf club; vice presidents, Albert L. Ripley, Oakley Country club, Boston, and Theodore Sheldon, Chicago Golf club; secretary, William Fellowes Morgan, Baltusrol Golf club, Short Hills, N. J.; treasurer, Samuel V. Hoebner, Philadelphia Cricket club.

New York Curlers Won Medal.

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 11.—The Thistle Curling club of New York won the Gordon championship medal last night after two days' play. The Terrace City club of Yonkers, the Thistles and Utica were tied for first place. In the finals Utica defeated Terrace City, 21 to 8, and were in turn beaten by the Thistles, 15 to 9.

NOT ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Efforts Being Made to Have Date of Rudolph's Execution Changed.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 11.—Efforts are being made to induce Governor Folk to change the date set for the execution of William Rudolph to some other day than St. Patrick's day. Rudolph was convicted, with his partner, George Collins, of the murder of Detective Schumacher over a year ago near Union, Mo., when Schumacher trailed them down as bank robbers.

Collins was hanged last year at Union shortly after Rudolph had made a daring escape from the St. Louis jail. Rudolph was finally recaptured at Leavenworth, Kan., brought back and convicted.

His case was appealed to the supreme court, which sustained the verdict of the lower court, and Rudolph was recently sentenced to be hanged on March 17. Then it was discovered that Rudolph was sentenced to die on St. Patrick's day, and sentiment was aroused in his behalf to the extent of interceding with Governor Folk to have the date changed.

Representative J. M. Hennessy, Jr., of St. Louis placed the matter before the governor, pointing out that an execution on St. Patrick's day would tend to throw a spirit of gloom over the day's festivities. Word was received last night from Jefferson City that Governor Folk is inclined to delay the hanging.

Governor Folk said, "I don't think any man should be hanged in the state of Missouri on the natal day of Ireland's parton saint."

Bill Against Divorcees.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Representative Morrell of Pennsylvania introduced in the house a bill providing that no person shall hereafter be appointed to any position in the government service who at the time of his or her nomination is or who at any time antecedent thereto has been divorced for any cause save where the person divorced is the innocent party in a case of adultery.

A FATAL THIRTEEN

Chicago's "Bluebeard" Owns Up to Many Marriages.

COURTED SISTER AS WIFE LAY DEAD

Four Days After One Wife's End, Possibly by Foul Play, Hoch Married Her Sister and Then Fled With Her Money.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Confronted by living witnesses of his duplicity at the coroner's investigation into the death of Mrs. Walcker-Hoch, his last victim, Johann Hoch, the much married man, according to the police, has admitted his marriage to thirteen women in the last ten years. Eight of these women who at one time bore the name of the alleged bigamist are now dead, but Hoch declares they died natural deaths and is firm in his denial that he poisoned any one of them. The identification of Hoch by several of his victims and their friends were developments at the hearing of the coroner's jury, and at the conclusion of the examination of witnesses last night Coroner Hoffman announced that the inquest would be postponed until next Wednesday.

The principal witness at the examination was Mrs. Fischer-Hoch, a sister of the woman over whom the inquest was being held. The witness is the woman Hoch married a few days after the death of Mrs. Walcker-Hoch. In her testimony the witness explained in minute detail the circumstances surrounding the death of her sister, but there was nothing in the evidence to prove that Hoch was responsible for the woman's death.

The witness told how Hoch courted her, married her within four days of the sister's death and then fled with $750 of witness' money. Prior to wedding Hoch witness had ten children by a former husband.

"At the time of my sister's death, after the doctor had gone," said the witness, "Hoch cried and said: 'Now I am a widower again, all alone in the world. I do not know what to do. I have done my duty as a man and would have spent my entire fortune to have saved her life.' I told Hoch that, as far as I could see, he had done his duty. The undertaker came then, and the body was taken downstairs and prepared for burial. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon he said: 'Now, my dear, I am alone in the world. You stick to me, and I will make you happy. I will do everything for you I possibly can. Your sister told me that you were a good business woman and when things get straightened out I will open a hotel and we will work together hand in hand. It would be a pleasure to me to be a father to your ten children. Then they will be our children. I want a wife who has had a bad husband so she will appreciate a good one—so she will appreciate me when she gets me. My wife is dead. The dead belong to the dead and the living to the living.

"'If Marie had not insulted you I would have mourned six weeks for her, but under the circumstances we must marry right away. You stick by me, and I will send for your children in Germany and we will all live together.'

"I told him I was surprised that he wanted to be a father to so many children. He appeared hurt to think that I doubted his willingness to be a father to my children."

During the investigation Jacob J. Ness of Cincinnati identified Hoch as the man he had known in that place in 1890 who married two German widows under the name of Schmitt.

Lehigh Denies Excessive Rates.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The hearing in the case of William R. Hearst against the anthracite coal carrying roads involving the question of alleged excessive coal rates, was continued before the interstate commerce commission here. Francis Gowen, counsel for the Lehigh Valley railroad, declared that there was no pool among the coal carrying roads; that there was no combination and no discrimination. He also contended that the rates at which the coal was carried were reasonable.

Salvation Lass Guilty of Perjury.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Inga Hanson, the Salvation Army girl who for five years has been involved in sensational litigation with the Chicago City Railway company, has been found guilty of perjury. She sued the railway corporation for damages on account of injuries received by her in a street railway accident which, she alleged, deprived her of speech, sight, hearing and power of locomotion. She eventually lost the suit and claimed to have been restored to health by a miracle.

Collision on New Haven Road.

SOUTH KENT, Conn., Feb. 11.—In a head-on collision on the Berkshire division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad near here between a northbound milk train and a southbound extra freight both engines were smashed, several cars were wrecked and Engineer Barclay and Conductor Warner of the freight were severely injured and taken to the Danbury hospital. A misunderstanding of orders is said to have caused the accident.

Damage by a Twelve Foot Rise.

BEATTYVILLE, Ky., Feb. 11.—The crest of a twelve foot rise in the Kentucky river has passed here. Several lumber firms lost heavily in logs by the breaking of booms and the releasing of logs. There was no loss of life in this vicinity.

VLADIVOSTOK NEXT

Japanese Preparing to Capture Siberian Stronghold.

BOTH ARMIES FORTIFYING LINES.

Opposing Forces Closely In Touch on Sandepas-Shakhe Position. Fighting Zone Has Been Made Desolate.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Dispatches from the headquarters of the Russian army at Huanshan say that at present the attention of the Japanese is mainly concentrated on the narrow line east and west of the railway, where also pass the two main roads to Mukden. The armies are closely in touch all along the line of Sandepas, Paohsingtun, Chenlianpu, Liuchangtun and Shakhe. The region is entirely deserted by natives, but their stone houses and stout walls have been turned into veritable fortresses. The declivities have been iced and are almost unclimbable even without obstructions and abatis.

The approaches to the streets of the villages can be swept by machine guns hidden behind thick walls. Notwithstanding the number of these quasi fortresses the Japanese are not slackening their energy in intrenching, but persist in the work in the daytime in the face of Russian batteries, and at night the loud noise of the rumbling of carts gives evidence of their untiring labors. The Russians are equally persistent, and besides harassing the Japanese working parties with rifle and cannon fire they themselves are fortifying and refortifying.

The Japanese continue to scatter proclamations in the Russian lines, and these papers are also openly distributed by Chinese in the streets of Mukden.

The Japanese measures for the blockade of Vladivostok, such as darkening the lighthouses and guarding the straits, excite no alarm, as a number of vessels which have succeeded in evading blockaders have filled the fortress with ample stores for the possible contingency of a siege. The elevation of the Vladivostok fortress to the first rank shows that Russians expect it will play an important role the coming summer, but no one predicts when the siege will begin.

More Trouble For Rojestvensky.

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius, Feb. 11.—Arrivals from Nossi Be (off the coast of Madagascar) report that the Russian second Pacific squadron was still there on Feb. 2. A dispute had arisen between Vice Admiral Rojestvensky and the German companies which are coaling the fleet. The admiral, who is well supplied with coal, wishes the colliers to follow the fleet, but they refuse to do so on account of the too close proximity of the Japanese squadron. The Russian ships will not leave Nossi Be before Feb. 28. They are getting little news from St. Petersburg, and the crews are dispirited owing to the fall of Port Arthur.

Senate Confirms Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The senate in executive session made the following confirmations: Frank W. Leach to be collector of customs for the district of Little Egg Harbor, N. J.; David F. Wilber, New York, to be consul general of the United States at Singapore, Straits Settlement. Postmasters: New Jersey—Alexander B. Roberts, Tenafly. Pennsylvania — David Maclay, Chambersburg; William F. Eckbert, Jr., Lewiston. Colonel David P. Heap, corps of engineers, is placed on the retired list, with the rank of brigadier general.

Would Keep Isle of Pines.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Senator Carmack has introduced a joint resolution declaring that it is the sense of congress that it is unwise to take any further steps toward the transfer of the Isle of Pines to Cuba. In the preamble it is set forth that more than 3,000 American citizens have vested rights in the island and that 600 Americans are actually residing on the island. He says these Americans settled there relying on the statement of the war department that the island was territory of the United States.

Storm's Ravage at St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 11.—The schooner Clarence Smith has been driven ashore at Boxey point and is a total loss. The crew reached shore badly frozen, and it is feared that one may die. The crew of the schooner Vulcan, also ashore, have been rescued after spending a freezing night in the rigging. The schooner Energy is still intact, but has drifted 200 yards nearer the shore and, it is feared, will go to pieces.

Elijah III. on Tour In Cuba.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Feb. 11.—Alexander Dowie of Chicago arrived here on a tour of inspection of the Zion colonies. He is investigating conditions here with a view to establishing an enormous Cuban plantation. Mr. Dowie has left for Havana, and from thence he will go to Mexico.

First Death Sentence on Woman.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 11.—Lusa Nevares, aged twenty, has been sentenced to be hanged on April 15 for infanticide. This is the first instance in which the death sentence has been imposed upon a woman in Porto Rico.

Senator Wright Arrested.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 11.—State Senator Lil Wright, indicted by the grand jury of Sacramento county on a charge of bribery, has been arrested here. He furnished a bond.

RIOTERS SHOT DOWN

Russian Troops Fired Volleys Into Crowd at Sosnovice.

EXPECT A GENERAL RAILROAD STRIKE

Twenty-eight Dead, Thirty-six Seriously Hurt at Katherinen Works. Czar Working on a Parliamentary Scheme.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 11.—A special dispatch from Sosnovice says: "When a mob here invaded the yard of the Katherinen works demanding that the workmen in charge of the electrical machinery there join in the strike a company of soldiers intervened and a Polish officer repeatedly called upon the people to disperse. They refused to leave unless they were accompanied by the workmen. It is said that a rioter menaced the officer with a knife, whereupon he gave the order to his company to fire, with the result that twenty-eight persons, including a high school pupil who happened to be passing, fell dead and thirty-six were seriously wounded. These latter were removed to a hospital, where five of them have since died. A number of others were slightly wounded. Many were wounded in the back, and evidently they were trying to escape.

"A large quantity of dynamite has been stolen from the explosive stores of the Casimir mines, it is supposed, by strikers."

A Lodz dispatch says that four persons were killed and sixty-eight wounded in a riot at the Cheibler factory and that seven were killed and fifty wounded at the Marcus Kohn factory, in that city.

The chief conflict occurred at Louis Geyer's factory, where troops were lined up to prevent the men from entering to demand their pay.

The strikers generally are enraged at the refusal of other manufacturers to give them their pay, and several other encounters between mobs and troops are reported from different directions. In these a number of people are said to have been wounded.

The greatest alarm prevails here. The shops are closed and windows boarded up.

A general railroad strike is expected to commence on Feb. 14 throughout Poland.

The students of the Technological institute met last night and resolved in favor of constitutional reforms and stopping the war and agreed to resume their studies provided there were no repressive measures against the professors or students.

The students of the seminary, to which are sent grand dukes who are destined for the highest offices of the church, recently adopted a resolution condemning the bloodshed of Jan. 22, censuring the holy synod's manifesto attributing the labor movement to foreign instigation and demanding a constitution. The rector of the seminary has not been dismissed.

According to dispatches from Kattowitz, Russian Poland, a collision occurred between 15,000 strikers and the military at the Russian station of Skarzysko, in which twenty-four strikers were killed and forty wounded. The military also fired on strikers at Ostrowicz, but the casualties in that case are not known.

A strike is expected to break out on the Warsaw-Vienna railway.

A dispatch from Sosnovice says: "A procession of strikers from Zagorge going to Siedlce, where a demonstration had been planned, was dispersed by the military, who freely used their swords and whips. Troops continue to arrive in large numbers. The strikers have called a great meeting for tomorrow, which, it is feared, will cause more trouble."

Emperor Nicholas has received in audience Count Tolstoi's son, Count Leo Deonvitch, who brought his father's draft of a scheme for a "people's assembly." The emperor told Deonvitch that he himself had been working on a similar scheme, which would shortly be put into execution.

Meat Packers Cornered Eggs.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—It is estimated that there are 45,000,000 eggs in cold storage in Chicago. Notwithstanding this a famine in the product exists, and householders are paying 38 cents a dozen. The big meat packers are said to have a corner on the market. Last spring, when eggs were cheap, the meat packers and a few heavy dealers put away hundreds of thousands of cases of eggs.

Want to Extradite Banker Hunt.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Governor Higgins gave a hearing on the requisition of the governor of Illinois for the extradition of William H. Hunt of New York city, president of the Pan-American bank of Chicago, who has been indicted by the grand jury of Cook county, Ill., on the charge of complicity in the receipt of deposits after the bank was known to be insolvent. Governor Higgins reserved decision.

Tenth Infantry Officer Disgraced.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The president has approved the sentence of the court martial in the case of Second Lieutenant P. H. McDonald, Tenth infantry, and he has been dismissed from the army and ordered to be imprisoned for two years on account of financial irregularities.

Girls In Panic at Oswego Fire.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Feb. 11.—The Ontario Knitting mills here, owned by the Kendall Knitting company, have been damaged $3,000 by fire. About 300 girls working in adjoining buildings were panic stricken, but all escaped unhurt.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 11, 1905.

Although Monday, Lincoln's birthday, is a holiday, The Daily Press will be published.

At the special election for the lone Assembly candidate, Roselle Park cast 2 votes, Roselle 6, Fanwood 7, and Garwood 7. Was there ever more of a finale?

COMMENTS ON TYLER BILL

SHERIFF B. FRANK CORIELL—"I cannot see what is to be gained by the adoption of Mr. Tyler's ordinance. The question of granting or refusing licenses should be left to the Common Council as at present and an arbitrary measure would not result in any good."

WILLIAM S. TYLER———.

FORMER COUNCILMAN W. A. GARRIGUES—"I have always favored the restriction of the saloon, in fact I personally am opposed to the saloon, and I cannot see that Mr. Tyler's ordinance will do any harm. However, I do not believe in anything that will tend to an injustice to the saloonkeepers. We talked the ordinance over when I was a member of the Common Council and it was then believed that it would be a wise measure."

REV. M. E. JACKSON, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, in speaking of the proposed ordinance, gives this as his opinion: "I am opposed to hell, but if the Common Council proposes to have one let it be big enough for all the subjects."

PERSONAL.

Miss May Fairchild, of Grandview avenue, is out after a week's illness.

Miss Cheney will deliver a lecture at Tuell Inn on Thursday, February 16

Frank Linke, of West Second street, has partially recovered from a week's illness.

Miss Dora Allgair, of this city, has returned from a visit with friends at Raritan.

Mrs. Andrew Vanderbeek, of East Front street, has recovered from a recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chamberlain, of this city, have been visiting relatives at High Bridge.

Miss Charlotte Wilson, of West Sixth street, has recovered from a recent severe illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Henderson, of High Bridge, have been visiting relatives in Plainfield.

E. P. Kellog, of Park avenue, one the eldest milkmen in the city, is quite ill at his home.

Justice W. E. Mattison, of Somerset street, continues to improve under treatment at the hospital.

City Treasurer W. F. Arnold, who has been detained at home for a few days with the grip, is able to attend to business again.

Charles Conover, of Elmwood place, who has been detained at home with the grip during the past week, is much improved.

Miss Almira R. Compton, of Pluckemin, who is well known here, and Wm. Ludlow, of Peapack, will be married at the home of the bride on Wednesday, Feb. 22.

Orange Field Club Meeting.

Plans for the spring baseball team were further discussed at a recent meeting of the Orange Field Club officers, and it was decided to hold a general meeting of the club on Thursday evening, February 16, in the Hotel Kensington. The object of the meeting will be to continue the discussion on the subject of club rooms, and if possible to make a satisfactory selection. The names of all candidates for the baseball team will be filed at this meeting, and an survey of the material for the team will be made by Captain George Conover and Manager McVey. The committee has several important business propositions to submit before the club.

Twenty manganese steel safes of various sizes have been shipped by the Taylor Iron & Steel Company, of High Bridge, to the Manganese Steel Safe Company.

WAGNER RECITAL AT MRS. ATTERBURY'S

MISS CADY PLEASES PLAINFIELD MUSIC LOVERS.

The Wagner recital given yesterday afternoon by Miss Harriette Cady, of New York, at the home of Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury, on West Seventh street, attracted an appreciative audience of music lovers. The exceptionally fine work of Miss Cady in her interpretation of Wagner's compositions, was received with hearty applause.

The programme included "Evening Star," from Tannhauser; "Spring Song," from the Flying Dutchman; selections from "Reingold," "Die Walkure," and the funeral march from the Gotterdamerung, and each selection was given perfectly and with true expression.

Among those attending the recital were Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Booth, Mrs. O. T. Waring, Miss Florence Waring, Mrs. Charles S. Lee, the Misses Lee, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mrs. Edward Stevens, Miss Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Ackerman, Miss Maude VanBoskerck and Miss Elizabeth VanBoskerck.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

One-third of the active membership of the Mt. Olive Baptist church has been ill this winter. Nearly all are now convalescing.

H. S. Miller will meet the Christian Workers' Bible Class at the Y. M. C. A. building tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. All men interested are invited.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning and evening, and the regular services of the church will be held.

The Young People's Association of the First Baptist church held a meeting last night of unusual interest. There was a good attendance and several short helpful addresses were also made.

John LeMatty will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Misses Clyde B. and Marguerite Burnet and E. D. Young will render special vocal and instrumental music.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Grace M. E. church, a fair and entertainment will be held in the church on Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 22 and 23. There will be many attractive features.

Mrs. G. W. Saums, the efficient superintendent of the Home Department, Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, has been ordered by her family physician to resign her position. Mrs. Saums has been very ill and is only now convalescing, which accounts for her physician's orders.

With the sanction of the rector, the Men's Club, of Grace church, has arranged for a special service tomorrow evening at 7:30 (Lincoln's birthday.) The preacher will be the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Grace church, Orange, and Arch-Deacon of Newark. Dr. Mann is an extremely forcible preacher, and is well known, not only in his own church, but in the community at large. He is the president of the Children's Aid and Protective Society of the Oranges, and has taken an active part in many of the public movements for social welfare. The service will be of special interest to men, though not exclusively for them. A general invitation is extended to all persons who desire to attend the service, and the sittings will be free. Members of the Men's Club will be in attendance at the door, for the purpose of seating visitors.

Legislative Manual for 1905.

The "Legislative Manual" issued by Thomas F. Fitzgerald, of Trenton, for 1905, came out yesterday, and is is superior to all its predecessors. There one may read how New Jersey's electoral vote was cast from the beginning of the nation, the names of all the Governors, Congressmen and State officials, biographies of the present Governor and his associates in the government, sketches of the various State institutions, election tables, population, etc.

Farm Transferred.

P. H. Latourette, the auctioneer, sold the farm owned by the late Israel Coon at public auction, yesterday, the sale taking place on the premises near Sterling. The farm contains forty-eight acres and was purchased by Mr. Coon's son, David Coon, for $2,500

Returned to Old Schedule.

The Public Service Corporation has returned to its old schedule in operating the large cars between Newark and Dunellen, and the small cars have been sent back to their old runs.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

Under the auspices of Thomas C. Bodine's Sunday-school class of the Presbyterian church, a delightful social and entertainment was given at the chapel last night, at which W. J. Campbell was the center of attraction. In the capacity of a reader and humorist, Mr. Campbell held his audience through an hour of thorough enjoyment, and kept them in constant laughter by his humorous recitations. Among the selections which he gave was "The Settler's Story," which won much applause. His part on the programme was interspersed with musical selections, which were also good. Refreshments were served.

The regular meeting of the Friendship Circle will be held Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Elizabeth Dunham will entertain. There will be the usual transaction of business followed by a social hour. Tea will be served.

Howard Craig, of Front street, represented the Plainfield High School in a preliminary meeting last night, at the Y. M. C. A., in the interest of the indoor athletic meet to be held among the Plainfield schools in March.

The chicken supper, which will be given by the young people of the M. E. church Thursday evening, will be one of the most attractive of the church's social affairs. The committee is planning for a large attendance.

Considering the small attendance on account of the stormy weather, the members of Lakeside Council, D. of L., feel gratified over the financial success of the social Thursday evening.

There will be a union temperance meeting at the First Baptist church tomorrow under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Rev. W. W. Casselberry will be in charge of the affair.

The Junior Auxiliary, of Holy Innocent's church, will meet this afternoon. Tomorrow afternoon the Holy Communion will be observed at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. David Richmond, of New York, are expected to return to their home next week after an extended visit with Mrs. H. J. Swackhamer.

Mrs. T. C. Bodine will entertain the Women's Missionary Society, of the Presbyterian church, on Tuesday afternoon, at its next regular meeting.

Mrs. Abbott entertained the card club this afternoon at its bi-weekly meeting. The afternoon was spent in the usual social manner.

Miss Iva Dayton, of New Market, has been confined to her home by illness.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of Albert Brown, a former resident of this place, but for a number of years past residing in Plainfield, were held in the Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. T. Moore-Smith had charge of the services, which were attended by a large number of the deceased's former townsmen as well as friends from Plainfield. Mr. Brown had passed the three score years of allotted time and as he was wont to say, never knew a day of serious illness during that time. Two weeks ago he was taken ill with a severe cold which soon developed symptoms of pneumonia. He was detained at home for several days, but the confinement was chafing, so he went out. Finally friends prevailed upon him to enter Muhlenberg Hospital. The disease had made such inroads into his rugged constitution that the doctors gave but little hopes for his recovery. He gradually sank and passed away Tuesday afternoon. The deceased leaves but one son, Louis, of New York, his wife having died nearly fifteen years ago. Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery, the pall-bearers being Robert Walpole, Benjamin Clark, Edward L. Hand, Joseph Clark, Abram Wade and George Madden, of New York.

After an illness of a few days, Mrs. Alvah Ryno died yesterday afternoon at her home as the result of a stroke of paralysis. Mrs. Ryno, who has been a resident of this village for a number of years, was stricken Monday, and from the first her condition was serious on account of her advanced age. She leaves a husband, having been married to Alvah Ryno fifty-five years ago. She is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. John Rogers, of Brooklyn, her former place of residence. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

The public school and the town generally will observe Monday, Lincoln's Birthday, as a holiday. The gun club holds a holiday shoot during the afternoon. The High School scholars hold a cake and fancy goods sale in Excelsior Hall for the benefit of the Public Library, the sale being on from 3 to 10 p. m. As the Public Library is a town improvement in which all are interested, the sale should be well patronized.

Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Drew Theological Seminary, will preach at the M. E. church tomorrow morning and night. The pastor will preach in Burlington N. J., under the auspices of the Missionary Board of the M. E. Church in the United States.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be as usual: Sunday-school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U meeting, 7:15; evening sermon, 7:45.

Rev. Mr. Halloran, of Elizabeth, presiding elder of this district, had charge of the quarterly conference meeting held last night in the Methodist church.

Josie Delnero, who has been detained at home for the past two months with a fractured limb, is able to get around now with the aid of crutches.

A number of young people from here are planning to attend the dance of the Berkely Heights Social Club to be held tonight in the large hall at that place.

The corps of teachers of the school are attending the Teachers' Institute meeting being held today in the Morrell street school, Elizabeth.

The members of the Baptist Sunday-school are arranging to hold an entertainment in the church on Monday night, February 20.

Fanwood Council, R. A., entertain the Grand Council officers at the semi-monthly meeting to be held Tuesday night.

Leftus T. Hollingsworth is convalescent from his recent serious illness, which for a week was considered critical.

Miss Mattie Hull, of Plainfield, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hull, of Front street.

The township's annual report will be ready for distribution the coming week.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Charles Wakefield, the happy miller, delivered by teamsters yesterday morning, two loads of hay to Howard Snowden, of Piscataway, but before arriving at the place both loads were upset in the snow.

February 15 has been fixed by Justice Fort as the day for the trial of the election officers of New Brunswick who failed to hold an election.

Farmers who believe that an accumulation of ice on the limbs of trees indicates a large fruit crop, now hold high expectations.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will open as usual at 10:30 and 7:45.

Lincoln's Birthday Event.

"Iolanthe" or "The Peer and the Peri," one of the most tuneful of all the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, will be given in its entirety by the New York Juvenile Opera Company at the Casino, Monday afternoon and evening—Lincoln's Birthday. The organization, as before related in these columns, is said to be most remarkable in the presentation of this work, evoking great praise from press and public in the several cities where they have performed. The orchestra, costumes and accessories of the company are complete in every particular and a splendid entertainment may be anticipated. Reserved seats are on sale at Armstrong's up to an hour before opening of doors at Casino.

YOUNG MAN'S GAY LIFE AS A GIRL

ATTENDS BALLS IN BEWITCHING FEMININE ATTIRE.

FOOLED WOMEN AND MEN.

Consternation Among the Former Because of Secrets Divulged—Men Who Made Love Are Sheepish.

Pittsburg.—"Miss H. V. Ramsey," for a long time the most graceful waltzer, and who appeared to be one of the most decorous maidens at public balls, was discovered to be a young man, 20 years of age, masquerading in female attire. He deceived police officials, dancing masters and the numerous young men who have taken him home and whispered soft nothings in his ear, besides hundreds of women who met him at the various ballrooms and dancing academies. His discovery resulted in a riot on the south side, and he was saved from disfigurement by a woman who was a school friend of his.

Attired as a woman "Miss Ramsey" bought his skirts in one of the most prominent downtown department stores, securing his high-heeled French shoes by saying he wanted them for a masquerade; terrified a Wylie avenue hairdresser into making a wig of Titian hue that fitted him and was fined $10 or 30 days to the workhouse as a suspicious character. Some time later this anomaly had the assurance to ask the magistrate to lend him the money with which to pay the fine.

"Miss Ramsey" attended a ball in a south side hall. There he was discovered to be William Henry McIntosh, aged 20, of Thirty-fourth and Carson streets, although when arrested by Police Lieut. Werner he gave the name of Patrick McIntosh. He was attired in a waist, which he smilingly acknowledged he himself had made, and a hat he had trimmed.

August Kreil, who conducts dances on the south side, refused to believe his eyes when confronted with McIntosh at the south side police station.

"She, or he, or it," he stammered confusedly, "was the best dancer and the most decorous woman I ever had on the floor."

McIntosh declared he donned female garb simply for the fun that was in it. According to his mother, who appeared at the hearing, he frequently had been expostulated with by her for donning his disguise and coming home at a late hour escorted by fashionable young men. He admits it was also known to several young men in the neighborhood of Thirty-fourth street that he was going about in disguise, and that they often gave his "escorts" the laugh.

McIntosh naively admitted that for two years he had been donning female attire three or four times a week in daytime and at balls and that he had been kissed and hugged by most of the gallants who attend dances without them finding him out. He said few ever suspected him until some one told on him. The women mobbed him, trying to scratch out his eyes, but a girl friend, who attended the Wickersham school with him and who knew that he was not a girl, threw her arms around his neck and saved him from the clamoring women.

When arranged for a hearing Magistrate Vichstain began to condole with the fine-looking young woman brought before him, and an onlooker audibly remarked that there was something strange when she was brought from the men's department. It took the lifting of the wig and explanations to convince the magistrate and the audience. "Miss Ramsey" was a small girl, apparently, with a mass of dark red hair tied with a large blue ribbon. The waist and skirt were dark and the shoes, she smilingly remarkerd, were "the smallest size, of course." Except the policeman, most of the people in the courtroom believed that a young woman was being sentenced.

McIntosh has neither brothers nor sisters, and says that his love for female attire came naturally to him. He states that the first time he tried it was the first "open" celebration of Hallowe'en in Pittsburg, and that he carried it on from that time, taking the disguise more and more frequently. He admits attending many dancing schools and open balls in Pittsburg and Alleghany, going to ice cream parlors and taking trolley rides in the last two years, and says he did it for the pleasure of the dancing.

How he acquired his female art of putting hairpins in his wig, putting a stray strand into place, holding pins in his teeth, getting into a skirt in the proper fashion and many other things he will not say.

"It just comes naturally," he smiles.

He declares he never used rouge for his complexion, and, in fact, nothing except cream and powder. He has a handsome, effeminate face, with fine eyes and eyelashes and fine teeth. He claims to have been a stenographer for the Pullman company once, and also for a store in Sixth street.

Dressed in his female masquerade McIntosh was suddenly confronted by 18 South side young woman who knew him as "Miss Ramsey" at balls. When his wig was removed and the erstwhile dancers realized that the "girl" who had been their confidant was a man there was a scene that was ludicrous in the extreme. As the news was bruited abroad that "Miss Ramsey," the belle of many ballrooms, was a young man there was the utmost consternation in dancing circles.

McIntosh seemed not the least perturbed, but rather flattered, at the attention he created. Crowds tried to obtain permission to see him, but these Inspector Bernard McStay refused to gratify.

McIntosh was such a curiosity at the South Side police station that he was several times requested to change his clothes from those of a man to those of a woman. When he complained that he had been given nothing to eat good meals were furnished him on several occasions, but he refused to touch them. Then he got mad, and, as it happened, he was wearing his female attire when the fit struck him. The result was that he refused to change his apparel at the request of the officials, and all night long sat in his cell garbed as a comely young woman.

When the patrol wagon was called in the morning to take McIntosh to jail he was still dressed as a woman, although he refused to wear the bedraggled hat he had on at the ball. Instead he perched his man's fedora jauntily on his curls and set out in that rather rakish fashion. On the way he was the observed of all the other prisoners. When he reached the jail he was somewhat nervous, blinking his eyes and wringing his hands nervously, so that when Warden Lewis first saw him he did not suspect the trickery being practiced on him. The warden said:

"The deception was so complete at first I thought it was a nervous woman, but after I had ordered the prisoner to be taken to the matron's side of the jail I had an inspiration and ran in. The matron had just started to meet the prisoner and in a commanding voice, as if I knew all about it, I ordered the prisoner to 'take off that wig.' To even my surprise, the prisoner did, disclosing the close-cropped hair of a young man. The matron even while I was ordering the prisoner to take off the hair was asking the victim if it was 'Mrs.' or 'Miss' McIntosh. I did not think that the prisoner was a proper person to put in jail, and so refused to take him from the officers who brought him from the South side."

SURGEONS' BALL IS A GREWSOME ORGY.

Horrors of the Dissecting Room and Operating Table Depicted with Grotesque Surgical Wit.

Paris.—The annual ball of the house surgeons of Paris hospitals was this year more grewsome than ever before, being so morbid, in fact, that many of its details are utterly indescribable. It was a saturnalia of grimy, grotesque surgical wit, in which all the horrors of the dissecting-room and the operating table were caricatured, and the latest discoveries in bacteriology impersonated.

The parade of cars representing the several hospitals was led by a procession representing Dr. Piot, submerged in a mass of terrifying microbes. Andral hospital showed Prof. Metchnikoff ladling out curdled milk as the specific for eternal youth. Laribosiere represented the most famous doctors of Paris, each bearing emblems vividly depicting his specialty. The Enfantes Malades sent a procession of horrible deformities.

The prize, however, was won by Necker hospital with a float entitled "Entente Cardiaque," which might have been inspired by the shade of Baudelaire. In it a lord mayor's banquet and its awful consequences were shown in close proximity to Petronius Arbiter opening his veins on a bed of roses, while an allegorized pleasure was suddenly transformed into death. Bishops and cardinals, celebrating a most unorthodox "purple mass," broke into chants for the dead, and the whole ghastly spectacle was of a character to give heart disease to any but those with strong nerves.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

Spangled Gauze the Vogue—Stockinet Footwear—A Bisque Cloth Costume.

Colored spangled gauze in the design of a butterfly with outspread wings is one of the prettiest ideas seen on the new Watteau fans.

A stockinet for slipping over evening boots when driving represents a novelty in footwear. It has no fastening, but there is a seam down the middle front, and it is easily slipped on and off.

A curious passementerie has made its appearance lately, carried out in several shades of yellow and orange chenille mingled with various tones of brown leather. The leather is cut into bands the same width of the chenille and the two together twisted into designs of a floral or conventional type. This trimming is used on elaborate walking gowns.

Oriental satin in lovely shades is always worn, and crepe de chine should not be forgotten, on account of its lovely draping qualities.

Here is a suggestion for a most fetching calling costume of bisque cloth. It is tailorish in cut, the skirt made in three graduated parts, with rounded corners in front caught to produce a panel effect, with buttons of pale green and gold enamel. The bolero coat has long straps in front, with a cross tab in front trimmed with six enameled buttons. The belt and collar are of pale green velvet embroidered with gold thread. The sleeves are plaited at the top, taper toward the wrist and end in a smart cuff of velvet and lace.

The fetching little toque in the picture is of white chiffon, the brim becomingly evolved from white point lace. An aigret and long feather trim the toque at the side.

A New Golf Jersey—Stylish Dresses For Little Girls.

Stylish dresses for little girls are made of fancy plaid in Russian blouse style. White shields beautifully hand embroidered in gold brighten up these costumes.

Foulard silks will again be in evidence for dressy spring toilets, Dresden designs on white satin grounds being first choice. Floral patterns scattered over a striped or dotted surface is another favorite combination.

Spring and summer gowns will be almost exact reproductions of the advanced winter modes.

A smart touch of color is lent to many of the new storm coats by collar and cuffs of leather in natural color, green or scarlet.

The golf girl may revel in a new jersey, a smart double breast affair finished with a tartan collar.

The newest dust coats are long and loose, button all the way down the front and are belted in the back. They have a deep cape, gauntlet cuffs and a small standing collar.

Brooches of gold elaborately jeweled are used as hatpins to hold in place dainty headgear of tulle, lace and flowers.

The attractive dinner waist illustrated is of yellow crepe de paris. Over the full bloused bodice is arranged a deep collar of lace. About the shoulders are three bands of amber velvet. A chou and jabot of lace fasten the lace collar in front.

THE GRAFTERS

By

FRANCIS LYNDE

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

On this particular evening David Kent's wrath-fire was far from needing an additional stoking. Once more Miss Van Brock had given proof of her prophetic gift, and Kent had been moodily filling in the details of the picture drawn by her woman's intuition. He had gone late to the house in Alameda square, knowing that Portia had dinner guests. And it was imperative that he should have her to himself.

"You needn't tell me anything but the manner of its doing," she was saying. "I knew they would find a way to stop you—or make one. And you needn't be spiteful at me," she added, when Kent gripped the arms of his chair.

"I don't mind your saying 'I told you so'," he fumed. "It's the fact that I didn't have sense enough to see what an easy game I was dealing them. It didn't take Meigs five minutes to shut me off."

"Tell me about it," she said; and he did it crisply.

"The quo warranto inquiry is instituted in the name of the state; or rather the proceedings are brought by some person with the approval of the governor or the attorney general, one or both. I took to-day for obtaining this approval because I knew Bucks was out of town and I thought I could bully Meigs."

"And you couldn't?" she said.

"Not in a thousand years. At first he said he would take the matter under advisement: I knew that meant a consultation with Bucks. Then I put the whip on; told him a few of the things I know, and let him imagine a lot more; but it was no good. He was as smooth as oil, admitting nothing, denying nothing. And what grinds me worst is that I let him put me in fault; gave him a chance to show conclusively how absurd it was for me to expect him to take up a question of such magnitude on the spur of the moment."

"Of course," she said sympathetically. "I knew they would find a way. What are you doing?"

Kent laughed in spite of his sore amour-propre.

"At this present moment I am doing precisely what you said I should: unloading my woes upon you."

"Oh, but I didn't say that. I said you would come to me for help. Have you?"

"I'd say yes, if I didn't know so well just what I am up against."

Miss Van Brock laughed unfeelingly.

"Is it a man's weakness to fight better in the dark?"

"It is a man's common sense to know when he is knocked out," he retorted.

She held him with her eyes while she said:

"Tell me what you want to accomplish, David; at the end of the ends, I mean. Is it only that you wish to save Miss Brentwood's little marriage portion?"

He told the simple truth, as who could help, with Portia's eyes demanding it.

"It was that at first; I'll admit. But latterly—"

"Latterly you have begun to think larger things?" She looked away from him, and her next word seemed to be part of an unspoken thought. "I have been wondering if you are great enough, David."

He shook his head despondently.

"Haven't I just been showing you that I am not?"

"You have been showing me that you cannot always out-plan the other person. That is a lack, but it is not fatal. Are you great enough to run fast and far when it is a straight-away race depending only upon mere manstrength and indomitable determination?"

"Try me," he said, impulsively.

"Would you like to have your quo warranto blind alley turned into a thoroughfare?"

"I believe you can do it if you try," he admitted, brightening a little.

"Maybe I can; or rather I can put you in the way of doing it. You say Mr. Meigs is obstinate, and the governor is likely to prove still more obstinate. Have you thought of any way of softening them?"

"You know I haven't. It's a stark impossibility from my point of view."

"Nothing is impossible; it is always a question of ways and means." Then, suddenly: "Have you been paying any attention to the development of the Belmount oil field?"

"Enough to know that it is a big thing; the biggest since the Pennsylvania discoveries, according to all accounts."

"And the people of the state are enthusiastic about it, thinking that now the long tyranny of the oil monopoly will be broken?"

"That is the way most of the newspapers talk, and there seems to be some little ground for it, granting the powers of the new law."

She laid the tips of her fingers on his arm and knotted the thread of suggestion in a single sentence.

"In the present state of affairs—with the present party as yet on trial, and the public mind ready to take fire at the merest hint of a foreign capitalistic monopoly in the state—tell me what would happen to the man who would let the Universal Oil company into the Belmount field in defiance of the new trust and corporation law?"

"By Jove!" Kent exclaimed, sitting up as if the shapely hand had given him a buffet. "It would ruin him politically, world without end! Tell me; is Bucks going to do that?"

She laughed softly.

"That is for you to find out, Mr. David Kent; not by hearsay, but in good, solid terms of fact that will appeal to a level-headed, conservative newspaper editor like—well, like Mr. Hildreth, of the Argus, let us say. Are you big enough to do it?"

"I am desperate enough to try," was the slow-spoken answer.

CHAPTER XVI.

SHARPENING THE SWORD.

In the beginning of the new campaign of investigation David Kent wisely discounted the help of paid professional spies—or rather he deferred it to a later stage—by taking counsel with Jeffrey Hildreth, night editor of the Argus. Here, if anywhere, practical help was to be had; and the tender of it was cheerfully hearty and enthusiastic.

"Most assuredly you may depend on the Argus, horse, foot and artillery," said the editor, when Kent had guardedly outlined some portion of his plan. "We are on your side of the fence, and have been ever since Bucks was sprung as a candidate on the convention. But you've no case. Of course, it's an open secret that the Universal people are trying to break through the fence of the new law and establish themselves in the Belmount field without losing their identity or any of their monopolistic privileges. And it is equally a matter of course to some of us that the Bucks ring will sell the state out if the price is right. But to implicate Bucks and the capitol gang in printable shape is quite another matter."

"I know," Kent admitted. "But it isn't impossible; it has got to be possible."

The night editor sat back in his chair and chewed his cigar reflectively. Suddenly he asked:

"What's your object, Kent? It isn't purely pro bono publico, I take it?"

Kent could no longer say truthfully that it was, and he did not lie about it.

"No, it's purely personal, I guess. I need to get a grip on Bucks and I mean to do it."

Hildreth laughed.

"And, having got it, you'll telephone me to let up—as you did in the House Bill Twenty-nine fiasco. Where do we come in?"

"No; you shall come in on the ground floor this time; though I may ask you to hold your hand until I have used my leverage. And if you'll go into it to stay, you sha'n't be alone. Giving the Argus precedence in any item of news, I'll engage to have every other opposition editor in the state ready to back you."

"Glad! you're growing, Kent. Do you mean to down the Bucks crowd ded-definitely?" demanded the editor, who stammered a little under excitable provocation. "Bigger men than you have tried it—and failed."

"But no one of them with half my obstinacy, Hildreth. It can be done, and I am going to do it."

"The sercetary of state's office is the place you want to watch," said Hildreth. "New oil companies are incorporating every day. Pretty soon one of these will swallow up all the others: that one will be the Universal under another name, and in its application for a charter you'll find askings big enough to cover all the rights and privileges of the original monopoly."

"That is a good idea," said Kent, who already had a clerk in the secretary of state's office in his pay.

And on that road he had traveled far, thanks to a keen wit, to Portia Van Brock's incessant promptings, and to the help of the leaky clerk in Hendricks' office; so far, indeed, that he had found the "stool pigeon" oil company, to which Hildreth's hint had pointed—a company composed, with a single exception, of men of "straw," the exception being the man Rumford, whose conferences with the governor and the attorney general had aroused his suspicions.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Report Business Unusually Satisfactory.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Some disturbance has been caused by the elements, but business conditions are otherwise unusually satisfactory for the season. Distribution of merchandise is of liberal proportions, and the new year is fulfilling sanguine expectations. Low temperature and storms interrupted traffic to some extent, but accelerated business in heavy wearing apparel, overshoes and fuel. Manufacturing is still the best feature, especially in the various departments of the iron and steel industry, while textile mills and shoe shops are well engaged.

Some conservatism is noted in the placing of advance orders, but this is a favorable symptom, indicating the absence of reckless operations that produce inflated prices and ultimately cause excessive accumulation of stocks, followed by the inevitable period of retrenchment. Gradual progress is always more permanent, and the present situation contains this wholesome element to a pronounced degree.

Liberal consumption of commodities is evidenced by the slight rise in Dun's index number from $100,318 to $101,042 during January. Railway earnings in that month were 4 per cent larger than in 1904, while foreign commerce at this port for the last week showed a gain of $1,070,870 in value of imports and a loss of $1,830,563 in exports as compared with the same week last year.

Commercial failures for the week in the United States were 256 against 259 last week, 305 the preceding week and 228 the corresponding week last year.

WOULD SAVE GREASON.

Application For Mercy Based on Mrs. Edwards' Confession.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—Attorneys representing Samuel Greason, the negro who, with Mrs. Kate Edwards, is condemned to be hanged at Reading next Thursday for the murder of Mrs. Edwards' husband, came here from Reading for the purpose of laying before the Pennsylvania supreme court a petition asking that Greason's case be reopened and sent back to the Berks county court for retrial.

The petition is based on the confession made by Mrs. Edwards on Thursday. Accompanying the petition is an affidavit made by Mrs. Edwards, in which she swears that Greason "is entirely innocent of said crime; that he had no knowledge of the perpetration thereof and did not in any way, manner or form participate therein, nor did he by any word, act or deed aid or abet therein."

She further avers that "the testimony given at the trial, wherein she alleged that Samuel Greason was present on the night of July 3, 1901, was untrue."

M'CUE CONFESSED.

Ex-Mayor of Charlottesville Hanged For Wife Murder.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Feb. 11.—Without a tremor J. Samuel McCue, ex-mayor of this city, met death on the scaffold here for wife murder. Hardly had his struggles ceased when his confession was given out by his spiritual advisers, the Revs. G. L. Petrie, H. B. Lee and John B. Thompson.

McCue listened calmly to the death warrant, and when Sergeant Rogers asked, "Do you think that if I give you my arm you would be able to walk to the scaffold?" he replied calmly, "I can walk without your aid."

On the way he stumbled once or twice, and the officers proffered assistance. It was not needed, however. There was no weakness. McCue had merely slipped on the frozen snow.

It had been expected that he would make some sort of statement on the scaffold, but he did not utter a word before he met death.

Immediately after the execution McCue's spiritual advisers gave out the following signed statement:

"J. Samuel McCue just before he was executed stated in our presence and requested us to make public that he did not wish to leave this world with suspicion resting on any human being other than himself, that he alone was responsible for the deed, impelled to it by an evil power beyond his control, and that he recognized his sentence as just."

The crime for which McCue was hanged was the murder of his wife. The case created great interest throughout Virginia, as on Sunday night, Sept. 4 last, McCue accompanied his wife to church at Charlottesville, and when they returned home about 9:15 o'clock he killed her with a baseball bat, also shooting her.

He asserted that the crime had been committed by an unknown white man who had climbed through a window, but the crime was finally brought home to him.

INJURED AT HAVANA.

E. R. Thomas and Chauffeur Thrown Out When Auto Hit Cuban Coach.

HAVANA, Feb. 11.—E. R. Thomas' chauffeur, Ed. Hawley, was seriously injured and Mr. Thomas was slightly hurt as the result of a collision here between Mr. Thomas' ninety horsepower racing automobile and one of the country stages which operate on the road on which the automobile races, under the auspices of the Havana Automobile club, are to be held. Mr. Thomas was driving the machine in his daily practice, with Hawley beside him. The machine was spurting between Punta Brava and Guanajay at a sixty mile pace when an oxcart turned into the road a short distance ahead. Mr. Thomas tried to avoid the cart and struck the stage. The machine swerved and ran over the ditch and up the bank on one side and thence back and up the bank on the other side. It then turned over, and both the occupants were thrown out. Hawley landed heavily and was severely injured in the hip and badly shaken. He may also be injured internally. Mr. Thomas received a bad cut over the eye, but beyond the shock was not otherwise injured.

Chauffeur Hawley was conveyed to Guanajay, and a special train which was sent out for him brought the sufferer last night to a hospital in Havana.

Chauffeur Hawley did not lose consciousness. The doctors are uncertain as to the extent of his injuries.

Mr. Thomas started to return in a machine driven by H. W. Fletcher, but the car broke down as the result of a minor accident, and Mr. Thomas reached town in a touring car.

Aside from the stripping of its tires Mr. Thomas' machine was not seriously damaged, and it is expected that it will be driven by Mr. Thomas in tomorrow's race. The damage to Mr. Fletcher's racer is trivial.

Swayne Impeachment In Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The senate heard the first witness called in connection with the impeachment proceedings against Judge Swayne of Florida and thus entered upon the real work of the trial. The statement of the case on behalf of the house was made by Manager Palmer, who went over the various charges against Judge Swayne and said it was the expectation of the managers that all of them would be proved. The senate decided to devote the time between 2 and 5 o'clock each day to the Swayne inquiry.

Heavy Sentence For Barney Pilnick.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—Barney Pilnick, who was charged with conducting ten different dives within the past four years here, has been sentenced to four years in the county prison. This is the heaviest sentence ever imposed in the local courts for this offense. Rose Pilnick, his wife, who was accused of being the manager of five places, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Pensions and Panama Zone Bills.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—After maintaining its record for the rapid disposition of private pension bills, 433 being passed in an hour and a half, the house considered for a short while the bill providing a government for the Panama canal zone. An early adjournment was taken to enable the Republicans to confer on the statehood bill.

Oswego Roads Tied Up by Storm.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Feb. 11.—A heavy snowstorm with high westerly winds, blocked all the roads in this vicinity and delayed trains on the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg and the New York, Ontario and Western railroads from one to eight hours.

SPORTING NEWS

DIAMOND DUST.

Wild with rage after an argument over his board bill, "Rube" Waddell, the famous southpaw pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics baseball team, attacked his father-in-law, Edward Ross, at his home in South Peabody, Mass., Wednesday night, and badly injured him. He is alleged to have felled Mrs. Ross with a chair, and was himself attacked by a big Newfoundland dog and badly injured in his famous left arm. Waddell had been drinking.

ON THE TRACK.

The purchase of 262½ acres of land between Bernardsville and Liberty Corner, by Philip N. Jackson, of this city, means that he is going into the business of breeding thoroughbred horses. The land consists of two tracts, one known as the Clark farm and the other as the State farm, and the owner was Frank A. Ballentine.

FAIR FOR CONCERTS.

Ben LaVere and Assistants Will Also Give Vaudeville Show for Summer Music.

At a meeting held in the borough Council chambers last evening, Ben LaVere and others decided to conduct a fair in Saengerbund Hall, Easter week, for the benefit of summer band concerts. They also accepted "Billy" Redmond's offer to furnish the artists for a vaudeville entertainment for the same purpose and this will take place shortly after the fair.

May Establish Juvenile Court.

Through a recent bill passed by Legislature, police judges in Elizabeth and Plainfield will have the power to hold special sessions, or juvenile court, once a week, for the trial of cases in which the age of the defendants is below sixteen. The State Charities Organization is now looking into the matter and results are expected within a short time.

To Bring Wood to Jersey.

George H. Wood, who has been held responsible by the coroner's jury as the murderer of George Williams, the Watchung grocer, will be brought from the Tombs to the Somerset County jail at Somerville Monday.

The Trinity Reformed church congregation will assemble in the lecture room of the church tomorrow morning instead of the regular sanctuary, it being impossible to properly heat the upper room during the cold weather.

JOURNALISTIC OPINION.

Delaware and Jersey.

Six years ago Delaware enacted a corporation law which was designed to be like that of New Jersey, "only more so." Its merits, and incidentally those of New Jersey law, are succinctly set forth by a corporation that was organized to facilitate the creation of stock companies in Delaware to do business elsewhere. The Delaware corporation recited that the law of its State was better than that of New Jersey—for promoters—because the original fee was less and so was the annual tax; stockholders need never meet in the State, while under the New Jersey law they must meet there; the stock and transfer books need not be kept in Delaware, while in New Jersey they must be kept in the State; "the examination of the books by intermeddlers is much more difficult under the Delaware law than under the laws of any other State; only one director need be a resident of Delaware. In New Jersey stock may be issued for property purchased, and in the absence of fraud the judgment of the directors as to the value of the property is conclusive. That is, the directors of the shipbuilding trust could issue $1,500,000 of stock to the venders of $900,000 worth of property. But Delaware allows the issue of stock under the same liberal terms not only for property purchased but for services rendered. Under this provision a couple of million dollars of stock could be issued to the promoter of a trust, and the issue of an enormous amount of Bay State gas stock to J. E. Addicks seems to have been invited by this provision; the courts have interfered with it, but this may be due to the subsequent developments in the history of the company. This comparison between the two laws is sufficient to show that that of New Jersey is open to the severest condemnation, and that that of Delaware is a disgrace. The Republicanism of these States has resulted in frantic efforts to enrich themselves by the reckless creation of non-resident corporations forth people of other States.—Philadelphia Record.

A Typical American Village.

Certainly the strongest testimonial to its advantages that any pleasure resort can have is the fact that it has been selected as a rendezvous by the best society and made the object of a good deal of capital invested in beautiful homes. Georgian Court, the home of George Jay Gould, at Lakewood, the ideal American Village of beautiful residences, represents an investment that one would not be apt to suppose was made at random. Lying West of the Village on an estate of two hundred acres the spacious mansion, in the Georgian style of architecture, modified by the spirit of the French Renaissance, lends a distinguished air to the landscape. The main entrance, where there is a garden with vases and statuary, looks to the North. On the South the wild forest growth has been allowed to remain in its natural state. The Italian Garden, covering several acres, extends to the court which is larger than the mansion itself and contains a riding school, a racquet court, lawn tennis court, squash courts, bowling alley, automobile room, gymnasium, swimming bath, Turkish and Russian baths, needle bath, club parlor, breakfast room, kitchen, and some thirty bed rooms. A descriptive booklet on Lakewood has been recently published by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which will be gladly given to anyone applying for it, to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., Central Railroad of New Jersey, 143 Liberty street, New York city.

Rev. A. E. Finn and family will remove from 619 Putnam avenue to East Ninth street, near Park avenue, about March 1.

TWO CONGREGATIONS ARE LIKELY TO UNITE

PERTH AMBOY AND PLAINFIELD SWEDISH PILGRIMS TO JOIN FORCES.

Through the local congregation extending a call to Rev. Theodore England to succeed Rev. L. T. Lindholm, there is a possibility of the Swedish Pilgram church, of this city, and the Swedish church at Perth Amboy, uniting in the support of a pastor. This method has been in operation through New England where the Swedish congregations are small and it has been found to work very satisfactorily. With the pastor working in the two cities, two churches would contribute to his salary and while giving him more, would entail less expense individually.

Pastor England has also received a call to New London, Conn., and he will visit there Sunday. He will then make known his decision whether he will remain or whether he will return and become pastor of the Plainfield church as well as the one he now holds.

DEATH OF JAS. STEWART.

Passed Away Early Today After an Illness of Several Months.

Following an illness of several months from pneumonia and a complication of troubles, James Stewart, son-in-law of Sergeant Christian Frederickson, died at his home on Leland avenue, this morning. He resided here for ten years, and married Miss Frederickson two years ago. He was a contracting mason and builder.

BANK IMPROVEMENTS.

Interior Changes at the First National.

Improvements are being made in the interior of the First National Bank building. The room in the front of the bank, now used for the president and cashier, will be changed into a room for women depositors. The alcove, which has been used by the women heretofore, will be inclosed similar to the rest of the space occupied by the employes at the institution. The directors' room in the rear will hereafter be used by the president and other officials as a meeting room.

The bank hopes to have the improvements completed by Tuesday.

PERSONAL.

Judge Schenck, of the Somerset County Court, was in town this morning.

Miss Hatch, of Madison avenue, is spending a few days with relatives in Brooklyn.

Dr. Charles Davis, of Park avenue, has been confined to his home by a severe cold.

Justice Nash, who has been confined to his home for some time as a result of a fall, is out today.

Masquerade Party.

A masquerade was given last night at the home of Mrs. E. F. DuBois, of Park avenue, by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis and Mrs. Carl Drange, in honor of Miss Lucie Davis. The evening was spent playing Salamagmundi games, in which the prizes were won by Miss Mary W. Ketcham, L. V. Wilson and Miss Laura VanArsdale. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Tugwell, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunham, Miss M. W. Ketcham, Miss Julia J. Ketcham, Miss Graham, Miss Atherton, Albert Bodaman, Dr. D. G. Atwood, Albert Steiner, L. V. Wilson, M. K. Hartley, C. M. Delliver, Alvah B. Davis, Miss Lucie Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Drange, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Davis, Miss Laura VanArsdale, Miss Nellie Mead and Miss Lizzie Stafford.

New Organist and Choir.

Beginning April 1, J. Edmund Skiff will be the organist and choirmaster at the First M. E. church, succeeding Miss Jessie Utter, who has held this position for ten years. She will continue as organist of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Mrs. Stephen H. Tugwell, contralto at the First Presbyterian church, will be a member of the new choir.

Talk to Endeavorers.

In observance of the anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Day, Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, gave a short address before the Endeavor Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night. During the service there was special music.

George W. Bird, the lawyer, has been retained by Mrs. George H. Wood, to defend her husband, who is suspected of the murder of George Williams. The day of the murder he had an appointment to meet a man on a farm adjoining that of Mrs. Sarah Pollack, to consult with him about some legal matters. According to the hour of appointment, he would have been in the vicinity of where the murder occurred, if he had kept the engagement, but a pressure of other matters prevented him from keeping the engagement. The afternoon of the day of the murder Chief Kiely requested Mr. Bird to accompany him to the scene of the murder because of his intimate knowledge of the neighborhood. On Monday Mrs. George H. Wood called at Mr. Bird's office, retained him to defend her husband and scarcely had she left, when Mrs. George Williams entered and sought Mr. Bird's services to settle her husband's estate. The lawyer then informed Mrs. Williams that he had been engaged by Mrs. Wood, after which she sought the advice of W. H. Coddington, of the firm of Coddington & Swackhamer.

While the Board of Health has not until this time considered the question of establishing a set of rules to govern the local barber shops, it is now proposed to take the matter up and within a short time rules will be adopted calling for certain changes to conform to those enforced in other cities. From time to time the barbers have been requested to adopt modern methods, such as the sterilizing of razors, shears, towels and wash rags, which would reduce to a minimum the chances of disease infection or skin disease. Some of the barbers have complied with the request, but others still adhere to the old method. The Board of Health realizing the importance of more stringent rules, has decided that the time has arrived to enforce such measures. The matter is now in the hands of Corporation Counsel Marsh and he will pass upon the rules drafted by the Board of Health as to the legality of them and the right to enforce them. It is argued that similar rules are used in other cities and there is no reason why they cannot be put in operation here. It is stated that the majority of the barbers are willing to comply with any set of rules within reason. Although the proposed changes will necessitate more or less expense to install a sterilizing apparatus, the improvements will be means of greater protection to those who patronize the various shops in the city.

Jap 'Phone Service Recent.

Until 1887 there was no public telephone service in Japan. The first systems were installed in Tokio and Yokohama in 1880, and these were followed shortly by others, until at the end of 1901 there were 179 public stations, with 25 city systems and 25,000 subscribers. At the same time 25,000 other persons were demanding telephone service. The telephone and telegraph apparatus in Japan is of the most modern type, as progress elsewhere is followed closely. The rapid development of these two arts is characterized by the following statistics, showing the number of telegrams sent for different years: In 1871, 19,000; in 1881, 2,500,000; in 1891 4,674,000, and in 1901, 16,221,000.

Purcell Powless, a full-blooded Oneida Indian, grandson of a former chief of the tribe, has been given a position as motorman in the St. Louis street railway service. He is the second full-blooded Indian to be employed by the St. Louis Transit company, Felix Scott, a Sioux, having been in the service six months. Powless is 23 years old. He was born in Wisconsin, where the Oneida tribe has lived for years. His Indian name is Soda-Wah. He was educated at Haskell institutute, Lawrence, Kan.

Tea in Great Britain.

Figures published by the Tea Brokers' association, of London, for the five months ending October 31, this year, show a diminution in the consumption of tea in the British isles to the extent of 4,000,000 pounds, as compared with the corresponding time in 1903, an indication of dire poverty.

WHAT "LLOYD'S" REALLY IS

Not, as Generally Supposed, Engaged in Insurance Business—Dispenses Marine Information.

How many newspaper readers who find daily references in the news dispatches to "Lloyd's" have any clear idea as to the exact nature of that famous British institution? Perhaps the most of them have a vague impression that it is a huge marine insurance concern, having a large measure of control—unofficial, but real—over the shipping regulations of the world. The great corporation which still retains the name of its founder of Elizabethan days, and which has had its headquarters in the Royal Exchange in London since 1774, has nothing to do as such with marine insurance or the taking of risks and paying of losses, but its members have. It is, in fact, a great maritime exchange, incorporated in recent years by parliament, and it is to the world of shipping and through its members of marine insurance what the house of Rothschild is to the banking world.

Aside from the fact that Lloyd's affords marine insurance brokers a place of meeting with their clients, its great function is the collection, publication and diffusion of information with respect to shipping. It is the direct outcome of the enterprise of the keeper of a London coffee house. Edward Lloyd was brought much in contact with seafaring men and merchants, and his foresight and enterprise led to the development of a system which has become world famous.

ENGLISH GROWING PLAINER

British Lady of Experience Declares That Her Racial Beauty Is on Down Grade.

A warning note is struck by a British lady, who has both medical and literary skill, against the reckless disregard of those laws which make for beauty. The English are growing plainer, she avers, simply because they allow even their children to be affected by the stress and strain of modern life. The smartness, the ability to look after themselves and the athleticism of the women and children of the present time spell physical ruin. Beauty is rarely seen nowadays in its unadorned style. Lovely women are artificial products, and really lovely children are as scarce as auks' eggs. The reason is that expressions have grown anxious, eager, cold, limbs and members are strained out of shape by overexercise, complexions and hair are starved for lack of nerve force. The exquisite complexions, luxuriant locks, delicate features and clear, innocent-looking eyes that one associates with beauty are so seldom seen as to be quite remarkable when they are, and the woman says the English are threatened with a still further decrease of these elements of good looks unless they bring back girls to the prunes and prisms style of upbringing, which perhaps after all is the best for them. The "larger life" certainly has its drawbacks.

Another Euchre Club.

Last night, at the residence of William Wright, 79 Summit avenue, a large party of young people gathered for the purpose of forming an euchre club. Mr. Wright was elected president, Thaddeus Doane, Jr., secretary, and H. B. Tapscott, corresponding secretary. After an enjoyable evening refreshments were served at midnight. The club is to meet every Friday evening.

WOOD BROUGHT TO JERSEY

Man Accused of Murder Now in Somerville Jail.

HIS WIFE IS EVICTED

Alleged Slayer of Grocer Williams Will not Come to Trial Before the April Term of Court.

In the company of County Detective George H. Tosten, who has had the case in hand since the first alarm was sent out, George H. Wood, accused of murdering Grocer George Williams on the Coontown road, February 2, was removed from the Tombs prison, New York, to the county jail at Somerville, Saturday afternoon. The transfer followed Governor Higgins' authorization of his extradition, the papers having been signed early in the week. It was known only by a few just what time the removal would be made and his arrival in Somerville was unexpected by the residents. He was recognized, however, by many old friends as he was led through the streets.

He was examined in a private room by Prosecutor Griggs, who then turned him over to the custody of Depuy Sheriff Anderson. It was said at the court house that he would not be brought to trial until the April term of court, but that in the meantime he will be allowed the freedom of the corridor and the privileges usually accorded other prisoners. His counsel, Codington & Swackhamer and George H. Bird, of this city, have been in communication with him and they are now preparing the line of defense.

The same train which took Wood to Somerville, brought his wife from New York to this city on her way to the Pollack farm, near Mount Horeb, where she is to make her home. The couple had been in arrears for rent before the crime was committed and Mrs. Wood was evicted from her apartments last Friday. She placed her furniture in storage and decided to leave the metropolis as soon as her husband was taken away. On reaching this city with her youngest child, she was met at the North Avenue station by Fred Linnertz, Mrs. Pollack's hired man, who drove her at once to the farm.

"Ever since Mr. Wood and I were married," said Mrs. Wood to a reporter, "we have had a hard struggle to get along, but we were very happy. This terrible misfortune has come just at a time when I had hoped that better, happier days were coming, for my husband had made arrangements to start in business for himself again, with every prospect of success.

"Now, I don't know which way to turn, for I am practically penniless, and my relatives are too poor to help me. My grandmother, Mrs. Pollack, of Mt. Horeb, is going to take my eldest child Hazel, and my uncle, E. S. Pollack, of 2343 Old Broadway, will take my boy.

"My namesake, little Viola, I must keep with me, for she is only two months old.

"I don't know what I shall do, or where I may go, for without money one has few friends. With the expenses of my husband's trial coming on, I don't know where to turn."

The diagram of the station and restaurant where Wood says he was drugged, which he drew from memory in the Tombs, was shown to a Pennsylvania Railroad official yesterday. He positively identified it as Monmouth Junction. Mrs. Wood hopes this may aid in finding the mysterious "Mack."

DEATH OF MRS. FELLOWS.

Widow of Dr. Fellows Passes Away at Sister's Home.

Mrs. Abbie L. Fellows, mother of Townsend I. Fellows, died Saturday night at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. M. Bettman, of Willow avenue, from paralysis. She had been ill since last fall when she was brought from Saratoga to the home of her sister. Mr. Fellows was sixty-nine years old, and a native of Albany, N. Y. She was the widow of Dr. Harris I. Fellows, of that city. Besides a son, she leaves a brother, S. P. T. Wilbur, of Westervelt avenue, and two sisters, Mrs. J. M. Bettman, of Willow avenue, and Mrs. T. S. Young, of Fanwood.

Mrs. Fellows was a member of the First Presbyterian church, and the pastor, Rev. C. E. Herring, will conduct her funeral services this afternoon at 4 o'clock from the home of Mrs. Bettman. The remains will be taken to Albany for interment tomorrow.

ELOPING GIRL HOME AND IS REPENTANT

COACHMAN HUSBAND DESERTED BY MISS HOCKRIDGE.

Miss Mabel Hockridge, the former Plainfield girl, who on Friday, ran away from her home with her father's coachman, James Tone, was located by relatives and a detective Saturday, at Wittenberg, N. Y., in the Catskills. They had been married at Hurley, N. Y., by the Reformed church minister and had gone to the home of Tone's parents, a stuffy little cottage widely contrasting with her father's beautiful residence at St. Remy. The surroundings were of a character to disillusionize the girl and she readily consented to return home when asked. Tone was left behind and as yet has not offered to claim his bride.

The Hockridge family is widely known throughout Plainfield as until going to St. Remy about two years ago they had always resided here. Their last residence was on East Fifth street at the corner of Washington street. Miss Mabel attended the local schools.

ARCHDEACON MANN AT GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH

PREACHES SPECIAL SERMON TO THE MEN'S CLUB.

Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, deacon of Newark and rector of Grace church, Orange, preached the sermon at the special service for the Men's Club, of Grace church, in that edifice last night, his subject being the growing proportion of people who do not help in the spread of the Kingdom. Members of several other church clubs were among the congregation. Rev. Dr. Mann referred to the time when Christ's popularity was at its height and when by reason of the fact that he declined to be crowned king of Judea, his friends were turning from him. "It was," the speaker said, "a hard time for the Disciples, who felt as much as the rest of the Galileans the glory of the promised Messiah, and who with their friends, many of whom were more learned than they, were disappointed at Christ's refusal of the Kingdom. It was a test, and a hard one for the Disciples, and it was at this time that their Master addressed these words to them: 'Will ye too go away?'"

Rev. Dr. Mann declared that in his opinion the Christian church at the present time is facing just such a situation as the one which confronted the Disciples. The number of church members are becoming a minority, and even the steadfast Christians, the Disciples, find themselves growing careless and deliberating as to the value of religion. "It is for us," Dr. Mann said, "who are facing just such an undeniable decline, to consider the three causes which Peter said binded himself to Christ. In the first place, Peter said that Christ brought with him 'the words of eternal life.' Secondly, without Him, he could look to no leader. The divinity of Christ was to him a stronger bond than either of the others.

Hunt Club Chase Off.

On account of the deep snow the weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club did not take place Saturday, though the members met at the jumps and after a brief gallop, joined in practising their horses. There was about eight members out, and a pleasant afternoon was spent in spite of the disappointment of not being able to ride after the hounds. The crust on the snow was not strong enough to hold the dogs, and it was to deep for the horses.

Enjoyed a Sleigh Ride.

A sleighride to Westfield was had by a number of young people living in the vicinity of Westervelt and Fairview avenues, Friday night, the start being made from the home of Jacob Beckman, of Fairview avenue, in two large box sleighs. Upon the return the crowd went to the home of Mr. Beckman, where a dance was held until a late hour.

Enjoyed Strawride.

Miss Marguerite Ostrom, of Carlton avenue, gave a strawride to about twenty of her friends Friday night. They went to Westfield. On the return of the party, refreshments were served and a general good time ensued.

CHARITY AID MEETINGS

Address to be Made in Plainfield and Four Other Cities.

JUVENILE COURT HERE

Measure in Legislature to Create Special Court in This City and Elizabeth—State Aid Work.

Probably no organization in any State has been so persistently and uncompromisingly active in the pursuit of its ideals in the matter of reform measures affecting the wards of the State of all classes, as the New Jersey State Charities Aid Association and much interest is taken in its proceedings here. Every field for advantageous effort is being thoroughly worked to the financial benefit of every department and institution affected, and the moral as well as physical advancemen of the inmates.

A special committee of the State Charities Aid Association is now preparing a circular for general distribution, calling the attention of the public to five meetings to be held between now and May 1, and soliciting its aid. The meetings will be held in this city, Newark, Elizabeth, Trenton and Camden. Specialists in different lines of reformatory work will deliver the addresses. Two have already been selected, the Hon. S. J. Barrows, a noted penologist and secretary of the New York Prison Reform Association, and Alexander Johnson, secretary of the National Conference of Charities and Correction.

Two of the more immediately important lines of endeavor under consideration at present are presented in some detail in two bills recently prepared for discussion and final passage at the present session of the Legislature. One of these is a bill already presented by Assemblyman Lehlbach, of Essex. According to the provisions of this bill, judges of police courts in this city and Elizabeth will have the power to hold a special session, or juvenile court, once a week for the trial of cases in which the defendants are under the age of sixteen years. The advantages of such courts have already been fully proven in other municipalities. Cases that have heretofore been continued for adjudication in the higher courts, can be disposed of by the police court judge without loss of time, thereby saving to the county large sums of money annually.

One of the chief benefits will be the complete separation of young delinquents from older and more hardened offenders and the dangers of moral debasement which generally result from such association. The bill has been carefully prepared, and as it is backed by powerful influences there is little or no doubt of its speedy enactment as a law.

Another bill which provides for the appoint of a State parole officer and which was outlined by the Rev. A. F. Fish, Catholic chaplain of the State Prison at Trenton, at a recent meeting of a special committee of the association held at the residence of Mrs. Williamson on North Broad street, Elizabeth, will be presented with some slight alterations. This bill, it is expected, will also be passed with little if any opposition. The idea of its advocates is thoroughly to systematize the work of caring for paroled prisoners so that they can be kept in a wholesome and uplifting environment and employment until their rehabilitation is complete. The parole officer, an important part of whose duty it will be to keep track of all paroled prisoners, will act under the warden of the State Prison, and be at the command of the Board of Pardons. At present, it is claimed, there is really no system and the paroled prisoner, without proper aid and kindly surveillance, frequently loses all the beneficial results a parole should bring to him.

A plan that the Governor has set forth in a bill prepared by Senator Bradley, of Camden, providing for the appointment of a State commissioner of charities, has the approval of the State Charities Aid Association, who look upon it as a step in the right direction. Under the provisions of this bill, the commissioner will be nominated by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. His term of office will be three years, or until his successor is appointed, and his salary $3,000 per year. It shall be his duty to inspect all such charitable and corrective institutions of the State as in any way receive funds from the State treasury. He will also have the power, and it will be his duty to see, at least once a year, all the State wards in private institutions. He will keep a record of all his investigations and report to the Governor. He will be given fur-

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL WAVE

Meetings Held Nightly in Northern End of Somerset.

FARMERS' SERVICES

Neighbors Who Have Been Enemies for Years Become Friends Again —Many Are Converted.

A religious revival has swept over Watchung and that section of Somerset county, including Warrenville, Coontown, Mt. Horeb and other nearby places. Such a revival has not been known in years and persons who never attended a religious meeting are now taking a prominent part in these gatherings.

Several farmers who have held grudges against each other for years have settled differences and now joining in the movement to spread the interest in these cottage prayer meetings. Those who are leaders in conducting these meetings say that they never remember a time when such deep religious interest was shown. All attribute the commencement of the revival to the death of George Williams.

In the meetings that have been held at the various farm-houses, those who have not spoken to each other for several years, have voluntarily approached one another and asked forgiveness.

Among the leaders in the revival is Rev. George Bowers, who conducted the funeral services of George Williams, and his remarks at that time are said to have been fruitful in awakening the interest of the residents in that section. Mr. Bowers has been invited to attend the meetings now being held and it is believed that they may be continued during the rest of the winter. At nearly every meeting some one professes conversion and this lends an additional interest to the religious work.

LEARY TO CONDUCT THE HOTEL ROSELL

COMMON COUNCIL TO TRANSFER LICENSE THIS WEEK.

The Common Council will hold a special meeting Thursday night to consider an application for the transfer of the liquor license application of A. B. Roselli to Jerome W. Leary. Both applied for a license but the recent purchase of the hotel by J. A. Staats caused Mr. Roselli to change his plans. The deed to the Hotel Roselli property was transferred to the new owner by Maltby and Burgess last week, but it is understood that Leary will take over the unexpired lease.

There is a possibility that Mr. Tyler's ordinance to limit the saloon district will come up at another special meeting to be held later in the month.

Plainfielders at Daytona.

Among the Plainfielders at Daytona, Fla., are Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward White, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Stillman, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Compton, Miss Mary Compton, Miss Ida Roosp, Mrs. Robert Gorton, Miss Gorton and Orra S. Rogers. Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkner have left Daytona, after a visit there. Mr. and Mrs. John M. Whitson, of Central avenue, have booked rooms at the Drapland.

Crowd Watches Chimney Tumble.

Alex Kane, who was given the chimney on French's mill, with the understanding that he would take it down and cart the bricks away, performed the difficult task on Saturday, between 9 o'clock in the morning and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Five men were employed. The chimney was 6x8 feet at the bottom and 4x10 at the top. Nearly one thousand people watched the work.

Union's Washington Trip.

The Union County Republican committee has announced the arrangements for its trip to Washington to attend the inauguration. The party will leave here on March 3, after stopping at all stations in Union county along the Central Railroad. In the national capital the members of the party will be given a reception by Senator Kean.

Dentist's New Offices.

Dr. C. W. Montfort, formerly associated with Dr. C. R. Thiers, has opened offices in the Babcock building recently occupied by Dr. E. G. Curry.

Rasores Club Meeting.

The Rasores Club will meet tomorrow at the home of Mrs. J. Wesley Johnston on East Seventh street.

THE TYPICAL AMERICAN

Abraham Lincoln So Classed by Dr. W. C. Snodgrass.

HIS EXCELLENT TRAITS

Valuable Collection of Lincolnia Displayed at Service in First M. E. Church.

"Lincoln, the Typical American," was the subject of an able discourse delivered by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass at the First M. E. church, yesterday morning. Additional interest was shown in the service by the display of many valuable portraits of Abraham Lincoln, belonging to a collection owned by Judd Stewart, of North Plainfield, which is considered one of the best in the world. These portraits, large and small, occupied positions of prominence about the platform and on the walls of the edifice, while several proclamations and addresses by the President were also shown.

Dr. Snodgrass said that he considered Lincoln the typical American, although he would not forget Washington. The latter was wealthy, while Lincoln was born poor and never possessed a great deal of the world's goods. The preacher referred to his simple habits, his strong purpose of character as shown in his determination to always do that which was morally and legally right, and his strong religious belief. He spoke of the early life, his entrance into politics, his election to the Legislature, Congress and the Presidency, noting incidents of peculiar interest in each step of his career as he made his own way to the highest position in the gift of the American people.

The pastor also dwelt upon the exciting times of slavery days and when Lincoln by his proclamation set the negroes free, referring to his great tender heart full of smypathy for those in need. Yet while he had a tender heart, he was always strong in mind and could not be swerved from his opinion if he thought it was right and for the best. In a word Dr. Snodgrass believed that Lincoln came the nearest to being the typical American and one whose example could be followed safely by the boys and young men of this country.

While he was not thoroughly conversant upon men of letters and science and was not in the strict sense of the word a polished man, Dr. Snodgrass said that he possessed other traits and characteristics which counted for great things in the time for which he was chosen to lead the American people, and he never failed in an obligation or neglected to keep a promise.

During his discourse, Dr. Snodgrass took occasion to refer to the valuable portraits of Lincoln displayed, and stated that there was probably not a finer collection of Lincolniana anywhere, with the possible exception of two.

During the service the choir rendered music of a patriotic character, appropriate to the occasion.

LINCOLN LIKE MOSES.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, gave a sermon yesterday morning appropriate to Lincoln's Birthday. He compared the President with Moses, and showed how in many respects their lives were similar. They both had their struggles, yet Moses was not permitted to enter the Promised Land, neither was Lincoln allowed to enjoy the benefits of his work, after many years of struggle.

"We know of Lincoln's faults," continued Dr. Chambliss, "but we do not know of the faults of Moses, though he probably had them. There are thousands of people in the South today who have the same admiration for Lincoln that those of the North do, yet they fought against the great principle he advanced."

Fanwood Township Report.

The annual township report is out and being distributed by Township Clerk Edward L. Hand. The report shows the township to be in a flourishing condition, the receipts during the year from all sources being $14,187.17, the disbusement $12,459 83, leaving a cash balance on hand February 1 of $1,727.34. This is one of the largest balances the township has had on hand in a number of years, and speaks well for those who are at the helm, in managing the township's finances and compelling corporations to pay for franchises granted that are of no material benefit to the town. The committee recommends that the following amount be raised at the next township election: Police, $300; fire department, $100; poor, $400; roads, $2,500; sidewalks, $350

EACH VOTE COST UNION COUNTY $5

BUT SPECIAL ELECTION WILL NOT INCREASE TAX RATE.

County Collector E. M. Wood, in speaking of the cost of the special election in Union County for the purpose of filling the position in the House of Assembly made vacant by the death of George H. Embree, held last Tuesday, declared that the cost would be not less than $7,000. At the meeting of the County Board of Elections held in the courthouse last week it was shown that the total vote in the county was only 1,271, which would bring the cost of each ballot cast up to a little over $5.

Asked whether the cost of the election would bring the tax rate in the county up, he replied that he did not think it would, as the cost of election would be taken from the emergency fund or from some other source, but he believed that it might have the effect of cutting down some of the appropriations for the next year.

BUCKLE UNDER FIRE OF THE STATE PRESS

NEWARK NEWS HITS PLAINFIELD'S MAYOR FOR HIS SPEECH.

The Newark News says editorially: "Plainfield is an overwhelmingly Republican city, except when its political leaders cannot control the Union Co. Republican convention; then it is Democratic. Plainfield has a Republican Mayor and a Republican Council. It is the highest license city in New Jersey, its fee being $1,000 a year. It licenses just so many saloons and no more, requires them all to close at 11 p. m., and is even now considering an ordinance providing that no saloons shall exist outside of a certain limited district. The Republican Mayor went before the Republican Council to oppose his ordinance, and in his address he made some remarks that are very peculiar, under all the circumstances. He is quoted as saying: 'I have drank with all of you, but some of the new members, and we all know that no business brings human nature together so much as saloons.' And further: 'I used to vote for temperance once, but I see things different now,' and 'I have to go to saloons to meet men.' This distinguished man's name is Buckle, and a buckle without a tongue, as everybody knows, is a useless thing. But it is manifest from the remarks quoted that a buckle's tongue can be used for some strange purposes in municipal government. Notwithstanding the Mayor's stirring remarks, the Council passed the saloon district ordinance on its second reading. Possibly had the voters of Plainfield known just what kind of a Buckle they were electing, they might have strapped him down to private life. Yet he's a Republican in high standing, and Plainfield is a Republican city."

Their Kindness Appreciated.

While the local firemen were busy at the Yetman fire on East Third street, Saturday morning, they were aided to renewed efforts by cups of hot coffee thoughtfully prepared for them by Mrs. J. W. Brown and Mrs. Walker, who live nearby. It was greatly appreciated by the department, especially the members who were deprived of breakfast. Acts of this kind are common at fires in all nearby cities but in Plainfield it is seldom done.

In the City Court.

The following cases were disposed of in the city court Saturday: William Trettner, of New York, for peddling without a license, sentence suspended; Daniel Nugent and Patrick Corrigan, charged with damaging a new house, sentence suspended; George Mitchell, colored, charged by his wife with disorderly conduct, adjourned one week.

Won the Pie.

Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. boys' department, twenty members of the department contested in a shuffle board tournament for a pie as the association rooms Saturday afternoon. The games were interesting. The prize was won by Martin Denlinger. After the tournament a social was enjoyed, and refreshments were served.

BETTER 'PHONE SERVICE

Changes Made to Improve the Telephone Office Here.

5,000 CALLS A DAY

Again Enlarging the Big Switchboard at "Central"—Increased Operating Force.

Owing to the steady increase in business, Manager Charles W. Runyon, of the local exchange of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, has found it necessary to make a number of important changes in the office staff, all of which will greatly improve the general service. The business has assumed such proportions that it will not be long before three more sections will have to be added to the present switchboard. Only last month three sections were added, but these are gradually being filled up with new subscribers. When it is realized that 5,000 calls are received and given every day at the local exchange, one can get an idea of the amount of business handled. It is the idea of Manager Runyon to so systematize the operating department in the office that each operator will not be obliged to handle over 100 calls an hour during the "rush" hours. Recently the operators have been trying to take care of many more calls and have been unable to do it satisfactorily.

George Turbett, who has been central office manager, and who returned to Newark on Saturday, is succeeded by W. K. Collins, formerly assistant manager of the Brooklyn exchange, and Miss Wallace, who was chief supervisor in the Brooklyn exchange, is now supervisor of the local exchange, having charge of the operating department, which now comprises twelve operators. Three additional operators are to be employed, making the entire operating force comprise eighteen women, including the supervisor and assistants.

There are now two experienced operators, Miss Bush and Miss Aberle, from the Elizabeth exchange, employed here and they will remain until the three new operators are thoroughly broken in. It is the intention of Miss Wilson, who has had plenty of experience in one of the busiest exchanges in the company's territory, to see that the operators become proficient in their work and are capable of giving the best service possible.

Other rules provide that a larger force of operators shall remain on duty until 10 or 10:30 at night and after that two operators will continue until morning, when it is proposed to bring a larger force on at 7 o'clock sharp. It has been found that telephones get busy earlier in the morning than formerly and to handle the business a larger force is necessary. There are now 1,300 subscribers in Plainfield, which is a close second to Elizabeth, where there are 1,500 subscribers. At the present rate it will not be long before Elizabeth will be equalled and possibly exceeded.

This increase in business seems to be general throughout this section of the State and plans for taking care of it have brought about wholesale changes to meet it.

Daughters of America Active.

Six candidates were initiated at the meeting of Martha Washington Council, No. 28, Daughters of America, Saturday night, and six new members were elected and one proposition received. A large delegation from Golden Rod Council, of New Brunswick, was present, including Deputy State Councilor Angie Walker, to witness the initiation. At the next meeting, Saturday night, February 25, the Council will hold an entertainment consisting of tableaux, recitations, vocal and instrumental music.

Miss Tygard Dead.

Miss Lilian S. Tygard, aged seventeen years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tygard, of 920 Central avenue, died Saturday afternoon, following a long illness from consumption. She was a member of St. Stephen's church, being confirmed on Christmas Day at her home by Bishop Scarborough. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the house at the 2 o'clock and interment will be in Hillside Cemetery.

Gifts From Holy Land.

Superintendant Henry C. Squires, of the Hope chapel Sunday-school, yesterday rewarded teachers and pupils who have been regular in attendance for the past year by presenting them with pressed flowers and ferns brought from the Holy Land by Rev. Dr William R. Richards, of New York, former pastor of the Crescent Avenue church.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Thorp's celebrated foot relief is now a household remedy. Better have a bottle in the house. It works wonders to all troubled feet.

It will soon be time to contract for painting and papering. Consult with I. N. Wyckoff, of West Front street, and get an estimate.

Hodge's pharmacy is the headquarters for good drugs. At Hodge's you can get a cure for the grip and chronic colds, which are now prevalent.

Call up John Johnston if your coal bin needs attention. He will deliver and fill your order promptly and properly. Either furnace or range coal can be had at Johnston's.

Who is your caterer? If you have ever met with unsatisfactory service you should try Demolli, the French caterer. His water ices and confectionery are attractive features.

When you have any kind of carting or moving to be done, call up William Hand & Sons, of East Second street, and the work will be done promptly and carefully. Charges are always reasonable.

M. C. VanArsdale, the Front street shoe dealer, is now beginning his February clearance sale. Men's, women's, boys' and girls' shoes, all sizes, in Box calf, and the best kid, may be had at reasonable prices.

Fred Endress sells the highest quality in all kinds of meat. A hundred suggestions for Sunday dinner will be the result of a glance at his well stocked display. Only the best grades of meat are handled at Endress' market.

When you are in need of first-class hardware, kitchen utensils, cutlery, builders' materials, plumbing, tinning or heating apparatus, go to A. M. Griffen's store on East Front street, and you can get just what you want. This house is thoroughly reliable and only reasonable prices are charged.

Everyone is interested in carpets and everyone will want to inspect the handsome assortment now offered at Woodhull & Martin's store. All new goods, of the best manufacture and the prices will appeal to the size of every pocketbook, no matter whether you want a small rug or carpets for your entire house. The firm is now carrying the largest stock of carpets to be found in the State and if you cannot be suited here there is little chance of finding what you want elsewhere.

ZERO IN MANY STATES.

Kansas Train Derailed by Ice at Moran Water Tank.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13.—Reports from Missouri, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, the Dakotas, northern Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas and Oklahoma say that unusually cold weather prevails. In Omaha the thermometer registered 16 degrees below zero. High winds prevail in many localities, drifting the snow badly and delaying railroad traffic in all directions.

At Moran water tank, Kansas, the Kansas and Texas fast passenger train No. 21, from Kansas City to Oklahoma City, was wrecked. The train was running as a double header on account of the heavy snow, and the water from the tank had formed a heavy coat of ice upon the rails, which derailed the first engine, causing the second engine, two baggage cars and mail car to pile up. Engineer C. W. Phelps of Denison, Tex., who was on the first engine, was killed. Engineer Charles D. Willard of Parsons, who was on the second engine, was badly bruised.

From Oklahoma and Indian Territory word comes that the temperature was 5 degrees below zero in several places and ranged at zero all day. From all parts of the two territories come accounts of suffering and death from the cold.

Cattlemen say that range stock will suffer the greatest loss in years, and some place the loss as high as 8 per cent on the ranges in Beaver and Woodward counties.

Great anxiety is felt for the Indian tribes, who are in no condition to withstand the storm.

In northern Texas the worst blizzard in ten years, with the thermometer at zero and below, prevails. Coming so soon after the recent blizzards, when snow lay on the ground for ten days, this severe weather will inflict hundreds of thousands of dollars in loss to cattlemen. The poor in cities, whose houses are not built for zero weather, are suffering severely.

RUSSIANS REPULSED.

Kuropatkin's Attack on Manchurian Villages Failed, as Usual.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—A dispatch from Japanese Manchurian headquarters reports that a company of Russians attacked Waitaosan village during the night and were repulsed. The Russian batteries on the western foot of the Ta mountain have shelled Putsaowo. A company of Russians attacked Liuchientun early Saturday morning and were repulsed. The Russian artillery then slowly shelled Liuchientun and vicinity.

The Russians have continued their defensive works to Liuchientun and seem to have extended their right along the railway to Siaofangshen, which is about a mile and a quarter east of Mentapao.

Japanese Got German Ship.

TOKYO, Feb. 13. — The German steamer Paros, bound for Vladivostok, has been seized off Hokkaido. Her cargo consisted of shipbuilding materials and foodstuffs.

ALHAMBRA IS HOODOOED.

Twenty-four Families Troubled by Fire, Poison and Robberies.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 13.—As a climax to the troubles of the tenants of the Alhambra apartments, a six story building at the corner of Bagg and Park streets, a number of them were routed out in their nightclothes early in the morning by a fire in the building.

The apartment building was recently robbed, and following this more than a dozen of the tenants who boarded at the cafe in the building were poisoned by arsenic, said to have been put in muffins by a woman employed in the building, who is under arrest. Several of the boarders were dangerously ill from the poison.

Fire broke out early in the morning and spread so rapidly that many of the tenants had not time to dress before they had to rush out into the snowstorm. The total fire loss is estimated at $20,000. There were twenty-four families in the building.

Countess Montignoso to Keep Child.

FLORENCE, Feb. 13.—The Countess Montignoso has been victorious in the first stage of her struggle with the king of Saxony, her former husband, to have their daughter, Princess Anna Monica Pia, removed from her care, and for the present at least the child will remain where she is. The lawyers of the countess, after a meeting with Dr. Koerner, the emissary of the king of Saxony, declared that orders of foreign authorities cannot be executed in Italy.

Suicide and Murder at Bloomfield.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., Feb. 13.—Because her two children, aged respectively eighteen months and three years, were afflicted with asthma, from which she herself had suffered since childhood, Mrs. Elsie Loux of this place, after putting the little ones to bed, turned on the gas and lay down beside them to die. When the room was entered the two children were found dead and the mother dying. She left a letter to her husband imploring his forgiveness.

Steamer James B. Stephens Sank.

ASTORIA, Ore., Feb. 13.—The steamer James B. Stephens sank late Saturday night after running upon a sunken pile 200 yards from shore. Thirteen of the fifteen men on board managed to swim ashore, but two men whose names are unobtainable are missing.

British Lieutenant Murdered.

CALCUTTA, Feb. 13.—Lieutenant Harman, commanding the South Waziristan militia, has been murdered at Wam by a Mahsud. The murderer was arrested.

Emperor Declares In Favor of Land Congress.

TOLSTOI'S MESSAGE TO AMERICANS

Czar Nicholas, Replying to Memorial, Said to Count Leo Deonvitch Tolstoi, "I Am Not Opposed to Zemsky Zabor."

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 13. — All Russia is stirred by the words of Emperor Nicholas to Count Tolstoi: "I am not opposed to a zemsky zabor. On the contrary, I believe it necessary."

The emperor, whose word is law, has personally declared himself in favor of a land congress and expressed the conviction that the time had come to prepare to give the people a voice in the government.

The emperor's words were spoken in the course of a conversation with Count Leo Deonvitch Tolstoi, son of the famous author, and fully confirm the statement of Grand Duke Vladimir on Jan. 31, in which the grand duke expressly declared that his august nephew was in favor of a zemsky zabor. The semiofficial denial subsequently sent out is now disproved by the sovereign's statement to Count Tolstoi.

An American correspondent saw Count Tolstoi in a comfortable house facing the Tauris gardens in this city. He said:

"I suppose you have come to hear about my audience at Tsarskoe-Selo. I cannot enter into details because I consider it unseemly to do so, but I am glad to state the broad lines of my conversation with the czar. His majesty summoned me after having received a memorial which I addressed to the throne exposing the present situation in the country and humbly expressing the opinion that the interest of the monarch and the nation called for the removal of the wall raised up by the bureaucracy between them. His majesty assured me that personally he was not opposed to the convocation of a land parliament for Russia, but, on the contrary, believed it necessary. The whole question now is greatly simplified and resolves itself to a discussion of when is the most opportune moment.

"I am not at liberty to relate the emperor's views on the subject, but you may announce to the American people that the delay will be only such as is strictly necessary for the introduction of an innovation of such magnitude. The great thing is that the emperor is in favor of a zemsky zabor."

The news that Emperor Nicholas has indorsed the scheme for the revival of the zemsky zabor, or ancient land parliament, which the old emperors convoked in times of stress, has spread through the country and created intense satisfaction among the Liberal classes. The newspapers are filled with articles descriptive of this ancient Russian institution, indicating that word had gone forth that the government had decided to listen to the voice of representatives of the people. Naturally there is some skepticism as to whether the government intends frankly to take the step, but the general verdict is that if the emperor has succeeded in shaking off reactionary influences and now proceeds in good faith to summon the zemsky zabor he will rally to his support the Moderate Liberals and perhaps arouse a wave of genuine enthusiasm in the country.

Liberals are convinced that the meeting of such a representative body must be followed by important and widespread reforms.

Despite official reports of improved conditions in Russia, the labor movement in general seems to be gathering strength. Four thousand men have quit work at Kharkov, several more factories here have been closed, trains have ceased to run in the Caucasus, and the situation in Poland is more grave.

Serious trouble is expected at Lodz, where 100,000 men are on strike. They have increased their demands and show no signs of heeding the ultimatum of the employers. A mob at Warsaw looted a gunshop. Every factory in that city is idle.

Baron von Nolken, chief of police of Warsaw, who had just returned from a conference with Governor General Tchertkoff of the province of Warsaw, gave out the following details regarding the state of affairs in his district:

"The strike continues in all of the big factories. Today the manufacturers are coming to me to discuss the situation, and tomorrow I purpose seeing some representatives of the strikers.

"Unless the strikers return to work the police will expel all of those living outside of the Warsaw district. If they will not work they must go home."

M. Souvorin, in the course of a sarcastic editorial article in the Novoe Vremya, suggests that the best egress from the present trouble is to invite an American syndicate to come in and take over the government, "as Americans make the best managers of big enterprises."

SENATORS DISSENT.

Seven Treaties Have Been Ratified by Senate.

ADMIRE ROOSEVELT, BUT DISAGREE

Arbitration "Agreements" Must Be Called "Treaties"—Former Word, Used by President, Cut Out by Upper House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The senate has ratified the seven arbitration treaties which have been for some time pending after adopting the amendment reported by the committee on foreign relations. The vote on the amendment was 50 to 9. The amendment consists of the substitution of the word "treaty" for "agreement" in the second section of the conventions, making this section read as follows:

"In each individual case the high contracting parties before appealing to the permanent court of arbitration shall conclude a special treaty defining clearly the matter in dispute, the scope of the powers of the arbitrators and the periods to be fixed for the formation of the arbitral tribunal and the several stages of the procedure."

Two executive sessions were held, being devoted to consideration of the principle involved in these treaties. The earlier session was occupied chiefly with a discussion of the president's letter to Senator Cullom and the later session to consideration of the amendment itself.

A notable feature of the three sessions at which the treaties have been discussed is that instead, as has been erroneously reported, of eliciting criticism of the president, the debate was characterized by expressions of the highest esteem for Mr. Roosevelt, and senators, notably Messrs. Lodge, Foraker and Spooner, while insisting that the proposed amendment was essential, not only gave utterance to their high regard and admiration for the president, but declared that rarely, if ever, had they been confronted by a more painful duty. They said it grieved them to be compelled to dissent from the opinion of the president, but protested their utter inability to see their way clear to carrying his recommendation into effect.

Senator Lodge spoke with much feeling when he declared that his great affection for the president rendered his course in this instance extremely painful and that only a sense of duty compelled him to vote for the amendment which the president disapproved. He declared that the present occasion was one where no senator could permit himself to be influenced by questions of expediency or personal preference or regard and at the same time be true to his oath to uphold the constitution; that were the senate to ratify the pending treaties without amendment it would be giving official sanction to a principle in violation of the constitution.

Senator Spooner followed Senator Lodge, declaring his regard and admiration for President Roosevelt in eloquent terms, but asserting his conviction that to ratify the treaties without amendment would be doing violence to the constitution. Senator Foraker spoke in the same vein.

Kossuth Received by Francis Joseph

VIENNA, Feb. 13.—Francis Kossuth, the leader of the Independence party in the Hungarian parliament, was received Sunday morning by the emperor-king and discussed with his majesty the political situation and cabinet crisis in Hungary arising from the coalition of the various minor parties in Hungary with the Independence party and the sweeping victory at the polls in Hungary on Jan. 26, which has resulted in the united Opposition parties being placed in control of the lower house of the Hungarian parliament. Kossuth declared that he came to Vienna with the purpose and in the hope of convincing the emperor that no party exists in Hungary desiring to separate the interests of Hungary from those of the house of Hapsburg and that the Independence party is most loyal to the emperor.

Won't Let Middies Smoke.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 13.—Since the dismissal of Midshipman E. C. Weller of New York from the third class at the Naval academy the old question of smoking, which caused his downfall, has been revived and a strenuous crusade started against this breach of the academy regulations. A special order was read at formation and posted on the order boards in the midshipmen's quarters. The order states that any further use of tobacco by others than members of the first class will be met with immediate dismissal from the institution.

Carnegie Will Testify.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. — United States Marshal Henkel has received and served a subpoena requiring the attendance of Andrew Carnegie before the United States courts at Cleveland to testify in the actions there against Cassie L. Chadwick. Mr. Carnegie said he would be present and testify.

STRENUOUS SHERIFF

Athorne Stopped Rush of Sixty Men.

POLICE HOLD UP YORK COCKFIGHT

Eighteen Sports Get Swift Justice In Cockpit on Stroke of Midnight. Record Session of Judge Cole's Court.

YORK, Me., Feb. 13.—The interruption of a cocking main, followed by a fist fight between the participants and two officers, during which eighteen men were placed under arrest and subsequently fined by an impromptu trial by justice court convened in the cockpit, was the unusual proceeding that ushered in the Sabbath at York village.

Shortly before midnight Saturday night Sheriff George O. Athorne, accompanied by a single deputy, George Preble, forced an entrance into a barn where a cocking main was in progress. Some sixty men made a rush for the sheriff, who had taken his stand at the main entrance, the only east exit. Athorne, who is a giant in physique, stood his ground and, not wishing to draw a weapon, struck out with his fists and in as many minutes had knocked down and rendered helpless eight men and placed handcuffs on two others, while eight more surrendered.

In the meantime others had crawled out through a small window and attacked Deputy Preble, who was stationed outside. Preble closed with his assailants, but was rendered insensible by a blow from a club.

Making sure of his eighteen prisoners, Sheriff Athorne summoned Trial Justice A. B. Cole, who had been waiting in the vicinity, and the latter went to the cockpit and announced that the justice's court was in session. Sixteen of the prisoners pleaded guilty to being present at the cocking main and were fined $5 each.

Two others who pleaded not guilty were held for a further hearing. The court then issued warrants for ten other alleged spectators.

The laws of this state do not permit the holding of court on Sunday and the proceedings were necessarily expedited. Court convened at fifteen minutes before 12 o'clock and was declared adjourned on the stroke of midnight. The officers seized both the birds.

JOKED ABOUT HIS COFFIN.

Dr. Frank Cowan, the Greensburg Philosopher, Dead.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 13.—Dr. Frank Cowan, the Greensburg philosopher, died yesterday at his home here after an illness of several months, aged sixty-one years. He will be buried in St. Clair cemetery on Wednesday. Dr. Cowan was the son of former United States Senator Edgar Cowan and from early life had a checkered but honorable career.

Besides being an extensive traveler Dr. Cowan was accredited a lawyer, a physician, a lecturer, a poet, an historian and an editor. While in Washington with his father Dr. Cowan was appointed secretary to President Johnson. In the eighties he twice encircled the globe, and it is claimed he was the first white man to enter Korea.

He was an inveterate joker, even up to within the last few weeks hoaxing his friends into the belief that he would be buried on his farm in a cheap box of boards shaped like a boat which he kept in his room.

Strenuous Journey to Norfolk.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 13.—After a journey fraught with peril and hardship the Rev. J. W. Briscoe, pastor of the Methodist church at Hollands Island, Md., reached the bedside of his wife in Norfolk. In a blinding snowstorm the minister walked across an arm of the frozen Chesapeake bay, a distance of six miles, continued his journey ten miles on the mainland afoot, made his way across another wide stretch in a rowboat that threatened every minute to break to pieces in the heavy ice floes, then drove twenty-four miles across country to Cambridge, Md., where he caught a railroad train for Norfolk. He found his wife almost well.

Wales Is Warden of Cinque Ports.

LONDON, Feb. 13. — King Edward has appointed the Prince of Wales lord warden of the Cinque ports in succession to Lord Curzon of Kedleston, but in future Walmer castle, instead of being the warden's residence, will be thrown open to the public. The Cinque ports are a group of seven (originally five, whence the name). Hastings, Romney, Hythe, Dover and Sandwich were the original ports. Winchelsea and Rye were added later. They were created by William the Conqueror, and in consideration of their furnishing a certain quota of ships of war for the king's use they were endowed with various privileges.

Missing Pastor Reported Sick.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 13.—A special from Spartanburg says Rev. E. E. Bomar, assistant secretary of the foreign mission board, who was reported missing in a dispatch from Richmond, is quite sick in Pensacola. His relatives here have received telegrams from him to that effect.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 13, 1905.

It is quite safe to say that there will be no election in North Plainfield on Tuesday, March 14. The bill abolishing spring elections is now before the State Senate and will come up for final action tomorrow. There is hardly any opposition to the measure becoming a law and it is said that the Legislature is anxious to have it enacted as quickly as possible. In that event, Mayor Smalley will hold over until Jan. 1 next and for the time being at least political quarrels will subside in North Plainfield.

Resolutions of Condolence.

WHEREAS, The Rev. James H. Parks, D. D., was a charter member of the Board of Trustees of the Scotch Plains Public Library, filling the position, at the time of his decease, of Secretary of its Executive Committee, and it is therefore fitting that appropriate mention should be made of his death.

Resolved, That the Trustees share in the general sorrow of the community over the loss it has sustained. Although the health of our friend had been failing for some time his death came as a shock to the people of the village which he had chosen as his home.

Taking an active part in the organization of the Library Dr. Parks continued to be its true friend and earnest advocate. In season and out of season the library of which he was proud, never failed to receive his unstinted commendation, and few of our members did more to advance its interests. He delighted in its progress and in the measure of success it has attained. It was largely through his efforts that we came into possession of the books which formerly belonged to the earlier Scotch Plains Library. He was insistent that we should be allowed to include these books among our valued treasures, furnishing as they do proof of the desire for culture which has always been a characteristic of our village. The Baptist parsonage had for years given shelter to these books, but he urged that the place for them was our rooms. We owe also to his friendly advice the gift made by Judge Cleaver of a full set of Harper's Magazine.

Even after his health had failed Dr. Parks continued to be a regular, indeed almost unfailing, attendant at the meetings of the Board, and was also a frequent and observant visitor at our rooms.

We shall greatly miss his sunny and genial presence, his wise, broad and liberal counsel, and we feel that his place upon our Board will not easily be filled.

Resolved, That we extend to his widow our earnest sympathy in her affliction, not forgetting in doing so the unfailing trust which our departed friend rested upon Divine Providence, and his constant reminder that our Heavenly Father does not willingly afflict or grieve the children of men.

Resolved further, That the secretary be instructed to spread these resolutions upon the minutes and to forward copies to Mrs. Parks and to the Plainfield newspapers.

Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, will be at his home, 615 Central avenue, tonight, to those who wish to consult him about church matters.

An all-day sewing meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society will be held in the parlors of the First M. E. church, tomorrow. Garments will be made for the Children's Home. A basket luncheon will be served.

It is said that the music committee of the First Presbyterian church contemplate some changes about April 1. The retirement of Mrs. S. H. Tugwell, who will go to the First M. E. church, will leave a vacancy to be filled and there may be other changes

Mrs. George K. Pearson, of Japan, will speak at the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. She will tell of work among the soldiers of Japan.

There will be an Epworth League sociable in Vincent chapel Friday night, when the women of the Home Missionary Society will join with the league in providing an entertainment and refreshments for the evening. Mrs. Woodward, corresponding secretary of the Newark Conference, is expected to be present. An offering will be received for the purpose of furnishing flowers for the pulpit during the winter.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold an entertainment on Thursday night, followed by what is called a novel luncheon.

W. M. Dignam is a member of the committee in charge of the Royal Arcanum Club, No. 711, just organized to provide various amusements for the members, who have leased a room in the Babcock building.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

The management of the local bowling team has received word from the Triangle Bowling Club, whose headquarters are at Fanwood, requesting a series of three games, two to be played at Fanwood and the other on the alleys at Taylor's Hotel. No response has yet been made to the offer, though it will undoubtedly be accepted. The Triangle Bowling Club is a recently organized aggregation, composed of members of the Suburbans, Plainfield Y. M. C. A. and Alis teams.

In spite of the bad weather there was a good attendance at the union temperance meeting old last night at the First Baptist church under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. The meeting was attended by members of several outside churches, and was addressed by Rev. W. W. Casselberry, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Special music was a feature of the service. Rev. Mr. Casselberry's temperance talk was a strong one, at once interesting and impressive.

The regular monthly meeting of the Junior Auxiliayr, of Holy Innocent's church, was held at the church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There was a good attendance. No important business was transacted, routine matters only being attended to. At the Holy Innocent's church yesterday afternoon the Holy Communion was observed.

The funeral of William S. Stevens, who died at his home Friday, was held this morning from his home at 9:30 o'clock, and from the Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock. There was a large gathering of friends of the well known builder at the funeral, which was in charge of Rev. W. W. Casselberry, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

William Liabie has brought a suit on contract against W. S. Angleman, of Plainfield. The case was to be tried at Warrenville Saturday, but was adjourned for two weeks. Horace Coddington, of Westfield, is Mr. Liabie's lawyer in the case.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, of the Presbyterian church, will be held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. C. Bodine. The usual business will be transacted, followed by a social.

Benjamin Scribner, who has for some time been employed by the Central Railroad, has resigned his position and has taken one with the Levering & Garrigues' Iron Works.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of Mrs. Alvah Ryne, who died at her home Friday afternoon, were held from the house yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. G. M. Shott, formerly pastor of the Baptist church, having charge of the services, which were attended by many friends and neighbors who had known and loved her during her years of residence in town. "Whence cometh thou and wither will you go?" Gen. 16-8, was the text chosen by Mr. Shott. During his remarks he spoke of the death as only a parting for a short time from loved ones. During the services Elmer E. Runyon sang "Abide With Me," a favorite hymn of the deceased. The floral display of kind sympathy and love from friends and relatives included several handsome set pieces. Interment was made today in Cypress Hill cemetery, Brooklyn.

The taxpayers only paid about $8 per vote for those cast at Tuesday's election in the borough. Seven ballots were cast, the county canvas showing that the borough and Garwood are tied for third place in the smallest number of votes cast. If the county can afford to pay such high prices the former 81 men hereabouts will be raising their price when regular elections roll around.

A successful cake, candy, valentine and mystery sale was held Saturday afternoon and night by the Choir Guild, of All Saints' church, in the Casino, at "The Homestead," Fanwood. The several booths were liberally patronized by the large number who attended and the Guild's efforts towards helping the church treasury, met with most encouraging success.

If you are interested in the Public Library and desire to do something towards replenishing its treasury, you will attend the cake, candy and fancy goods sale being held today from 3 to 10 in the Excelsior Hall. The members of the High School should be encouraged in their efforts towards doing something for the support of the town's one public institution.

Weather permitting, the members of the Baptist Sunday-school will enjoy an old fashioned sraw ride this afternoon. Deacon David Hand, who gives this treat to the school every year, will handle the reins and it is needless to say will enjoy the ride as much as the members of the school will.

The weekly shoot of the gun club was held as usual Saturday afternoon. A holiday shoot is to be held this afternoon, several interesting local events are to be run off, one of them being a match shoot between Dr. Layton and another local old timer at the traps.

Rev. Mr. Roberts, a fellow student of Rev. Mr. Coons at Drew Seminary, preached at both services at the Methodist church yesterday, Rev. Mr. Coons being called to Burlington to preach.

Th borough attendants at the Baptist church do not care when the church stage is run again for Sunday service. Deacon Hand and his large box sleigh has the call at present.

The regular monthly meeting of the Farther Lights Society, of the Baptist church, was held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the church.

A meeting of the Woman's League will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the Industrial School room in Meyers' Hall.

Rev. T. Moore Smith led an interesting weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. last night at the Baptist church.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night at the Methodist church.

The Township Committee met in the town rooms Saturday night.

George Baldwin, of Rahway, spent Sunday with friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The following are the names of the meritorious pupils of the local school who were neither absent nor tardy during the month of January: Primary grade—Clifford Brown, Maud Morgan, Matilda Morgan; intermediate grade—Allen Morgan; grammar grade—Robert Morgan.

The collie dog belonging to W. E. Smith and left at the farm of F. C. Lounsbury when Mr. Smith removed to Plainfield for the winter, but strayed away several weeks ago, has now been found, and is being cared for by Mr. Lounsbury.

A valentine social will be given by the social committee of the Y. P. S. C. E., of the Baptist church, on Wednesday evening, February 15, in the lecture room.

Philip Smith, the High School pitcher, has been offered inducements to pitch for Dunellen and for another nine.

PERSONAL.

Miss Hulda Crane, of New Providence, is visiting relatives in Plainfield.

Percy Clark, of East Fifth street, has recovered from a slight attack of the grip.

Cornelius Perrine, of East Fourth street, has fully recovered from his recent illness.

Miss Edna Bowers, of Basking Ridge, who has been spending several days with friends here, has returned home.

Miss Ruth Field, of Brooklyn, has returned to her home after an extended visit with her cousin, Miss Helen Robins, of Norwood avenue.

SIGHTSEEING IS A STRAIN.

Headaches Invariably Follow the Constant Use of Elevator Muscles of the Eye.

"Academy" or "sightseers'" headache is a not uncommon experience, and some recent observations of Simeon Snell, London, appear to throw some light on its causation. Allowing that in certain instances astigmatism or other forms of ametropia is a factor in its production, he yet argues that there are other influencing conditions. In support of this he quotes the experience of a woman who always suffered from severe headache after visiting the theater when she had occupied a seat in the pit, but was free from such disturbance when she sat in the dress circle. In the first position, it is pointed out, sustained action of the elevator muscles of the eyeballs is required in order to see the stage, and this is exactly the action which is required in studying a collection of pictures, and more especially in looking at those which are hung "above the line." The same experience has been noted by Mr. Snell, in the case of cyclists, particularly of those who lean over the handle bars with the head lowered, and who, therefore, in looking ahead keep the eyeballs upward. A further argument is found in the experience of miners' nystagmus, which it is suggested is due to weariness of the elevator muscles of the eyeballs, caused by the constrained position in which the miners work. There can be no doubt of the physiological fact that lateral movement of the eyeballs is much more easy and requires less muscular effort than movement in a vertical plane. All this goes to show that muscular strain is involved in sustained upward movement of the eyeballs, and this may well result in a sense of weariness or more pronounced discomfort.

MODERN PILGRIM VILLAGE.

Town of Duxbury at Plymouth Bay Is as Picturesque as in Antiquity.

Quaintly picturesque is the little Pilgrim town of Duxbury, declares Austin Cook, in Four-Track News. The water of Plymouth bay washes its long sandy beach, while to the south rises the green slope of Captain's hill. It was the second settlement made by our forefathers, and still clinging to it are the memories of those early days. Miles Standish was the ruling spirit and at one time owned the greater part of the village. Who does not feel a personal affection for the "redoubtable" captain, with his quick temper and his warm heart? Although not at that time a member of the Pilgrim communion, he left all the wealth and luxury of his ancestral home in England, and cast his lot with these devout and sincere people, and most efficiently did he serve them. Before they left the "Mayflower" he was chosen military commandant, and soon proved his courage by penetrating into an Indian encampment and dealing with them so summarily that ever after they stood in awe of the man, "who tho' little in stature, was great in strength."

SHOCK BRINGS BACK VOICE

Physician Says That Electricity If Judiciously Used Often Restores Speech.

A young woman who had not been able to speak for five years has recovered her voice through electricity. One of the hospital surgeons who operated said: "We occasionally get patients who are unable to speak, not through any organic ailment, but simply because they are in a hysterical condition, and we often cure them by a strong electric shock. As a rule they yell out, and then they have no excuse for not being able to speak. We do not suggest that such patients have been shamming. They actually cannot speak, although there is nothing wrong with their voice. They are the kind of patients who sometimes go under quack treatment and make 'remarkable' cures. There is a good deal of faith healing in this matter." Swedish doctors having found minute pieces of enamel from "granite" ware in cases of appendicitis, it is surmised that the common use of this ware may have something to do with the prevalence of appendicitis.

WOULD KILL INCURABLES.

French Professor Advocates Ending Lives of Seriously Afflicted Patients.

A French professor is advocating the establishment of deathrooms in hospitals, where patients affected with incurable diseases who have lost all desire to prolong their days may at their own request be sent painlessly out of the world, says the Newark News. It is extremely doubtful if such measures will ever be adopted in France or any other civilized country. Occasionally people are met with among ourselves who profess to believe that this kind of work is done in some hospitals, but they are quite wrong. It is the business of the physicians and all those connected with the care of the sick to prolong human life, not to shorten it, and under no circumstances whatever do they consider themselves justified in departing from this rule. To put people to death because of incurable disease would tend to diminish the sanctity of human life, and possibly open the door to the commission of many crimes.

Hard Name to Master.

According to Ysaye's manager, the celebrated violinist's name should be pronounced as though it were spelled Ee-sah-ee-eh. Here are some of the common attempts heard: I-say, Ye-say, Why-say, Easy, Essay, Issay, Is-Yay, Is-Hay, Is-say-ee, Isaiah, Why-say-ee, and numerous other two-syllabled and three-syllabled variations.

Brokaw's Creamery.

The impression that good Butter, first-class Buttermilk and No. 1 Pot-cheese cannot be made regularly and of uniform grade in winter, is being rapidly dispelled in Plainfield.

My customers unsolicited testimony is proof that we are doing it every day. I make my own goods fresh every day. Try them and know for yourself.

My fancy Print Butter, both salted and unsalted, is gaining in popularity every day.

All grades of Western Creamery Butter, strictly fresh Eggs, and everything in the dairy line, including pure Milk, pure Cream and Full Cream Cheese always on hand.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS

CHICAGO NOT PROUD OF HER COURTHOUSE.

ASKING NEW STRUCTURE.

The Present Edifice Neither Architecturally Pleasing Nor Convenient—Notoriously Unhealthful—Some Events of Recent Happening.

CHICAGO. — In the heart of the city stands that ornate structure sometimes styled the city hall, sometimes alluded to as the court house; and either term is right, for the building is used for both town and county affairs, one front is city hall, the other county building. But it is a question how much longer that ambitious piece of architecture is to remain standing, how much longer it is to come upon one as one rounds the corner at La Salle or Clark street. The gigantic edifice, for all its massiveness, lacks a stability, and an agitation to do away with it is abroad. The county board at a meeting held lately adopted resolutions providing for the appointment of a commission of ten to prepare plans for razing this dilapidated landmark and replacing it with a modern building, constructed on artistic lines. That it was lacking in comfort and conveniences, was unsanitary and inadequate, has long been known; and now it threatens to fall to pieces.

A recent fire in the paint room on the fourth story did considerable damage to the building, and called attention to the signs of decrepitude noticeable here and there about it. In the courtrooms great cracks have appeared, the plaster looks as though it might fall any moment on the august heads below. In the lofty, gloomy corridors, pillars lean dangerously, walls are bulged and warped. Signs of decay are not wanting on the exterior; the soft limestone of which the county part is built is disintegrating and, in cracking and crumbling away, portions fall to the street below, a grave danger to passers-by. The county board say to repair it now would be sinking money in a salted gold mine.

The south entrance has had to be sealed up, streets and sidewalks roped off, marking a zone of particular danger. The structure is as ugly as it is unsafe. As shelter for the millions of dollars' worth of records under its roof the recent fire indicated its unfitness. For many weighty reasons it is best the building be condemned.

The Newsboy's Attack.

HE LAUGHED joyously over the story of the Chicago newsboy, this urchin, like his class in general, woefully uninformed in regard to the wares he so loudly called; the lad boarded an elevated train and, going through the train, cried at the top of his lungs: "Extra! Extra! All about the scandal in the city hall. Fifty lives lost!"

Perhaps, after all, the waif was not so far off, for numbers of lives have been sacrificed to the rococo structure that spreads over the space bounded by Washington, Clark, Randolph and La Salle streets. It is positively affirmed that workers in the building have had their lives shortened because of the conditions obtaining there, conditions unequalled in any tenement house in the city. Light and air struggle ineffectually to enter the rooms, the deep window ledges are traps for germ-laden dust, which is widely scattered through the vault-like rooms. The offices are so congested, there is so much overcrowding, sanitary rules cannot be heeded.

Scandal there was connected with the county building when it was under construction, a political scandal that not infrequently attends a big job of this sort. It was erected in the years between 1878 and 1885, and cost $4,400,000. The pile consists of a county hall fronting on Clark street, a city hall on La Salle. The two are connected by a many-storied rotunda. As originally planned, a great dome was to rise in the center, and give dignity to the whole, but the plan was not carried out, thereby greatly detracting from the effect. Local limestone was used for the county side, the soft stone lacking durability, and its whiteness very rapidly changed to dinginess by Chicago smoke and soot. For the city hall a harder and darker limestone was employed, but soon the whole mass wore the same grime coat. One must acknowledge there is an impressiveness in the great mass, but it is not a noble impressiveness; rather the topping sort, due partly to the fact that the building is too near the street.

Belongs to a Past Day.

IT WAS built about 25 years ago, when ideals dealt with bigness and show; great staircases, high ceilings, pillars and "trimmings." In this day of admiration of the solid and simple, of advance in sanitary requirements, the ornate, damp, dingy place seems hopelessly unlovely, a breeding spot for disease. One writing of it as kindly as he dare, says: "The grandeur is the ostentation of an era now forgotten in architecture. Comfort and exclusiveness have supplanted stately ceilings, Corinthian columns and long, elaborate, but tiring staircases. These magnificent 35-foot columns keep out light, give a solemn look to justice, and send men groping about the hallways." Another describes with his gloves off: "Twenty-five years ago, when the twin buildings, the county building and the city hall, were completed, little was known of architecture, compared with the modern knowledge. The structure never was a work of art."

It is a very difficult matter to heat the rooms, it costs enormously to try to keep the place clean, and the waste of hall space makes much ground to travel over, takes up space that should have been utilized for office room. There seems no dissenting voice in regard to urgency of need for a new building.

It has been proposed that there be two distinct buildings, and that each be given sufficient space to allow of a setting of green lawn, the structure to set well back from the street. Mayor Harrison thinks it should not be on the office-building order, but should have an individuality of its own, stand as one of the artistic features of the city. The mayor, judges, President Brundage of the county board, county and city officials generally, are enthusiastic over a new building; plans of various sorts are proposed.

Courthouse Square.

JUST where stand the buildings under present criticism has stood, for many years, the Cook county court house. The first one was a wooden cottage. Next came a stone building, and this was occupied jointly by city and county officials. At the time of its construction little or nothing was known of Illinois stone, and the material for the new building was brought in from Lockport, N. Y. From time to time additions were made to the second court house; a story put on, then wings of large size, the whole finally a conglomerate structure of no great attractiveness of appearance. When the fire came, a portion of it, the eastern wing, escaped destruction, and for awhile was used for public purposes. Along with the main body of the building there fell in the fire the large fire bell, whose place had been on top of the center building; and from the molten mass of the bell were made souvenirs in the shape of small fire bells, which souvenirs one occasionally sees to-day on the watch chains of old residents.

The first courthouse, built in 1835, was used for all kinds of public gatherings, meetings, lectures and entertainments. The second courthouse, the stone edifice, was completed in 1853. There are still living men and women that can tell stories of the brilliant speeches made in that first cottage building. That building was as much a part of Chicago's history as the Kinzie House, Mark Beaubien's tavern, Fort Dearborn, the first schoolhouse and the first church.

Speaking of historic relics, anti-fire days, the settler period, reminds us that Chicago fosters an interest in things old as well as eagerly strives after attainment of the new. The Chicago Historical society, the pioneer association keep alive pride in the city's early struggles and successes.

What Has Been Going on Recently.

THERE is now with us in the city Madame Breshkovsky, the agent of the Russian revolutionary propaganda. This woman of many years and many sorrows is gathering about her folk of widely different walks in life, widely differing degrees of culture. Now she addresses an audience of excited foreigners over on the West side, now talks to guests invited to a private home down near the Lake Shore drive. She is heard in the Auditorium, speaking in company with Jane Addams, Rabbi Hirsch and Jenkin Lloyd Jones. At one of the meetings there was organized a branch of the American Society of Friends of Russian Freedom, with Jane Addams as first vice president, Judge Brown, of the Cook county appellate court, as president.

A most interesting personality that of Madame Breshkovsky. At 61, still heart and soul afire with zeal for the revolutionary cause in Russia. At the Chicago meeting on the West side she was greeted with the wildest enthusiasm, hundreds pressed forward to touch the hand of this "Russian Joan of Arc." Hundreds without, who clamored to gain admission to the hall to hear her speak, she addressed at an improvised out-door meeting. And at the Auditorium assembly, an audience of 3,000 people rose in their seats to give her greeting.

A few days ago there was held at Hull House a memorial meeting in honor of the late Mrs. Lloyd, wife of the late Henry Demorest Lloyd, lifelong student of sociological questions. Mrs. Lloyd, sympathizer and aid to her husband in his work, led a life altruistic to a degree; and the gathering at Hull House was an appreciation of this unusual woman.

The dance hall evil is still claiming attention, and, brought forward by this subject, the Greek fruit stores are coming in for their share of condemnation; are said, with their pianola music and opportunities for "treats," to serve as a temptation and pitfall. The city fathers seem to have tasks sufficient to keep them employed.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

THE UNTIDY WOMAN.

She Is the Curse of All Around Her, Whether She Is Single or Married.

Of all the unwomanly women the untidy woman is the worst. Woman has been likened to a flower and her influence over men's lives to its perfume, but I defy you to find anything to compare with the untidy woman except the straggling weed which ruins the effect of a whole front yard of fresh green grass.

Put the untidy woman in a neatly arranged room, and in five minutes watch the transformation. The window shade will be awry and the curtains will be pulled apart. Scraps of paper will decorate the carpet. One of her gloves will occupy an easy chair, while the other will repose on the mantel. A burned match will be seen on the floor or more likely on the polished surface of some choice desk or table. A book will be sprawling face downward, crumpling all its leaves, and the cushions of the divan will be all crushed into a little heap.

SHE NEVER WORRIES.

The untidy woman's idea of fixing a room is on a par with her other notions. If you look under the sofa you will find half of the scraps there, and what is left will be discovered tucked away behind the radiator or the bookcase.

She is always very "stylish." When ruchings are in vogue she would rather die than venture in the street without one, but the same ruche will do for weeks, although it shows the results of too close an acquaintance with the floor or wherever she has thrown it.

And Even the Skirt.

When skirts are tight around the hips hers is the tightest of all, even if it does gape in the back. Her train is the longest and gathers and holds the most dirt. It would never occur to her to sew a binding or mend a frayed place. No; when the skirt is "worn" enough she merely throws it aside.

The untidy woman is the one exception to an almost universal feminine fault—she never worries.

No, indeed! She sits in a negligee none too clean, with hair none too tidy, reading a yellow backed novel, while the room riots in wildest disorder. The maid vainly begs her presence in the kitchen, and the children pull down the flowerpots, rummage in her work basket or fall downstairs, according to their own sweet fancy.

ARCHED EFFECTS.

They Add Much to the Beauty of a Large Room or Hall.

In the picture we have a very artistic hall taken from an English home. The woodwork is weathered oak, and the beautifully designed pillows support a balcony hung with tapestry, the railing of which is ornamented with deer heads.

Beyond the arched effect under the balcony there are a rather ornate fireplace and a carved cabinet for books and curios. The large table in the foreground bears writing utensils of brass. The chairs are upholstered in reddish tapestry and red leather.

AN ENGLISH EFFECT.

The rugs are of a dull oriental red. Palms and potted plants add much to the cheerfulness of the room.

THE GRAFTERS

By

FRANCIS LYNDE

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

It was about this time that Hunnicott reported the sale of the Gaston lots at a rather fancy cash figure, and the money came in good play.

"Two things remain to be proved," said Portia, in one of their many connings of the intricate course; "two things that must be proved before you can attack openly: that Rumford is really representing the Universal Oil company; and that he is bribing the junto to let the Universal incorporate under the mask of his 'straw' company. Now is the time when you cannot afford to be economical. Have you money?"

Since it was the day after the Hunnicott remittance, Kent could answer yes with a good conscience.

"Then spend it," she said; and he did spend it like a millionaire, lying awake nights to devise new ways of employing it.

And for the abutments of the arch of proof the money-spending sufficed. By dint of a warm and somewhat costly wire investigation of Rumford's antecedents, Kent succeeded in placing the Belmount promoter unquestionably as one of the trusted lieutenants of the Universal; and the leaky clerk in the secretary of state's office gave the text of the application for the "straw" company charter, showing that the powers asked for were as despotic as the great monopoly could desire.

But for the keystone of the arch, the criminal implication of the plotters themselves, he was indebted to a fit of ill-considered anger and to a chapter of accidents.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE CONSPIRATORS.

It was chiefly due to Portia's urgings that Kent took Ormsby into his confidence when the campaign was fairly opened. She put it diplomatically on the ground of charity to an exiled millionaire, temporarily out of a job; but her real reason went deeper. From its inception as a one-man fight against political chicanery in high places, the criticism of Bucks' formula was beginning to shape itself in a readjustment of party lines in the field of state politics; and Miss Van Brock, whose designs upon Kent's future ran far in advance of her admissions to him, was anxiously casting about for a managerial promoter.

A little practice-play in municipal politics made the need apparent. It came in the midst of things, basing itself upon the year-gone triumph of agrarianism in the state. In the upheaval, the capital city had participated to the extent of electing a majority of the aldermen on the Bucks' party ticket; and before long it developed that a majority of this aldermanic majority could be counted among the spoilsmen—was in fact a creature for the larger ring.

Late in the summer an ordinance was proposed by the terms of which a single corporation was to be given a franchise granting a complete monopoly of the streets for gas and water mains and transit rights of way. Thereupon a bitter struggle ensued. Party lines were obliterated, and men who shunned the primaries and otherwise shirked their political duties raised the cry of corruption, and a civic league was formed to fight the ring.

In this struggle, as giving him the chance to front the enemy in a fair field, David Kent flung himself with all the ardor of a born fighter. Mass meetings were held, with Kent as spokesman for the league, and the outcome was a decency triumph which brought Kent's name into grateful public prominence. Hildreth played an able second, and by the time the obnoxious ordinance had been safely tabled, Kent had a semi-political following which was all his own. Men who had hitherto known him only as a corporation lawyer began to prophesy large things of this fiery young advocate, whose arguments were sound and convincing as his invective was keen and merciless.

Figuratively speaking, Portia stood in the wings and applauded. Also, she saw that her protege had reached the point where he needed grooming for whatever race lay before him. Hence her urgings, which made a triumvirate out of the council of two, with Brookes Ormsby as the third member.

On the porch of the Brentwood apartment house was David Kent. With the striking of the city hall clock at nine Mrs. Brentwood had complained of the glare of the electric crossing-lamp and had gone in, leaving the caller with Penelope in the hammock on one side of him and Elinor in a basket chair on the other.

Their talk had been of the late municipal struggle, and of Kent's part in it: and, like Miss Van Brock, Penelope was applausive. But Elinor's congratulations were tempered with deprecation.

"I am glad you won for the league, of course; everybody must be glad of that," she said. "But I hope the Argus didn't report your speeches correctly. If it did, you have made a host of bitter enemies."

"What does a man—a real man—care for that?" This from the depths of the hammock.

"I, at least, can afford to be careless," said Kent. "I am not running for office, and have nothing else to lose, politically or otherwise."

"Can any man say that truthfully?" Elinor queried.

"I think I can. I have given no hostages to fortune."

"But I think you owe it to yourself to be more careful in your public utterances," she insisted. "If these men on the other side are only half as unprincipled as your accusations make them out to be, they would not stop short of personal violence."

"I am not hunting clemency or personal immunity just now," laughed Kent. "On the contrary, I am only anxious to make the score as heavy as possible. And so far from keeping prudently in the background, I'll confess that I went into this franchise fight chiefly to let the capitol gang know who I am and where I stand."

A sudden light came into Elinor's eyes and burned there steadily. She was of those who lay votive offerings upon the shrine of manly courage.

"One part of me approves as much as another part disapproves," she said after a time. "I suppose it isn't possible to avoid making political enemies; but is it needful to turn them into personal enemies?"

He looked at her curiously.

"I am afraid I don't know any middle path, not being a politician," he objected. "And as for the enmity of these men, I shall count it an honor to win it. If I do not win it, I shall know I am not succeeding."

Silence for another little space, which Miss Brentwood broke by saying:

"Don't you want to smoke? You may."

Kent felt in his pocket.

"I have no cigar."

She looked past him to the hammock. "Penelope!" she called softly; and when there was no response she went to spread the hammock rug over her sister.

"You may smoke your pipe," she said; and when she had passed behind him to her chair she made another concession: "Let me fill it for you—you used to."

He gave her the pipe and tobacco, and by a curious contradiction of terms began to wonder if he ought not to go. Notwithstanding his frank defiance of Brookes Ormsby, and his declaration of intention in the sentimental affair, he had his own notions about the sanctity of a betrothal. Mrs. Brentwood had vanished, and Penelope was asleep in the hammock. Could he trust himself to be decently loyal to Ormsby if he should stay? Nice questions of conscience had not troubled him much of late; but this was new ground—or if not new, so old that it had the effect of being new.

He let the question go unanswered—and stayed. But he was minded to fling the biggest barrier he could lay hands on in the way of possible disloyalty by saying good things of Ormsby.

"I owe you much for my acquaintance with him," he said, when the subject was fairly introduced. "He has been making all kinds of a good friend to me, and he promises to be more."

"Isn't your debt to Penelope, rather than to me?" she returned.

"No, I think not. You are responsible, in the broader sense, at all events. He did not come west for Penelope's sake." Then he took the plunge: "May I know when it is to be—or am I to wait for my bidding with the other and more formally invited guests?"

She laughed, a low little laugh that somehow grated upon his nerves.

"You shall know—when I know."

"Forgive me," he said quickly. "But from something Ormsby said—"

"He should not have spoken of it; I have given him no right," she said coldly.

"You make me twice sorry: once if I am a trespasser, and again if I have unwittingly broken a confidence."

He rose and said good-night, and was half-way to the next corner before he realized how inexcusably abrupt his leave-taking had been.

When he did realize it, he was of two minds whether to go back or let the apology excuse another call the following evening. Then the insistent prompting seized him again; and when next he came to a competent sense of things present he was standing opposite the capitol building, staring fixedly up at a pair of lighted windows in the second story.

They were the windows of the governor's room; and David Kent's brain cleared suddenly. In the earliest beginnings of the determinate plan to wrest the Trans-Western out of the grasp of the junto he had known that it must come finally to some desperate duel with the master-spirit of the ringsters. Was Jasper Bucks behind those lighted windows—alone?

Kent had not meant to make the open attack until he should have a weapon in his hands which would arm him to win. But now as he stood looking up at the beckoning windows a mad desire to have it out once for all with the robber-in-chief sent the blood tingling to his finger-tips. True, he had nothing as yet in the oil-field conspiracy that the newspapers or the public would accept as evidence of fraud and corruption. But on the other hand, Bucks was only a man, after all; a man with a bucaneer's record, and by consequence vulnerable beneath the brazen armor of assurance. If the attack were bold enough—

Kent did not stop to argue it out. When a man's blood is up the odds against him shrink and become as naught. Two minutes later he was in the upper corridor of the capitol, striding swiftly to the door of the lighted room.

Recalling it afterward he wondered if the occult prompting which had dragged him out of his chair on the Brentwood porch saw to it that he walked upon the strip of matting in the tile-paved corridor and so made his approach noiseless. Also, if the same silent monitor bade him stop short of the governor's office: at the door, namely, of the public anteroom, which stood ajar?

A low murmur of voices came from beyond, and for a moment he paused listening. Then he boldly went within, crossing the anteroom and standing fairly in the broad beam of light pouring through the open door of communication with the private office.
